An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $150,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tender will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, 7th June, 1912.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Supplying Coal for the Dominion Buildings," will be received at this office until 4.00 p.m., on Wednesday, August 28, 1912, for the supply of Coal for the Public Buildings throughout the Dominion.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained on application at this office.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the contract. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

By order,

Next Monday the big event of the season will be pulled off on the local bowling green, when the Central Ontario Bowling Association's tournament will be held here. Clubs from all the surrounding places will congregate at the green and some fine and interesting playing is expected. The Toronto Queen City rink, with Mr. Rice as skip, who recently won the London tournament, are coming and expect to clean up things in good shape. The other rinks will be there when they are doing it, however, and the games will be exciting.

STOP IT

With the systematic persistence characteristic of the clerical and lay promoters of the French-Canadian repatriation and colonization, preparations are making for the formation of French settlements along the line of the National Transcontinental Railway, says the Canadian Presbyterian. In the Province of Quebec the Provincial Government grants aid in various ways, and the promoters do the rest. To this there can be no objection so long as all are treated alike, but there is no reason why the Ontario Government should go out of its way to facilitate the formation of colonies of French-speaking people. Settlements of this sort have been giving the Legislature and the Education Department a great deal of trouble by their apparent determination not to teach English sufficiently. Such French settlers as may be found adventurous enough to take chances as individual settlers would be welcome, but no facilities should be given for the creation of communities of any sort.

Editorial Notes

The Waterbury Republican has a keen and nimble wit, coupled with admirable foresight. It advises its readers to vote for Taft, pray for Taft and bet on Wilson.

Pity the poor New York crooks who are compelled to give evidence in the Rosenthal murder case. If they lie and are found out, they are likely to be committed for perjury; if they tell all they know, they are liable to meet the fate of Rosenthal.

Hamilton Herald. The suggestion of the Montreal Witness that Mr. Borden visit Berlin in order to show that Canada harbors no hostile feeling for Germany, is not a wise one. Of late years every friendly overture by British statesmen to Germany has been misinterpreted and has served only to make matters worse.

Sir,—I would like to ask you, Mr. Editor, if you think newspapers can tell the truth. I sometimes think they cannot.

ABOLISH THE ROLLER TOWEL

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—In many local places of business the roller towel is used by the employees. All medical authorities agree that the use of these towels, which are decidedly unsanitary, is a setback and menace to the health of the large number of people that are forced to use them. It is a fact that the larger the number that use them the more unsanitary the towel, and the greater the bad effect on the health of the employees. This is certainly a live question in connection with the efforts of the authorities to safeguard the health of the general public and it is not unreasonable to expect that the Board of Health or the City Council will take some steps to offset the effect of the roller towel, even if it has to be abolished.

"CATARRHOZONE" A BOON TO MANY THOUSANDS.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with nauseating cough; those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhozone. You simply breath the healing vapor of Catarrhozone, and instantly its rich balsamic fumes are carried by your breath into the tiniest recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it—a direct breathable medicine, full of soothing antiseptic pine essences that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm or sicken the stomach, because Catarrhozone is the purest, safest cough, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

"For many years," writes Richard McCallum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed, irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of and tried it. Really it benefited me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit I continued using Catarrhozone and in a few weeps I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble.

Get Catarrhozone to-day. Large size costs $1.00, and lasts two months. Smaller sizes 25c, and 50c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

OUR NATIONAL PERIL.

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir, Lombroso was the most noted alienist of his time, perhaps of any time. Before his death he stated that insanity was increasing in America three times as rapidly as the population. That was a definite mathematical statement which caused a good deal of comment, but many thought he must surely have made some mistake in his calculations.

Now comes Dr. MacNichol, appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate this whole subject. After prolonged study, both in Europe and America, he gives facts and figures which bear out the statement of Lombroso that insanity is increasing three times as rapidly as the population. He says further that within the past few years more than a million babies have died as the result of the drinking habits of the people.

He asserts that 90 per cent. of the children of abstaining parents are born normal, while only seven per cent. of the children of alcoholic parents are normal.

For every child that died, of abstaining parents, five died of parents addicted to drink or some other form of narcotic.

What else can you expect? Alcohol is a brain poison and every drunken spell is a fit of temporary insanity.

How I wish the Government and the Opposition would get together on this, which should not be a party question!

A Startling Discovery.

A startling discovery has been made at Gateshead. Several years ago two sisters, both over 70 years of age, retired from business as dressmakers and lived a secluded life. Lately a relative visited the couple, and the discovery was made that one sister had been dead over twelve months and the remains were still in the house. There was only a thin covering of skin over the bones. The surviving sister, who is in feeble health, was removed to the hospital.

Robbed Court.

It has just been learned that a thief or thieves departing from a rule of the profession which discourages acquaintance with the Bailey, actually committed robbery in the court building and got clear away with a substantial haul. About 10 o'clock one of the night watchmen discovered that the window of the keeper's office was open and the room in a state of confusion. Further investigation revealed the fact that the safe had been opened and a considerable sum in cash abstracted. Whether the perpetrators of this grimy humorous plot concealed themselves in the building earlier in the day, and left by the window, or whether they secured access to the room by this means, is not known, but they ran a considerable risk, for watchmen are continually on duty in the building.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

THE AGILE TIGER.

He Is "Shod With Silence" and Is as Quick as Lightning.

Most wild animals are specialists—that is to say, they are highly developed in one particular direction. The tiger is great as a stalker. His feet seem to be "shod with silence." R. H. Elliott, for many years a resident of India, cited an experience of one of his neighbors illustrative of this point.

He had been much annoyed by tigers and at last tied a bullock out in a clearing and took up his own position in a tree to wait till the tiger should come after the bait. The ground was covered with dried leaves, which in hot weather are so brittle that even the walking of a bird over them can be heard for a good distance.

In no very long time a large tiger slipped out of the forest and slowly edged toward the bullock. His method was so elaborate and careful that the man who saw it used to declare that it would have been worth 1,000 rupees to any young sportsman to have witnessed it.

So carefully did he put down each paw and so gradually did he crush the leaves under it that not a sound was to be heard. Between him and the bullock was a stump about four feet high, with long projecting surface roots. This, plainly, the tiger looked upon as a godsend.

He got upon one of the roots, balanced himself carefully and so was able to walk quickly and silently as far as the stump. He approached so gradually and noiselessly and his color against the brown leaves was so invisible that he was close upon the bullock before he was perceived.

Then instantly the bullock charged. The tiger eluded him and in a moment more had his paws on the bullock's neck ready to drag him down. Then, like a flash, he caught sight of the rope by which the bullock was tied and turned and sprang into the forest, all so quickly that the man in the tree had no opportunity to fire.

A Lasting Example to Him.

A North Carolina negro was brought out on the gallows to be hanged for murder.

"Henry," said the sheriff, "have you anything to say?"

"Yas, suh," said the condemned man. "I'se got a few words to say. I merely wishes to state dat dis suttingly is goin' to be a lesson to me."—Saturday Evening Post.

JILTED CELEBRITIES

GENIUS HAS OFTEN BEEN SCORNED BY BEAUTY.

Parnell and His Heiress Were a Subject of Gossip Some Years Ago and Everybody Has Heard of How Lady Florence Paget Jilted Henry Chaplin—Dickens Was Rejected by the Original Dora of David Copperfield.

"Oh, why did I not marry dear Charley? How happy we should have been!"

In this burst of confidence to a friend a beautiful heiress regretted her jilting years ago of Charles Stewart Parnell; but there are not wanting admirers of the great Irish leader who affirm that the jilting was the best thing that could have happened to him. A happy married life would probably have prevented him entering the political arena altogether.

As a young man—his brother, Mr. John H. Parnell, tells us, in T. P.'s Magazine—the Irish politician fell in love with a pretty Wicklow girl of good family, with whom he hunted a great deal; but the affair came to nothing, and Parnell remained heart-free until he visited Paris in 1870, and there met a young heiress, to whom he became engaged.

They parted for a time, she to go to Rome and he to return to Ireland, and ultimately the girl wrote saying she was returning home without mentioning anything about an engagement. Parnell followed her, and the engagement seemed to be renewed, when Miss W—— suddenly told him she was not going to marry him, "making the excuse that he was only an Irish gentleman, without sufficient means to marry, with no name in public, and that she could not marry anyone without a great public name."

This dumbfounded "Charley," who, after trying his best to persuade her to marry him, gave up the heartbreaking job. To distract his thoughts Parnell plunged into politics, with what result the world knows. He never met the lady again, but, according to the authority mentioned, another heiress in later years proposed to "Charley," who left Paris to escape her.

This romantic episode of political life calls to mind the jilting of the well-known Unionist politician, Mr. Henry Chaplin, who years ago was engaged to Lady Florence Paget, one of the loveliest women in English society, in fact, she was known as the "Pocket Venus."

The engagement had been publicly announced and the day of the marriage fixed, when the startling news leaked out that Lady Paget had eloped with the late Marquess of Hastings, one of the most daring turf-plungers the racing world has ever known. Under the pretext of shopping at a certain well-known emporium in the West-end, Lady Paget walked in at one door and out of another, where she met the marquess, with whom she immediately drove away. They were at once married.

Only a year or two later fate gave Mr. Chaplin his revenge. His horse, Hermit, won the Derby at enormous odds—something like 66 to 1—and Lord Hastings was ruined. He died only four years after his romantic marriage, and his widow, who afterwards married Sir George Chetwynd, also died a few years ago. It was something like twelve years before Mr. Chaplin recovered from the blow, and then he married Lady Florence Leveson-Gower, sister of the present Duke of Sutherland.

The story of how Charles Dickens was jilted is particularly interesting. When he was eighteen Dickens became acquainted with the three daughters of George Beadnell, a Lombard street banker. With one of them, Maria (the original of Dora in David Copperfield), who was a year his senior, he immediately fell in love, and Maria flirted with him very desperately. But the love-making of the future novelist was not treated very seriously, for he was not considered by any means an eligible party, and even Maria herself adopted an attitude of amused tolerance.

For three years the affair went on, and then Dickens realized that his case was hopeless. He pleaded in vain with the girl whose caprices maddened and gladdened him alternately; for, as a matter of fact, Maria Beadnell was a wilful coquette. The end of it all was a reply that held out no hope, and so the parting came. For twenty years they saw no more of one another. Ultimately Maria Beadnell was married to Henry Louis Winter, and when Dickens met her again time had wrought sad havoc on his youthful ideal.

A curious fact regarding the jilting of famous men is that through pique they have occasionally been led into marriages which have resulted in the utmost misery for both husband and wife. There was John Ruskin, for instance, who fell in love as a boy with the beautiful Rose de la Touche, whom he wooed with poems, romances and dramas, and mute worship, receiving nothing in return but chilly indifference and lively ridicule. The result was that, at the age of twenty-nine, he married a lady of great beauty, Miss Grey, of a family long intimate with the Ruskins. The marriage, we are told, was a somewhat hurried act, and brought no happiness to either, and six years afterwards it was dissolved.

Then there is the case of Lord Byron, who was led into his unhappy matrimonial alliance with Miss Milbanke, only daughter and heiress of Sir Ralph Milbanke, through being rejected by another lady. He had proposed to the latter, and, as he held her letter of refusal in his hand, he said to a friend: "It seems that it is to be Miss Milbanke, after all." He sat down and wrote the fatal letter, handing it to his friend for perusal. "A very pretty letter," his friend remarked, after reading it; "it is a pity that it should not go." "And it shall go!" exclaimed Byron, and thus opened one of the most tragic chapters of his chequered life-story.

Silver above the silvered snow,
We watched the cold moons dawn and go.
Into our dreaming hearts were run
The wild sweet wines of earth and sun.

Through hollowed ranks of osiers old
We saw the northland marigold.
And hailed the sudden sapphire flame
When the first bluebird called and came.

A soon, O soon the winds shall bless
Our slim leaf-shaken loveliness.
O soon, O soon we call the hours
Silver above a sward of flowers.

BASEBALL HUMOR.

This Brand Is Purely English and Wholly Unconscious.

THE WAY WE PLAY THE GAME.

A British Writer, Who Must Have Encountered a Curious Species of "Fan," Describes the Fine Points of the Great American Sport.

One of the most illuminating appreciations of the national game is that contained in a book on America written by Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout, a gentleman of British extraction who is evidently a trained student of American life.

Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout naturally felt that no picture of life on this side of the water would be complete without a description of our national game—a view which we are glad to indorse as eminently correct. He therefore devoted several pages of informed comment to it which the average American in particular will read with admiration and gratitude.

Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout began this part of his work by the statement that the mysteries of baseball were generally supposed to be too profound for any foreigner to penetrate. But the writer was no ordinary foreigner, and baseball had no mysteries for his trained eye. Witness the following marvelous description of the organization of the game:

"A number of clubs representing different cities of the U. S. A. and manned presumably by natives of the respective cities join to form a league, and throughout the spring and summer months a lively contest is under way for the championship of the league, or, as it is popularly referred to, the banner. Two teams of nine men each take the field. The men on one team, known as the 'outs,' distribute themselves about the field, while one of their number in the center, known as the 'pitcher,' tosses the ball to a comrade at one end, known as the 'catcher.' The men on the other team, known as the 'ins,' take turns at smiting at the ball as it is tossed past them by the pitcher. The object is to hit the ball and to reach the first station before the ball can be returned by a member of the opposing team to his comrade at that station."

There is an authoritative air about this statement that carries conviction. No one could mistake the Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout for one of those travelers in foreign lands who see things on the wing and indulge in generalizations about the country as inapt as they are hasty. He has plainly gone carefully into the subject of American baseball, and the result is a conservative statement that must commend itself to all thinking people. But the erudite writer has more to say:

"Sometimes the ball is struck so hard as to enable the runner to advance to the second station or the third station or even to complete the circuit of the field and make what is called a 'home run.'

"The various stations are known as 'first sack,' 'second sack,' 'third sack' and 'home plate.' To decide whether the runner reaches the station before the ball there is an official known as umpire who passes on all other disputed questions as they arise. Decisions are frequently very close, and partisan spirit runs high among the spectators. There are cheers when the umpire cries 'Saved!' There are loud cries of protest when the umpire declares a ball fouled or 'out of bounds.' Clever plays are always applauded, and after a peculiarly difficult catch the stands ring with cries of 'Well fielded; well caught, indeed!'"

How vivid, yet how exact, is that description. As one reads those marvelous lines of the Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout he can almost hear the umpire calling out "Saved!" as the runner reaches the first, second or third "station," as the case may be, and the enthusiastic cry of "Well caught, indeed!" from the wild eyed excited mob of "fans" on the bleachers as the fielder manages to engulf an unusually difficult fly.

There has been in the past some criticism of British books on America. Dickens and Kipling, as well as divers other notables, have been charged with viewing this country with eyes jaundiced by British prejudice. But in the case of the Hon. Chillingly Butler-Stout such criticism is silent. His genial and instructive criticism leaves room for nothing save admiration.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Pepys and the Cook Maid.

There was a servant problem in the seventeenth century, but it was solved in a rough and ready fashion. Pepys records on April 12, 1667, that he came home, "saw my door and hatch open, left so by Luce, our cook maid, which so vexed me that I did give her a kick in our entry and offered a blow at her."

Two days afterward (Lord's day) Pepys writes this: "Took out my wife and the two Mercers and two of our maids, Barker and Jane, and over the water to the Jamaica house, where I never was before, and there the girls did run for wagers over the bowling green, and there with much pleasure spent little and so home." Luce was not there, but the other maids were treated as members of the family.

There is only one real failure in life possible, and that is not to be true to the best one knows.—Canon Farrar.

FAMOUS BOY ARTISTS.

Millais Painted Some Great Pictures Before He Was of Age.

One of the best known pictures in existence is Sir David Wilkie's "Blind Fiddler." It is a masterpiece in its own school of painting, and at one time perhaps no other picture could compete with it for popularity as an engraving for the sitting-room wall. Yet this masterly picture, so full of detail and character and subtle touches of humor, was painted when Wilkie was only twenty-two.

So poor was he at the time that he had to dress himself up to act as his own model for this great composition—hence, doubtless, the similarity of feature observable in nearly all the characters, the very masculine lineaments of the fiddler's wife and the young-old look of the boy who is imitating the fiddler on the kitchen bellows.

But an even more amazing picture may be seen on the staircase leading up to the picture gallery at South Kensington. This is a picture entitled "Pizarro Seizing the Inca of Peru," which is an amazing performance for a boy of sixteen, the age which Millais had attained when he painted it and when it was exhibited at the academy. But Millais was a marvelous boy, and some of his most famous pictures, such as his "Ophelia" in the Tate gallery and his "Autumn Leaves" in the Manchester gallery, were painted before he was twenty-one.

The fact is that painters have generally been a rather precocious tribe. The famous "Young Bull," one of the world's masterpieces, was painted by Paul Potter at the age of twenty-two. Visitors to St. Paul's Cathedral are never tired of looking at Holman Hunt's masterpiece which hangs in the aisle, "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock," commonly called "The Light of the World." Yet they would scarcely credit the undoubted fact that Holman Hunt was barely out of his teens when he painted the original, which hangs in Keble College.

Hoppner, the appearance of one of whose portraits at auction sets the art world throbbing with excitement, painted his picture, "Sleeping Venus," in his nineteenth year, and before he was thirty he was the successful rival of such giants of the brush as Reynolds, Gainsborough and Romney. It was only when a still more precocious boy came on the scene that his premiership in art was snatched from him for a time.

This newcomer was Lawrence, who had drawn half the aristocracy in England in crayon before he was twelve years old.—London Globe.

The Cabinet.

Technically the Cabinet as a Cabinet can do nothing. It cannot even write a letter or issue a signed order. It has not, indeed, the means of doing so, for it does not keep a clerk or a typewriter, it has no office, nor has it any money wherewith to buy a sheet of notepaper. The most powerful and important committee in the world is without a staff, a secretary, a seal, a minute book, or a fixed location. When it assembles it has to depend on the hospitality of the Treasury or the Foreign Office, or it may meet at the private residence of one of the members. Mr. Gladstone occasionally held his Cabinets in the suburban mansions near London lent to him by his friends during the Parliamentary session. When a Cabinet Council sits it has no agenda before it, nor has it any record of what was done at the last meeting. No one keeps the minutes; and it is still deemed a little contrary to etiquette for any Minister to take a note of the proceedings, or, indeed, to write anything at the meetings at all.

THE MARKETS

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Confirmation of reports of greater black rust damage than previously expected put the wheat market to-day on the up-grade. Closing prices were firm at ⅛c to ⅝c net advance. Corn scored a gain of ⅛c to 1⅜c, and oats a rise of ⅝c to 1⅛c. The finish in provisions varied from 2½c off to an increased cost of 7½c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day unchanged to ⅛d lower on wheat and ¼d higher on corn. Budapest wheat closed ⅛c higher, Berlin unchanged.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, July 29.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 142 carloads, comprising 2182 cattle, 222 hogs, 579 sheep and lambs, 162 calves and 18 horses.

Exporters.

Swift & Co. bought 150 export steers for Liverpool, 1241 lbs. each, at an average of $7.46, or a range of $7.25 to $7.60; export bulls at $6 to $6.40.

Butchers.

Choice butchers' steers sold at $7 to $7.50; good, $6.50 to $7; medium, $6 to $6.50; common at $5.25 to $6; cows, choice, at $5.85 to $6, good cows, $4.85 to $5.35; medium cows, $4 to $4.25; common, $2.50 to $3.75.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stockers and feeders, 650 to 900 lbs., sold at $4.50 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

About thirty milkers and springers sold at a range of $45 to $65, with one or two as high as $75 each.

Veal Calves.

Calves were reported at $4 to $8 per cwt., with a very few choice at $8.25 to $8.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $4 to $4.50, with selects at $5; heavy ewes, bucks and culls, at $3 to $3.50; lambs were quoted easier, at $7.50 to $8.15.

Hogs.

The market was 10c to 15c per cwt. higher. The general price for selects, fed and watered, was $8.50, and $8.15 f.o.b. cars, with one or two selected lots at $8.60.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 29.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 27 were 2000 cattle, 2000 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 800 calves. The offerings for sale this morning were 900 cattle, 1900 sheep and lambs, 1400 hogs and 850 calves.

Owing to the increased offerings of cattle, which consisted principally of common stock, an easier feeling prevailed in the market. Prices were fully 25c per 100 pounds lower than a week ago, but there was no change in the condition of the market for good to choice steers, as supplies of this class were limited and in good demand at firm prices. The gathering of buyers was fairly large, and, considering the season of the year, quite an active trade was done, both for local consumption and for shipment to outside points. Canners have commenced operations again, and in consequence a good trade was done in that class of stock at $2.50 per 100 pounds. The top price reached for full loads of choice steers was $7.50 per 100 pounds, but the bulk of trading was done in cattle ranging from $6 to $7 per 100 pounds.

Owing to the very irregular condition of hogs coming forward and scarcity of selected stock, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market for such, and prices scored a further advance of 15c per 100 pounds, as compared with the prices paid a week ago. The demand was good from packers, and sales of selected lots were made at $9.25, but a number of mixed lots, including sows and stags, were sold at $5.00 to $8.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

There was quite an active trade done in small meats, owing to the fact that butchers were generally short of stock, and, as the supply was larger than usual on a Monday, they took advantage of it, but they had to pay higher prices for sheep, sales of ewes being made at $4 to $4.50, and bucks and culls at $3.50 to $3.75 per 100 pounds, while western lambs sold at $5, and Quebec lambs at $4.25 to $4.50 each: Calves were scarce, with the demand good.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $7.25 to $7.50; do., medium, $6 to $7; do., common, $4.00 to $4.50; canners, $2.50; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4.75 to $6; milkers, choice, $75 to $80., do. common and medium, each, $60 to $70; springers, $40 to $50.

Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.50; bucks and culls, $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $7 to $8.

Hogs, f.o.b., $9.25.

Calves, $3 to $8.

Bottles.

Ancient bottles of glass, stone and metal have been found in many parts of Europe, Asia and Africa. Perfume bottles of glass have been discovered in great numbers in the tombs of wealthy ladies of Egypt. Many bottles, tumblers and other drinking vessels have been dug from the ruins of Pompeii. The most common bottle of the ancients, however, was of leather, the skin of a calf, goat or ox being taken off the carcass with as few cuts as possible and made into a receptacle for holding water or wine. The largest glass bottle ever blown was made at Leith, in Scotland, in 1747-48. Its capacity was two hogsheads.

A Study in Wrinkles.

When George Rignold was playing Henry V. in London a friend visited him in his dressing room and remarked a large and handsome photograph of Wordsworth hanging on the wall. Said the friend, "I see you are an admirer of Wordsworth."

"Who's Wordsworth?" queried the actor.

"Why, that's his picture — Wordsworth, the poet."

"Is that old file a poet? I got him for a study of wrinkles."

Early Risers.

Sir Edward Coke, the great English lawyer, attributed much of his success to early rising. When a young man in chambers he rose regularly at three o'clock and studied until the courts met at eight. Nine o'clock was his retiring hour, as he believed a man should have an equal portion of sleep before and after midnight.

Sun and Fire Symbols.

There are to be found occasionally upon the walls of old brick houses in Canada, at about the line of division between the first and second stories, flat pieces of iron five or six inches in length and shaped somewhat like the letter "S." The use of these articles was clearly brought from England, where it is still continued, and there are a curious origin and meaning attached to them. The figure in question is an early symbol of the sun. It is still used in Herefordshire and other parts of England. There one is informed that the reason for the particular form of these irons is that they were made thus in order to protect the house from fire as well as from collapse.

A Poultry Novelty.

Included among the numerous poultry exhibits at this year's Royal Agricultural Show at Doncaster, England, is a novel variety of hen—a pure white bird. Experiments now progressing, it is believed, are likely to be successful in changing the color of the egg in another breed from white to brown.

Red In Battle.

Red has always been a favorite military color. Its employment dates from the time of Lycurgus, the Spartan, who commanded his army to be arrayed in red tunics in order that new recruits might not be dismayed at the sight of blood. Its first use in the British army dates from 1526, when the yeomen of the guard were dressed in red.

London's Nobody's Club.

William Stevens, a wealthy city merchant, who published some theological essays under the pseudonym of "Nobody," was the founder of Nobody's Club. To this day the club keeps the memory of Stevens green by drinking as the first toast at each of its dinners to "the immortal memory of 'Nobody,' the founder of this club." Like the Athenæum, Nobody's Club has a rule that when a bishop or a judge is a candidate for election he shall be balloted for at once and if elected considered an honorary member. Most of its lay members are lawyers, and for eighty years in succession the club was presided over by a judge.—London Chronicle.

Milton's Works.

Milton regarded the "Paradise Regained" as infinitely superior to the "Paradise Lost" and once expressed great surprise that any one should entertain a contrary opinion. "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity" was [illegible] best. It was his earliest, being written in 1629, when he was twenty-[illegible] years of age.

Sensible Advice.

A writer who had made a good bit of money at a single shake of the bag went to Charles Reade for advice as to investments. "Well," said Reade, "I should say put it in the best gilt-edged securities. Divide it among the first-class bonds of the first-class nations. It's better to sleep on 3 per cent. than to lie awake on 6."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

In an African Jungle.

Coming from parts of Southern Nigeria where scarcely a white man, and certainly no white woman, has gone before, Mr. and Mrs. P. Amaury Talbot have just arrived in London, bringing over 2,000 varieties of botanical specimens, of which about ten per cent. are expected to prove new discoveries, and a hundred mammals, which have already provided two varieties new to science. Of the flowers many grew on trees at such a height that the only way to secure them was by shooting them down with a shot gun. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot started on their journey in August, 1910, and have been traveling about an almost unknown part of Southern Nigeria. They have discovered the Lake of the Dead, the abode, as the native believe, of the ghosts of the whole country. Mr. Talbot found, too, an immense series of vast caverns stretching under the earth so far that no man has ever reached their limit, and filled eternally with the roar of underground rivers and the screams of thousands of bats. The extraordinary hold of superstition upon the natives is one of the subjects which Mr. and Mrs. Talbot have studied with attention. Witchcraft is one of the greatest factors in the lives of the natives of West Africa, and the observance of rites for its defeat is among their greatest cares. The witch-doctors who profit by this disposition to fearfulness are undoubtedly possessed, according to the investigations of Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, of considerable powers of an ocult nature. They can, for instance, produce, whether by hypnotism or some other means, the appearance of a rainbow in the sky. Poisoning is carried by the natives of Southern Nigeria to such heights of art that no house is without its provisions of antidotes.

Peterborough housewives will do well to lay in their stock of berries at once as there is a danger of the supply becoming limited later on. The berry crop this year will be light, and will not perhaps sell below two boxes for 25c. Apples, however, for both cooking and eating purposes, will be plentiful this year.

When returning to Crowe's Landing from a berry picking expedition, Mrs. Adam Patterson, of Norwood, was seriously injured when the horse ran away, tearing down a steep hill and throwing her on the road. Two other ladies and two little girls accompanied them, but were not badly injured. Dr. Griffiths, of Toronto, the new owner of "Maplehurst," gave the injured lady medical attendance.

ROMANCE OF A PICTURE.

Story of an Old Smoke Dimmed Painting of St. Jerome.

In "The Bargain Book," by C. E. W. Jerningham and Lewis Bettany, many instances are given where priceless heirlooms, especially paintings, have been found, neglected, stowed away in some dusty cupboard or adorning the walls of some miserable hut. Usually the owner was the victim of his own ignorance and was happy to sell the treasure for a few cents to some unscrupulous dealer. But here is a story with a happier termination.

A poor retailer of fruit could hardly earn enough even in good times to buy herself and her three small children bread. Her earnings were quite too small to pay the rent of the damp hole that her landlord called a room.

The landlord at last distrained for his rent. He took her bed and her wretched furniture and ordered them sold at auction. The widow and her children were present at the sale. Even the best things went for a trifle. It seemed as if not enough would be realized even to pay the rent.

Among her belongings was a very small, smoke-dimmed picture of St. Jerome, an inheritance from her grandmother, which hung over her bed and to which she and her children offered up their pious prayers. As they were accustomed to do, the children mechanically raised their little hands when the picture of St. Jerome was put up, and the tears of the mother flowed abundantly.

A painter who was present examined the picture for a considerable time and at last bid 2 guilders. Another connoisseur immediately doubled the bid. The painter, to alarm his rival, at once rose to 10, but the connoisseur said, without hesitation, "Twenty-five guilders."

"Fifty," answered the painter.

"A hundred," replied the connoisseur.

The astonishment and joy of the poor woman may be conceived, for she not only saw all her debts paid by the little Jerome, but a considerable surplus left over. She could hardly believe her ears when she heard the two collectors still bidding against each other. The painter was silent at an offer of 600 guilders.

"You are fortunate," said he after the painting had been knocked down to his rival. "You are fortunate, sir, in being richer than I am; otherwise you would not have had it under a thousand." It was an original by Raphael.

The Word "Expire."

"Expire" in its literal sense is breathing out. Inspiration and expiration together constitute respiration. Izaak Walton observed that "if the inspiring or expiring organ of any animal be stopt it suddenly dies." The Romans spoke of "breathing out" the breath of life instead of "dying" by way of euphemism, just as they said "vixit" (he has lived) instead of "he is dead." In all languages the reluctance frankly to say "dead" or "die" appears; hence such words and phrases as "pass away," "decrease," "demise," "the departed," "defunct," "the late," "no more," "if anything should happen to me."

Canvey Island.

Canvey Island is one of the most un-English spots in the kingdom. The island was almost submerged until 1623, when the owner, Sir Henry Appleton, agreed to give one-third of it to Joas Croppenburg, a Dutchman skilled in the making of dikes, on condition that he "inned" it. This the Dutchman did by the erection of a sea wall twenty miles in length. Many of the workmen whom Croppenburg brought over settled on the reclaimed land. Some of the old Dutch houses still remain, and the whole aspect of the flat, almost treeless island is suggestive of the banks of the Zuyder Zee.—London Spectator.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profits now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

Among the Cannibals.

News has reached Great Britain that Mr. David Jenness, the leader of the Oxford University anthropological expedition, has reached his destination in Ferguson Island, where he intends to study the natives. The members of the party are making journeys from their headquarters along the coast, gaining knowledge in this way of the people and the language, and the inhabitants are proving very hospitable to the travelers. Cannibalism is not practiced so much as was expected.

Very little is known of the Ferguson Islanders, and Mr. Jenness intends to remain on the island for another year, during which time he will endeavor to throw some light on the origin of the various tribes, about whom there has been so much controversy. Some authorities believe that the Ferguson Islanders are an intermixture of the Melanesian and Polynesian races, while others hold they are Papuan, and the expedition hopes to settle these points beyond doubt. When Ferguson Island has been exhausted the expedition will move on to Rossel Island, about 150 miles eastward, and continue explorations there.

An Ancient Canoe.

While making alterations in connection with a new curling rink at Kirk Loch, Lochmaben, a workman unearthed an ancient canoe of the prehistoric type. It was found in about three feet of soil, about twelve feet from the water's edge. The canoe measured eight feet in length, and at the broadest point is two feet one inch. It is not pointed at either end, and appears as if it had been hollowed out of a tree trunk. On the outside it seems as if blunt implements had been used in taking off the bark and making it into the canoe shape. The canoe was found a few days ago, but was at first not taken notice of, and in fact was to have been made firewood of by the workman who excavated it.

A Gilbert Mot.

The following is said to be about the choicest mot in the long W. S. Gilbert list of mots:

"After several days' absence from London, Gilbert walked into the Savage Club one day, and somebody shouted a greeting.

"Hello, Gilbert! Where have you been?"

"I've been up to Birmingham to see Wilson Barrett as Hamlet," Gilbert cried.

"The deuce you say! How was it?" asked his friend.

"Oh, very funny—and not at all vulgar," was the answer.

Smoking and Eyesight.

Giving evidence in a High Court case, Mr. Williams Long, an ophthalmic surgeon of Cavendish square, London, told the court that if he smoked half an ounce of tobacco daily for forty years—which meant that he would have to smoke about four hundredweight—his sight would probably be affected

Bishop In Aeroplans.

The Lord Bishop of Saskatchewan, Dr. Newnham, paid a visit a short time ago to Europe, and during the trip sent his "Episcopal Notes" to the Saskatchewan Diocesan Magazine, which is a publication for all the parishes in the diocese. In the notes for May he describes a trip in an aeroplane at Monaco:

"I wish I could send you a copy of our photograph—five of us—taken up in an aeroplane, with Mentone down under us in the distance. They insisted on me taking the wheel and lever for guiding and controlling the machine. I suppose because they thought I was accustomed to guide and control amid clouds and hot air, or in deference to my office as "sky-pilot"—and in the picture I look as if I was quite at home at it."

Drenching the Doorstep.

In many parts of England there exists even to-day a very curious custom which makes it imperative for the girl friends of a bride to drench the doorstep of her home with boiling water if they wish other marriages to follow very quickly. At the wedding, therefore, great kettles of hot water stand ready for this strange ceremony, and long after the rest of the guests have dispersed the young girls of the party may be seen keeping the threshold warm as long as the water supply will last.

An Anthem to Order.

Lord Kitchener on one occasion invented a national anthem. It was upon the occasion of a visit to India of the Ameer of Afghanistan, and the order went around that all military bands were to greet him with the national anthem of Afghanistan. But no one knew what it was, and Lord Kitchener was appealed to.

"What does it matter two straws?" he said. "Play a bar or two of something slow and pompous and let it go at that."

So the first band that greeted the ameer played a march from one of the German operas very slowly and solemnly, and this was generally taken up by the whole of the bands in India.

Only Single Faced.

This story is told of Sir George Reid in connection with a Parliamentary election in Australia. He was addressing a meeting of electors, and one of them, a pasty faced man, repeatedly accused the speaker of being "two faced."

Sir George turned on him at last. "Well, it's pretty clear," he said, "that you are not two faced."

The man, rather staggered, blurted out. "Why?"

"Because if you were two faced," retorted Sir George, "you'd have left that one at home and brought the other!"

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

No Longer Any Need to be Pale, Weak or Anaemic.

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be applied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption.

Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

New Rifle Range.

For years the local regiment has been without a rifle range, and now it is officially stated that a site has been decided upon for a range for this city. It will be necessary, however, to have an order-in-council passed arranging for the purchase, and as soon as this is accomplished the ranges will be equipped.

Improvements on the Canal.

Lighthouses are being erected at several points in Lake Simcoe, the Beaverton Harbor is being repaired and improved, the locks and dam at Buckhorn have been renovated, and other lines of activity are making the Trent Canal a fine waterway. All the improvements are useful and will more than justify the expense.

He Likes The Times.

Mr. Wm. Montgomery, who lives in North Monaghan, and who is served by Roural Mail Route No. 3, called on the Times yesterday to say that he is immensely pleased with the paper which he subscribed for some weeks ago, along with scores of others, when the daily mail service in his district went into effect. Mr. Montgomery is one of the many who can bear similar testimony, a fact which is extremely gratifying to us.

Lindsay Boy Drowned.

Mr. Max. Clendennan of Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clendennan, was drowned near Owen Sound in a gallant attempt to save his father when the sail boat in which they were tacking upset. Mr. Edward Clendennan was saved. The body has not yet been recovered.

Coming to Peterborough.

Miss Rose Dyer, chief operator in the Bell Telephone in Lindsay, will shortly take up residence in this city, having been promoted to chief operator here. Miss Dyer comes from Lindsay with the heartiest congratulations of all her friends there, where she has given efficient service to the Bell Telephone Company and was very popular.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn [illegible] a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning [illegible] and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.
HENRY C. LOCUST.

HAS YOUR BLOOD BEEN DISEASED?

BLOOD POISONS are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim and unless entirely eradicated from the system will cause serious complications. Beware of Mercury. It may suppress the symptoms—our NEW METHOD cures all blood diseases.

New Insurance Law.

To-morrow, August 1st the new Fire Insurance Act comes into effect all over the Province of Ontario and as a result every fire insurance policy in the Province will be automatically affected. Incidentally, holiday lists in most of the fire insurance companies and agencies' offices are staffs working overtime to be ready for the new law. The law provides for a new form of policies, and that insurance companies must be liable for damage by lightning.

Auto Wrecked.

Yesterday, Mr. Percy Bond lost his automobile through an accident which occurred when Bert Hensley was speeding it west on McDonnel street. The car had been taken to Wilson's repair shop for a few minor repairs, and it was in making the trial trip that it skidded, colliding with a telephone pole and turning turtle. It was smashed beyond repair, and the driver was very badly shaken up, being thrown with great force into the road, hurting one of his legs badly. When told of his loss Mr. Bond kept a cheerful exterior.

Fire in Power House.

Fire broke out yesterday afternoon and caused considerable excitement and inconvenience in the city. The power for a time was shut off and the Quaker Oats and the 5c theatres suspended operations, as did other places, including the printing offices. The fire brigade was called and with the chemicals and a line of hose subdued the flames. In an explosion which followed the breaking out of fire, Mr. Pomeray, who is in charge of the power house was severely and painfully burned. He was rushed to Nicholls Hospital, where Dr. McNulty attended him. Latest reports say that he is doing nicely.

Run Down By Horse.

Ald. Jas. Graham, yesterday morning had a fortunate escape from injury when, wheeling northward on George street, a horse and runabout turned the corner and ran him down. Before the driver could stop the animal, which was going at a fair clip, it had knocked Mr. Graham over, and the horse and the front wheels of the rig had passed over him, he emerged from the mix-up between the front and back wheels. The rear rim of his wheel was broken in several places and the tire punctured. That Mr. Graham himself escaped unscathed was certainly fortunate. The accident was caused by the carelessness of the driver, and only the quick work of a motorman on a streetcar, saved further misfortune, as the collision took place on the car tracks in front of an approaching street car.

Death of Mrs. H. Denne.

The large number of friends of Mrs. H. Denne, of this city, will be sorry to learn of her death which occurred yesterday morning at ten o'clock. The late Mrs. Denne was afflicted with a paralytic stroke on Wednesday and never recovered consciousness. She had been in poor health for some time, but nevertheless her death will come as a shock to her many friends. Mrs. Denne was a daughter of the late Gerald Fitzgerald, of Smith township, and is survived by three brothers, two sons, Messrs. T. H. G. Denne and Roland of this city, as well as eight daughters, five of whom live at home. Those whose homes are not in the city are Mrs. W. H. Graham, Kingston, Mrs. Dr. Herbert Bell, Winnipeg, and Miss Helen Denne, of Chicago. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the family residence, 723 George street, to the Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Sawyers, assisted by the Rev. Canon Davidson, will officiate.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. Geo. Manning, of Vancouver, is visiting friends in the city.

The Rev. Rollins left on the 7.45 boat yesterday for Stoney Lake points.

The Rev. Mr. Sawyers left yesterday for Rice Lake to spend his vacation there.

Mr. J. H. Byers, of Port Hope, was the guest of friends in the city on Monday.

The Misses Henderson, 246 McDonnell street, left yesterday to spend a few days at Stoney Lake.

Miss G. Wells, of Water street, has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Toronto.

Mrs. L. Potvin left for her cottage at Stoney Lake yesterday, where she will spend the summer.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The time for the re-opening of the theatrical season is drawing near.

A number of reasons may be given why so many people are spending the summer in town this year, but the real reason is the high cost of vacations.

To-day is Ladies' Day at Riverside Park, when the White Caps and the Guelph aggregation will battle for the tin can.

TO HELP NATURE SHED A BAD COMPLEXION.

(From the Family Physician).

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of mercolized wax. Perhaps nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm, without detaining one indoors, and at such small expense. The principal reason for its wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding, or "curing" complexion defects, it removes them. The wax actually takes off the aged, faded, sallow or blotchy cuticle, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercolized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercolized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.

Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled, flabby skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BRITISH PREMIER COMING TO CANADA | NEW YORK POLICE SCANDAL | PROTESTANT CAMPAIGN ON

THE BRITISH PREMIER AND MR. ASQUITH COMING TO CANADA

Date Will Be Soon After the Canadian Ministers Return At Quebec Dreadnought Coming and Occasion Will be One of Imperial Demonstration

London, July 31.—The London Daily Mail states that it is now understood that Premier Asquith and Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, will visit the Dominion after the return of Mr. Borden and his colleagues, but the date has not yet been definitely fixed. At any event, the visit of a British Dreadnought might be made the occasion of an Imperial demonstration, and out of compliment to the French-Canadians, Quebec would be an ideal place to hold the celebrations.

Any reserve that has been felt by some sections of the French-Canadian populace ought to be removed by the speeches which have welcomed Mr. Borden and the Canadian Ministers to Paris, which will encourage them in any decision that will strengthen the naval power of Great Britain, for upon that power and that power of military forces of France rest the foundations of an understanding which would be an ample assurance of peace.

Ministers in France.

London, July 31.—Amidst the strains of the Marseillaise and God Save the King the Premier of France and the Premier of Canada eulogized the entente cordiale and expressed the desire that the friendly feeling grow deeper and stronger. The leaders of the French haute politique, finance, art, literature, regent of the Bank of France, and Messrs. Pallain, Paul, Harvieu, of the Academy Rodin, celebrated artists; Gen. Brugere and representatives of the British and Spanish embassies.

"As years go by and the frictions removed between France and Britain, the affection of France for her sons in Canada is expressed more strongly," said the French Premier in a stirring speech.

He looked forward to the future with confidence, because esteem and respect would prevent any possible friction as between France and Canada. He could see nothing to menace the friendship. He raised his glass to Canada and Great Britain.

MUST BE AMENDED

That the British North America Act must be amended, is already a foregone conclusion. It is inconceivable that any Province in this fair Dominion should be permitted to enact a law at the beck of the Church of Rome, or any other church, which will allow wives to be termed concubines and their children illegitimate. Protestants and many Roman Catholics object to a condition under which the church is operating in the Province of Quebec, by which Provincial courts may dissolve, on a mere technicality, a marriage that has perhaps continued for years.

ACT MUST BE AMENDED

Toronto, July 31.—The Orange Sentinel says to-day:—It has been decided that the British North America Act makes it impossible for the Dominion Parliament to pass a uniform marriage law.

Under the judgment of the Privy Council each Province may have a different marriage law. That is a condition as bad as in the United States, where every State has a different divorce law.

Marriage is too vital a relation to be left in a state of confusion. The interest of the Dominion demands that there shall be one marriage law for all Canada.

As the Dominion Parliament has not the power to pass such a law we must get that power from Parliament.

The British North America Act must be amended. That is the duty which lies before all good Canadians.

The Sentinel will show the way, and we know that the Protestants of the Dominion will follow the lead. A great campaign will be waged and it will not cease until there is a Dominion marriage law.

AGAINST REPEAL

Washington, July 31. — The House to-day refused, by a vote of 127 to 107, to agree to the Senate's amendment to the excise tax bill providing for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

WEDDING BELLS.

Thompson—Atcheson.

At St. Andrew's church Tuesday, Mr. Wesley Thompson and Mrs. Atcheson, both of Peterborough, were united in marriage by Rev. Jas. Rollins. They were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside on College street.

Doherty—Calnan.

At six o'clock yesterday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, a very quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father O'Brien, assisted by Rev. Fr. Ferguson, when Miss Katie Calnan became the bride of Mr. Lorne Doherty. The bride looked very pretty in a white marquisette dress with satin trimmings and was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss Laura Doherty, the groom being supported by Mr. Jack Calnan, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's mother, 493 Sherbrooke street, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast awaited them, after which they left on the 8.25 train for a two weeks' trip on the Muskoka lakes.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

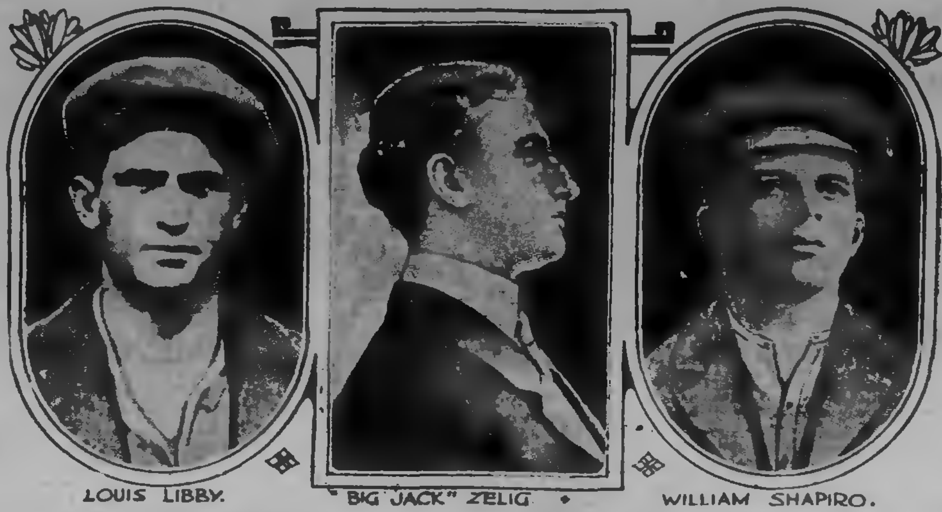
IMPORTANT WITNESSES IN THE NEW YORK MURDER CASE



LOUIS LIBBY.
"BIG JACK" ZELIG
WILLIAM SHAPIRO.

TWO PRISONERS AND MAN SOUGHT IN ROSENTHAL MURDER

Louis Libby and William Shapiro, partners in the automobile used by the slayers of gambler Rosenthal in New York, are expected to prove the most important witnesses for the State in prosecuting those suspected of the crime. Big Jack Zelig, an east side gambler, may also figure as a witness. It is now said that Rosenthal was slain by "gun" men who were on a drinking carousal.

TO WIDEN STREET RAILWAY CURVE BY FOUR FEET

A DANGER POINT AT CORNER OF GEORGE AND SMITH TO BE GREATLY IMPROVED.

City Board of Works in Session Last Night. Will Draft a Traffic By-law. Speed Limits of Automobiles and Cycles to Be Limited to 15 and 10 Miles in Given Districts. Such Vehicles Must Come to a Standstill When Street Cars are Loading and Unloading Passengers.

The City Board of Works met last night. There were present Mayor Bradburn, Chairman Alderman Buller, Aldermen Anderson, Gillespie, Graham, Johnston and Duffus.

The request of the T. Kinnear Co. to erect on Dalhousie street a wooden awning, roofed with galvanized iron was granted. The company to remove same at any time found necessary by the city's authorities. This concession was granted on consideration of Dalhousie street east of George, not being used at the present time.

Wm. Fleming asked that an old oak tree opposite his house, north side of Barnardo avenue on Water street, be removed. This was left with the chairman and City Engineer with power to act. Also to remove a rotting basswood tree at end of Hunter street west, and another old tree on Bethune street, opposite the Grand Trunk round house.

Preliminary to Paving.

The application of the Bell 'Phone Co. to lay an extra underground conduit on George street, between Brock and McDonnel streets, was granted. This will relieve George street of nine poles and is preliminary to the paving of George street.

Traffic By-law.

A by-law to control and regulate street traffic by vehicles was taken up. The following provisions of the Brantford were declared acceptable.

Vehicles shall keep to the right hand curb; on passing another must pass to the left; on meeting a rig shall pass on the right; on turning a corner shall turn as near the right hand curb as possible; vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction shall have right of way over vehicles going in an easterly and westerly direction. Any person driving shall do so at a moderate rate, and at crossings all vehicles shall give pedestrians the right of way. No horse shall be left standing on the streets unless tied, and vehicles must not be left standing on the streets longer than absolutely necessary.

Ald. Buller contended that automobiles and bicycles should be compelled to come to a standstill when street cars are loading or unloading passengers, otherwise some one will be killed in this city one of these days.

The Chief of Police replied that the Provincial Act covers that.

Ald. Buller—"Well, auto drivers don't comply with the Act in this city and should be forced to do so. many narrow escapes by citizens from being run down have come under my own personal observation.

The Chief of Police suggested that the speed limit for autos and motor cycles be 10 miles an hour within the following area: C.P.R. to McDonnel street, and Water street to Stewart street. Outside that area the limit to be 15 miles and hour. This suggestion found favor with the committee as being quite reasonable for operation in this city.

The Mayor, Aldermen Gillespie, Johnston and Duffus were appointed a committee to draft a by-law on above lines, and to present same at Monday night's Council meeting. Other conditions will be embodied in this measure, of which the public will be duly notified.

The application of the Bell 'Phone Co. to erect six poles west side of George, between the King Edward School and Lansdowne street for long distance purposes was granted.

Better Roads.

The Board are considering the advisability of puchasing trap rock from a quarry 29 miles from Peterborough for Macadam road purposes. This rock has three times the strength of the limestone now being used, but costs $3.40 a ton, not including freight rates. The committee is inclined to think the use of this trap rock would eventually figure out economically, considering its life.

To Improve a Dangerous Point.

Mr. Munro, manager of the Radial Railway Co. advised the board that they could give four feet more curve at the corner of George and Smith streets, providing the track on George and Smith streets is thrown a little out of the centre of the road The grade of the track will have to be raised several inches anh the council in event of proposed change will need to regrade and ballast the road at this point. The Board of Works is prepared to spend $200 on such work. The committee accepted the Radial Railway Company's proposition and a very dangerous point for travel will consequehtly be materially improved.

Is Building Permit Being Ignored?

Ald. Graham enquired if the City engineer had inspected the building being constructed for Mr. Isaac Eastwood over the creek on Hunter street

Mr. Hay reported that he had inspected the building two days ago, and it had been started all right.

Ald. Graham said a brick veneer building was going up contrary to solid brick as demanded by the Board of Works a week or so ago.

The Mayor—"When did you inspect that building, Mr. Hay?"

Mr. Hay—"A couple of days ago I looked at it, but did not make a close inspection."

The Mayor—"A couple of days ago any man could see that but a veneer building was going up."

Moved by Ald. Gillespie, seconded by Ald. Graham.—That the Engineer inspect that building to-morrow, and if not being erected according to the special permit granted, then the building must come down.—Carried.

The Board intends to stop all infringements of the by-law, and are a unit in making a test case of this one in question.

A Good Move.

His Worship suggested that the Thursday half holidays be taken advantage of to roll the roads on the main thoroughfares. Last Thursday George from Brock to Hunter was rolled, this Thursday from Hunter to Simcoe might be similarly treated, and the following Thursday afternoon Simcoe to Charlotte given attention—and so on.

Street Commissioner Evans explained circumstances that prevented this afternoon being taken advantage of as indicated, but hereafter the commendable policy introduced by His Worship can be pursued.

DOCTOR NOT CALLED UNTIL AFTER DEATH

Vancouver, B.C., July 28.—Acting particularly at the request of the Chicago police department, Vancouver police officials caused an investigation to be made before Coroner Jeffs into the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Margaret Williams, wife of a young architect names Mark Williams, of Vancouver. The couple had not long been married.

The wife, who was aged 24, was the daughter of John Sanders, 2911 Berling street, Chicago, who had complained to the police of this city. The evidence showed that Williams and his wife, according to his statement, were believers in Christian Science and no attempt was made to call in a physician during Mrs. Williams' illness until too late. As a matter of fact, the doctor arrived an hour after her death.

Williams, who is a bright-looking young man, said that his wife had been treated by Mrs. Hattie Wheeler, a Christian Science leader, and expressed every satisfaction in that treatment and its methods.

EXPECT LIEUTENANT BECKER TO BREAK DOWN AND TALK

Counsel For Rose Thinks He Will Tell Story--Many Witnesses to Prove Graft--Deserted and Watched Closely For Anything He May Say

New York, July 31.—Every trail and lead is to be followed persistently, no matter where it ends, by District Attorney Whitman to learn to whom $2,400,000 graft money was finally distributed. "Bald Jack" Rose, whose confession put police Lieut. Becker behind the bars for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, has told the public prosecutor that this huge sum of money was obtained by police blackmail from gambling and disorderly houses and that Lieut. Becker told him the money went to four officials.

Whether Lieut. Becker will care to avail himself of an opportunity to make his own position easier by telling the prosecutor the ratifications of the graft money, which Bald Jack Rose says he turned over to Becker was doubted this morning.

Will Bring Many Witnesses.

This information obtained from Rose Rho says he was Becker's collector from gambling houses, will be susceptible of proof, said the District Attorney, who added that he intends to bring everybody before the grand jury who has even the slightest knowledge of the reported operations of Becker and the gamblers.

Rose says that Becker kept the gamblers in constant fear of him by threats and that in many cases the police protection given did not last very long.

Meanwhile Police Lieut. Becker in the tombs a prisoner, is saying nothing.

Attorney James Sullivan, counsel for Rose, says that Becker will break down and tell his story after he has been in the tombs 48 hours.

Becker Deserted Now.

"Becker realizes now that he is squarely up against it," said Mr. Sullivan. "He is deserted and he must know it. Several men are hanging upon the wind that blows from the Tombs now, hearkening for the first whisper from the lips of Becker."

Lid Is On Tight.

The arrest of Becker and the confessions of Rose, Vallon and Webber have completely demoralized the gamblers and poolrooms and gambling houses are shut up tight. The gamblers say they don't know when they will be able to open again.

Something About the Daring Aviator Who Will Visit Peterborough on August 12th

WM. B. HEMSTROUGHT
A Daring Aviator.

William B. Hemstrought, a young man, 23 years old, and a resident of Binghampton, N.Y., is the newest accession to the ranks of the birdmen. Hemstought learned to fly both the aeroplane and the hydroaeroplane at Hammondsport, N.Y., under the tutelage of Glenn H. Curtiss. He became proficient within a short time, and made such a splendid showing in his flights at that place, that he was engaged by the Curtiss Company as one of their exhibition fliers. His first dates were at Lima, Ohio, on June 6th, 7th and 8th, where he flew not only with success but with remarkable distinction.

On the first day there was a wind of 35 miles an hour, but in spite of this Hemstrought made three flights doing everything that was done by Charles F. Walsh, the veteran exhibition flier appearing at the same time.

On the second and third days, Hemstrought did even better than on the first, making every flight on scheduled time, and ascending to a height of 4000 feet on each day, and then volplaning back to the starting place. His landings were exceptionally clever, and all those who saw him fly predict that he will make one of the best aviators in the world

GRAPHIC SAYS TO PUNISH CAPTAIN OF S.S. CALIFORNIA

London, July 31.—The London morning papers comment on Lord Merseys report as a masterly document, presenting timely and practicable recommendations, while, as The Morning Post observes, opening no door to panic legislation. They concentrate on the proved inefficiency of the Board of Trade and insist that drastic action should follow the courts findings. They urge the Government to see to it that the Board of Trade obtains statutory powers to enforce improved conditions.

The Chronicle hopes that the Government will proceed to call such a conference. The Californian's inaction is severely condemned.

The Daily Graphic calls for the prosecution of the Californian's captain.

The Daily Telegraph says: "This portion of the report stands out as a thing apart—a horror which in days to come will wound the human instinct of the race whenever the story of the Titanic is recounted."

OBITUARY.

Charles Herbert Campbell.

There passed away Tuesday evening a well known citizen in the person of Mr. Charles Herbert Campbell of 363 Babbs' Lane. The deceased gentleman who was 42 years of age, was born in Bethany. On his removal into Peterborough some ten years ago, he became head millwright in the Canadian General Electric Works which position he filled until his death. He was a member of the Masonic Order, the I.O.O.F. and a constant attendant of All Saints' church His was a long and painful illness and in his death Peterborough loses a resident who was highly esteemed by all those who were fortunate enough to know him. The funeral will take place to-day at 3.30 o'clock

ON HIS WAY HOME FROM TRIP SOUTH

W. H. Curran, a newspaper man of Toronto, is in Peterborough for a few days en route from the Isle of Pines, the Bahamas and Panama, where he spent the winter.

Mr. Curran is very enthusiastic concerning the Isle of Pines, an American Island, 40 miles south of Cuba It appears that the Isle of Pines, which has been a famous health resort for Cubans for the past century has ideal soil for grape fruit and pineapple culture. Although the Isle is just in its industrial infancy, as much as $1,000 an acre has been cleared off young grape fruit groves. As a grove grows older it becomes more valuable. Land that brings $500 an acre at Porto Rico can be secured for one-tenth that sum on the Isle of Pines for the time being.

The opening of the Panama Canal is expected to have a great effect on this island as it will bring the traffic of the world right by its doors. The people of the Island who are mainly Americans and Canadians are holding a big exposition next year to celebrate the opening of the new waterway.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 360 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

PAINTS.

THE LAW OF QUALITY IS AS SURE AS the law of Gravity. Gravity keeps both your feet on the ground. Quality informs your judgment when you are on the "Ground Floor" in the matter of value. Martin-Senour's Paint is the Ground Floor of paint value. It makes good every time. It flows freely, has great covering capacity, shows a beautiful finish, and wears like iron. It will more than meet your expectations in quality brilliancy and durability. Campbell & Best, 134 Hunter St. Next to post office.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Cobourg Harbour Extension to West Breakwater," will be received at this office until 4 p. m., Wednesday, August 14, 1912, for the construction of an extension to west breakwater at the entrance to Cobourg Harbour, Northumberland County, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud Esq., District Engineer, Merchant Bank Building, Montreal, P.Q., and on application to the postmaster at Cobourg, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and place of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to do the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Mr. Max. Clendennan of Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clendennan, was drowned near Owen Sound in a gallant attempt to save his father when the sail boat in which they were tacking upset. Mr. Edward Clendennan was saved. The body has not yet been recovered.

A number of reasons may be given why so many people are spending the summer in town this year, but the real reason is the high cost of vacations.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1.

HOW ITALY MAKES WAR.

It is a reasonable supposition that the Italians had some distinct object in view when they attempted to send their torpedo boat destroyers through the Dardanelles into the sea of Marmora, but it is scarcely reasonable to suppose that they had in mind anything like the capture or bombardment of Constantinople, or an attempt to take permanent possession of territory. Actual invasion of the Sultan's capital would require heavy warships and numerous army corps, and would be an exceedingly dangerous, not to say foolhardy, undertaking under any circumstances.

The torpedo destroyers in making their raid had possibly two objects in view. Those in command may have hoped to slip through the Dardanelles under cover of darkness, and by taking advantage of that same darkness to ram a few torpedos into the hulls of the Turkish warships round about Constantinople, thus striking a blow that would at once discourage their opponents, foment internal strife and rouse the lagging enthusiasm of the Italian people. But if such a project was seriously in mind, it was probably of seconhary importance, the principal object of the inroad being to stir up a row and retreat with as little damage to themselves as possible. This, in fact, is what the destroyers did.

Such tactics may at first blush seem childish and futile, but they are by no means of that order in the present instance. Their object seems fairly clear. Italy is in a very embarrassing position as far as her war with Turkey is concerned. She set out to conquer Tripoli after having received the formal consent of the other Christian powers of Europe. She began with great noise and bluster and with apparent brilliancy, but she has signally failed to show herself equal to the job. She has caught a tartar and cannot let him go. Now she is looking around for someone who will come to her rescue.

WARFARE.

The speech of Winston Churchill in introducing naval estimates brings home the fact that Germany and England are at war with one another, and evidently is at war to the finish. This modern war is entirely different from the wars the accounts of which fill the pages of history. It is in keeping with the modern idea of the sacredness of human life, a doctrine which we owe to the teaching of Christianity. In the struggle between the two greatest European powers, men do not line up to kill one another. Its cost in treasure is probably in excess of any that ever spilt the blood of thousands. It is an economic combat. Which will be broken down first in the awful struggle of armament building? The Admiralty has now committed Britain to an expenditure of forty to sixty million dollars per annum in building Dreadnoughts alone. When launched these vessels are a source of tremendous expense for maintenance. The burden of taxation is a crushing one. Across the North Sea another power is shouldering a similar great burden. With each addition that Germany makes, Britain makes a greater. Surely this is warfare as great as any that has ever been. Advocates of peace are gratified that these nations do not dare to put to use their enormous engines of destruction. This fact marks a great advance in public opinion. It is also to be wished that the time will soon come when nations cannot waste their strength as they are now doing in an economic struglle. The suffering of humanity is probably almost as great as in a war where men are openly slaughtered.

At some future Hague Peace Conference the misunderstanding that begets the present senseless competition may be rectified and the regularion limiting armanent may be passed. In the meantime, naval competition is a fact that cannot be neglected. Britain's sturdy sons overseas can and must assist in carrying the immense burden, for their safety depends as much on its being carried as does Great Britain's. The Canadian political parties, Conservative and Liberal alike, are agreed that Canada must immediately assume a nation's responsibilities. There may be difference in opinion as to the way in which Canada's aid should be offered, but the burden will be assumed willingly and as the best interests of Canada and the Empire seem to dictate.

Editorial Notes

If the truth were known, most of the heat prostrations reported in New York were simple beerstrokes.

A Boston preacher says there are 800 different conceptions of hell, and we wonder if in the number is included the case of the drummer who finds that he has to spend a Sunday in a dry town.

The Examiner is wasting time in denouncing the member for West Peterborough apparently now knowing he is so used to denunciation from that quarter that he mixes it with his salad.

The editor of the local Liberal contemporary must often find himself in a rather awkward position in condemning the very things in that he upheld a year ago. It is truly said that a man who sets a good example preaches a sermon without words. The example here set cannot be said to be inspiring or worthy of emulation.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

All Who Lack Vigor, Those Who are Dispirited and Worn out, Should Read This Carefully.

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

THE JAPAN OF TO-DAY

IT HAS GONE AHEAD MARVELLOUSLY SAYS A TRAVELER.

A Sort of Paternal Socialism Has Grown Up Because the Government Simply Needed the Money to Be Made Out of Public Utilities—People Have a High Respect For the Government.

No Government in the world commands more genuine respect from the people than that of Japan. The Government consists of the Emperor, the unofficial body known as the Elder Statesmen, the Privy Council, the Cabinet and the Diet.

The Emperor is supreme. Between him and his subjects the line has been drawn for approximately twenty centuries. But the rulers have almost without exception shown the greatest consideration for the people. The people on their part have shown loyalty even unto death for their sovereign.

The relations of Emperor and people may be likened to those of parent and child. The people worship the Emperor and the Emperor his own ancestors. The transcendentalism of the present Emperor is very difficult for a westerner to understand. But the reverence shown him is entirely sincere, and certainly no living ruler has done more to deserve it than the present Emperor.

The leadership of the Japanese Government is nowhere better exemplified than in the progressive steps it has taken along the lines of State Socialism. It owns and operates the postoffices, telephones, telegraphs, wireless, gas, electricity, water, railroads and the tobacco, salt and camphor monopolies. It subsidizes many businesses, such as shipping, banking, etc.

Indeed, the ramifications of the Government are to be seen everywhere. Japan has gone into these Socialistic measures, however, not from any conversion to the tenets of Socialism, but because she has wanted to make money. A good part of the national income comes from the operation of public utilities and monopolies.

The educational system is modelled on western methods. Two generations ago only twenty-eight per cent. of the children of school age attended school. In 1893 the percentage rose to fifty-nine. To-day it is ninety-eight. Universal education has been in existence for about sixty years, and now every child must go to school for at least six years. To-day there is less illiteracy in Tokio than in many European cities.

I shall never forget the visits I made to some of the schools. Every classroom had a sunny southern exposure. The buildings were all one-story affairs, so that there would be no danger of death in case of fire. Every hour the pupils leave their rooms to go out of doors, where they practice athletics and calisthenics for a quarter of an hour under a professional instructor. You will always see, therefore, one-quarter of any school playing in the school yard.

In science, pure and applied, Japan is doing her share of the world's work. In sanitation—at least as far as the army is concerned—she leads the world. In surgery and medicine the Japanese have little to learn from Berlin, Vienna or Baltimore. An Occidental doctor in Japan told me of a delicate ophthalmic operation he witnessed by a Japanese colleague which he thought the most skillful he ever saw. Though such an operation would have commanded $1,000 in Canada, the Japanese surgeon's fee was 5 yen ($2.50).

All the Japanese doctors, however, do not make such reasonable charges, for once when I summoned one to remove a fishbone that had lodged in my throat, he gave me a whole baked potato to swallow at one gulp and then sent me a bill for $10. His prescription effected a cure, however, and I mention it here without charge for the benefit of those who may be in need of a remedy for a similar uncomfortable predicament.

In case of war Japan can mobilise the army in eighteen days, and by calling on all the reserves could easily muster over a million soldiers in a very short time.

On a war basis she would have an active army of 295,000, a reserve of 355,000, a second reserve of 745,000, auxiliaries more or less trained, 280,000, and territorial reserves, 11,000. In case Japan should have a war about 1920 it is estimated she could muster out 1,450,000 trained troops, 310,000 more or less trained and 5,500,000 eventual combatants not yet trained. The Japanese soldiers at present are among the best in the world, the officers know their profession thoroughly and are passionately devoted to it.

The navy is likewise loyal, brave and efficient. On paper it ranks fifth among the nations. In battle it would probably render a brilliant account of itself against any navy in existence.

Nothing fascinated me so much in Japan as the gardens. Every Japanese home has one, even if it is only six feet square. The theory of a Japanese garden is artificial naturalness. Every tree and shrub, stone and brook is artificial, but made to look natural. When standing in the centre of the garden one seems to be in a world all alone, for the sky line is so arranged that all neighboring gardens and buildings are hidden behind trees. If there is a distant mountain on the horizon it is brought into the landscape, while the intervening objects are obscured.

THE LAW IN GERMANY.

One May Break It at Times by Laughing at a Funny Sight.

German law is very different from English law. How different it requires a visit to Germany to realise. Before you have stayed in a German town for a week a policeman calls. He politely inquires your age, your nationality and how long you intend to stay. Your answer he notes down in one of a small library of little books which he carries with him.

If you take a house in Germany you must notify the police. If you move to another you must comply with the same formality. If you hire a servant girl you must purchase a yellow blank and report the fact. When she leaves, a green form must be sent to the police stating why she is dismissed.

If you use the telephone in Germany you must be careful how you speak to the employes. At Carlsruhe a gentleman, impatient at long delay, called out, "Are you asleep, miss?" and was fined $5 for offering "an unjustifiable insult."

Whatever you do, be careful not to use red ink when writing to the police. The president of the Social Democrat Society at Hetschendorf did so and was summoned and fined for "inciting the representatives of law to break the peace."

In all small matters you must exercise the greatest care, so as not to run the risk of insulting other people. A certain Count von Friedland had a quarrel with an insurance agent named Joseph Bock.

The count presently summoned the latter because, as he alleged, the agent stared at him whenever they met in a manner which "revealed hate and contempt." Poor Bock was found guilty and fined $10, with the alternative of ten days' imprisonment.

A Berlin ironworker named Willeck got into trouble one day in a manner incredible to English ideas. He was watching a fat policeman chase a riotous merrymaker, and the vision of the former's stout legs twinkling along amused him so that he burst into a fit of laughter. This was construed as an indictable offense—serious scandal—and the unhappy Willeck went to prison for a week.

The proprietor of a widely known patent medicine took a quarter of a column in a German newspaper. The publisher was summoned and fined for "bombastic advertisement." It was considered that the advertisement was too long and that it irritated the readers.

A German soldier was recently hauled up for the serious offense of failing to salute his officer in the street. For this the punishment is two months' imprisonment. He pleaded that he was shortsighted and at once was sentenced to an extra fortnight's confinement for failing to report his affliction.

Old London Street Cries.

Among the street cries which have disappeared is the early morning cry of "Hot rolls!" The modern baker lets us sleep in peace. But the streets of London a hundred years ago must have been noisy. Mr. F. W. Hackwood, in "The Good Old Times," recalls the old cries. "Some of these would sound strange to the ear now, as 'Bandboxes,' 'Baskets,' 'Buy a broom,' 'Hair brooms,' 'Hot spiced gingerbread,' 'Brick dust,' 'Sand O,' 'Bellows to mend,' 'Chairs to mend,' 'Bill of the play.' More familiar perhaps were 'Old clothes,' 'Cats and dogs' meat' and 'Dust O'." And the postman of those days rang his bell. There is still a man who sits mending chairs in the Earl's Court road. But he has forgotten the cry.—London Spectator.

Twice Flattered.

One must be a genius to be a successful barber. One is reminded of the tonsorial artist who operated in the same village for fifty years and never made a mistake. In his early days a handsome boy got in his chair.

"Shave, sir?" asked the barbor.

"You flatter me," laughed the youth. "You flatter me. No; I can only use a hair cut."

Years passed—in fact, thirty years did. The same man came to the same barber.

"Hair cut, sir?" asked the barber.

"You flatter me!" sighed the man. "No—only a shave."

The Lion's Share.

"The lion's share" embodied the sarcasm of old Aesop, in whose fable, at the conclusion of their joint feast, the animals announce their wish to divide the booty, the lion claiming one-quarter by reason of kingly prerogative, one-quarter for his superior courage, one-quarter for his dam and cubs. "As for the fourth quarter," said the lion, "let who will dare dispute it with me."

QUEER SLEEPING CAGES.

How Would You Like a Berth on the "Ship of the Desert?"

Camel cradles are not designed for rocking young camels to sleep, but they are a contrivance by which travelers in the desert may journey by night and yet not lose all sleep. Mr. Lansdell in his book of travels describes them in an entertaining way in telling how he journeyed by camel train from Khiva to the Caspian.

"About 7 o'clock all was in readiness, and we were to get into our queer sleeping cages. Let the reader imagine two narrow wooden crates, such as earthenware is packed in, each sufficiently large for a man to lie in when twisted to the shape of the letter S, and let him further imagine them suspended on either side of the huge hump of a kneeling camel.

"This, I am given to understand, is to be my sleeping place for the night, and I accordingly choose my berth on the port side of the 'ship of the desert,' first putting into the cradle for a lining a piece of felt and then two pillows. Then I put on over my ordinary suit my jackal lined coat enveloping me from head to foot, over that my ulster, and on my head a sheepskin hat, to say nothing of fur-lined boots, and then, getting into the cradle, I cover my feet with my sheepskin rug.

"And now comes the tug of war. Nazar asks are we ready, bids us hold on and says to the camel 'Chu!' whereupon the animal gets up leisurely, first by its hind legs, and in so doing raises our feet to the angle of 80 degrees, thereby threatening to pitch us out bodily.

"We hold on, however, for dear life, and then comes a lurch from the fore, lifting our heads once more to the horizontal. The fear of danger is now past, but it is not easy at first to get accustomed to the strange motion caused by the long strides of the camel.

"When the creature was urged to go quickly the nearest simile for the cradle I can think of is that of a bottle of medicine in the process of being 'well shaken before taken,' but when the camel walked leisurely then one lay as in a boat idly tossed by the billows and sleep became possibe, just as it is in a Russian tarantass, when one is dead tired, cramped and 'used to it'."

Europe's Oldest Actor.

Herr Bernhard Baumeister recently celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his joining the Imperial Court theatre of Vienna. This is believed to be a record for any player, and as Baumeister is now eighty-four years old and still plays regularly on the same stage he is believed to hold the double distinction of being the oldest actor in Europe and the one who has played the longest at one and the same theatre. He appeared in the evening of his anniversary as Falstaff, in "Henry IV.," one of his most famous parts, and received a tremendous ovation, in return for which he delivered a speech of thanks. The Emperor, who is two years Baumeister's junior, sent him a special message of congratulation and promised a pension for life to his wife, a comparatively young woman, whom the aged actor married only two years ago.

The Mysterious Handful.

A troup of wandering musicians were playing before a Swiss hotel. At the end of the performance one of the members left the group, approached the leader of the band and pulled out a little paper box which he emptied into [illegible] hand while the eyes of the leader followed every movement. He then took a plate in his right hand, passed it round, and a large sum was collected, every one meanwhile wondering what he held in his left hand.

"Why, it's very simple," said the leader when questioned. "We are all subject to temptation and to be sure of the fidelity of our collector he has to hold five flies in his left hand, and we count these when he returns to make sure of the money."

Leap Year's Names.

Leap year, it has been complained by some one, seems to have been named on the same principle as the "Meeting of the Waters" at Killarney, which is a place where two streams do not meet, but part. A leap year ought to be a year in which we jump over a day, a 364 day year. One explanation is that all the days after Feb. 29 jump forward one day in the week more than usual. The Romans used to call it a bissextile year, and the French still do so.

Drunkards In Holland.

In Holland special provision is made by law for the protection of intoxicated persons found wandering at large. A regular tariff has been drawn up, according to which a roisterer who can manage to walk is escorted home—within any reasonable distance—for 15 cents. Should a portable chair be required 36 cents extra is charged.

A Problem In Fractions.

A young wife was doing the marketing for her first dinner in her new home.

"Nice quarter of lamb, ma'am?" politely suggested the butcher.

The young wife's face became wrinkled in thought. "But," she said, "there are only two of us! Don't you think an eighth would suffice.

The Truth.

"Mr. Hardup must have used a great deal of flattery to win the heiress."

"No; he simply told her the truth."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; he said he couldn't live without her."

A Busy Hen.

A record has been created by a Henfield fowl, which in eight and a half years has laid 1,400 eggs. It leaves the hatching to less distinguished hens.

More Terrible Than Lions.

Miss Tacanesco, a lady lion tamer of Jassy, in Roumania, fainted in the cage at a moment when the animals were perfectly quiet. She was removed before they did more than show signs of restlessness and on recovering consciousness exclaimed:

"Until the beetle crawling on one of the bars is taken off I am not going in again!"

Aluminium Powder.

To make aluminium powder very thin foil is first cut up into small spangles. These are ground in a mill, and the powder is then sifted through bolting cloth. The powder is used as a basis for metallic paint and is especially valuable for metallic surfaces that are exposed a great deal. The powder is very soft and adhesive, like graphite.

Strikes.

"Never strike a man larger than yourself."

"Better still, never strike a man who is short."

Marine Insurance.

Ships and goods were insured against the perils of the sea so long ago as the fifteenth century.

ADVERTISE In The TIMES

Level of Two Seas.

When attention was first called to the practicability of a canal from the Mediterranean to the Red sea by the first Napoleon a corps of surveyors was sent out to "run the levels." They reported that the scheme would necessarily have to be abandoned because the level of the Red sea was thirty feet six and a half inches higher than that of the Mediterranean. That report put a damper on the canal project for several years. In 1847, however, some "doubting Thomases" prevailed on the great powers to resurvey the route. England sent Robert Stephenson, Austria M. Talbot and France Signor Negrelli. They found that the two seas had exactly the same level, and the Suez canal was the result.

The Weight of the World.

A cubic foot of earth weighs about five and a half times as much as a cubic foot of water. A cubic mile of earth then weighs 25,694,300,000 tons. The volume of the earth is 259,880,000,000 cubic miles. The weight of the world without its atmosphere is 6,666,250,000,000,000,000,000 tons. If we add to this the weight of the atmosphere given above we get a grand total—6,666,255,819,600,000,000,000 tons.

She Used Them.

"Does your mother take an interest in your father's business?" asked the lady visitor.

"Indeed, she does," replied the boy feelingly.

"And what is your father's business?"

"He's in the shingle business."—Yonkers Statesman.

So He Did.

"Indians, you know," said the widely read man, "are very stoical. They're never known to laugh."

"Oh, I don't know," replied the flippant person. "The poet Longfellow made Minne-ha-ha."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The two powers which in my opinion constitute a wise man are those of bearing and forbearing – Epictetus.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

FRENCH TOBACCO TESTERS.

Men Who Find Smoking Anything but an Agreeable Task.

The French government's official tasters of tobacco form a category of civil servants of whose activity little is known outside their own department.

Tobacco is a state monopoly in France, and these experts are employed under the ministry of finance to report on all classes of tobacco that are permitted to be sold in France. The men are mostly superannuated inspectors of tobacco factories.

Their hours of business are from 9 to 5. As a rule, it is the lower grades of tobacco that need the most careful attention. They have to report not only on the cigars, cigarettes and pipe tobaccos put on the market by the French Tobacco Regie, but also on all imported tobacco.

Smoking when compulsory is anything but an agreeable duty, these employees say. They are in constant danger from ills caused by the excessive use of tobacco, and they combat these by taking large quantities of black coffee, which is also said to assist them to differentiate between the various kinds of tobacco on which they have to give their opinion.—Exchange.

How Seeds Travel.

They have been discovering some extraordinary plants in England, plants which puzzled the botanists, to whom they were either utterly unknown or known as growing only in far distant lands. One naturalist picked on the grounds of the Bradford sewage works 160 species of foreign plants. Among these were several Australian burrs, jimson weed, prickly poppies from Mexico, others native to Peru, Siberia and the Azores. All were of a prickly nature. Investigation proved that the dust from wool combing establishments was being used as fertilizer and the washings of wool were run into the sewers. The burrs of these foreign plants had come in the wool and had grown. Other plants had sprung from seed in rags and others been brought in soil on foreign timber.—New York World.

ON THE GREAT WHITE WAY.

How New York's Grill Room Prices Hit the Blue Grass Brother.

After his brother had been in New York a little more than a year a Kentuckian decided to pay him a visit. Hoping to surprise his brother, the Kentuckian did not apprise his brother of his intentions. Arriving at 9 o'clock in the morning, he asked to be directed to a good eating house. The taxicab pilot steered his course for the largest, costliest and most fashionable hotel grill room on Broadway.

Being a stranger in a strange land and hungry, the Blue Grass brother ordered a regular home meal. When he got the check from the waiter its size staggered him. He wasn't accustomed to New York hotel prices.

After verifying the correctness of his bill at the cashier's desk and being insulted by the waiter for tipping him 25 cents, the visitor started out to look for his brother, whose office he found about 1 o'clock.

In response to his inquiry as to his brother's whereabouts a clerk said:

"He's over eating at the Blank hotel's new grill room."

"Go slow, friend. Only a millionaire could overeat at the Blank hotel. I know, because I had breakfast there myself this morning."—Louisville Times.

FLED FROM HIS BRIDE.

Romantic Story of the Marriage of General Sam Houston.

In "As I Remember—Recollections of American Society During the Nineteenth Century," is a romantic story of General Sam Houston, whose "appearance was patrician and courtesy that of the inborn gentleman."

"I have spoken of General Houston's appearance. I now wish to refer to his fine sense of honor. He was married on Jan. 22, 1829, to Miss Eliza Allen and separated from her directly after the marriage ceremony in, it is said, the most painful circumstances. The wedding guests had departed and General Houston and his bride were sitting alone by the fire when he suddenly discovered that she was weeping. He asked the cause of her tears and was told that she never loved him and never could, but had married him solely to please her father.

"'I love Dr. Douglas,' she added, 'but I will try my best to be a dutiful wife to you.'

"'Miss,' said General Houston, even waiving the fact that he had just married her, 'no white woman shall be my slave. Good night!'

"It is said that he mounted his horse and rode to Nashville, where he resigned at once his office as governor and departed for the Cherokee country, where and elsewhere his subsequent career is well known. Having procured a divorce from his wife, he married Margaret Moffette in the spring of 1840."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

A LAUGH THAT SPREAD.

It Saved Ferranti's Reputation and Fooled the Critics.

One evening Carlotta Patti sang in a large town. Just as Ferranti, the buffo, was leading her out of the door upon the platform some one in the anteroom behind cried out to him that his coat had burst at the seam in the back. It was too late to go back, for the audience had seen him, and the two singers advanced to the footlights. The knowledge of this mishap took all the fun out of Ferranti, and the duet, which was sung in Italian, was so dolefully devoid of its usual humor that Patti noticed it before they were half through, and, dropping the text of the duet, she fitted the following words to it, in Italian: "What is the matter with you tonight? I don't understand your nervousness. Nobody laughs at you!"

Whereupon Ferranti, in the mellifluous Italian, responded: "By the saints, I have burst my coat! Everybody will laugh when I go off the stage if they don't now!"

At this unexpected interchange of personal feelings Max Maretzek and his orchestra began to laugh. Then the people in the front seats, seeing the orchestra and the artists laughing, joined in themselves, and the merriment presently broke out into applause all over the house.

"Ah," said one of the papers next morning, "there is always something majestic in Ferranti's singing of that song. People burst into sympathetic laughter without being able to tell why!"

OUR UNCLE SAM.

His Nickname, It Is Claimed, Originated In Troy, N. Y.

Troy, N. Y., is said to be the place where the name "Uncle Sam" originated, says the New York Sun. After the last declaration of war with England by the colonies a New York contractor, Elbert Anderson, visited Troy and made it his headquarters for the purchase of provisions for the Continental army. The supplies were duly inspected before shipment. One of the inspectors was Samuel Wilson, brother of Ebenezer, also an inspector and known as Uncle Sam to the workmen whom he superintended.

The casks in which the beef and pork were packed were marked with the initials of Elbert Anderson, the contractor, and the United States, thus: "E. A.—U. S." The first pair of initials were of course familiar to the men, but the "U. S." stumped them. The fact was that the name United States was then so new to these countrymen that its initials were a complete puzzle. They turned to the nearest explanation, a humorous one and intended as a joke on their boss. If "E. A." stood for Elbert Anderson, then, they opined, "U. S." must stand for "Uncle Sam" Wilson. The joke spread to the continental army, which carried it to every part of the country.

Dignity of Judges.

Some Ontario High Court judges evidently like to imagine themselves clothed with "the divinity that doth hedge a king" if their pompous entrance to Toronto City Hall, where their courts are held, may be taken as a proper indication.

Nobody may ride in the elevator with those judges when any one of them is ascending to the court floor. The elevator man has been properly trained, and he knows the hour at which the judge is expected. He holds his elevator in waiting for his lordship's coming and other mere human beings may take to the stairways. The judge is met by the sheriff's officer, sword and cocked hat in hand, and escorted to his chamber. County Court judges have less dignity, and anybody may ride in the civic elevators when they are in them.—Canadian Courier.

THE PRINCE AT OXFORD.

What His Life Will Be Like as an Undergrad at Magdalen.

The Prince of Wales will shortly be going "up" to Magdalen. In the case of the ordinary youth of the upper classes, this marks the transition from the schoolboy to the "young man" stage of his existence. At the 'Varsity he finds a sudden new liberty unknown at school. But at the same time there are many restrictions which are rigidly enforced by the authorities.

The first rule that will be impressed on the youthful prince will be that of "keeping chapel," for which he will have to be fully dressed at eight o'clock in the morning—if not every day, at least four days a week.

The number of lectures he will attend will depend on the course laid down by his tutors, which will be of a special nature, as he will not be at Oxford for the full period.

But he will have to attend each lecture in "academical dress" — which consists of a gown no longer than an ordinary lounge coat, but with two streamers, and a mortar-board.

This dress must also be worn when calling on his official tutor (who, by the way, does not as a rule teach, but acts as a sort of moral adviser and special pleader when the undergraduate falls foul of the authorities). It must be worn to every "Hall"—that is, dinner—and outside the college after dusk and on every formal occasion.

"Hall" is the great social event of the day. The dons sit on a dais at the bottom of the hall, and are in evening-dress. In the body of the hall are arranged tables, at which the men sit by their "years." That is to say, there will be one long table for "freshers," or first-year men, another for men in their second year, and so on. It is in "Hall," too, that the undergraduate who has had the temerity to break one of the minor college rules is "sconced."

"Sconcing" is inflicted for different offences in different colleges. The most usual is "talking shop," or laughing in a loud voice during dinner, or for some eccentricity in dress. The head of the table motions to the butler to pass the offender the "sconce cup." This is a loving cup of varying size, and is filled with college beer. And the man who is "sconced" has to drink the contents "no heeler"—that is, at a single draught. If he fails in this he has to stand drinks for his table.

It has not yet been decided what sports the young prince will take up, but the 'Varsity abounds with sporting clubs of all kinds, from dominoes to foxhunting. Whatever else he does, it is highly probable that he will become a member of the Bullingdon, which is one of the smartest and most exclusive clubs in the world, and whose principal pursuits are hunting and card-playing.

At nine o'clock at night "Tom Tower"—the tower of Christ Church, so called after Thomas a Becket—tolls for about ten minutes, at the end of which time the prince will have to be inside his own college. If he "knocks in" between nine and eleven he will have to pay a fine of 6 cents, between eleven and twelve the fine will be increased to 24 cents, and after midnight the minimum fine will be $4.80. But this is a very serious offence, and in the case of an ordinary undergraduate, might very probably mean rustication—that is, being suspended—for one term.

A Delicate Position.

"That was an annoying coincidence," said Mr. Biggins. "It took great tact to manage it."

"What's the trouble?"

"The pension examiner and the life insurance doctor both called on me at the same time."—Washington Star.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the ig profits now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only [illegible] mount remains.

NOTABLE TRIBUTES.

Some Honors That Have Been Paid to Men by Friends.

Sir David Wilkie, the great artist, died at sea. He had set out for the East with a view to getting new ideas, and it was on his return journey that he died, on the steamship Orient, just after she had left the Rock of Gibraltar. This incident fired the genius of Turner to such an extent that he painted a picture which, if all Wilkie's own canvases were destroyed, would keep the name of the great Scottish artist green. This is the famous canvas, to be seen any day in the National Gallery, "Peace: Burial at Sea of the Body of Sir David Wilkie." This is undoubtedly the most remarkable tribute ever paid by one great artist to another and might be the envy of kings.

There are two notable tributes of a similar character in the twin realm of literature. When John Keats was dying at the early age of twenty-five, in Rome, he said that his epitaph should be, 'Here lies one whose name was writ in water." That was the poet's modesty, for his poems will keep his name alive as long as the language in which they were written survives. But even if such were not the case the poem written by Shelley as a lament for Keats—"Adonais"—would make his name immortal. Keats was little known to the general public at his death, but Shelley knew and loved him, and took this splendid and generous means of glorifying his dead comrade.

Another case of the same kind is the "In Memoriam" of Tennyson. It was written to the memory of his dead friend, Arthur Hallam, a man who did not live long enough to make much fame of his own, although all his friends prophesied for him a very distinguished career had he lived; and his memory is perpetuated by his connection with the great poet laureate and by his greatest masterpiece. Hallam was engaged to Tennyson's sister, and thus there was double cause why the poet should feel deeply the loss of his friend.

Perhaps few visitors to Poets' Corner in Westminster Abbey, when looking at the monument raised to the memory of Oliver Goldsmith, realise that its Latin inscription is a very notable one. It is from the pen of Dr. Johnson and contains the famous line: "He touched nothing which he did not adorn," a phrase which has almost passed into a proverb. It was the old sage's tribute to his dead friend.

Dreadful.

"I heard the missus talking about us," said the cook.

"What did she say?" inquired the chambermaid.

"She said we was neither of us any good."

"Ain't it terrible the way ladies talk about one another nowadays?"—Washington Star.

Origin of English Royal Academy.

The yearly "show" of works by living artists which is held at the English Royal academy from the first Monday in May to the first Monday in August owes its existence to a meeting of painters which was held at the Turk's Head, Soho, on Nov. 12, 1759. The knights of the brush and palette resolved that "once a year, on a day in the second week in April, at a place that should be appointed by a committee for carrying the design into execution, to be chosen annually, every painter, sculptor, engraver, chaser, seal cutter and medalist may exhibit their several performances." It was also resolved that "the sum of 1 shilling be taken daily of each person who may come to visit the said performances."—Oscar Fricbet in National Magazine.

A Difference in Numerals.

Great Britain clings to its own numerical system and regards a billion as a million times a million. But America differs, a billion in the United States being only a thousand million. This is perhaps the only instance in which a thing is bigger in the old country than in the new. One has to go only a little way from England—to Calais—to find the billion lessened, for France dignifies a thousand million with the name of billion. They are wasting a word in France in this connection, however, inasmuch as there is already a word, milliard, to designate this number.—Detroit Free Press.

Cutting a Hailstorm.

During a severe hailstorm in the Himalayas our native gardener brought out a hatchet and placed it edge upward in the garden to "cut the storm," as he said. Catlin in his "North American Indians" describes a ceremony of the Mandan Indians in which hatchets and edged tools are sacrificed to the "spirits of the waters" to avert a recurrence of the great deluge, of which the tribe has the tradition.—London Notes and Queries.

A Partnership.

"My father and I know everything in the world," said a small boy to his companion.

"All right," said the latter. "Where's Asia?"

It was a stiff question, but the little fellow answered coolly, "That is one of the questions my father knows."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Converted Uses.

Assistant — As we've given up our music department, I may as well throw away this sign reading, "Take This Home and Try It on Your Piano." Manager—Throw it away? Certainly not! Stick it up on the furniture polish counter.—Boston Transcript.

LAND OF EASY DIVORCES.

In the Barbary States It Is "Woman, Take Thy Goods and Go."

Always over the head of the Arab woman hangs the shadow of divorce. Nowhere in the world does the law so facilitate the separation of man and wife as in those lands so fittingly named the Barbary states.

If an Arab grows tired of his wife's looks or her actions or her dress, if he wishes to replace her with another or if he is weary of married life and does not wish any wife at all he does not need to go to the trouble or nominal expense of divorcing her, but gets rid of her instead by the simple process of "repudiation," which consists in saying to her, "Woman, get thee hence; take thy things and go."

For the man this is a case of "heads I win, tails you lose," for, though he is free to marry again, the woman is not and can obtain a legal release only by returning to him the money which he paid for her.

Without her husband's consent a woman can obtain a divorce only if she is able to prove that he beats her without sufficient provocation, if he refuses her food, clothing or shelter or if she discovers a previous wooing on her husband's part, for all previous betrothals or offers of marriage, even though the lady refused him, constitute grounds for divorce. — Metropolitan Magazine.

A ROYAL SNUB.

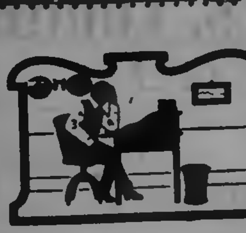
The Czar Handed It to Louis Napoleon and Got It Back.

It has been urged by a French author that Napoleon III. entered into the Crimean war on the side of Great Britain because he had been well received in the London clubs during his sojourn in that country. But there might have been another potent factor independent of the emperor's pleasant recollections of the English, and that was the slight to which he was subjected by the czar of Russia, Nicholas I.

When Napoleon ascended the throne as emperor he notified all the reigning sovereigns of the fact, addressing them as "Monsieur mon frere." With the exception of the czar they replied adopting the same formula. Nicholas, however, began his reply, "Mon grand ami." This is the style adopted by sovereigns when addressing presidents of republics. Napoleon fully understood the czar's meaning.

At the New Year's reception of the diplomatic body he went up to Count Kiselew, the Russian ambassador, and said to him:

"I have received a letter from your sovereign which flatters me greatly. He writes to me, 'Mon grand ami.' One chooses his friends. He cannot choose his brothers."



Business Men

Some men at their desk suffer discomfort and lose much time for want of suitable glasses.

A Business Man says: "I am now able to wear my new glasses constantly in business. They save me much time, and are a great comfort and a profitable investment."

Advance in Cheese Prices.

Yesterday at the Cheese Board meeting the price of cheese soared from 12¾c to 13 1-6c. There were 2,828 cheese boarded. Mr. W. C. Cook at 13 1-6c and Mr. Gillespie, at 13c, secured portions of the cheese.

Doing Nicely.

Rumour was current yesterday that Mr. Wm. Pomeroy, who was injured in the fire at the power house on Tuesday, was in a very precarious condition. Enquiry as to this revealed the fact that although in pain he is progressing favorably.

May Be Held Here.

Owing to the efforts put forth by Mr. H. B. Cowan to secure for Peterborough next year the horticulturists' convention it will in all probability be held here. This year it is being held in Montreal and Mr. Cowan and Mr. Jordan are going to attend.

Incendiary Arrested.

In the police court yesterday Patrick Doherty, pleaded guilty to burning two 40 x 60 barns to the ground. The barns were the property of Mr. Thos. Armstrong, who recently employed him, and the police thinks it was done in a spirit of spite. The prisoner was arrested after a hot chase by County Constable Moore. The loss is over $2,000. Sentense was reserved by Magistrate Dumble.

Building Permits on Increase.

The July building permits up to this afternoon reached a total nearly double the figures for the same month a year ago. This fact must be regarded as a satisfactory showing among the building trades. June building permits were also much in advance of the total of June, 1911, which may be taken as an indication that the city's growth is steadily advancing. The list of permits included quite a number of dwellings costing from $1200 to $2,000

Another Doctor.

Within a few days the name of Dr. Moir will be added to the register of local practitioners. It is stated on good authority that Dr. Moir was the purchaser of the residence formerly occupied by the late Dr. Baucher, and located on Brock street. The new owner will take possession on or about the first of August and will remove his business from Dunville, Western Ontario, where he is at present located, to this city.

Took Chief Thompson's Boots.

Somebody walked off with a parcel that Chief Thompson left on the window ledge of the City Clerk's office, yesterday, while the Chief went across to the Bank of Montreal. It contained a pair of new boots, and the question is whether they were taken as a joke, or with a view to keeping them. The Chief was gone only a few minutes, and instead of taking the parcel with him he left it on the outside ledge. They were gone when he returned, and has not been able to locate them.

Local Girl in Texas.

Miss Margaret Sackville, of San Antonia, Texas, and formerly of this city, where she went as far as the second form in the P.C.I., is visiting her aunt Miss Sanderson, Stewart street. In Mexico she attended two colleges and was very prominent in athletic and gymnastic work there. Miss Sackville will join a college party in Toronto on August 17th and continue her trip, proceeding to Montreal, New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Washington and various other points of interest in the east, returning to Texas in September.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Fumes of Catarrhozone, Which are Breathed to the Furthest Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Bring Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments need a soothing, healing, medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and the lungs, attacks the trouble at the root disperses the germs of the disease and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas, with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the subject with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief but will always cure permanently."

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM RAGAN,
Brockville, Ont."

For absolute, permanent cure use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Thieves Down the River.

The refreshment booth of Mr. Wm. Robertson, just a little north of Crawford's Grove, seems to be the object of a gang of thieves, or a thief operating in that district on Sunday night, he had $300 worth of goods stolen, and on Monday night over $5.00 worth of G. B. Chocolates disappeared. Sunday night they gained entrance through the door. A new lock was put on and on Monday the thieves or thief, very likely the same party, entered by tearing off some boards at the back. Farmers in that district have been losing hens and cows have been milked during the night, and it is thought that it is all done by the same person.

New Mail Deliveries.

To arrange that every one in the city, no matter in what part he lives, will be served by two regular mail deliveries, two new routes have been added to those already laid out and the time of delivery has been slightly earlier than formerly. Of the new routes, one will go into the north part of the city and the other into the south part. The postmen will leave the office at 7.30 a.m., instead of 8.00 and 12.30 instead of 1.00 p.m. By the new arrangements those East of Concession street, in Auburn, and south of Patterson street, who, under the former rules received only one delivery a day, will now be served by two daily.

Not Irrepairably Damaged.

Mr. Bert Hensley, who was driving Mr. Percy Bond's car on Tuesday when it turned turtle, called at the Times yesterday to say that the reports that the car had been damaged beyond repair, and would be a total loss, were false. Moreover, Mr. Hensley explained, the car did not strike the pole, as reported. It was when the car skidded, he saw that it must hit the pole, and to avoid this he applied the brakes and turned sharply, which overturned the car. The auto turned over on top of Mr. Hensley, and it is very lucky that he did not sustain more serious injuries. As it is he was badly bruised about the back and legs and movement is painful. The car will be fixed and run as well as ever when repaired.

An Emergent Meeting of Peterborough Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 155, G. R. C., will be held at 3.30 P. M., on THURSDAY, AUGUST 1st, 5912, for the purpose of attending the funeral of our LATE BROTHER C. HERBERT CAMPBELL. Brethren of sister Lodges are cordially invited. Masonic clothing.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mrs. G.: Powder covers up but does not correct complexion faults. Use this simple lotion and your skin will assume its former youthful clearness and take on a charming tint: Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) and pour in 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Using the spurmax lotion in place of powder overcomes the shiny, oily appearance and gives to a coarse, lifeless skin an exquisite fineness and healthy look. Even in hottest weather it is only necessary to apply the spurmax lotion once a day, because perspiration does not spot it, and then, too, it is invisible when on.

Madge W.: I never advise the electric needle for superfluous growths, because delatone paste does the work quicker, more thoroughly and is devoid of pain. Mix some powdered delatone with water, then apply to objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This leaves the skin smooth and firm.

V. M.: Soap was never intended for shampooing, because the "free" alkali it contains raises havoc with the scalp and hair-roots. Use canthrox and you will find your dull, streaky, brittle hair will grow bright and even in color and be of a soft, silken texture. A teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water is ample for a delightful shampoo. This creates a wealth of rich, penetrating lather that thoroughly rids the hair and scalp of dust, dandruff and excess oil; and after rinsing, the hair dries quickly and takes on its former rich color and gloss.

Mrs. M. W.: Your blotchy, pimply skin proves that the blood is in a very unhealthy state and demands prompt action. Get ½ pint alcohol and in this put ½ cupful sugar, 1 ounce kardene and hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful before each meal is the proper dose. This soon cleanses the blood of impurities and clears the skin of pimples, blotches and sallowness, as well as builds you up and gives you complete health and full strength. For a face lotion, see answer to "Mrs. G."

P. A.: You will find my quinzoin hair and scalp tonic very invigorating for lifeless, itching scalps. To prepare, mix together ½ pint each alcohol and water, then add 1 ounce quinzoin. Rubbing a little at a time well into the scalp banishes dandruff and puts it in a healthy, pliant condition. Continued using restores the former gloss and rich color to the hair, as well as induces a luxuriant growth—all your own.

Lillian R.: You can safely recommend my crystos eye-tonic to your friends, for it is quite harmless and has a wonderfully soothing and strengthening effect on sore, aching or weak eyes. Here is the recipe: Dissolve 1 ounce crystos in a pint cold, pure water. Two or three drops should be put in the eyes each day. Thousands of my readers have used this simple eye-tonic to bring back the sparkle to dull eyes, and very frequently people have been able to discard glasses after using it for a time.

P. X.: The fat around your abdomen will soon disappear once parnotis is used. This will also banish your double chin. To make, dissolve 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water, and when it cools take a tablespoonful before each meal. Continue treatment until your weight is where you want it, and when you stop the treatment you need have no fear of the fat returning. This method does away with dieting or violent exercise and is the only safe way of which I know to actually reduce weight.

Dorris: Greasy creams do more harm than good, because of their tendency to clog pores. This causes the skin to assume a leaden color and grow oily, and encourages blackheads, blotches and skin pimples. You will find this plain almozoin cream-jelly just the thing for complexion upsets and a permanent aid to real beauty: Stir 3 teaspoonfuls glycerine in ½ pint cold water, then add 1 ounce almozoin. When this is dissolved apply freely to face, neck and arms daily and it will cleanse the skin of impurities and give to it a charm and tint such as every healthy, well-groomed woman has. Use this every morning and your skin will be free from freckles and the sun and wind will not tan it.

Read Mrs. Martyn's book, "Beauty." $5.—Adv.

NEW YORK LIEUTENANT BECKER SAID TO BE WORTH A MILLION

Police Officer Got Rich On Graft---Restaurant Employes Say They Saw Rose and Becker in Conversation

New York, Aug. 1.—Steps toward the corroboration of the confessions implicating Police Lieutenant Becker in the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, are to be taken carefully and slowly that, as District Attorney Whitman says, the "whole truth of the relations between the gamblers and the police will come out."

Satisfactory progress is being made by District Attorney Whitman in supplying the missing links in the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridgie" Webber, and Harry Vallon, who, in their stories to the Public Prosecutor, said that Becker instigated them in the killing of Rosenthal that the gambler might be silenced before he could tell further of police blackmail.

Confirming Confessions.

District Attorney Whitman says he has obtained some important testimony confirming parts of Rose and Webber's story that they met Lieut. Becker by appointment after the murder. Two restaurant employees, have given the information that they saw Becker talking with Rose and Webber on Forty-second street after the murder.

District Attorney Whitman, who has been advised by several Supreme Court justices to go slow, said today, that, in addition to the testimony of the restaurant employees, he had received information from other sources tending to corroborate Rose, Webber and Vallon. The prosecutor said.

"I am confident that the whole truth will come out. It may appear a little slowly, but I am not going to rush the case.

"The Court of Appeals has held that there must be some corroboration of the testimony of accomplices. The establishment of a motive is corroboration. There is no doubt in my mind that the motive has been established.

"The intimate relations between Becker and Rosenthal, their quarrel, the fear of Rosenthal of Becker, the accusations against Becker, the killing itself, the meeting of Becker and Rose after the killing, all point to one thing."

Whitman the Whole Thing.

The whole conduct of the investigation by the District Attorney has been assumed by himself, and he is not conferring with the police officials.

The prosecutor is using his own staff and private detectives to supply him with necessary information.

The Grand Jury will probably not continue its investigation into the Rosenthal case for a few days, or until such time as the District Attorney has more needed testimony in hand. Whitman is investigating stories that Becker is worth nearly a million dollars.

CHIEF WITNESS IN THE ROSENTHAL CASE

LOUIS KRESE ON THE STAND

Louis Krese, a Hungarian waiter in a seaside restaurant, who saw the killing of Herman Rosenthal in New York, is the principal witness against the men held for the crime.

ELECTION SCHEMES OF THE SASKATCHEWAN LIBERALS

Left Ten Thousand Names Off The List And Arranged For 3,000 Aliens to Vote---Drop Since September

Ottawa, July 31.—Private advices received here from Saskatchewan throw a new light upon some features of the election. The Liberal popular majority will be about 12,500 as against about 18,300 last September. The popular majority for the Scott Government thus is only about two-thirds of that for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Further, this popular majority has certain curious features. Saskatchewan had voters' lists for the first time at this election, and returns now coming into Regina from the various constituencies make it clear that at least 10,000 voters were left off these lists. In many cases the men disfranchised were active Conservative workers.

Could Not Swear These Men.

Simultaneously about 3,000 alien were given the franchise. The process was, first to put aliens on the list, and then to notify deputy returning officers that they were not to put the oath to persons on the list. The Liberals advertised that any person whose name was on the list could vote undisturbed, whether a British subject or not, even if a Hottentot. The enfranchised aliens were in favor of reciprocity. The Liberal majority thus works out as follows:

Liberal majority 12,500.

Conservatives disfranchised, 10,000.

Aliens allowed to vote Liberal, 3,000.

The popular majority thus would have been wiped out if there had been an honest list.

The American vote on the whole went Liberal. Of the English-speaking Americans about one-fifth voted Conservative and four-fifths Liberal. There is a large colony of German-speaking people, Roman Catholics in religion, who have come comparatively recently from the Western States; these were almost to a man in favor of reciprocity and the Liberals.

INCENDIARY SENTENCED

Patrick Doherty Gives Fifteen Years In Kingston Penitentiary for Firing Barns.

Yesterday Magistrate Dumble meted out a heavier sen[illegible] he has done for some time [illegible] sentenced Frederick Doherty for firing the barns of Mr Thos. Armstrong in a fit of spite at having been discharged. He has a criminal record in England, and was once arrested in Quebec and deported to Ireland, whence he came. He is a cunning criminal, pricking his finger tips with a pin to spoil the prints taken for the police record. In this he was detected by Chief Thompson. He took the sentence [illegible] and did not show any spirit of repentance.

THREE VICTORIES IN SUCCESSION FOR PETES

Yesterday for the first time in their existence, the White Caps played errorless ball. They won in a five innings game from Guelph taking the game by the score of 2—1. This is the third straight game they have taken from the Leafs and in their present form they can make a few of the league leaders jump to win their games. The team is now in a form that they have never displayed before. Hanson, the new pitcher was in good form until canned by Umpire Davis. Behm was hammered hard at times by the Petes.

WANTS HIS SON TO DO AS HE PLEASES

Russian Emperor Not Inclined to Punish the Crown Prince.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—The Czarina Mother, recently remonstrated with the Emperor against letting the Crown Prince do as he pleases, never punishing him. "It's a good thing," she said, "that his sisters occasionally spank the little rascal."

"I wish I could put a stop to the doings of these girls," answered Nicholas, "but they have outgrown disciplining, it seems. As to my boy, I think it eminently fit that he does as he pleases, right or wrong. Look at me. I was kept down by father; I was afraid to [illegible] my own name. Hence I have been called a weakling time and again. That shall not be said of my son. He shall never be punished if I can help it.

"The future Russian Emperor must be strong-willed; he must be a complete egotist. He must be always ready to do as he thinks fit—otherwise he isn't what he pretends to be. The boy shall never ask anybody's permission to do a thing. I want him to be a little imperious, even."

"PATH ACROSS THE SEAS SHALL BE SECURED AT ALL TIMES"

Mr. Borden's Ringing Message at Canada Club Dinner---Services of Lord Strathcona

London, Aug. 1.—The Canada Club lunched Rt. Hon. Mr. Borden and his colleagues to-day. Lord Strathcona presided over the large gathering, a large percentage representing financial interests in the city.

Mr. Borden replying to the toast to his health opened with a warm eulogy of Lord Strathcona. No man in the Empire was a greater Imperial figure or had been more closely associated with the growth and development of Canada in the old days before Confederation.

"The situation was such that even we Canadians can hardly realize," said Mr. Borden. The men who undertook the foundation of Canadian Confederation were possessed of supreme faith and courage, while the work they accomplished has been justified by the marvelous success attending it. It has seemed to me that the task before the statesmen of the Mother Land and the Dominions to-day is on a greater and grander scale, but has something of the task which was surmounted by the men who laid the broad, deep and enduring foundations of Canadian Confederation the British Empire as constituted to-day is a very bold experiment indeed but an experiment justified by the strength of the ties now binding together to the Mother Land every Dominion across the seas into one great Empire.

"It is perfectly true its organization may not be, indeed most of us consider it not, all it might be, for certain purposes (cheers) but the Empire, unorganized in some respects as it is today, has proved itself a mighty force in time of need or danger. I do not doubt the future in that regard will fully justify the history of the past.

No Misgivings as to the Future.

"There are men who may be forgiven for supposing that the immense and rapid development of Canada during the past 14 or 15 years gives ground for sound misgivings, but those who know the country, even only by traversing it within a few weeks and seeing that marvelous heritage given the Canadian people will agree that although her progress has been marvelous as to attract not only the attention of the whole Empire, but the whole world, it has been none too great considering her resources."

"We all realize that the greatness of any Dominion or nation within this Empire cannot be securely founded on purely material considerations, and I would like to remind you that even in that portion of Canada where development has been most rapid—the Western Provinces—THE MOST CONSPICUOUS BUILDING IN ANY LITTLE WESTERN TOWN IS THE SCHOOL HOUSE.

Means of Communication Essential.

"The Empire presents many problems which can only be solved by great statesmanship and by means of communication between the Mother and Dominions, and between the Dominions themselves. This is assuredly the most prominent consideration.

"We have come from our Dominion to consider measures of co-operation by which a path across the seas, which is absolutely essential, not only to the well being, but to the very existence of this Empire, shall be secured at all times under all circumstances." (Cheers.)

QUARTER RENT FOR EACH BABY BORN

Paris, Aug. 1.—Flats in which the birth of a baby frees the tenant from the payment of rent for the quarter following are the latest experiments in workingmen's housing in Paris, where the difficulty of lodging workmen with large families stands in close relation to the vital question of the depopulation of France. This experiment for encouraging large families will be tried in four blocks of workmen's flats built by M. Charles Stern at Vincennes, an eastern suburb of Paris.

They were inaugurated to-day, and consist of 100 two-roomed, three-roomed and four-roomed flats. The rents are respectively $50, $65 and $80 a year.

The profits remaining after the cost of construction and working expenses have been deducted will go to the "material canteen" of the district, where mothers nursing babies will be supplied with luncheon and dinner free of cost. The flats include baths, washhouses, a library and a dispensary in connection with the care of new-born infants.

DANCED IN GRAB OF MOTHER EVE

Berlin, July 27.—Mlle. Villany, the classical dancer, was condemned at Munich to pay a fine of $7.50 or go to prison for six days, for dancing on the stage in no more elaborate toilette than that of Mother Eve. She was acquitted on the same charge a few months ago, and since then Munich has been in the throes of a controversy as to the propriety of the performances which found its echo in the great organs of the French press.

As at a previous trial, a number of eminent painters and writers gave evidence on behalf of Mlle. Villany, and declared that her performances were inspired by Supreme art; that they had taken wives and sisters to see her, and that the exhibition of the female form was elevating and spiritual. In spite of this the crown prosecutor, who was appealing against the previous decision, obtained a verdict, which the court based on the ground that though Mlle. Villany's dance might be artistic, the exhibition of the unclothed body was not.

LORD BERESFORD SAYS THAT MATTERS ARE MORE SERIOUS

He Says Churchill Dare Not Tell How Serious Is The Situation---Shortage of Men in The Navy

New York, Aug. 1.—A London cable says:

The article printed in the London Daily Express yesterday affirming that Germany is secretly building nine new battleships is regarded seriously by Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, as is evidenced by a letter to the editor of that paper printed this morning. He says:

"Sir—Our position is much more serious than the First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill dare confess. He cannot find crews for eight additional battleships; there are not enough men now for active service in the fleet alone. The First Lord's statements on the subject are inconsistent with one another.

"On June 11th last he informed me in answer to a question that there was a deficiency in the navy's personnel on March 31, of 2,400 men. On July 22, following, he told the House of Commons that we started 2,000 short. He is now trying to recruit 5,000 men this year. It is exceedingly doubtful if he can get them, but if he does, and if he was speaking the truth on June 11, the actual increase will be only 3,000, and these cannot be sent to the fleet until they are trained.

"It is useless to build ships without entering men; but that is exactly what has been done for the past seven years. The results are colossal expenditure, a large collection of empty ships, and the immediate menace of great and increasing danger.

"There is one thing which can be done by means of suspending the present organization and by using all the men available, and that is to man the fleet and do it now."

TRINIDAD APPROVES OF CANADIAN RECIPROCITY

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Aug. 1.—The first reciprocity agreement with Canada was carried to-day in the Legislative Council by 13 votes against 5, and in the Chamber of Commerce by a majority of one vote.

The opponents of the agreement argued that it would be of no benefit to the colony outside of the sugar industry, and would probably be harmful to the cocoa and cocoanut industry.

The supporters of the agreement urged that its acceptance would show the Imperial sentiment of Trinidad, and that it would be the first step toward general trade with the British Empire.

NEW YORK CITY AVERAGES A MURDER A DAY IN JULY

New York, Aug. 1.—One murder a day was the average in New York city for the month of July, according to the official tabulation compiled by the Police Homicide Bureau. Records show that the hot weather always stirs the murders to action, but during the month just passed they outdid themselves in activity. A year ago the July total was about a fourth smaller than this year.

Gang fights or hired gansters are given as the cause of at least five of the murders in Manhattan and the Bronx, and in a number of the remaining eighteen murders where no important arrests have been made, gang men have been thought to have been back of the killings. Four witnesses testify that one murder was committed by a policeman. In two other murders Chinamen figure. Two little girls were murdered in a shockingly brutal manner and two other children were killed with stray bullets in a gang battle.

WOMAN DROWNS HER 5 BABIES

Remarkably Sad Tragedy Startles the Populace of Berlin

Berlin, Aug. 1.—A poor woman who is the concierge of a block of flats in a suburb of Berlin, drowned her five children and tried to drown herself. The story of Frau Marie Friedrich is a poignant one. She is a woman of 34, married to a window blind maker two years her senior, who refuses to work and is an incorrigible drunkard.

The wife managed to get a place as concierge a few months ago, in return for which she was given the use of two rooms and $2.50 a month. She spoke little to the neighbors, and they were disinclined to break down the reticence of the sad-faced woman. They noticed that she worked from early morning till late at night to keep her little home and the great staircase of the house in order, and that the children were always spotlessly clean. She spoke to nobody of the tragedy of her life until yesterday. Then she was obliged to break the silence.

First Tried Poison.

A neighbor heard her children, the eldest of whom is five and the youngest a month old, crying, evidently from pain. A good woman entered the house and found the children suffering from the effect of poison. Frau Friedrich then confessed that she had given them all lysol in milk, as she wished them to die.

The neighbor administered an antidote, which was effective, as the poison was not sufficiently strong

NERVOUS, LIFELESS
DEBILITATED MEN

YOUNG MEN AND MIDDLE-AGED MEN, the victims of early indiscretions and later excesses, who are failures in life—you are the ones we can restore to manhood and revive the spark of energy and vitality. Don't give up in despair because you have treated with other doctors, used electric belts and tried various drug store nostrums.

Our New Method Treatment has snatched hundreds from the brink of despair, has restored happiness to hundreds of homes and has made successful men of those who were "down and out." We prescribe specific remedies for each individual case according to the symptoms and complications—we have no patent medicines. This is one of the secrets of our wonderful success as our treatment cannot fail, for we prescribe remedies adapted to each individual case. Only curable cases accepted. We have done business throughout Canada for over 20 Years.

CURABLE CASES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. Consultation Free. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"Boyhood, Manhood, Fatherhood." (Illustrated) on Diseases of Men.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. No names on boxes or envelopes. Everything Confidential. Question List and Cost of Treatment FREE FOR HOME TREATMENT.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 49 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 380 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

PAINTS.

THE LAW OF QUALITY IS AS SURE AS the law of Gravity. Gravity keeps both your feet on the ground. Quality informs your judgment when you are on the "Ground Floor" in the matter of value. Martin-Senour's Paint is the Ground Floor of paint value. It makes good every time. It flows freely, has great covering capacity, shows a beautiful finish, and wears like iron. It will more than meet your expectations in quality brilliancy and durability. Campbell & Best, 134 Hunter St. Next to post office.

AUDITOR.
JOHN I. SUTCLIFFE, Chartered Accountant.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the abovementioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

A Thoughtful Sentry.

When the sergeant of the guard came round on his visits the green sentry was nowhere to be seen. The sergeant was about to depart to make inquiries when there came a rustling noise from a heap of straw, and the sentry stood before him minus his boots and looking very sleepy. "Hello!" cried the sergeant. "Where were you when I came round just now?" "Marching round," was the sentry's reply, giving in tones of conscious virtue. "Marching round, were you! Why, you've got your boots off." "Yes, sergeant, I took 'em off so's I should not wake the 'osses."

If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, July 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without the authority from the Department.—23653.

Within a few days the name of Dr. Moir will be added to the register of local practitioners. It is stated on good authority that Dr. Moir was the purchaser of the residence formerly occupied by the late Dr. Baucher, and located on Brock street. The new owner will take possession on or about the first of August and will remove his business from Dunville, Western Ontario, where he is at present located, to this city.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, July 17th, 1912.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Breakwater, Sheet Piling and Dredging at Beaverton, Ont., will be received at this office until 4 p.m. on Monday, August 26, 1912, for the reconstruction of breakwater, construction of sheet piling and dredging at the Town of Beaverton, Ontario County, Ont.

Plans, specifications, and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; H. J. Lamb, Esq., District Engineer, Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Beaverton, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

RELIGION IN FRANCE.

The troubles of the French Catholic Church have been fully related in press despatches during the last few years particularly. An interesting development is one now affecting the Protestants.

Before the separation act which caused most of the upheaval, the Protestant churches, except those that were free, received a share of the public funds. This has now been cut off and the Protestants placed on the same footing in this respect as their Catholic fellow citizens.

It is estimated that France contains 600,000 Protestants, and of these some fifty thousand are in Paris. The churches are very poor. The French law does not now recognize the right of either Catholic or Protestant churches to demand legacies and funds which are left them by will, and it is only when heirs are willing to recognize the wishes of the deceased that the churches benefit. The Evangelical Lutherans now ask for a law permitting the churches to receive legacies that have been recognized by the French Cabinet and the Evangelical Reformed Church supplements this in asking the exemption of state authorization in case of a gift or legacy for current expenses.

Editorial Notes

Great Britain and Germany are having towards the point at which they will clash in a disastrous war, just as certainly as two trains moving head on towards each other at full speed

The business-like way in which the member for West Peterborough is performing his onerous duties ought to convince the business men in his constituency, as well as those outside of it that he is the right kind of a man to have in Parliament.

Germany has an excellent case for building a moderate navy as a protection for herd shores. She has no case whatsoever when she endeavours to defend her present preparations as a measure of national defence. With her huge standing army, the nation which attempted to cross her borders would be marching to destruction.

The International Bible Students' Association in conference decided that there is no such thing as a hell of fire and brimstone. If a few of the number had spent a day or two in the editorial rooms of our local Liberal contemporary about the 22nd of September last, they would not have been so sure of it.

THE LUCKY NUMBER.

Four Valuable Prizes Offered to the Holders of the Four Lucky Numbers—Good Program of Sports.

Four valuable prizes will be given away to those holding the lucky numbers, at the Printers' Picnic on Saturday, to Jubilee Point. A beautiful set of dishes, an electric toaster a pair of field glasses and a carving set. An excellent programme of sports is also arranged and an enjoyable time is promised all who attend this popular outing. Tickets can be had of any printer—get yours early.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable, nervous and half-sick, tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Fredeeick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse, and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

TROUBLE WITH CROWN PRINCE

German Emperor Unable To Control Wayward Son

THE KAISERIN'S HEALTH

Girl Engaged to Three Young Men, and Tragedy Resulted—Interesting News From the German Fatherland.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—The new palace of the Crown Prince which is being built on the borders of the lake at Potsdam, is provoking a storm of protest. His Imperial Highness is accused of reckless and shameful extravagance. At first it was announced that the palace would be only a structure in the purest English style, with English gardens running down to the lake and of the simplest domestic architecture. "There will just be room for me and Cissy and the babes," the Crown Prince is reported to have said. Now it is announced that the "simple English home" is to be a great palace, bigger even than the Emperor's, with five hundred feet frontage on the lake, extensive gardens, fountains and a great covered garden for the children to play in on wet days. The Crown Prince will have a whole suite of apartments, and there will be three fine court yards, one surrounded by an Italian patio (open court) in white marble. The Berlin press wants to know how much the country will have to contribute to this enormously expensive palace, but it is hinted that the Crown Princess' millionaire relatives in Mecklenburg have offered to bear the greater part of the cost.

Health of Kaiserin.

The health of the Kaiserin, which is again giving cause for anxiety, has not benefited so much by the Nauheim treatment as had been hoped. Those few people of her intimate entourage who have been allowed to see her Imperial Majesty notice the change in her way of life, which, from being energetic in the extreme, is now reduced to practical inactivity.

Engaged to Three.

At the village of Kupferhammer, near Lucerne, a beautiful girl, out of vanity, became engaged to three young men. For some time she cleverly kept them apart, but eventually the three met by accident at the girl's home, and a fierce quarrel resulted. Two of the men took common part against the son of a wealthy resident of Lucerne, who probably was regarded by them as the more dangerous rival, and threw the young man out of a third-floar window in the presence of the terrified fiancee. The man fell on his head on the pavement, and was found by a milkman on the pavement. His assailants have been arrested on a charge of murder, and the girl has been ordered to hold herself at the disposal of the police, and has been forbidden to leave the village.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

. . . .

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

LANDED A BIG FISH.

Then He Hooked Bigger Game and Had an Exciting Time.

A singular fish story is told in the East Indian papers. A fisherman started for the river, accompanied by a shikari, carrying a rifle for use in case of an encounter with big game. The fisherman in a short time landed a large fish and then moved up stream to another pool. On his way he passed a ravine and caught sight of an enormous tiger.

In a panic the fisherman concealed himself behind a pile of rocks and was flattering himself that he had escaped observation when the fish fell from his hands in full view of the tiger.

The fish was floundering in the road, and the tiger instantly pounced on it and carried it off. But the hook still held, and as soon as the tiger felt the resistance of the line he gave his head an impatient shake, which resulted in the harpooning of his upper lip.

At this critical moment the enraged animal saw the crouching fisherman, who was totally unnerved by his dangerous position, and actually began to play the tiger as he would a fish.

The tiger stopped for a moment in apparent amazement at such audacity, and in that instant the shikari came on the scene with his rifle and sent a bullet through the brute's brain.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit?
If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

The Putrid Sea.

There is a body of water called Sivash or Putrid Sea. It is really a lagoon on the east coast of the Crimea, separated from the sea of Azov by a narrow sand bar called the tongue of Arabat. The lagoon is sixty-eight miles long, varying in width from two to fourteen miles. The water is very shallow, stagnant and exceedingly salt.

Result of His Joy.

"I have here a reprieve for you from the home secretary," said the governor of the prison to the callous murderer.

"Ah!" replied the latter. "No noose is good news, as the proverb says."—London Answers.

Power of the Eye.

An eye can threaten like a loaded and leveled gun or can insult like hissing or kicking, or, in its altered mood, by beams of kindness it can make the heart dance with joy.—Emerson's "Conduct of Life."

Wonder If This Is So?

If you put two persons in the same bedroom, one of whom has the toothache and the other is in love, you will find that the person who has the toothache will go to sleep first. Isn't it curious?

The Enemies of Success.

Bright, cheerful, hopeful thoughts and a strong belief in one's own ability to accomplish the thing undertaken are friends that will insure success. The ambitious person should learn as early in life as possible to pick out the friends and enemies of success, and in many cases it will be found that the greatest enemy resides within himself. Morbid thoughts, for example, are infinitely greater hindrances to success than opposition from outside, and no health, no beauty, no harmony, no real success, can exist in the atmosphere of abnormal melancholy or morbid ideas. Overcome the enemies to success within yourself and you will have done much toward reaching the goal of your ambition.

Haste to Reimburse.

While carrying a ladder through the crowded streets of a big city the other day a big Irishman was so unfortunate as to break a plate glass window in a shop. Immediately dropping his ladder, the Celt broke into a run. But he had been seen by the shopkeeper, who dashed after him and caught him by the collar.

"See here!" angrily exclaimed the shopkeeper when he had regained his breath, "you have broken my window!"

"Sure I have," assented the Celt, "and didn't you see me running home to get the money to pay for it?"

Manchuria.

A petty clan of the Suchan family, springing from the narrow, beautiful, but savage glens southwest of Changbaishan, founded the Manchu dynasty, which for more than 200 years ruled China. They took the dynastic name of Manju or Manchu, in their own language meaning "clear." To this the Europeans have added a termination and we have Manchuria, the "country of the Manchus."

A Unique Coal Mine.

What is perhaps the most extraordinary coal mine in the world may be found on a tiny island in the Japan Sea, near Nagasaki. This island has just sufficient room upon its surface for the shafts and the hoisting machinery. The workings, which are very extensive, reach out in all directions under the sea.

The Cause of Earthquakes.

When there is an earthquake the Tibetans know just how it happened. There are evil spirits. "Some of them are gigantic brutes a mile in height, with tiny mouths which prevent them swallowing even the smallest crumb of any kind of food. Naturally they suffer from hunger, and in their agonized writhings they are the immediate cause of earthquakes."

Writing Extraordinary.

A Cape Town rabbi has written a biography of King Edward in 6,000 words on a single sheet of paper, and at a distance the writing forms a likeness of the late monarch.

MIMIC VOLCANOES.

Reproducing a Vesuvius In Action Upon the Stage.

The sequence of phenomena characterizing a volcanic eruption is usually subterranean grumblings followed by smoke, which at first seems to hesitate at the edge of the crater and then rises in the air. The smoke is succeeded by streams of lava, the projection of rocks and ashes and often vast outpourings of flame.

To reproduce such a scene on the stage of a theatre would seem a rather difficult, complicated and dangerous undertaking, but it has been accomplished in a particularly vivid manner in a French theatre.

Concealed behind the scenery representing the crater of the volcano is a stand, from the centre of which rises a funnel of wire screen about thirteen feet in diameter, connected with a compressed air supply by three tubes. Below the funnel is a circular metal tube provided for about half of its circumference with a steam ejector, which rises above the wire screen funnel. Attached to the circular tube is a hose or tube connecting it with a source of steam supply behind the scenes.

The portion of the crater seen from the body of the theatre is formed of transparent material, and behind this an endless belt is set in motion, lighted from behind by a cluster of twenty-four red lamps. This belt is also transparent and is so decorated that as it is revolved above the red lights it imitates the flow of lava. Sponges, painted red or gray, to represent glowing or dark rocks, and pieces of paper, to represent ashes, are thrown into the funnel-like receptacle by men concealed in the scenery and are then thrown as high as eighteen or twenty feet by the compressed air.

Bengal fires lighted in pans on each side of the crater serve to give the effect of leaping flames, smoke producing tablets placed just back of the funnel serve to add smoke to the steam. Subterranean thunder is supplied by men beating drums, and the operation of other noise producing apparatus and illumination is thrown down into the crater from reflectors arranged above the stage.

Canadian Scholar's Laurels.

Mr. Frank Lowden Barnet, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnet of Cobourg, Ont., who took his degree at Queen's University, Kingston, last year, winning the gold medal in political science, has now won a $400 scholarship in the University of Chicago. Mr. Barnet is 21 years old, and is said to be the youngest graduate of any Canadian University to be awarded this coveted prize. He will go to Chicago to begin a three years' course.

Buffalo Cows Fierce.

Buffalo cows in the park at Wainwright have become very fierce, and in all probability it will be necessary to shoot them.

THE MARKETS

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 31.—July grain prices whirled rapidly to-day in the last 15 minutes before the business in that month's delivery came to an end. July wheat went to pieces. It broke 8 cents from the top point of the session and closed 6 1-2c under yesterday's finish. Unloading by a few longs, who had miscalculated there there would be a lively demand, was the reason. Other wheat futures closed 1-4c to 3-8c and 1-3c down. Latest trading left corn 1-4c off to 3-4c up, oats 1-4c down to 2 1-2c advance and provisions strung out from 17 1-2c under last night to 2 1-2c above.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 31.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 27 were 1100 cattle, 1600 sheep and lambs, 1375 hogs, and 900 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale were 1000 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1300 hogs, and 600 calves.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being well maintained under a fairly good demand from both butchers and packers and a more active trade was done than expected considering the supply, which consisted principally of common stock. A few choice steers sold at $7.25 to $7.50, but the bulk of the trading was done in stock ranging from that down to $5 per 100 pounds. The top price realized for choice cows was $5.50, and the lower grades sold at from $3.50 to $5 per 100 pounds. There were no choice bulls on the market, and the common sold at $3 to $3.50 per 100 pounds.

The trade in sheep and lambs was active, but as they were all Quebec stock the top prices of the market were not reached. Sheep sold at $3.75 to $4, and lambs at $7 per 100 pounds, while calves brought from $3 to $10 each. The tone of the market for hogs was firm with sales of selected lots at $9.25, and mixed lots, including sows and stags, brought $8.25 to $8.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., July 31.—Cattle—Receipts 200 head; steady.

Veals—Receipts 100 head, active and 50c higher; $4 to $11.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 800 head; active; sheep steady, lambs, 25c higher; lambs, $4.50 to $8; yearlings, $6 to $6.50; wethers, $4.75 to $6.50, ewes, $3 to $4.75; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Cattle—Receipts, 17,000; market, steady to firm; beeves, $5.80 to $9.85; Texas steers, $4.90 to $7.10; western steers, $5.65 to $7.90; stockers and feeders, $4 to $6.90; cows and heifers, $2.85 to $8, calves, $6.50 to $10.

Hogs—Receipts, 6000; market, steady to shade lower; light, $7.70 to $8.20; mixed, $7.30 to $8.20; heavy, $7.10 to $8; rough, $7.10 to $7.80; pigs, $6.70 to $7.90; bulk of sales, $7.50 to $7.95.

Sheep—Receipts, 25,000; market, weak to 15c lower; native, $3.30 to $4.95, western, $3.80 to $4.75, yearlings, $4.50 to $5.65; lambs, native, $4.25 to $7.65, western, $4.60 to $7.65.

Cheese Markets.

PETERBORO, July 31.—About 2828 boxes of cheese were boarded and cleared by Gillspie and Cook at 13c and 13 1-16c.

MADOC, July 31.—Five hundred and seventy boxes of cheese were boarded, all selling at 12⅝c.

Ran the Hole Out of Town.

A lecturer once told of a Russian he saw some years ago in Manchuria whose methods of achieving results were not according to the usual code. The Russian had a well in his front yard which he concluded to fill up. He began digging a hole by the side of the well, throwing the dirt from the new excavation into the well. "In the course of time," said the speaker, "the old well was filled, but there was a hole alongside as big as the first. The Russian went farther away and dug another hole to fill the second. He continued this process of digging one hole to fill the other until he literally ran the hole out of town."

HOW TO BEAUTIFY A PORCH.

A List of Good Climbers For Your Selection.

Nature uses vines to hide her defects. Man has borrowed the practice, which is to his credit. Nature hides tree stumps and rock heaps under festoons of shimmering green. Outbuildings, unpainted fences and rubbish heaps may be hidden in the same way. Many climbing vines are beautiful in leaf and flower. Grown over trellises, porches and arbors, they provide shelter and shade.

The list of really good climbers is not overlong. For permanent locations perennials are preferable, and among the most common is the Virginia creeper, or woodbine, which grows very rapidly and will cling to walls of any kind. In the fall the leaves turn a brilliant scarlet or crimson. The plants are cheap. Fifteen cents will buy one.

The trumpet creeper and the wistaria are also good vines to grow over buildings. The former has splendid dark red, trumpet-like blossoms, which last a long time. This plant is not a very rapid grower, but is well worth planting. The grandiflora variety is the one to order. The wistaria makes the finest show of any of the vines. The vines grow to an immense height, but the plant needs a little petting. Give it a sunny location, strong soil and an occasional enrichment of manure, and it will delight your heart.

For a dense screen there is nothing better than Dutchman's pipe, which has leaves almost as large as elephants' ears. The curious little flowers, which really amount to little, give it its name. The leaves come early and stay late, a fact which recommends it for many situations. It must be grown on a trellis or given a support of some kind.

Momus, the God of Mockery.

Momus in Greek fable was the god of mockery and censure, who delighted in finding fault with gods and men. He was chosen to act as judge when there was a strife between Neptune, Minerva and Vulcan for supremacy in artistic power. Neptune made a bull, Minerva a house and Vulcan a man. Momus declared that Neptune should have set his bull's horn's farther forward for fighting purposes. He said that Minerva should have so constructed her house that it could be moved away from troublesome neighbors and that Vulcan should have made a window in the man's breast through which his thoughts could be seen. All were so annoyed at his criticisms that they turned him out of heaven, and soon after this he died of vexation because he could find no fault in Venus, the goddess of love and beauty.

Heroic Breakfasts.

In the Elizabethan era heroic breakfasts were the order of the day. An early sixteeth century manuscript at Alnwick Castle gives the breakfast menus of the Percy family: "For my lord and lady during Lent, a loaf of bread in trenchers, two manchets, a quart of beer, a quart of wine, two pieces of salt fish, six baconn'd herring, four white herring or a dish of sprats. * * * Breakfast for the nursery, for my Lady Margaret and Master Ingeram Percy, a manchet, a quart of beer, a dish of sprats and three white herring." At ordinary times my lord and lady breakfasted at 7 a.m. on half a chine of mutton or a chine of boiled beef, with the same amount of bread and liquids as in Lent; and the nursery consummed a manchet, a quart of beer and three mutton bones boiled.—London Standard.

Scotty and English Jokes.

Dean Swift said that it required a surgical operation upon a Scotsman to see the point of a joke. No doubt the celebrated wit referred to an English joke. A young Englishman at a party mostly composed of Scotsmen made several attempts to crack a joke, and, failing to evoke a smile from his companions, he became angry and exclaimed, "Why, it would take a a gimlet to put a joke into the heads of you Scotchmen!"

One of them replied, "Aye, but the gimlet wud need tae be mair pointed than thae jokes."

To Please Him.

Mrs. Ascum—But why do you buy such expensive things when you know your husband can't afford them?

Mrs. Wise—I just do it to please him.

Mrs. Ascum—To please him?

Mrs. Wise—Yes; there's nothing he likes better than a chance to have something to complain about to his own people and pose as a martyr.

His Police Experience.

"This isn't the first time that you have come into contact with the police?" said he lawyer sternly to the witness.

"No, sir," was the reply.

"What, may I ask, was the result of your former encounter?"

"I awoke him. He had gone to sleep on his beat."

The Greek Stadium.

Stadium is from the Greek word meaning standard of length. It was the name given to the race course within which other athletic contests also took place. The length of the course was always 600 Greek feet straightaway. Though the length of the foot varied in different localities you may say that about nine of the course's lengths equalled one mile.

Starting the Tears.

"John," queried her husband's wife, "if some bold, bad man were to kidnap me would you offer a reward?"

"Certainly," replied the wife's husband. "I always reward those who do me a favor."—London Tit-Bits.

Hairpins.

There are fifteen manufacturers of hairpins listed in the London directory, but in almost every case the actual factory is located at or near Birmingham.

A Thoughtful Sentry.

When the sergeant of the guard came round on his visits the green sentry was nowhere to be seen. The sergeant was about to depart to make inquiries when there came a rustling noise from a heap of straw, and the sentry stood before him minus his boots and looking very sleepy. "Hello!" cried the sergeant. "Where were you when I came round just now?" "Marching round," was the sentry's reply, giving in tones of conscious virtue. "Marching round, were you? Why, you've got your boots off." "Yes, sergeant. I took 'em off so's I should not [illegible]

An Occasion When Abell Made Up His Mind in a Hurry.

It is probable that on no occasion has any other musician had to practice his art under more disagreeable circumstances than that in which Abell, a singer of the seventeenth century, once found himself.

It appears that while Abell was rambling through Poland he was sent for to go to court, and after evading the request by excuses for a short time he was commanded to attend. At the palace Abell was placed in a chair in the center of a spacious hall and suddenly drawn up to a great height. The king, with his attendants, appeared in a gallery opposite him as he sat thunderstruck in his suspended chair. At the same instant several bears entered the hall with their keepers.

As the singer gazed in horror at these ferocious creatures the king calmly inquired whether he preferred to sing or be let down among the bears. The singer's choice, of course, was quickly made, and he afterward declared that in spite of his terror he never sang better in his life, although he admitted he might have introduced a few more "shakes" than usual in his songs.—New York Press.

His Name in the Directory.

"One funny thing I have learned about human nature," said the drug store cashier, "is the habit many people have of marking their own names in the city directory. They do that because the directory is the only place where their names ever get into print, and it has such a fascination for them that they can't resist calling attention to it. A funny old man who likes to talk tells me that he has made special trips to different parts of the city just to mark his name in the directories of the neighborhood. He puts a little cross in red ink before it. I asked him what good it did. He said none possibly, although he is a teacher of languages and may get a few calls on account of that queer advertisement. But his is an exceptional case. Not many persons spend time and money hunting city directories, but every time they happen to see a new one they can't help looking up their names and putting some kind of a mark around them."—New York Sun.

Miles of Films.

On the average of about 150,000 feet of film are placed on the British market every week, and this quantity is steadily increasing. It is computed that there are some 50,000 picture theatres scattered throughout the world, and as the number thereof is increasing daily, the supply of films has by no means yet reached the limits of the demand.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont. H. J. Lamb, Esq., District Engineer, Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Parry Sound, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

Cursory.

A huntsman called on Hodge to settle for damage done by a run to hounds and found only Mrs. Hodge at home.

"Has your husband," he inquired, "made an examination yet?"

"That he have, sir," replied Mrs. Hodge, with a curtsey.

"Rather a cursory examination, I suspect?"

"Oh, dreadful, sir. Such langwidge I never heerd—never!" And the good woman held up her hands at the bare recollection.

Fighting Seasickness.

There is one place in a ship where the voyager may be at rest. This writer discovered it during a mid-Atlantic storm when he went down to the bathroom, tumbled into a warm sea bath and floated. The vessel was performing the most amazing antics, but the water in the bath kept its usual gravity, and the bather floated with a smile upon its bosom.—London Tatler.

Such Is Life.

"It's a hard struggle to conduct one's business without plenty of capital," observed the man with the ingrowing chin.

"You're right," agreed the man with the mange nose. "If a fellow hasn't got plenty of backing he has to do a lot of sidestepping."

All One Race.

Prof. Keith in a London lecture on the evolution of man said that the resemblance of the prehistoric monkeys found in the Fayum, in upper Egypt, to South American monkeys indicated the common origin of the anthropoids of the old and new world.

LEGEND OF ALUMINUM.

Story Told by Pliny of Tiberius and a Metal Worker.

If a certain incident in Roman history, as related by Pliny, be given full credence, then it would seem that aluminium was derived by means of a secret process long before our time.

The story is this: During the reign of Tiberius there one day appeared at the emperor's palace a worker in metals who displayed a magnificent cup made of a brilliant white metal that shone like silver. In presenting it to Tiberius the artificer purposely dropped it. The piece was so bruised by the fall that it seemed hopelessly ruined, but the metal worker took his hammer, and in the presence of the court quickly repaired the damage. It was thus evident to all that the metal was not silver, though it presented an appearance as brilliant as that metal. Besides, it was more durable and much lighter.

The emperor, so Pliny relates, interrogated the metal worker, from whom it was learned that the mysterious metal had been extracted from an argillaceous earth, in all probability the clay known to modern chemists as alumina. Tiberius then asked whether any one but the metal worker knew of the process and received the reply that the secret was known only to the worker and Jupiter.

The answer was unfortunate, for, reasoned the emperor, if it were possible to obtain such a metal from so common a substance as clay, would not the value of gold and silver be reduced? Tiberius, it would seem, was determined to avert such a catastrophe, for he commanded the workshops of the discoverer of the new metal to be destroyed and the luckless man himself to be decapitated, so that the secret might die with him.

Did the cruelty of Tiberius deprive the world for centuries of the use of the metal aluminium?

Mansfield's Coaching.

"Richard Mansfield," said an actress who played in his company, "was a great teacher, but terribly relentless. I shall never forget a time when I was playing with him in 'The First Violin.' I could not, strive frantically as I would, do the thing he wanted. He was gentle at first, and then, persisting in my failure, he began to lash and whip and sting me with his words until I thought I should have to run away. In agony of impotent desperation I cried out:

"'I cannot! Oh, I cannot!'

"Mr. Mansfield threw up his hands in a gesture of relief, and a smile played about his lips.

"'Why,' he said sweetly, 'you're doing the very thing right now. No one on earth could do it better.' And then I knew what he meant, and those lines were a triumph to me all that season."—Detroit Free Press.

Walking.

The Almighty has not freighted the foot with a single superfluous part. Every inch of every foot is meant for use. When a man walks in the right way, speaking literally, the back of the heel strikes the ground first. Then the rest of the heel comes down, after which the outer edge of the foot takes the bulk of the burden until the forward movement shifts the weight to the ball of the foot and finally to the toes. The ideal step is a slightly rocking motion. At no time should the entire foot be pressed against the ground. Heel to toe is the movement. Try it and see how much farther and more easily you can walk. It's the Indian's way, and what poor Lo doesn't know about footwork can go into the discard. —New York Press.

Last Strike-Breaker Gone.

Yesterday Mr. S. Bailey, the last of the six strike-breakers to leave Wm. Hamilton Company's foundry, was sent off to Orillia. Mr. McFarlane saw him off at the station, and the strikers claim he is being sent to the asylum, the only place fit for him. Mr. Bailey is an Englishman and came here a few days ago with five others to replace the striking moulders at Wm. Hamilton Company's works

Funeral of the Late Mrs. Denne.

One of the largest attended funerals for some time was that of the late Mrs. Henry Denne which took place from the family residence, 723 George street, to the Little Lake cemetery, yesterday afternoon. The Rev. F. J. Sawyers officiated. The pallbearers were Mr. E. A. Peck, and Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, W. F. Johnston, H. Rush, R. Fair and J. A. Stratton.

Laid at Rest.

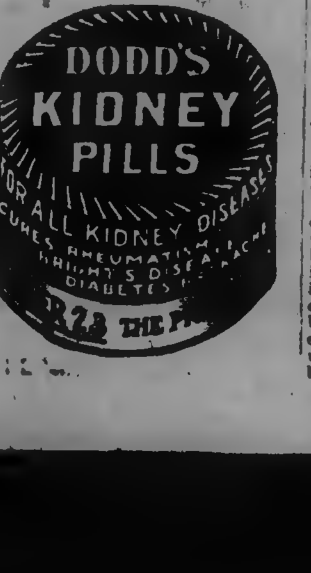
The funeral took place yesterday afternoon of the late Charles Herbert Campbell, from his late residence 363 Babbs' Lane. The Rev. R. B. Grobb conducted the services and the Masonic Order attended en masse. Among the out of town visitors were Mr. A. E. Jordan and Miss Bessie Jordan of Byng Inlet, Mrs. A. M. Walsh and Mr. Leonard Walsh of Midland.

Leap Year Anecdote.

What may have been a leap year incident was witnessed yesterday by a Times reporter at the corner of Smith and Paris streets. A young lady of sixteen or seventeen, for some reason, was running madly after a young man of about the same age, in a frantic attempt to catch him. For several blocks the chase continued until a friend of the pursued, noticing his plight and that he was on the verge of being overtaken by the jilted leap year lass, appeared on the scene with a horse and buggy and conveyed the alarmed young man beyond the reach of the youthful amazon.

Nearly an Accident.

Yesterday morning a gentleman driving a spirited horse had an exciting time near the corner of Simcoe and Water streets. He was driving on Water street past the Dominion Bank when his horse suddenly took fright. In an attempt to stop it the animal backed up furiously, cramping and almost overturning the rig. At this juncture two youngsters, Ken. McClennan and Odely Taylor, in an act of gallantry unparalleled in the British annals of heroism, caught the careering horse by the bridle and after much trouble quieted him. Had the buggy turned over upon him he would certainly have been in danger of injury.



You Can't Cure Catarrh By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrup, Tablets and Sprays Sicken the Stomach. But Don't Reach the Germs of Catarr—Hence Their Failure to Help.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat down the bronchial tubes to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

Couldn't Breathe—"Catarrhozone" Cured.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal Catarrh than I suffered a month ago" writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically. I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy, it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Mrs. R. M. Roy has returned home after spending a couple of weeks at Gore's Landing. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons of Montreal are the guests of Mrs. Roy.

Mrs. Baker, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Patterson, all of Syracuse, N.Y., are the guests of Mr. W. N. Baker, of this city.

Miss Annie Kelly, Downey street, is visiting friends in Montreal.

Mrs. Conway and daughter, Olive, who have been summering at Kawartha Park, Clear Lake, have returned home.

Mr. Harry Phelan, collector of Inland Revenue, left yesterday for Colorado Springs, Col., as a delegate to the National Council Convention of the Knights of Columbus, which commences there on Tuesday, Aug. 6th, being one of the four delegates appointed from the Province of Ontario. He will be absent about two weeks.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

An unusual exodus is noticeable this year from the city to Stoney Lake.

The regular shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club will be held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock.

According to reports this is going to be a remarkably good season for gooseberries.

On Tuesday night the Court of Revision dealt with a number of appeals against assessment.

At the band concert next Friday night, the program will include a selection from "Il Trovatore."

In a measure, the White Caps have redeemed themselves for the streak of losses chalked up against them.

A special despatch from Toronto says the weather will be "fine and cool" for the printers' picnic Saturday.

Everything points to an excellent time at the Printers Picnic tomorrow. Secure your tickets early and avoid the rush. An excellent program has been arranged, and nothing has been left undone by the committee in charge to make a [illegible] success of this popular event.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guarantors are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guarantors, who are equally interested in its management. Home Office, Toronto.

WOMAN DROWNS HER FIVE BABIES

and promised to keep the mother's secret. Her action, she said, had been caused by misery. Later in the day she confided to the servant girl employed in one of the flats that her husband had ill-treated her the night before, and had taken her last few cents to buy drink. He had returned in the morning and told her that a dealer was coming to buy her chattels, as he must have more money.

She refused to allow this, and implored him to work, as the children had nothing to eat and were crying for food. In reply he [illegible] her and beat and [illegible] until she was unconscious. She showed the girl the bruises and sores on her body. In the evening she moved the beds to a large, empty flat in the house where there was a bath, and told the girl she was going to spend the night there with the children, in order to escape her husband.

Five Bodies on Bed.

In the morning there was no answer [illegible] and the flat door had to be broken down. All was quiet within. The intruders hurried to the bedroom, where they saw the five children lying dead on the bed, and found the mother apparently dead, or unconscious in the bath. A doctor was called, and managed to restore the woman to life by artificial respiration. The little ones had been drowned and were past human aid. The mother must have taken them one by one from bed as they were sleeping, immersed each one in the water until dead, and then laid it on the bed. When the awful work was done she tried to drown herself.

She was taken to the hospital. A note she had written, which was found on the table, contained the words, "My husband is alone to blame. He has driven us to death." Soon after the tragedy was known the man returned with a dealer, and when he heard of the children's death he coolly proceeded to bargain with the dealer for the sale of the household chattels. The brute was arrested. His wife must stand her trial as a murderess, while no charge can be levied against him but one of negligence and brutality. Here is a case before which justice stands confounded.

Trade in Peterboro

Anything and Everything in Every Line of Trade

Everything from a Needle to a House and Lot

Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, Furs, Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Boots and Shoes, Trunks and Valises, Furniture, Stoves, Tinware, House-Furnishings, Hardware, Woodenware, Chinaware, Groceries, Confectionery, Meats, Machinery, Tobacco, Smokers' Goods, Toys, Books, Magazines, Stationery, School Books, School Supplies, Music, Musical Goods, Fancy Goods, Millinery, Drugs, Drug Sundries, Medicines, Harness, Photographic Supplies, Farm Machinery, Printing, Insurance, Banking, Legal Help, Medical Help, Veterinary Help, Money to Loan, Undertaking, Property, Business College, Collegiate Institute, and other lines too numerous to mention.

The combined stores of Peterborough can easily outrival any two city departmental stores in the stocks carried, the prices offered, and the quality of goods sold.

Investigation will prove this point beyond dispute.

When you have ALL the big store stocks here to choose from you have more variety than any city departmental can give you in any one line.

By trading here you have the opportunity of inspecting the goods and comparing values on the spot.

You save the time, trouble, postage, express, and disappointment.

You have immense stocks of new goods to choose from.

You have the reputation of business men who are here all the time to back up the quality of what you buy.

You are not trading sight unseen. You see the goods you buy, and buy the goods you see.

It Will Pay You to Trade in Peterboro

Just make that comparison once or twice and convince yourself. In the meantime, read the advertisements in this issue; there are some great bargains offered. See the goods, get the prices, examine the stocks, and the rest may safely be left to your good judgment.

Read The Times each day and week. It contains the fresh, bright store news of all the leading advertisers in Peterborough. You will get up-to-date news about stocks, goods and prices. In addition you will get all the news of the district, a summary of the world's doings, special pages for the farm and the home. The Times costs only $3.00 a year daily and $1.00 weekly. "NOT POLITICIANS BUT KINSMEN" Rousing Speech of Hon. Mr. Borden in London

CANADA'S NAVAL POLICY WILL ADD LUSTRE TO HER STATESMEN

Attorney-General Isaacs Says He Awaits Mr. Borden's Announcement With Confidence

London, Aug. 2.—"Not as politicians, but as kinsmen" was the phrase used by Premier Borden last night in describing the attitude in which he and his colleagues had come to Britain. That, too, was the attitude of the National Liberal Club revealed at a banquet presided over by the Marquis of Lincolnshire. Lord Strathcona received a demonstration of affection at the close of the proceedings, when in response to repeated calls he arose and spoke a few words.

Epoch in Empire's History.

The feature of the banquet was the speech of the Attorney-General, Sir Rufus Isaacs, in which he characterized the visit of the Canadians as a distinct epoch in the history of the Empire at a time when the watchword of all parties must be Britain's supremacy on the sea. The big banquet room of the club was completely filled when Premier Borden arose following Attorney-General Isaacs, and his welcome was most enthusiastic.

Visits of British Ministers.

When he declared the Canadian loyalty was more pronounced now than ever before, he caught the audience, which applauded long and loud. The Canadian Premier suggested amidst cheers that it might be well for British Ministers to visit Canada.

In closing the chairman described the event as a glorious evening. The club had been honored in the Canadians' visit, and had done honor to itself and to the cause it represented in having "illustious statesmen as guests."

CHURCHILL COMING ON A WARSHIP

Premier Asquith Announces That He is Unable to Accept Mr. Borden's Invitation, But That the First Lord of the Admiralty Will

London, Aug. 2.—Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, will make a visit to Canada, and it is expected that he will proceed to the Dominion on a warship.

The Canadian Premier, the Right Honourable R. L. Borden, at a meeting of the Committee for Imperial Defence yesterday, which was attended by the British Prime Minister and most of the members of the Cabinet, extended an invitation to the Ministers to visit Canada.

Mr. Asquith said he would not be able to go, but Mr. Churchill accepted.

GANGSTERS WAITED TO TAKE GUN MAN FROM HIS CAPTORS

The Friends of "Whitey" Lewis Were Frightened Off By Detectives

New York, Aug. 3.—"Whitey" Lewis was arraigned before a coroner this afternoon charged with firing a shot which caused Rosenthal's death. The proceedings were brief and the case was adjourned until Tuesday afternoon next. The prisoner said his real name was Frank Muller, but refused to give his address.

"Whitey Jack" Lewis, one of big Jack Zelig's gunmen and one of the four men accused of shooting down the gambler Herman Rosenthal, was given a third degree grilling to-day to glean further information that would supply corroboration of the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose, Harry Vallon, and "Bridgie" Webber that police Lieut. Becker sought the death of Rosenthal.

Becker is Mum.

Police Lieut. Becker still remains non-communicative. To all questions he replies: "I have nothing to say." He scans the newspapers closely and reads everything in connection with the case. He maintains a complete reserve in his conversation and shows no emotion that would indicate that he may break down.

AUSTRALIA SPENDING MILLIONS FOR DEFENCE

Sydney, Aug. 2.—The principal feature of the Commonwealth budget is the proposal to spend almost £4,000,000 on new works and buildings from revenue. Details of the expenditure include the following: For fleet construction, £1,307,000; other naval work, £284,000; military works, £876,000; on postoffice, including wireless, £1,055,000; another defence expenditure amounts to £2,748,000, including provision for full complement of three cruisers, two submarines and depot ship for the last four months of the year.

During the year ten wireless stations are to be constructed.

As one who thinks at evening, after supper all alone,
And muses on the dainties which at breakfast he has known,
So I turn the leaves of fancy till in shadowy design,
I see some crisp Post Toasties with their flavour full and fine.

Safeguarding Marriages

(Montreal Star.)

It may as well be recognized at once that the people of Canada will not remain content with any system under which a marriage, which the vast majority of them regard as good, and which the parties thereto accepted in good faith, is subsequently annulled to the irreparable damage of one—and generally the weaker—of the parties. In taking this attitude the people of Canada may be interfering with something which is none of their business; or they may not. But they will do it if they are challenged to do it; and all of us who feel so keenly the danger of religious strife, and who hope so earnestly that this magnificent land of ours, divided in religion, but united in patriotism, will sweep forward without friction to its high destiny, should unite in seeing that no such cases occur.

ONE NAVY

London, Aug. 2.—Hon. Mr. Hazen, Canadian Minister of Marine at a banquet last night made a noteworthy declaration. In emphasizing the desire of the Canadian people to participate in Imperial problems in return for any assistance she would extend in defence of the Empire, he declared for a navy with no divided control and which would fly to any part of the Empire menaced.

SEVEN HUNDRED TYPHOID FEVER CASES

Terrified Citizens of Ottawa Are Asking When the Epidemic Will Abate.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Eighty more typhoid cases yesterday and twenty more reported this morning is the toll of the epidemic which is sweeping Ottawa during the past twenty-four hours. There are now no less than 647 cases and at the present rate there will be over seven hundred by to-night. What the terrified citizens of Ottawa are asking, is where will it stop.

The water has been declared pure for the past twelve days and yet the daily number of cases keeps growing. The epidemic promises to surpass that of two years ago, when there were twelve hundred cases and about sixty deaths.

So far there are eight deaths this year and half a dozen patients are reported to be dying.

In the meantime the city officials are passing resolutions and are quarreling amongst themselves as to the best methods of securing a pure water supply. There is a growing feeling in the city that the Dominion Government should establish a Federal district.

THE WEATHER.

To-day: Fair and cool.

DENY DAUGHTER OF ROCKEFELLER IS ILL

MRS. HAROLD McCORMICK

Relatives in Chicago of Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, daughter of John D Rockefeller, deny that Mrs. McCormick is ill in an Eastern sanitarium, as was reported. It is known, however, that something happened to change the arrangements of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick and their three children, Fowler, Muriel and Mathilde, since they left Chicago.

NO FREE PRESS IN QUEBEC

That the Daily Press of the Province of Quebec is absolutely in the hands of the Archbishop of Montreal, as if he were the editor and proprietor, is the rather startling statement of the Orange Sentinel, of Toronto. He may not control the bank accounts, but the proprietors are at his mercy, for he could at any time cut their circulation to shreds, simply by interdicting them. There is no such thing as a FreePress in the Province of Quebec, because the Bishop can destroy a journal without just provocation. They have done it in the past. They are threatening to do it at present. That is why La Press and La Patrie, aye, and even the English papers of Montreal are so submissive to the rule of the Roman Church.

JOINT MEETING A FIZZLE.

Manufacturers are Apparently Satisfied That They Have no Grievance in the Matter of Freight Rates.

A joint meeting of the City Council, Board of Trade and Manufacturers was called for last night to discuss the question of freight rates. The City Council showed up in force. No member of the Board of Trade was present, and but three manufacturing concerns—The Matthews Laing Limited, the C.G.E. Co. and the Shovel Co.—were represented. As Mr. T. F. Matthews said, it looked as though our manufacturers had no complaint coming in regard to freight rates to and from Peterborough, as compared with the charges prevailing throughout the country. Mr. Matthews also offered that as a result of enquiry, he was quite satisfied that this city is not being discriminated against. On resolution the matter was referred to the Council's Manufacturers' Committee to take whatever further action they deem advisable. Another meeting may be called.

WHAT THEY FOUND IN HIS STOMACH

Convict Swallowed 147 Nails and Many Other Things.

Geneva, Aug. 2.—A convict who is undergoing a long sentence in the prison of Lanzbourg, Canton of Argovie, became tired of life recently and decided to hasten death by a curious method. He swallowed every piece of metal, glass, etc., he could and in the courtyard when the wardens were not watching him. This continued for weeks, and the convict seemed to thrive, but the other day he was found writhing in agony, and the doctor, to save the man's life, performed an operation in haste.

From the convict's stomach were extracted 147 nails of various sizes, 60 screws, 24 pieces of glass, 9 bits of lead, 22 brass heads of nails, 3 collar-buttons, and the broken blades of a knife and a chisel. The operation was a success, and the convict, who has changed his view concerning his departure from this world, will soon be well again.

INTRODUCING HIM AROUND.

ALL RESOURCES NECESSARY TO DO DUTY TO EMPIRE

Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, on the Right Track

Quebec, Aug. 2.—Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, who is in Quebec on Departmental business, had his attention called to despatches in the press purporting to emanate from Ottawa, conveying the idea that he was urging the improvement of Canadian ports in order to offset the navy programme of Hon. Mr. Borden. Mr. Monk denied that he had ever made a statement which would warrant such a conclusion and said:

"We have all the resources necessary to meet the expenditure required for the needs of the country and its development, as the same becomes evident. We also, I think, have the means of carrying out our duty to the Empire, and there was no intention whatever, in any statement I made to convey any idea that the country was too poor to undertake what might be called for in the shape of development."

INSANITY PLAYS PART IN WORLD

London, Aug. 2.—Dr. Alfred Salter, Socialist and Labor candidate for Bermondsey, discussing "Socialism and Insanity" in a Socialist publication, makes the startling statement that "he does not think we shall ever eliminate insanity altogether, and I would add that I do not think it is socially desirable that we should."

"Is not the Socialist movement," he asks, "while eminently sane in its tendency, filled with cranks and neurotics, and half-baked geniuses, as well as with many men and women of real conspicuous genius? Has not the tendency in all ages been for the neurotics to gravitate towards any new movement making for progress? And has not progress always been achieved in the end by the visionaries and fanatics and neuropaths driving forward the great inert, stolid, sane and non-progressive crowd? You cannot have progress without neurosis, and you cannot have neurosis without a certain proportion of insanity."

THE MARRIAGE DECISION

Referring to the recent marriage law decision, Mr. Burnham said at a meeting last night:

"The P. C. decision means that the words 'marriage and divorce' in the B.N.A. Act refer to divorce alone. Marriage is for the Provinces only. This is due to the extended meaning given by the Privy Council to the word 'solemnization.'"

That means that people married in one part of Canada may not be "married" in another, which is absurd. It breaks Canadian unity to pieces in one blow.

What objection can there be to the State's having a federal marriage law of its own? It would not interfere in any way with religion or liberty, since if people do not wish to be married as the State directs they need not. But why should any State or Province object to peoples being married according to a general State law if they want to? And when so married, why should anybody presume to say that they are not married? So far from this being interference by the State it is the most tyrannical sort of interference on the part of those who object. Therefore, now that the present condition of the law has been defined, surely no one will object to the State's obtaining power to pass such a law.

As matters stand now a Province can give effect to a Papal law, but none to a State law of this sort, if there can be no such law. Then, again, offences are wholly a matter of federal law. Why should an offence against marriage be an exception? On this ground alone there must be a federal marriage law. And let me repeat that a federal marriage law asks for no power over or against a provincial marriage law or an ecclesiastical marriage law. It in no way interferes with either. Why then should these laws interfere with a State law? If a man chooses to be married according to the Ne Temere or not at all, he is free to do so. On what pretence is it contended that if a Canadian citizen on the other hand asks for the privilege of being married according to a State law he may not be granted it? Surely such a contention is to the last degree to be resisted and denied."

TRAIN MILE LONG ON LEHIGH LINE

Allentown, Pa., August 2. Unique in the history of railroading are the tremendous trains that have within the past week been made up on the Lehigh Valley Road. A few days ago a train of 115 cars of coal, bound for the Bethlehem Steel Works, created wonderment. Since then the trains have constantly been growing longer.

Yesterday a new record was made, when a train of 135 coal cars moved westward from the Perth Amboy docks for the Mahoning yards, where they will be distributed to the mines. The train was 7,000 feet long, or more than a mile and a quarter, and was drawn by two locomotives, a third pushing. It is said that the trains are so enormous because trainmen are scarce.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps. Illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 49 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 366 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

SUPERSEDING NATURE

That announcement crediting "French savants" with the production of life without aid from pre-existing life embodies the romance of a dream which is as old as the Greek hylozoists. There is nothing more fascinating to the scientific mind with a capacity for generalization than the thought that vitality is not restricted to organisms, but is a property of all matter, and that you have only to group your atoms and molecules in highly complex ways to see a living creature start forth.

Strange to say, many of the appearances seem to conform this view. It is well known that crystals show a kind of growth, and will repair themselves after injury. Lower down still, even the elementary particles of matter have been caught behaving as if they were animated. The so-called "Brownian movements" are especially suggestive. Seen through an ultra-microscope, "the particles of colloidal gold, suspended in a liquid" writes an observer, "are like a swarm of dancing gnats in a sunbeam. They hop, dance, jump, dash together, and fly away from each other, so that it is difficult to get one's bearings." Why not utilize these powers of "dead matter" so that life itself shall be the result?

But science has its experiences as well as its speculations, its stubborn facts as well as its unsubstantial dreams. All alleged artificial production of life up-to-date has turned out to be "a mockery, a delusion, and a snare." The wonderful activities of material particles have invariably been traced to physical, chemical or electrical forces; what crystals do is now recognized as a mere mimicry of growth and repair in beings that really live. We do not yet even understand vitality. The physico-chemical theories always leave a missing factor which suggests mind. And when the clue is taken up from the mental side, all psychical theories, from Fechner and Haeckel, from Naegeli, Hering and Semon on to Bergson, simply leave the human intellect beatings its ineffectual wings in a vacuum.

To-day, as when George Henry Lewes wrote, the same solemn mystery envelops life as broods over the clashing of chemical elements and the flow of tides. With gravitation inscrutable over two centuries after Newton and the atomic forces unelucidated more than a hundred years after Dalton, we may well rest content that nature should baffle us in the realm of life. If the "flower in the cranied wall" ever yields its secret to man, it will then be time enough for him to take up the task of conjuring vital activities from the dust at his feet.

Editorial Notes

An Oxford township farmer has a colt with seven feet. A more profitable channel for agricultural effort than a colt with seven feet would be a hen with four legs for the boarding house trade.

As a result of his police exposures District Attorney Whitman may become Governor of New York. When a man in high office does his duty in the United States the people are surprised and grateful. In Canada we are more disposed to expect great deeds from great responsibilities.

Merely chasing down and killing the developed flies will have little permanent effect. We have heard of no place in which the killing of hundreds or even millions of flies has caused any visible diminution in their abundance two or three weeks later. But if the places that breed them, like measure piles, garbage heaps, and the scattering of wastes are carefully cleaned up and every such spot sterilized, there is reason to believe that the crowds of flies will be cut off at their sources while the general sanitary condition will be greatly improved.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered Is so Beneficial to Public Speakers, Ministers, Singers and Teachers as Catarrhozone.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhozone, and credit in no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhozone.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as Catarrh.

"Being a professional singer you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill.

"One year ago I read in the Progress a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhozone.

"Believing in the merits of Catarrhozone, I tried it.

"Catarrhozone cured me and has been the means of my success.

"You are at liberty to use my name, if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain.

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.S."

Mr Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him, and his testimonial for Catarrhozone is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhozone is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., or Kingston, Ont.

THE PEOPLE'S (?) CHIMES

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—How very kind of Mr. Russell to take so much trouble to enlighten us about saints' days, and for showing us our folly in expecting the chimes to ring on July 12th. I was not aware that it required a legal knowledge to understand the difference between the saints' days and July 12th, but is he sure it was from a feeding bottle, and not from his old stumpy pipe, he drew such hazy ideas?

Now, nobody complains about the ringing of the chimes on any of the days mentioned, but let all fare alike. No doubt there were many visitors in the city on the twelfth who had never heard the sweet-toned chimes and would have enjoyed hearing them, and I venture to say there were some amongst them just as worthy of honor from every class and creed as even the Very Rev. Bishop O'Connor. I certainly fail to see that the anniversary of any private individual is any more of a public holiday or national occasion than the 12th of July. Why is it not for the glory of God to celebrate the victory He has given us, or is it our religious duty to sit down quietly and eat humble pie? If we dare not have party tunes, could we not have had at least the national anthem?

Now, will Mr. Russell tell us what is the deed of gift, and who gave the gift, and about refunding contributions. Is he hankering to have his own refunded, or simply trying to add insult to injury?

He says, "Let sleeping dogs lie," or, in other words., "I am Sir Oracle, and when I speak, let no dog bark!"

If Orangeism is scarcely known in England, then there is something they do not know!

Mr. Russell has surely made a mistake if he thinks that claiming descent from an eminent lawyer will win any more deference for his opinion. Perhaps, if he did spring from anything of importance, he sprang a long way, and we have just as much veneration for lawyers, as a class, as Dr. Johnston had when he wrote these words about London lawyers:

"Their ambush here relentless ruffians lay,
And here the fell attorney prowls for prey."

If Orangeism and their friends are the only people for whom the "People's (?) Chimes" will not chime, why not say so plainly and not beat about the bush?

—Freethinker.

SPAIN SEEKING TO BUILD NEW NAVY

Committed to Plan to Restore Ships Lost in American War.

Madrid, Aug. 2.—Spain is committed to a comprehensive naval program; a serious effort is being made to replace the vessels lost at Santiago de Cuba and Cavite. The first Spanish Dreadnought, the Espana, will be commissioned in November, and will be quickly followed by two others. These vessels each carry eight 30.5 centimetre guns, mounted in pairs in barbettes.

Great sums have been spent in putting the Government arsenal at El Terrol in a fit state to turn out vessels of this type, and thus establish afresh a national industry which had been allowed to decay. It now becomes obvious that on the completion of this initial program fresh work must be given to the arsenal or the workmen will have to be disbanded (and inevitably they will emigrate), and the fruit of the nation's sacrifice will be lost. Thus fresh constructions becomes inevitable, and the Government has in principle decided upon the enlargement of the naval program by the addition of three more Dreadnoughts of 20,000 tons, against the 15,700 tons of the Espana and her sisters.

Meanwhile no provision has been made for the manning of the ships of the 1910 program, much less has provision been taken for the three bigger ships to be shortly laid down.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

NEURALGIA.

The Way This Painful Nerve Trouble Should Be Treated.

A sufferer from neuralgia ought to seek the advice of a physician at once, for no one but a physician can tell what causes the pain.

If the neuralgia is the "symptomatic" form, caused by some organic trouble, of which it is a symptom, treatment must be directed to the removal of the underlying disease. If, on the other hand it is caused by functional disturbance, such as malnutrition, debility or anaemia, or is the result of exhausting illness, rheumatism or malaria, the treatment must aim at building up the general system.

Again, neuralgia may be what is called a "reflex"—that is, a warning of something wrong in the adjacent parts. Then the region of the aching nerve must be searched for the cause. It may be a matter for the dentist, the oculist or the laryngologist. When the tooth has been filled, the eyes properly fitted with glasses or the nasal cavity attended to the neuralgia will promptly disappear.

Whatever the cause of the pain, the general treatment must correct any errors of daily life. The diet must be full and nourishing and contain enough both of fluids and of fats. Many neurasthenic patients never get enough of either of these elements. In some obstinate cases a complete rest in bed is most effective, especially if combined with a judicious and carefully watched diet.

Neuralgic patients often suffer from digestive disturbances, and if they are simply told to eat more food they are in danger of adding severe gastric disturbances to their other troubles. For this reason stubborn cases of neuralgia often improve if treated away from home at a good health resort, where they are under constant supervision.

In these places, also, other forms of relief, such as hydrotherapy and electricity, can conveniently be used. When the case is severe enough to call for drugs the constant oversight of the physician is essential. Narcotics should be used only as a last resort, and the patient should never administer them to himself.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit?
If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

How to Keep Cool.

Don't hurry and don't worry.

Touch no alcohol. Use less tobacco than usual. Neither is wise in heat.

Don't do anything you can postpone. The peril of the battlefield is about.

Walk slowly in the sun. If you have to work in it keep green leaves in your hat. They may save a stroke.

A woman forced to walk in the sun is wise if she carries an umbrella or a sunshade. Women are less liable to a stroke and more liable to heat exhaustion. The latter scares less at the time. It means as much in the end.

Put off washing, ironing, baking and every work that can be postponed that brings heat. If called to such work, eat slowly and lightly, but often, and help perspiration by taking much water, either hot in weak tea or just plain, good water—not too cold.

Loosen all clothing, go to bed early, sleep in the open if you can, best of all on the roof. A back yard and hammock are better than a room.

Watch all food. Touch nothing kept long. Be vigilant over the milk children use.

And, above all things, be cheerful.

How to Darn a Tear.

Mend a long tear in any garment which will not be subjected to close scrutiny by putting underneath the break a piece of some strong fabric. Machine stitch on the inside down each edge, then turn the needle to the middle and zigzag across the tear. This makes a perfectly firm as well as a very neat mend. For the hard worn places on a small boy's pants it is the best possible treatment, strengthening a thin place as well as mending it.

Mr. Harry Phelan, collector of Inland Revenue, left yesterday for Colorado Springs, Col., as a delegate to the National Council Convention of the Knights of Columbus, which commences there on Tuesday, Aug. 6th, being one of the four delegates appointed from the Province of Ontario. He will be absent about two weeks.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Breakwater at Port Arthur, Ont., will be received at this office until 4 p.m., Wednesday, August 28, 1912, for the construction of a Breakwater at Port Arthur, Thunder Bay and Rainy River District, Ont.

Plans, specifications and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and F. Y. Harcourt, Esq., District Engineer, Port Arthur, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

PUBLIC OPINION

at any other conclusion in this case than the one they appear to have reached.

My object in writing, however, is not to mention this very unimportant fact, but to point out a feature of the matter which may easily be overlooked. Their lordships, as I understand their decision as reported, have decided that, whatever jurisdiction the Dominion Parliament have over "marriage," it does not include the power to enact how marriages must be solemnized in each Province; and further that the Provincial Legislatures have undoubtedly the power to enact that no marriages celebrated in their respective Provinces shall be valid unless solemnized in the way they have prescribed; but their lordships do not appear to have held, and I feel very sure that, when the full text of their judgment reaches us, it will be found that they have not held that a Provincial Legislature has power to say that a marriage entered into by two domiciled inhabitants of their respective Provinces in an adjoining Province, according to the statutory provisions of that Province in that regard, shall be invalid.

To take a concrete instance, the Quebec Legislature might enact that every marriage celebrated in the Province of Quebec must be celebrated before a Roman Catholic priest, and, further, that unless so celebrated, nothing purporting to be such a marriage shall be a true and valid marriage at all. But the Quebec Legislature would have no power to enact that two French-Canadian Protestants, or other persons, domiciled in Quebec, cannot cross the border and be married in Ontario, according to Ontario law; nor that, if they do so, their marriage shall be any the less a good and valid marriage than if would have been if they had stayed in Quebec and been married before a Roman Catholic priest.

Hence I fail to see that there is any serious occasion to seek an amendment of the British North America Act, as you suggest, a thing generally to be deplored, and which, obviously, might, in this case, cause hard feeling in certain quarters.

THE MARKETS

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The shutting down of export business to-day tended to head off an advance in wheat. Despite considerable bull activity, prices closed steady ⅛c to ⅜c lower to a shade up as compared with the night before. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅜c to 1⅛c net higher, oats unchanged to a sixteenth dearer, and provisions varying from 7½c to 10c off, to a rise of 2½c to 5c.

The Liverpool market closed ⅛d lower to ⅛d higher than yesterday on wheat, and ⅛d to ¼d higher on corn. Berlin wheat closed ⅜c higher, Budapest ⅛c lower.

The Worst in the Country.

"Are you the landlord of this hotel?" asked the guest who had his baggage on the porch.

"I guess I be," answered the man with pale eyes.

"Well, I want to hand this little sentiment to you. Your hotel is positively the worst I have ever seen in this country, and I've traveled all over it."

"I know it," answered the landlord. "And I have a kinder pride in it. Lemme tell you something about it. Every time we git beat outer a board bill it's sure some satisfaction to know that we got the best of the feller that done it."

Happiness In Sleep.

I saw once how like sleep was to life in the deep waters. A man who to my waking eyes looked cold and starved and ragged sat upon one of the benches on the embankment. He was sleeping, and I knew from his face that then at least he did not count himself miserable. But presently a policeman came and shook the sleeper into waking life. Then all the violence of the world seemed to be let loose upon this wreck of a man. He shook and blinked his eyes and breathed with heavy spasms. It was just as when a fish is caught out of the depth of the sea and suddenly cast into a basket. I have seen mackerel shake and gasp like this poor man suddenly caught up out of the native depths of sleep. Or if you think that a fish thus dying is only an amusing and not a painful sight then think of what it might be if some giant of fable could catch us up out of our native air into the space between the stars. Would we not willingly sink back again into the depth of air? So it is when the loud world lets us glide down into sleep.—London Outlook.

The Lynx.

The lynx is a great yellow, long legged cat nearly the size of a collie dog, with a stumpy tail and camel's hair pencils on the tips of his ears. His weapons are his claws, and they are terrible weapons, sharp as razors and so large that the imprint of a lynx's paw in the snow is actually almost the size of that of a bear.

Mansfield's Coaching.

"Richard Mansfield," said an actress who played in his company, "was a great teacher, but terribly relentless. I shall never forget a time when I was playing with him in 'The First Violin.' I could not, strive frantically as I would, do the thing he wanted. He was gentle at first, and then, persisting in my failure, he began to lash and whip and sting me with his words until I thought I should have to run away. In agony of impotent desperation I cried out:

"'I cannot! Oh, I cannot!'

"Mr. Mansfield threw up his hands in a gesture of relief, and a smile played about his lips.

"'Why,' he said sweetly, 'you're doing the very thing right now. No one on earth could do it better.' And then I knew what he meant, and those lines were a triumph to me all that season."—Detroit Free Press.

Cure For Baggy Trousers.

"In pressing trousers," said the tailor, "the first thing you want to do, before ironing in the creases, is to take out the bagginess at the knees. To do this you turn the trousers inside out and spread each leg on the ironing board, not as you lay them to press the creases, but exactly the other way, creases [illegible] from seam to seam, and then you lay on the damp cloth and press in the usual fashion with the hot iron. By thus pressing you shrink the [illegible] of the cloth together again where they had been punched out at the knees, and take out the bagginess, and then [illegible] the trousers [illegible] and press for the [illegible]

Railway Gives Scholarships.

Four free scholarships, each covering four years' tuition in the faculty of applied science of McGill University, are offered by the Grand Trunk Railway System, subject to competitive examinations, to apprentices and other employes of the company under twenty-one years of age, and to minor sons of employes. The competitive examinations, which will be the regular entrance matriculation examination provided for in the annual calendar of the university, will be held at the university, Montreal, and other centres, beginning June 12, 1912. The four candidates making the highest average and complying with the requirements of admission will be awarded the scholarships and have the option of taking a course in any department of the faculty of applied science.

Very Young.

A new member of the harbor board in a New Zealand town was attending its meetings for the first time, and the board was discussing a proposal to place two buoys at the entrance to the harbor. "I beg to propose an amendment," said the new member, "that one man should be placed there instead of two boys, as the latter are too young for such a responsible position!"

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Uncle Dan's Big Feet.

One of the prominent figures in the Canadian Senate is the Hon. Daniel Derbyshire, who stands over six feet and is broad in proportion. He has a buoyant manner and his interruptions when a member of the House of Commons and in committee created a great deal of mirth. Sir Wilfrid christened him "Uncle Dan," and the name stuck. As "Uncle Dan" he was introduced to Lord Roberts at the Tercentenary at Quebec, and Sir Wilfrid could not repress a smile when he saw Uncle Dan, with his six feet six, and Bobs, the diminutive hero of Kandahar and Pretoria, walking together.

Everyone acquainted with "Uncle Dan" knows that he is celebrated for his glad hand, cheery smile, large heart, and his big "understanding." Relating to this last, a good story is told of his earlier days. He was visiting cheese factories at Lyn, and meeting in with a friend, the latter accompanied him to the station. They reached the depot before the train was due, and filled in the time walking up and down oblivious to the curious glances of two Americans on the platform.

This tale relates to the days when boots were made with extension or grass edges, and Mr. Derbyshire, who has a large foot, wore a pair of these, which were apparently size nineteen.

As soon as Mr. Derbyshire left the station, the Americans approached the friend and inquired if the big gentleman lived across the St. Lawrence. "No," he answered. "Why?" They replied that they were sure he lived across the river, and that he had on a pair of scows to ferry him across.—Star Weekly.

BIRTH OF A WING.

Evolution of the Dragon Fly From Its Ugly Aquatic Pupa.

A wonderful spectacle is presented by the sudden apparition of an insect's wing at the completion of its metamorphosis. The transformation of the grub into the butterfly, though familiar, is none the less amazing, but the evolution of the active and gossamer winged dragon fly from its ugly and sluggish aquatic pupa is still more impressive.

Early on a May morning the pupa emerges from its cocoon at the bottom of a ditch, swims on its back by paddling with its long haired paws to the stem of an aquatic plant and climbs up out of the water. Then, after a momentary pause, the skin suddenly bursts open, and the perfect insect appears with closely folded wings, which soon unfold and assume their final form.

The older naturalists believed that the insect "swallowed air," with which the wings were inflated. In reality the air is absorbed in the digestive organs, causing an increased blood pressure, which mechanically expands the wings. The presence of dew is also necessary; hence the first flight is always made at dawn.

This spectacle of the birth of a wing may be observed in dragon flies reared in an aquarium, the atmosphere of which should be moistened with an atomizer when the pupa rises to the surface.—Scientific American.

Fishes and Memory.

The fact that fishes will return time after time to bite at the hook by which they have been caught is often cited as proof that fish have no memories. But Yves Delage, the great French biologist, has been making some experiments which seem to prove the contrary. He says that fish return to the hook because their greediness is greater than the influence of their memory. If you place a bright red disk upon a hook the fishes will cease to take it after being caught seven or eight times. If you change the color of the disk the fish will return indefinitely. The red disk made an impression on the fish's memory—slowly, it is true—and when it recognized the danger signal it avoided it.—New York World.

Repartee.

At a dinner party at which several distinguished medical men, including Sir William Gull, were present the conversation happened to turn upon the subject of quackery, and Sir William expressed his conviction that a certain amount of it was essential to success in practice, adding, "It is an example of the old saying, 'Populus vult decipi'—'people like to be deceived.'" "Quite so," said the host. "Now, can any one present give an English equivalent to that?" "Nothing easier," remarked a well known Manchester physician. "The public likes to be gulled."—London Mail.

Government Anatomy.

"Father," inquired the small boy making his first visit to the army post, "what house is that over there?"

"That's the Government's headquarters, Jimmy."

A long puzzled silence, then:

"Father, where are its hindquarters?"

New Motor Truck.

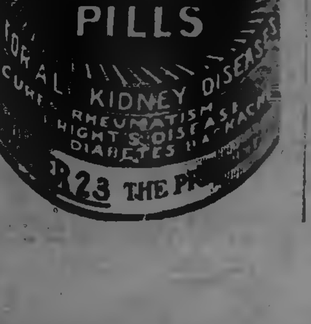
Messrs. A. Longo & Co. have purchased through Mr. Wm. Montgomery, a one-ton automobile truck. This truck is equipped with a 30 h.p. motor and is intended to work in the city. It is a handsome rig, and it is claimed will do the work of several teams

When a Canoe Is Safe.

The editor of this great family journal has been asked by a newcomer to this country, if canoes are safe, and can reply better by quoting an old fisherman, who was asked the same question. "There aint a mite o' danger in canoeing," said the old man, "as long as you keep in the canoe."

Company Gets Privileges.

The Wood Chemical Company of Belleville, Ont., of which Mr. J. H. Larmonth, formerly manager of the Peterborough Light and Power, is at present manager, has been granted a $5,000 site and a limited fixed assessment for ten years. A by-law to grant the two, was voted upon Thursday and carried by 659 to 24.



Do You Feel Moody, Irritable, Depressed?

When That Languid, Laggy, Easily-Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver is Slow.

Tells How to Cure Quickly.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker, because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so [illegible] as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a [illegible] and blood medicine combined. I [illegible] to a marvellous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them once or twice a week."

It is Mrs E. V. Erlanger, well-known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr Hamilton's Pills, 25c a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Bugle Band Moonlight.

The members of the Bugle Band paraded from the Armouries to the boat last evening to attend their moonlight excursion. They were in uniform, and among the large number that attended the excursion were many soldiers of the 57th Regiment, who were on hand in full uniform. The crowd that attended had a splendid time down the river.

Medical Men's Outing.

The members of the Peterborough Medical Association spent a pleasant day in Burleigh on Thursday. They motored to and from Burleigh, and at Lakefield on their trip to the Falls they were joined by the Lakefield doctors. Dr. Amys is president of the Medical Association, and Dr. Hammond vice-president. They will likely motor to Hastings this season.

Two Cases of Typhoid.

While in other cities typhoid is prevalent, Peterborough only has two cases at present, and in both of these it has been caused by drinking water from supposedly pure wells. Owing to the large number of holidayers at Stoney Lake this year Dr. MacPherson says it would be well to boil the city water, although no cases of typhoid have yet arisen from its use.

Coal Soars in Belleville.

The dealers in Belleville handling the best grades of anthracite coal have advanced their prices the first of this month 25c a ton. This makes egg and stove $7.50, and nut coal $7.25. The reasons and conditions are that mine-owners look for a coal famine, with pronounced car shortage and congestion at railway terminals.

Coal Prices Go Up.

The coal prices for August will be per ton: Nut coal, $7.95; stove and Egg, $7.70; pea coal $7.00. The price of coal is lower in Lindsay than in this city. It is hoped that we may soon have an opportunity to secure peat for fuel, which though it has not quite as much heating power as coal, sells for $3.50 to $4 a ton.

Cup for War Canoeists.

One of the features of the Stoney Lake regatta to be held on Wednesday next will be a war canoe race. For this event the Peterborough Canoe Company has donated a handsome silver cup and the trophy will become the property of any party that wins the cup for three successive years. Already the Y.M.C.A. Club and the boys of St. Paul's Church have entered for the event.

New Wholesale Firm.

Messrs. A. Longo & Company have leased the warehouse on Simcoe street, formerly occupied by Mr. Chas. Rishor, the well-known wholesale grocer, where they will carry on a wholesale fruit business. This will include farm and garden produce such as potatoes, cabbage, etc. They will deliver goods by their own new motor truck to all parts of the city and district in any quantities up to carload lots.

Too Much Rain.

The frequent heavy rains are injuring the crops in this district. The Times was informed yesterday that it is playing havoc with the standing crops of oats and barley. Both yields were very heavy and the rain has beaten them flat in many places. Crops which have been cut and left standing in the shock are being damaged by the excessive dampness. Potato rot is also feared if the rain does not discontinue.

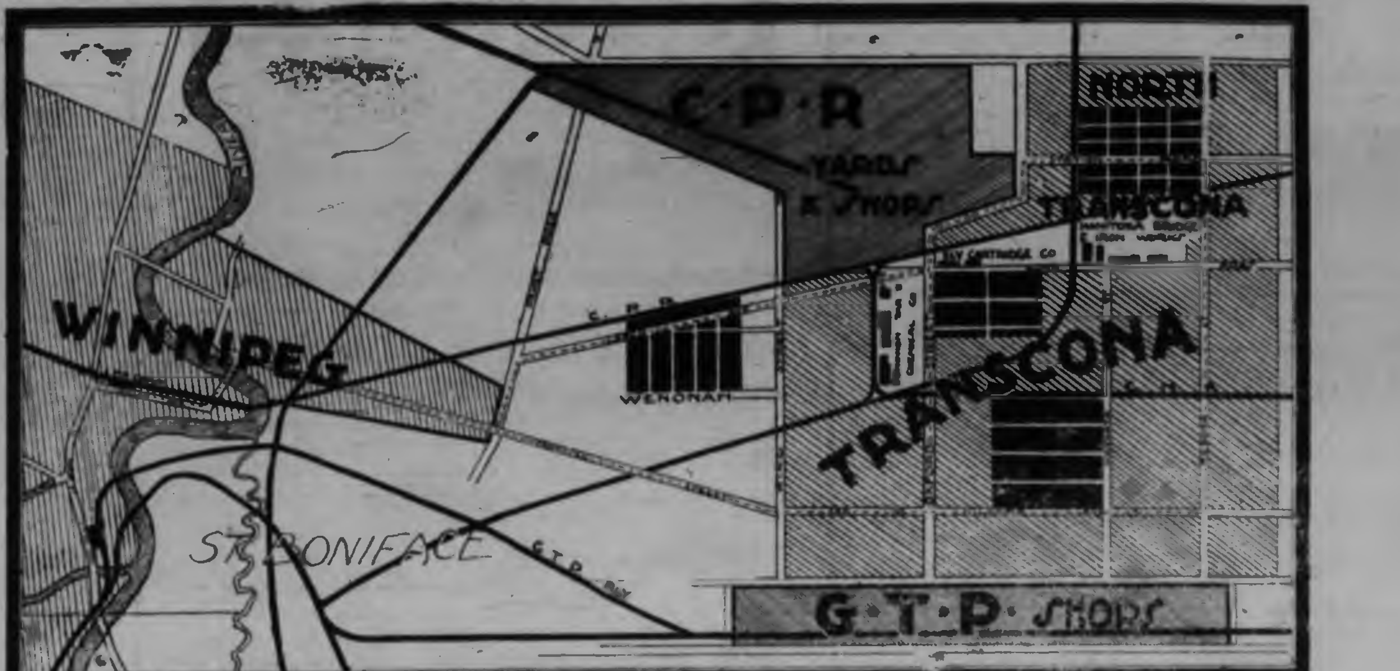
"Officer, Take Him Away."

Mr. Geo. E. [illegible]ten, a former photographer in this city, but now of Vernon, B.S., purports to believe that there is a monster of large [illegible] in Lake Simcoe. He says that he saw it himself that Mrs. Wm. Soules, Sr., saw it, and that recently Yellowhead, an Indian, saw it. It may or may not be true that this is the case, but in either case no sane minded person will believe the story.

Peterborough, Near Harwood

On Thursday Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, was down to Rice Lake on business, and stepping into the post-office at Harwood, was handed a letter addressed to "Superintendent Trent Canal, Peterborough, Harwood's Big Adjunct, Rice Lake." The letter was an official one from one of the railways, all of which goes to show that Harwood must be a place of considerable importance.

Take Our Advice and Invest in Transcona To-day



Winnipeg's Railway and Industrial Centre

TRANSCONA is rapidly becoming the recognized manufacturing centre of Winnipeg, and will be to Winnipeg what Toronto Junction is to Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to complete their immense shops at Transcona, one unit of theses are already finished, the machinery is now being tested, and in a few weeks' time one thousand men will be employed permanently and other sections will be pleted as rapidly as possible, and will give employment to a small army of mechanics.

The C. P. R. are now building the largest railway yard in the world at Transcona, together with elevators, round houses and other terminul facilities. Several industrial plants are already located in Transcona, and many others will be located there in the near future. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., and the Ely Cartridge Company now have their plants in operation. The Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works are building an enormous plant, and expect to have a part of it completed by the first of the year.

The G. T. P. shops will give employment to four or five thousand men, and in the near future the C. P. R. will require fully one thousand mechanics and yard men and the several manufacturing plants will require sufficient men to bring the total number of employees in Transcona up to fifteen thousand, this will mean a city with a population of over fifty thousand people.

Transcona has been incorporated, a progressive Council elected, and contracts have been already let for several mile of sidewalks, streets graded, electric light, and the question of sewage is now under consideration.

Investors who buy in Transcona to-day will make large profits. Real estate values in Transcona are exceptionally low, considering the possibilities of this young City. Lots that we are now offering for $5.00 per ft. and upwards will be worth from $100.00 to $300.00 per ft., in less than five years' time.

Any Investor can make 100 p.c. or more on their money in a very short time by investing in Transcona Lots.

STUDY THE MAP.—Note the Location of our Property—Shown in Black.

Knocked Down by a Truck.

A portly individual, in the hurry that prevails about train time at the G.T.R. station, was lifted off his feet and hurled upon the platform with dangerous force yesterday morning about 11.30 o'clock. His rotundity did not alleviate the shock of the fall and he was very badly shaken up. When the train departed the stout man had sufficiently smoothed his clothes, his temper and his dignity, to point out the offending man to his wife, through the windows of the departing train

$1,000 Damage to Power House.

The explosion and fire at the London street Power House a few days ago resulted in the plant sustaining damages that amounted to nearly $1,000. Although power is being developed at this station to maintain the street car service. The house lighting power is being developed by the new Seymour power station. This station besides supplying the Old Otonabee Power Company's service, and now the Peterborough Light and Power Company is also supplying power to Campbellford and the Port Hope and Cobourg district.

Monarch Greater Shows.

The Times had a pleasant call yesterday from Mr. Owen Brady, manager of the Monarch Greater Shows, which will [illegible] at the [illegible] park in Peterborough on Monday, August 12, and continue during the entire week. This company appears to be one of the best that has ever visited Canada. Mr. Brady showed the Times some letters which speak very highly of the exhibition, amongst which was one from the Mayor of Berlin. Mr. Brady left yesterday, but will return this evening, when he will complete all arrangements. The company will appear under the auspices of the Peterborough Turf Club.

Grand Trunk Improvements.

Orders necessitating an expenditure of more than $100,000 have been placed with railway contractors by the Grand Trunk for improvements to the Toronto terminals to facilitate the handling of freight during the heavy rush of the autumn season. In addition to this, according to Mr. H. G. Kelley, Vice-President, many new locomotives of the latest type are to be added to the company's equipment, while large additions to the supply of freight cars now under construction will be ready for use in a few weeks' time. Railway officials estimate that this will be the greatest season for freight in the history of the country, and cartage agents have also been advised to increase their equipment beforehand.

Several patients in the dental chairs the other day had to postpone engagements because the power was off.

A Spanish prisoner is appealing to Lindsay people for aid—perhaps this time they will refuse to be taken in. If they do so local people may help him and be certain it is the real thing.

Everything points to an excellent time at the Printers Picnic to-morrow. Secure your tickets early and avoid the rush. An excellent program has been arranged, and nothing has been left undone by the committee in charge to make a grand success of this popular event.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NO HOME RULE FOR IRELAND Bill Will Never Pass Government Too Weak | GERMAN NAVY How It Has Been Growing Since 1906 | MINISTERS COMING TO CANADA

HOW GERMAN NAVY HAS BEEN OVERTAKING BRITISH SINCE 1906

Battle Vessels From 3 to 1 to Less Than 2 to 1—Even in Destroyers—Less Than Double In Protected Cruisers

The Imperial Maritime League with headquarters in London, England, and having 206 admirals and generals on its general committee, has issued the following statement:

In the Admiralty Return dated April, 1906, Britain is credited with 55 first-class battleships, 86 protected cruisers, 28 armoured cruisers, and 139 destroyers under twelve years of age.

In the same return Germany is credited with 18 first-class battleships, 26 protected cruisers, 6 armoured cruisers, and 43 destroyers under twelve years of age.

In the Admiralty return of May, 1912, Britain is credited with 59 battle vessels (namely, 55 battleships and 4 battle cruisers), 70 protected cruisers, 34 pre-Dreadnought armoured cruisers and 113 destroyers under twelve years of age.

In the Admiralty return of May, 1912, Germany is assigned 35 battle vessels (33 battleships and two battle cruisers), 37 protected cruisers, 9 pre-Dreadnought armoured cruisers, and 104 destroyers under twelve years of age.

These figures which refer to completed ships show the following decline in British naval power, relatively to Germany alone, within the period of six years.

Battle Vessels:—Decline from proportion of rather three to one to proportion of just under twelve to seven.

Protected Cruisers:—Decline from proportion of rather more than three and a quarter to one to proportion of less than two to one.

Armoured (pre-Dreadnought) Cruisers:—Decline from proportion of four and two-thirds to one to proportion of three and seven-ninths to one.

Destroyers:—Decline from proportion of about three and a quarter to one to proportion of approximate equality (i.e. 113 to 114).

BOTH U. S. PARTIES ARE FILLED WITH CORRUPTION

Roosevelt Comments On the New York Disclosures, and Points to Third Party

New York, Aug. 4.—In a dictated statement to the American, Colonel Roosevelt expressed himself as to the graft disclosures in the gambling scandal in New York, comparing them to the revelations which resulted in the expulsion from the Senate of Senator Allds two years ago.

The former president pointed out that both the Republican and Democratic parties are honeycombed with graft in this State and that the voters must turn to the third party for honest government.

"What is happening in New York City, like what happened in Connecticut with the Barnes machine, when Allds was thrown out of the Senate, illustrates the rottenness inherent in the very nature of the Republican and Democratic machines in New York," said the Colonel.

"The only hope for clean and decent politics in this country is to put into power, in nation and State, the Progressive Party, which, by its make-up, by its personnel, and by its principle, is the only party capable of striking at the root of corruption."

MANIAC RAN AMUCK WITH DOUBLE BARRELED GUN

South Platte, Colo., Aug. 4.—George Ballow, 29 years of age, believed to be a maniac, ran amuck here last night and with a double-barreled gun, shot and wounded five persons, three probably fatally, then set fire to the hotel which burned to the ground.

Fearing that the telegraph operator would notify outsiders of the occurrence he ran to the station and ordered him to "come on." The operator had already notified Denver authorities.

Ballow marched the telegraph operator to the hotel where he ordered those in attendance upon the injured into one group and held them at bay.

Sheriff Dennis, of Jefferson County with a posse, has started for the scene. Nurses accompanied the posse.

Empire Wide Marriage Law.

London, Aug. 3.—In the Commons Premier Asquith, replying to Joseph King, M. P., said the difficulties of creating a uniform marriage law for the whole Empire was too great for the Government to undertake.

NERVOUS, LIFELESS

NO HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

Bill Will Never Pass on Account of its Unpopularity

London, Aug. 5.—The Home Rule Bill will never pass for the simple reason that the Asquith Government is already tottering to its fall. The immense programme laid out by the present Government is too much for it, and it is thought in best informed circles that Asquith will be forced to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the people, when the question Home Rule for Ireland will prove too much for him and his party.

BONAR LAW'S SPEECHES.

Bonar Law's violent speeches, justifying Ulster in appealing to force against Home Rule, are regarded here, not without uneasiness. They are strengthening the hands of the small section whose doings were seen this week in the violent outbreak against the Liberal workmen at Harland and Wolff's shipyard, Belfast. Many English Unionists protest against Mr. Law's extreme counsel, and it will have no effect in delaying the passage of the law.

NEW SEPARATE SCHOOL

Otonobee R.C. Building Approaching Completion—This School Will Mean the Re-organization of Several School Districts in That Township.

The new separate school in Otonabee is approaching completion and the building will be ready for the regular fall school opening. It is a handsome structure and has quite a striking appearance, being situated on the top of the hill, a short distance past the old school house. The Rev. Dr. O'Brien of this city has practically taken charge of the organization of the new separate school division in that township, as well as supervised the planning and erection of the building.

The most serious circumstance connected with the formation of this separate school district is the disorganization which will be incurred to the public school sections in the neighborhood. Many of the pupils now attending these schools will be withdrawn and sent to the Separate school. This will probably mean the closing of one or more of the public schools and the opening of a central public school.

The causes which led to the separation of the Protestant and Catholic pupils has already been explained in these columns. At the Public school meeting the Roman Catholic public school supporters were able to elect a majority of Roman Catholics to the board. The result was the employment of a Roman Catholic teacher who gave religious instruction according to her faith. Naturally, this was objected to by parents of Protestant pupils, and after taking up the Matter with the Public School Inspector, an appeal was made to the Minister of Education. The result of it all was that Rev. Dr. O'Brien decided to form a separate school district and withdraw all Catholic pupils from the other schools in the neighborhood. This will mean larger school sections for both Protestants and Catholics and much longer distances for many of the children to travel to school. It will also entail a very heavy expenditure on the part of the Roman Catholics, many of whom are understood to have opposed the change. It has also the effect of wrecking one or more Public schools and thereby creating a very bitter feeling in the district. Such is the effect, in one instance at least, of the miserable dual school system which we have in Ontario.

MISS ELEANOR WILSON AT TENNIS.

COPYRIGHT BY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

MISS ELEANOR WILSON

One of the favorite sports of Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the democratic nominee for President, is lawn tennis. The camera man snapped her as she had successfully completed a volley with an opponent, and her smile is caused for the reason that she kept "placing" the ball where her opponent was not.

Not only does she possess a service which is swift and accurate and hard to return successfully but her net play and back court work are excellent. She is lithe and active, and there are many who have played tennis with her who cannot boast of victory.

THE PRINTERS' PICNIC A GRAND SUCCESS

Notwithstanding the threatening condition of the weather at noon on Saturday, a large crowd turned out to attend the Printers' picnic to Jubilee Point. The steamer Stoney Lake, which carried the excursionists, carried the full limit of passengers, and on the trip down the river every person went in to have a good time. Tucker's orchestra supplied the music for the dancers, while others invaded the refreshment booth, where President Dillon dished out the ice cream cones in good style.

The grand programme of sports which had been arranged was then run off, and every event was keenly contested. One of the most amusing features was the pie-eating contest, and the crowd went frantic at the efforts put forth by some of the boys to get rid of the juicy huckle berry pies. Every event was pulled off without a hitch and all seemed to have had a good time.

U. S. Department of Justice Invokes Anti-trust Law in Filing Suit Against Press Association in Trying to Corner Opinions

Chicago, Aug. 4.—With the filing of an agreed decree in a civil anti-trust suit against the Western Newspaper Union and the American Press Association, the federal government to-day took an advanced step under the Sherman law to prevent what the department of justice regarded as the possibility of a combination to influence the thought of sixty million readers of rural newspapers.

REAR END COLLISION AT TWEED YESTERDAY

Special to The Times.

Tweed, Aug. 4.—A serious accident occurred here about five o'clock this morning, when an eastbound freight train ran into another train, also eastbound, which was standing on the track. The impact was terrific, as both were heavy trains. Engineer Joe Muldoon, of the second train was instantly killed, and despatcher McCutchen, of Havelock, who was asleep in the caboose of the first train, received injuries from which he will probably die. His skull was fractured, besides other injuries. The fireman on the wrecked engine jumped and this saved his life, having a leg broken.

Fourteen cars were wrecked, and at once took fire, eight being totally destroyed together with their contents.

The cause of the accident was misunderstanding of orders, and no blame is to be attached to the Railway Company. Muldoon is a resident of Smith's Falls, and is unmarried. He was about 30 years of age, and had a large circle of friends, who will regret his sudden demise. Despatcher McCutcheon's home is in Havelock, and was on his way to Smith's Falls, where he intended visiting friends.

GERMAN BIRTH RATE DESCENDS

A Fact Which May Mean Much For The Fatherland

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Figures just published by the statistical department show that, in proportion to the population of Prussia, the birth rate has reached a depression lower than at any period within the last hundred years.

With slight interruptions the birth rate has fallen steadily from 42.6 per 1000 in 1876, to 30.7 in 1910. There was an absolute decrease in the number of births in Prussia in 1910 or 30,417 as compared with 1909.

There appears to be an impression that this is largely due to social causes, rather than to physiological reasons, and that the rapid rise in the prices of the necessaries of life is the cause of a phenomenon which is alarming social reformers. It seems an unlikely hypothesis that the race is becoming exhausted, and the reason for the decreased birth rate will most likely be found in the complex conditions of modern life, and its insecurity—conditions which make the support of a large family exceedingly difficult.

It is remarkable to find the Norddeutsche Zeitung, in discussing this problem, declaring that much depends on the question of adequate housing accommodations. In Berlin it is becoming customary for landlords to refuse flats to people with large families, and statistics clearly show that the depression in the birth rate affects town populations much more than rural communities.

THREE MINISTERS MAY VISIT CANADA IN SEPTEMBER

London, Aug. 4.—The Spectator suggests that each Dominion should contribute to the Imperial naval loan a sum equalling one pound per head according to the population, which would tide us over the perilous period of the next ten years, the Admiralty and Imperial Defence Committee to have the freest possible hand in such a scheme. This would put a damper on German competition.

The Yorkshire Post says, Mr Borden, on the conclusion of yesterday's sitting of Imperial Defence Committee, formally invited Premier Asquith and Messrs. Churchill, Harcourt and Seeley to visit Canada during the autumn session of Dominion Parliament. The Post adds that it may be taken for granted Mr. Asquith is not going at present, but Mr. Churchill and others will probably go next month

MR. CHURCHILL NOT TO ADVISE

His Visit to Ottawa Just a Friendly One—Politicial Clubs May Dine British War Lord

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Although nothing definite is yet known here as to the exact date of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill's departure for Canada, it is understood that preparations are already under way for the reception and entertainment of the distinguished first lord of the admiralty.

While Mr. Churchill will be the Dominion Government's guest, it is understood that a banquet will be tendered him at the Chateau Laurier by the combined Borden and Conservative Clubs of the capital. The Reform Club, it is said, are anxious to have him address them.

It is not expected in political circles that Mr. Churchill will be able to remain in Canada more than a few days, owing to his pressing duties at home.

There is much speculation also among politicians of both parties as to just in what capacity the British war lord is making the visit. The general tendency is to regard the visit as merely of a friendly and not of an advisory nature.

DEATH OF MRS. WM. BROWN.

The sad death occurred yesterday morning about 10.30 o'clock of Isabel Wood, widow of the late William Brown, of Cavan township, near Centreville. Mrs. Brown came to this city six or seven years ago and since that time she has become well and favorably known in the city, and a large number of friends will be shocked to learn of her demise.

The deceased lady was 75 years of age. She is survived by four daughters, Margaret, Isabel and Mrs. Wm. Beaus of this city and Mrs. James McCamus of Cavan township, near Bailieboro, as well as one son, Wilfrid who resides on the old homestead in Cavan. The late Mrs. Brown was a member of All Saints' church, city. The funeral will take place at one o'clock on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence, [illegible] Pearl street, to St. Paul's church cemetery, Cavan. The Rev. W. C. Allan, her former rector, will officiate.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth. The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 40 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 5c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 356 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:
25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

PUNISHED THE SHREW.

Story of the Vixen's Head That Decorates a House In Berlin.

In Berlin, as a tourist turns into the Heiligengeist, not far from the kaiser's palace, he will see, fixed in a niche in the second story of the house No. 38, a bust carved in stone. This is called the "Neidkopf." It represents a hideous, harpy faced woman, with snakelike curls of hair and tongue sticking out in mocking derision. This is the story of its origin and purpose:

One day almost 200 years ago Frederick William of Prussia, "Old Fritz," was walking about the streets of his city in the shabby, free and easy way he loved, looking about for some grievance to redress or some load to lighten, which was an agreeable habit of this plain living king. Looking in at a window, he was struck by the intent industry of a humpbacked goldsmith, and so the king entered the little shop for a chat. The result of this interview was an order for a gold table service for the royal household, which made the fortune of the hunchback. Later the king made other visits to see ho wthe work was progressing and on one of these occasions noticed a woman in the window of the opposite house, making the most hideous grimaces and pointing a derisive finger at the little cripple.

"What is the matter with the shrew over there?" asked Frederick William.

"It is envy, your majesty," exclaimed the goldsmith. "She is the wife of a rival goldsmith, and ever since your majesty gave me this order she and her daughter have not ceased to mock and deride me.

Frederick William, paternal in punishment as well as in reward, at once made inquiries as to the ownership of the house wherein this shrew lived. He found that it belonged to her husband, and therefore reasoned that there was little likelihood of the family moving. This seemed to please him. He next enlisted the services of a sculptor and ordered him to make the bust of a woman with the most shrewish, Xantippe like face he could imagine. The king then bought and renovated the house in which the hunchback had his workshop, presented it to him and caused the bust to be placed conspicuously above the workroom window. Thus whenever the envious woman across the street looked forth from her casement the first thing on which her eyes fell was this intended portrait of her amiable self.

For more than 100 years the "Neidkopf," "spiteful vixen head," as one would say in English, stood in proud prominence, a reproach to the envious Frau Goldschmied and her descendants. It afterward mysteriously disappeared, but in 1840 or thereabouts it was found again in a forgotten collection of bric-a-brac. Frederick William IV. bought the bust for a very large price and had it replaced in its original niche, where it stands today.—New York Press.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE.

Is It Open to Shipping All the Year Round?

According to Dr. Bell, who was for years head of the geological survey in Canada, the Hudson Straits never freeze over. "It is impossible that there should at any time in the twelve months be difficulty in navigating the straits, for they are upon tide water, and, more than that, the waters of the Gulf Stream come back this way from the north of the coast of Europe," he says. "The Hudson Bay railway will always have an open port. There may be some little difficulty near the shore at some times of the year, but I do not think it will ever be necessary to have ice-breaking boats."

At Nelson River, Dr. Bell says, there is tide water for a considerable distance up stream, and water that is always open.

"Why," said the doctor, "navigation through the straits should be particularly easy, because while there may at times be floating ice, there are no rocks and no islands upon which to go ashore."

Asked if it would not be a bleak coast upon which to be stranded, Dr. Bell said the coast was very much under-rated. "What is more, there are some remarkably fine people, Indians, who live there. You know, it is generally understood that many of these Indians are descendants of Hudson and his navigators, who were stranded there, and who probably made friends among the Indians and married squaws. At any rate, though they are not what we might call civilised, I have been delighted at the people I have met there."

Of the east coast of Hudson Bay, Dr. Bell says that it is thickly wooded for a great part right down to the coast. He tells of the vast extent of Ungava River, which he characterises as one of the great rivers of the world, over 700 miles long, and very wide and deep. At its mouth is what he believes to be the greatest tide in the world rising 70 feet from low water to high water.

"I was told of an accident that happened to a steamship captain," he said, "that will illustrate the extent of the rise, and the necessity of being careful in casting anchor. The captain had cast anchor the night before, and the crew retired in a feeling of security, when they were awakened by the vessel careening to one side. Daylight approaching, they were able to discover that the water had receded 100 feet from the vessel, and that they were on the side of a slippery rock, down which, should the vessel lose its grip on the side of the rock, they would fall a sheer 70 feet, and probably be smashed to pieces."

Dr. Bell says that there are great stores of pulpwood, and that the outlook for miners in the country well up Hudson Bay, through Ontario's new hinterland, is splendid. He says further that there are good agricultural lands, and that many things are now grown there, showing the possibilities for agriculture.

Dr. Bell first visited the points on Hudson Bay in 1875, and two years later he traversed 700 miles of the east coast of the bay. In the intervening period he has many times gone over the country and through the waters of the bay and the straits.

PRESERVING THE BISON.

Nearly a Thousand Head In the Wainwright Park.

There are now 900 bison in the national preserve at Wainwright, Alberta, and the number is increasing rapidly. Last year 170 calves were born in the herd, and it is expected that this year the natural increase will be about 250. Mr. Ellis, who has charge of the park at Wainwright, has stated in the course of an interview that it is not probable that many more of the animals will be brought up from the Flathead range in Montana. There may be twenty or thirty brought up this summer, but it is not likely that the men who are engaged in rounding up the herd will be successful in catching more than this number.

Mr. Ellis states that a profitable industry might be evolved from the bison farm because of the value of the heads and hides. The old cows and bulls might be killed off each year for their hides. The cost of feeding the animals is very small. During the summer they are out on the range, and even in the winter they are able to graze and obtain sufficient nourishment to keep them in good condition. Last winter only 600 tons of hay have been required. This hay is grown on the farm in connection with the range, and about 1,200 tons of hay were put up last year, so that 600 will be carried over this year.

The range is one hundred thousand acres in extent, and the bison roam this tract during the summer, but in the winter they are confined to the winter quarters, which are about twelve square miles in extent. The animals browse on this tract, and their feed is carried out to them on hay racks. Mr. Ellis says that some of the cows are becoming very fierce, and it will be necessary to shoot them in all probability. They have charged the herders several times, and there have been a number of narrow escapes. None of the animals have charged the teams on the hay racks as yet, but it is feared that they will do so some day. The bulls, however, seem to be much more quiet than the cows, as they have not given any trouble as yet.

There is a large herd of bison in the country north of Fort Chipewyan, and it is probable that some of these animals will be brought down to Wainwright to put new blood into the herd there.

There are a number of moose, elk, antelope, and deer at the range now, it being the Government's intention to use this place as a stock farm. Animals which are native to this country will be bred there and used to stock the parks all over the Dominion—Standard of Empire.

Merely a Suggestion.

The second hand dealer looked the car over carefully and then made his offer.

"I'll take the machinery of the motor," he said, "but I don't want the rest of it."

"But," said Wiggins, "what'll I do with my body?"

"Your body?" said the dealer, "why, I don't know. You ought to consult an undertaker about that."—Harper's Weekly.

Up to Date.

"They're very up to date."

"That so?"

"Yes. Her daughter is to be married soon, and she has sent out invitations that read this way: 'Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wattersby Brown request your presence at the first wedding of their daughter Jane.'"—Detroit Free Press.

HEROIC EFFORTS OF CREW SAVED STEAMER

Eureka, Cal., Aug. 3.—Dripping with blazing oil and severed from touch with the world by the failure of her wireless, the North Pacific Steamship Company's vessel F. A. Kilburn was saved from destruction by the heroic efforts of her crew.

Two girls who were among the two hundred passengers, narrowly escaped suffocation. They were rescued by the Chief Engineer, Clough, and Sidney Ashton, steward.

The Kilburn arrived here from San Francisco yesterday afternoon under her own power. While about 25 miles south of Point Arena last night, fire broke out in the engine room as oil was being removed from one fuel tank to another, and the flames shot up the ventilating shaft to the stateroom on the upper deck.

After holes had been chopped through the port stateroom walls by the crew water was gotten into the engine room and the fire was conquered.

SUFFRAGETISM AS A DISEASE.

A Montreal contemporary suggests as the best way to deal with the English suffragets, that they be marooned on one of the Faulkland Islands, provided with plenty of food, and left to their own devices—even to go on hunger strikes and starve, if such would be their will.

Doubtless the suggestion is not intended to be taken seriously. Up to the present, indeed, suffragetism itself has not been taken seriously. But it will have to be, now that it has evolved from a nuisance into a dangerous cause of violent crime. It is now a grave menace to society.

The Hamilton Herald thinks that there is some reason for regarding suffragetism as a disease—a form of hysteria, and the typical suffragette as [illegible] rather than criminals. That these women are mentally unbalanced seems clear. Their acts of violence are so utterly foolish and futile that they could hardly be prompted by minds quite sane. They may be [illegible] the victims of hysteria. It is a well established fact that hysteria is contagious and may quickly infect whole communities. A standard example is that of the "dancing madness," which afflicted hundreds of thousands of people in Germany and Italy in the latter half of the fourteenth century. Originally starting with the "religious" dancing of a small sect of lunatics, the madness spread rapidly. Whole communities were affected by it, and thousands of victims danced themselves to death, dying from sheer exhaustion; many others killed themselves in their frenzy, while countless numbers suffered from nervous derangement that their lives were ruined.

There is something akin to the dancing madness in the violent antics of the suffragets. Very probably these unfortunate women are mentally disordered, the victims of dangerous hysteria. Their responsibility for their acts may well be doubted. What, then, is the remedy? They should be treated as dangerous lunatics, those of them at least in whom the malady takes the acute form of mania for committing violence. They should be locked up in retreats for the insane, and subjected to such treatment as is appropriate for persons who are temporarily deranged.

PUBLIC OPINION

[illegible] does not hold itself [illegible] for the opinions of [illegible]

[illegible] TO THE BRITISH NAVY.

([illegible] Morning Times).

[illegible]—In looking over the Times the other day I saw an article which states, among other things, that if Premier Borden comes out with an unequivocal proposal for an adequate "temporary" contribution to the British navy, he should rejoice in voting for it. Why temporary, may I ask? Cannot this Canada of ours, with its immense resources, probably the greatest and wealthiest colony under the Crown, make an annual contribution? Let us figure for a moment what our sister colonies have done, and are at this moment doing. At the Colonial Conference [illegible] Cape Colony and Natal accepted the principle of an annual contribution of money towards the maintenance of the British navy. Australia agreed to give $1,000,000 for ten years; New Zealand $200,000, Cape Colony, $250,000. In addition to this Cape Colony gave a first-class battleship, the H.M.S. "Good Hope"; Natal, $175,000; Newfoundland, while unable to make any direct grant, agreed to establish and maintain a branch of the Royal Naval Reserve, which could be called upon to man the fleet in an emergency. Speaking on behalf of Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "Canada found itself unable to join in a policy of contributing towards the upkeep of the navy."

Why Unionists Support Churchill

In 1908 New Zealand increased its grant to $500,000, at the same time stating it was to be used unconditionally. Canada, through the then Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, undertook to build a "local navy," consisting at first of second-class cruisers and destroyers. He remained three years in office after making this promise, and we all know how he fulfilled it. I feel confident that any promise made by the Right Hon. Mr. Borden during his present visit will be faithfully carried out. "Juvenis" seems surprised that the Unionist party supports Mr. Churchill in his effort to make Britain's fleet supreme. Is he aware that for more than a quarter of a century the Unionists, whether in or out of power, have contended for a two-power standard, plus 10 per cent., and under such able naval administrators as Goschen, Selbourne and Cawdor, the fleet attained a very high level of strength and efficiency. In 1905-6, when the Unionists went out of power, in comparing all fighting units, Britain had a total of 459 against 392 for Germany and Italy combined. The relative strength was much greater, if we take unit for unit. I have not the figures before me for the last year, but Mr. Churchill stated in the House of Commons the other day that in 1914, if we fulfilled the programme outlined by him, and Germany did not add to her building programme, we would be only four first-class battleships ahead of Germany. Is the margin sufficient? The Unionists and many more sober-minded men most emphatically say "no." "Juvenis" will observe from the above that the Unionists are but pressing for the carrying out of their own policy.

League of Peace Fallacy.

In 1906, when the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman assumed office at the head of the Liberal party he was pledged to reduce expenditure on both the army and the navy, and for two years attempted to promote international disarmament, being deluded with the hope that Great Britain might occupy the position of the leader of a League of Peace. Germany's reply to this was curt and to the point. She passed a new Navy Act by which, from 1908, her building programme was largely increased and accelerated. Despite repeated warnings in Parliament and from the Press, the Liberals continued to curtail the estimates until we find ourselves to-day with only the barest margin over Germany, not to mention a two-power standard. In order to retain power the Liberal party have much to answer for, and signs are not wanting that now they are up against it. They will, as they have done so often before, resign and place the burden on the shoulders of the much-abused Conservatives. I only trust it may not then be too late. I may tell "Juvenis," in closing, that I also am a disciple of reciprocity, but let it be carried on strictly within the Empire. I regret delay in sending this, but I am working long hours just now, and your paper only came into my hands last night.

—Bon Accord.

Weary Tirdness
Changed to Vigor

THAT PLAYED-OUT FEELING WAS QUICKLY REMEDIED AND HEALTH RESTORED.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well-known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day, I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course, I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant and after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared, and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Calder.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. [illegible], of [illegible], Montreal, a sister of Mr. [illegible] Lauder, of Mt. Julian, Stoney Lake, after a short but severe illness, on the 16th of July.

The deceased was born in Montreal, but came, with her parents and part of the family, to the farm now occupied by Mr. Lauder and lived there for a number of years. She returned to Montreal, where she lived for nearly the rest of her life, except for a year or two spent in the States, and coming often to visit her old home. Mr. and Mrs. Lauder and her sister, Mrs. R. Darling, of Smith, on the news of her illness, went down to Montreal and remained ten days, but were afraid it would prove fatal, and in a short time they received word of her death. Her body, accompanied by two sisters, three nephews, a niece and some other relatives, was brought to Lakefield and met there by her friends from Mt. Julian and Smith. The pall-bearers were Mr. A. Darling and Mr. D. Darling, of Smith, Mr. J. Reid, of Lakefield, Mr. I. Church, Mr. A. Church and Mr. Bruce Reid, of Mt. Julian. Rev. Mr. Coon conducted the funeral service in the Methodist church and at the grave in the Bay cemetery.

Amongst those who came from Mt. Julian to pay the last mark of respect to their former friend and neighbor were Mrs. Thomas Northy, Mrs. Samuel Wilson, Mrs. Israel Church, Miss Emma Reid and Miss Beattie Reid.

Mrs. Calder was of a bright and cheerful disposition, which endeared her to her friends, and her death will make a sad break in the family circle.

The annual excursion of the Baptist church Sunday school, Bridgenorth, will be held on Monday, Aug. 19th, per steamer Stoney Lake. The boat will call at Juniper Island both ways, allowing excursionists to spend a few hours there.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest [illegible] Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B.C.

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned [illegible] per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established [illegible] promotion [illegible]

3. It is subject to advance without notice, and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

PRINCE RUPERT
"Canada's Golden Gate"

The work of transforming Prince Rupert into a modern terminus of a trans continental railway is proceeding rapidly, the Grand Trunk Pacific is devoting all its energy to getting its terminal facilities ready for the opening of the line in 1914. Settlers are flocking into the adjacent fertile valleys. Industries are starting which will employ a large number of men. In short, Prince Rupert is the centre of the greatest activity in the development of Northern British Columbia.

DO YOU WANT TO SHARE IN THIS PROSPERITY?

If so, here is your chance for a safe investment.

An investment company is now in the hands of the Continental Trust Company, Ltd., of Prince Rupert, for incorporation, with the objects of

BUYING, SELLING, AND IMPROVING

Prince Rupert city property. It will be incorporated for $100,000, divided into one hundred thousand shares of the par value of $1 each and the shares will be sold at that price.

Stock in a similar organization formed in Prince Rupert is now worth three times its initial selling price, and no stock can be obtained.

A great number of houses and buildings of all kinds are required to take care of the rapid increase in population. THIS IS WHERE WE COME IN. We will provide homes for the incoming families.

Fortunes have been made in other western cities on this identical plan, and stock in similar companies is increasing in value and at the same time paying large dividends.

Reservations for stock are now being made. We want you to become a Stockholder. Subscriptions of $10 or more are being received.

If you will fill out the accompanying coupon and send it to us we will mail you complete information, with booklet descriptive of Prince Rupert DO IT TO-DAY!

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that a By-law was passed by the Council of the County of Peterborough, on the 18th day of June, A.D., 1912, providing for the issue of Debentures to the amount of $18,000.00 for the purpose of constructing bridges and making permanent improvements to County Property, and that such By-law was registered in the Registry Office in the County of Peterborough on the 22nd day of June, A.D., 1912.

Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

ED. H. ELLIOTT,
County Clerk.

Dated June 22nd, 1912.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guarantors are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guarantors, who are equally interested in its management. Home Office, Toronto.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity.

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

FLAX WEAVING IS ANCIENT.

And the Process Has Improved but Little in Forty Centuries.

Flax weaving, according to a recent authority, is 4,000 years old as an industry. Egypt was the first country to raise flax. All fine table linen is made from water spun flax, as water is essential to its manufacture. Vapor has been tried, but unsuccessfully. The process of manufacture has improved but little in 4,000 years, the linen made by the Egyptians being often found in an excellent state of preservation, wrapped about the bodies of mummies.

There is no grass bleached flax today, as grass bleaching is too slow a process. Chemicals are used to shorten the work.

Very little flax is raised in the United States because the air contains too little moisture. The finest towels and handkerchiefs are made in Ireland, and the Scotch linens wear perhaps better than any. Straight line patterns do not wear as well as figures with rounded edges.

In single thread damask the same number of threads run each way. In double thread damask there is double the number of threads in the weft, which doubles the wear.—New York Post.

The Wedding Cake.

The custom of having a special cake at weddings was introduced into England by the Romans. This cake, or, rather, biscuit, signified fruitfulness, hospitality and prosperity. The rice that was showered upon a bride had a similar meaning. For many centuries after the Romans left the custom was to break the biscuit over the bride's head, and then the fragments were picked up and piled before her for distribution to her friends. At the restoration Charles II. returned with a small army of French cooks, who speedily converted the ancient biscuit into a delicious piece of confectionery, iced it with sugar and gradually adorned it with emblematical devices till it towered into the amazing structure which the luxury of later times has developed.—London Chronicle.

Apes and Beards.

Almost all apes have beards. Darwin says that gorillas, chimpanzees and orang outangs have also stiff and bristly hairs upon their upper lips, resembling small whiskers. The beards of apes possess a remarkable resemblance to those of man in being almost invariably lighter in color than the hair of the head. In apes the chin growth is most frequently yellow or red. [illegible] white [illegible] although [illegible] developed [illegible] gether as in human beings, but are scattered through the hair, covering the part of the face which would be called the forehead in man.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

This Tells What It Is, Though You May Not Quite Grasp It.

The fourth dimension is a property of space quite beyond the sense perception of man, an abstraction derived from the results obtained by well comprehended processes in the higher mathematics. Certain things happen in these computations which are in no way susceptible of explanation in a space restricted to the three tea chest dimensions of length, breadth and thickness. From a sufficiently considerable number of such phenomena the theory has been evolved that space has a fourth dimension.

In the common progress of mathematical study the need of such transcendental dimension first arises in the specific case of that plane section of the cone designated the hyperbola. At an infinite as well as in all intermediate distances of that curve from the point of origin the line is continuous in a given direction; if now to infinity a single unit be added the curve comes into view in the diametrically opposite direction.

In this elementary demonstration the fourth spatial dimension appears to suggest sphericity, but this is only the beginning. It is still under careful examination by mathematicians. Scientists at one time seized upon the idea in explanation of thought transference, psychic phenomena and the whole hoodoo range in general.—New York Sun.

The Banshee.

The banshee is the domestic ghost or spirit attached to certain Irish or highland Scottish households and is supposed to take an interest in the welfare of the family generally and especially to wail at the death of any one of its members. The banshee is pictured in Irish folklore under the form of a little old woman with long hair, which she continually combs, at the same time keeping up an incessant weeping and wailing. The incident of the comb is exactly similar to the legend of the German lorelei, a spirit which sings, while the banshee weeps, as an accompaniment. The proud distinction of possessing a private banshee is allowed only to families of pure Milesian stock. The word is derived from the Gaelic ban-sith, a woman fairy.

"The fact of the matter is I never amounted to anything before I was married."

"Then you give your wife credit for awaking your ambition?"

"No; for making it necessary for me to get out and hustle."—Chicago Record-Herald.

From Jail to the Bench.

Francis Pemberton (1625-97) was imprisoned in the Fleet for debts contracted during a period of youthful extravagance. While in jail he applied himself to the study of law and came to be regarded as a kind of legal oracle by his fellow prisoners, who called him "counselor." With the money they gave him for legal advice he bought books to continue his studies. He then prevailed upon his creditors to grant his release from prison that he might the sooner earn money to pay off his debts. Called to the bar in 1654, After a brilliant career in the palace court at Westminster and subsequently in the house of lords, he became a puisne judge. He was [illegible] in 1675 and [illegible], on the dismissal of Scroggs, was made lord chief justice in 1681.—London [illegible]

This is Transcona's Year!!!

The promise of Transcona, when the transcontinental shops and yards were located there, now fulfilled doubly by the C. P. R.'s immense project. Transcona bids fair to become an industrial centre. Manufacturers already established, and more coming.

During the past two years there has been more money made by the conservative investor in Transcona property than any other investment we know of. Have you shared in the big profits realized?

The amount of money you make in TRANSCONA practically depends upon the number of lots you purchase now.

We have specialized in Transcona property from the very first, and control the best buying in all parts of Transcona.

Our property, besides containing the best business locations, is the most natural home-site for a force of thousands of men to live here permanently as soon as the mammoth locomotive shops are opened.

$210 a Lot and upwards.

Cheapest Place in Town for High Grade Goods

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

has the largest, brightest and best stock ever shown in their store, consisting of Fancy Goods of every description, suitable for presents.

These will be sold at prices that defy competition. We are in a position to sell cheaper than others for the simple reason that our expenses are much lighter than other stores in the city, and we are not depending on the store sales to meet expenses, as our large and growing newspaper, printing and bookbinding business takes care of all this. So, the public are invited to call and examine our stock and prices, and they will be convinced. In addition to selling cheap, we offer a beautiful pair of Patent, Self-Sharpening Shears free with every purchase of $2.00 and upwards.

We ALSO GIVE a Splendid Kitchen Set as Shown in Cut

Consisting of Nine Pieces, with every purchase of $10 or over

Call and see this splendid set, even though you do not buy.

Child Emigrants.

Speaking at a meeting held at the Mansion House in connection with the child emigration work of the Salvation Army, Earl Grey said a greater kindness could not be done to the state-aided children in England than by removing them from the Poor Law conditions of this country to the freer, more wholesome life in Canada or any of the Overseas Dominions.

People in this country could hardly realise how large was the number of good homes in which people were longing for the entrance of an imported child. Last year the number of children imported into Canada was 2,4[illegible], and the number of applications for children for whose care the state was responsible was over 18,000—eight applications for every child.

There was not the slightest difficulty in securing for the imported child the certainty of a good home in Canada. If the demands of the Canadian homes that required children were met in two years this country would save a million of money on its rate-aided children. That would help the rates, would help Canada, and would help the Empire, but that threefold assistance would be nothing compared with the good it would do the children.

Fatal Admission.

Merchant—What other qualifications have you for the place? Applicant—Well, my friends tell me I have a contented disposition and— Merchant—You won't do. We want a man with a discontented disposition, one that will hustle.—Philadelphia Press.

"Labby" Wanted a Place.

It is hard to think of Henry Labouchere in any other occupation than that of hitting heads and making faces, in a good cause, to be sure, but still with much gusto and impish glee. But we are assured by G. W. E. Russell in the Cornhill Magazine that Labouchere for a time cherished that most bourgeois of ambitions—a place in the cabinet or in the high diplomatic service. When Gladstone organized his last cabinet, in 1892, Labouchere confidently expected that his valiant services to the party during six years of Tory ascendancy would be rewarded, but before Gladstone submitted his list of ministers to the queen he had received a direct intimation that the name of the editor of Truth must not appear there. On this point her majesty was reported to be "very stiff." Later Labouchere was an active candidate for the ambassadorship at Washington.

No Changes.

"Why don't you work up some improvements in this department?" demanded the proprietor.

"Well, sir, the work has always been done this way. Could I have an increase of salary?"

"Why should you? This job has always drawn $8 a week."

She Had Retired.

"Is that hair restorer any good?"

"Fine! I put a bottle of it on my wife's dressing table the other night and when I got home from the club the dressing table was covered with hair."

A Clever Scout.

One of the most interesting figures in the recent militia camp at Niagara Falls, Ont., was Lloyd Colquhoun, the fourteen-year-old son of Captain M. A. Colquhoun of the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, who was attached to the regimental signalling corps. Being too young to take his place in the ranks, he wore the uniform of the Brantford Y.M.C.A. Boy Scouts, of which he is an enthusiastic member. Scout Colquhoun was one of the fastest signallers in the camp, and can use the heliograph, flag, or night lamp with equal facility. He was practising on the field with the heliograph sections every day and proved his ability. Scout Colquhoun has the distinction of wearing no less than twenty-six scout badges on his arms, as witnesses to his proficiency in many lines, including dairying, fire-fighting, cooking, sewing, life-saving, daring, general usefulness, and many others.

When Nostrils Are Plugged Your Catarrh Is Bad

BY ACTING TO-DAY YOU CAN QUICKLY CURE CATARRH AND AVOID BRONCHITIS, PERHAPS CONSUMPTION.

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure is Catarrhozone, Which Cures Every Curable Case.

Catarrhozone proves [illegible] good in those chronic cases, where mucous drops down the throat, sickens the stomach and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are plugged only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore [illegible] the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhozone act almost as magic.

Once you stop taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhozone at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, weak lungs, bronchitis and speaker's sore throat.

13 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED.

"As Catarrhozone has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that lasted thirteen years I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhozone was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured — have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always occasionally use Catarrhozone, as I prize it so highly.

Mrs. E. T. Osgood,
Johnson P. O., Ont.

Lights for Canoe Slide.

It has been suggested to Supt. McClellan that a light be put at the new canoe slide at No. 7 Dam, below the Little Lake; a second one at end of lower lock and a third one at the end of the pier. An Old Timer in the City.

Mr. John Chambers, an old resident of the city, who left Peterborough about [illegible] years ago, is home on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. R. Hudson. Mr. Chambers, who was one of the firm of T. Chambers & Son, owned the building property known as the Munro House, at the corner of Hunter and Water streets, where they carried on a large and lucrative business for many years. Mr. Chambers has resided in Winnipeg since he left Peterborough. He naturally sees a great change for the better in his native town. He will leave for his Western home to-day.

WEDDING BELLS.

Faint—McIlmoyle.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in George street Methodist church Saturday afternoon when Miss Lottie McIlmoyle, daughter of Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle, of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. W. Herbert Faint son of Mr. Wm. Faint, of Winnipeg. The Rev. Isaac Couch performed the ceremony. The bride was charmingly attired in ivory Liberty satin with baby Irish lace and pearls and carried a bouquet of cream roses, while the bridesmaid, Miss Ethel McIlmoyle, wore a dress of pink charmeuse trimmed with pearls and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride's mother wore a dress of black Duchess mousseline. The best man was Mr. B. C. Throop and the ushers Messrs. Holly McIlmoyle and Alvin T. Morrow. During the signing of the register, Miss Ella Sanderson sang "O Fair, O Sweet, O Holy." Mr. J. H. Bezwick played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding march.

BAD COMPLEXIONS ARE NOW EASILY DISCARDED.

(From the Beauty Seeker.)

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will actually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexion improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding tan, freckles, sun spots, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Instantaneous results are secured.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The combined stores of Peterborough can easily outrival any two city departmental stores in the stocks carried, the prices offered, and the quality of goods sold.

Investigation will prove this point beyond dispute.

When you have ALL the big store stocks here to choose from you have more variety than any city departmental can give you in any one line.

By trading here you have the opportunity of inspecting the goods and comparing values on the spot.

You save the time, trouble, postage, express, and disappointment.

You have immense stocks of new goods to choose from.

You have the reputation of business men who are here all the time to back up the quality of what you buy.

You are not trading sight unseen. You see the goods you buy, and buy the goods you see.

It Will Pay You to Trade in Peterboro

Just make that comparison once or twice and convince yourself. In the meantime, read the advertisements in this issue; there are some great bargains offered. See the goods, get the prices, examine the stocks, and the rest may safely be left to your good judgment.

DROWNING ACCIDENT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AT CHEMONG PARK

Miss Rosenburg of New York The Victim of a Sad Occurrence—Had Only Been Visiting at Chemong a Few Days

A gloom has been cast over the usually blithe summer resort, Chemong Park, by the sudden death by drowning of Miss Rosenburg, of New York.

It appears that Miss Rosenburg was bathing at the Beach near Hopwood's cottage, in company with a number of friends, including Mr. Roy Dixon, of this city, when she got beyond her depth. Unable to swim, she sank at once, and although her companions at once dived for her she was not brought to the surface for some time.

Finally, the body was recovered, and Dr. Young of this city, who had been summoned from his cottage there, attempted to revive her. His efforts, however, were futile and it soon became evident that all life had fled from her body.

Miss Rosenburg, who was only 16 or 17 years of age, was not accompanied by relatives, but was staying at Chemong the guest of Mrs. Weill, of Buffalo. She came to Chemong only a few days ago, but had become popular among the young people there whose activities has ceased with her death

The accident occurred between four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon.

NEW BRIDGE AT DALHOUSIE STREET WOULD COST $87,875

ACCORDING TO ESTIMATE OF THE CITY ENGINEER.

Would be of Substantial Nature, Permitting of Street Car Traffic—City Council Will Further Consider This Matter at a Meeting called Specially for That Purpose—Government Might be Expected to Assume Cost of Swing.

City Engineer T. A. S. Hay submitted to the City Fathers last night his estimate for a substantial steel bridge across the Otonabee river at Dalhousie street. The figures run up so high that it was considered futile to go into the question at a regular meeting. Consequently, on motion of Ald. Gillespie discussion in detail, with a view to definite action was postponed until such time as the Council can devote a whole evening to the project.

The following is Mr. Hay's estimate:

To His Worship the Mayor,—

Dear Sir,—As requested I have made an estimate of cost of erecting a bridge across the river on a line parallel with, and distant northerly 200 feet from the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, from the end of Dalhousie street to a point on the east bank 75 feet south of the end of Maria street, into which street the eastern approach will gradually merge at the south end of Engleburn avenue.

The total length of the river crossing, including embankments will be 793 feet, consisting of three spans of steel truss, 125 feet each, and embankments 250 feet long where the line of bridge intersects the islands, and 150 feet long from east approach.

The plan provides for a roadway of 27 feet 4 inches total width, consisting of space in centre, 8 feet wide for single track street railway, and roadway 9 feet 8 inches wide each side, clear of car. Sidewalks 6 feet clear width on each side, hang outside of truss work.

It is possible that objections may be raised by Department of Railways and Canals to the plan submitted by reason of insufficient waterway, necessitating an additional span, and thereby shortening embankment. In which event the cost of bridge would be considerably increased.

There is also the possibility of a demand for a swing span for navigation purposes, in which case the Government might be expected to assume the cost, which would reduce the amount payable by the city.

In order to procure required material for forming embankments and approaches in addition to what can be got by cutting down hill on Maria street, it may be necessary to purchase a borrow pit in the vicinity, or as an alternative, a temporary trestle work could be used and the embankments raised gradually by dumping waste material, which would be a very slow process.

On the east bank the approach from Maria street will cross over a vacant piece of land, the whole of which should be acquired.

As the nature of river bed is unknown, I have included in estimate an amount for driving piles for the foundation abutments and piers. This may be found unnecessary on examination, when excavations have been made, with a reduction in cost of $1500 or $2000.

Owing to the fact that an estimate is required at once, I have not been able to get all information desirable but have based it on sufficiently high prices for the various items included.

The estimate is as follows:

Excavation, unwatering and pile driving	$4,800
Machinery, pumping and power	2,100
Reinforced, concrete, abutments and piers	18,840
Steele superstructure, 3 spans of 125 feet	43 125
Handrail, lamps and conduits	1,125
Deck of roadway, asphalt on concrete	4,687
Sidewalks (on steel superstructure only)	,675
Embankments, approaches and rip-rap	5,012
Land purchase on east approach	3,000
Engineering and supervision	8 411
Interest, debentures and legal expenses	2,100
	$87,875

AUTOMOBILE FACTORY WILL LOCATE IN PETERBOROUGH

IF RATEPAYERS ENDORSE A BY-LAW TO AID SAME.

A Free Site and Usual Ten Years, Exemption on Building and Machinery is all the Concessions Asked for—Ready to Commence Operations in September in Temporary Premises, Should the Measure Carry—The Canadian Factory of an Established American Concern.

There is every prospect of another factory locating in this city, if the ratepayers endorse a by-law giving the concern but trifling aid. The industry in question is the Canadian McIntyre Automobile Co., a branch of the McIntyre Automobile Co., established in Indiana, U.S.A., organized in Toronto with a view to operating in Canada. A charter for incorporation has been applied for and a site approved of in East Peterborough on Mark street, south side of C.P.R. track. Negotiations with the Council have been in progress some time, culminating last night in the City Fathers passing two readings of a by-law to aid this industry. [illegible] reading will take effect [illegible] ratepayers sanction the same by their votes at the polls on Thursday, September 5th. Briefly, the proposition is that the city shall pay the company the cost of the site—$2,340—after the former has erected thereon a building 50 x 150 feet and installed therein and have in operation $5,000 worth of machinery. The assessment for the land to be fixed at $2,340 for 10 years, the company to pay taxes thereon. The building and machinery to be exempt from all taxes but for school and local improvements. A temporary building to be erected on site as soon as by-law carries, and 20 hands to be employed. Subsequently the permanent premises to be built and not less than 30 hands employed 10 months of each year. This proposition, if carried, will only cost the city $191 a year for interest and sinking fund and Peterborough gets an industry operating a line of goods the demand for which is increasing by leaps and bounds.

The full text of this by-law will appear in these columns at an early date.

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night. There were present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Ald. Morgan, Anderson, Johnston, Brown, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie, Duncan, Buller and Graham.

Life-Saving Apparatus.

A communication from the Department of Railways and Canals advised Council that Mr. J. H. McClellan, Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal had been instructed to have life buoys and ropes kept conspicuously in readiness at each lock, also to furnish each lock master with a punt and pike pole. This is the outcome of Ald. Gordon's agitation for life-saving apparatus to be [illegible] along the [illegible].

Request Granted.

Mr. Thos. Lane, applied for permission to erect a 9-inch wall stable at 243 Hunter street, just within the fire limits, in fact almost on the boundary line of said limits.

Ald. Johnston offered that a 9-inch wall was substantial enough for any stable within the fire limits. He would favor the by-law being amended in this direction.

On motion of Ald. Gillespie and Morgan, Mr. Lane's request was granted.

Will the Building Come Down?

Mr. Isaac Eastwood was present to enquire into the reason for Council's demand that the building being erected for him over the creek on Hunter street by Mr. Thos. Rutherford, be torn down to within the first story. It appears that Mr. Rutherford had not lived up to his permit from Council to erect the first story of 14-inch brick walls and the second story of 9-inch brick walls, with 13-inch pillasters. Mr. Eastwood offered that Rutherford contended that he could not under conditions erect the second story with 9-inch brick walls, and in lieu thereof used only one-ply brick and two-ply of fireproof paper, which had cost him more than a 9-inch wall would have done, and was recommended as perfectly fire-proof.

Ald. Johnston said the wall in question was certainly fire-proof, but the contractor had no right to ignore the permit awarded him. Of course a 9-inch brick wall would be more satisfactory and substantial.

Moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the Engineer be asked to send in a report on this building.—Carried.

Council took strong exception to the contractor's action in regard to the foregoing and advised Mr. Eastwood, who was absent when the second story of the building was erected, to stop all further work as that portion of the building in violation of the by-law may have to come down.

His Grievance Admitted.

Mr. Donohue, who keeps a blacksmith shop at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, wanted to know why it was that he has to pay the garbage tax and the sanitary inspector will not permit of the garbage from his blacksmith shop being removed.

It was explained to Mr. Donohue that the by law does not permit the removal of manure and other material from blacksmith shops, and council admitted that he certainly had a grievance in coming under the provisions of the measure with regard to his shop, thus being taxed for a service from which he reaped no advantage. This matter was referred to the property committee with a view to adjustment.

Will Not Reduce License.

The Finance Committee recommended that no action be taken on the petition for a reduction in the fee for plumbers' licenses.

Will Defend Suits.

The Legal Committee recommended as follows:

Gentlemen,—That the city solicitor be instructed to defend the suits brought against the City by the Campbell Flour Mills Co. and the Walter Gray.

WAS ALD. BULLER SAUCY?

Ald. Johnston asked if Wescott street could not be graded a little to relieve it of surface water.

Ald. Buller replied that no permanent work would be done on that street until the sewer had been laid. But the provision for drainage in the vicinity of Romaine street would somewhat relieve Wescott street until such time as the permanent grading work can consistently be undertaken.

Ald. Graham—"When will that sewer be built?"

Ald. Buller—"Sometime before January."

Ald. Morgan—"Who engaged that bright young man to look after the dump on Water street? He appears to have nothing much to do."

Ald. Buller—"I suppose he is employed by the Property Committee through the Sanitary Inspector. I agreed that his wages shall come out of the Board of Works providing he cleans the market square.

Ald. Morgan—"He is too young a man to be on that job, I'm afraid he'll grow up useless. Give the job to some old man not wanted on corporation work."

Ald. Buller—"I did not engage him that engagement was left in the Property Committee's hands."

Ald. Morgan—"The young fellow told me that Ald. Buller and the Sanitary Inspector engaged him."

Ald. Buller—"That is not so."

Here ensued a brief passage of arms between Aldermen Buller and Morgan, in which such kindly references as "sliding down greasy poles" and "shady" attitude were resorted to.

Ald. Duncan—"Find the resolution. Mr. Armstrong authorized the appointment of a man to watch that dump on Water street."

Mr. Armstrong complied and the resolution authorized Ald. Buller to make the appointment. The incident terminated by Ald. Buller undertaking to give the job to an old man, and allowing the bright young fellow to get out and work.

Ald. Duncan here offered that any Alderman had a right to ask questions of the Chairman of the Board of Works and to expect civil replies.

Ald. Graham had asked Ald. Buller a civil question and got a saucy answer.

Ald. Buller took strong exception to this, and said he had merely explained the situation regarding Wescott street and that should have been sufficient. He was not going to spend a lot of money on grading a street that would shortly have to be torn up for a sewer.

Ald. Duncan—"Well, your voice sounded saucy (laughter all round).

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—That Mr. Scott be given permission to connect his cellar with Park street drain to relieve said cellar of surface water.—Carried.

COUNTESS DE MONTIGNOSO REPORTED ILL AND FACES AN OPERATION

From Naples comes a despatch saying that the Countess de Montignoso, whose escapades as Crown Princess Louise of Saxony gave rise to scandal in royalty, is so seriously ill from peritonitis that an immediate operation is necessary. She is alone at Fiesole. Enrico Toselli, once her husband, who divorced her some time ago, offered to assist her to-day. He told his friend, that he would help her as long as she needs assistance, but that he had no intention of becoming reconciled to her.

ALD. JOHNSTON RESIGNS HIS F. W. AND L. CHAIRMANSHIP

BECAUSE COUNCIL WOULD NOT DISCHARGE FIRE CHIEF.

Resignation Not Accepted and Department Now Without a head—Notice of Motion by Ald. Graham That Chief Howard Have Absolute Control Over Fire Department—Ald. Johnston is Deadly in Earnest, and Expresses Himself Strongly on the Matter.

Ald. Johnston at last night's Council meeting resigned his chairmanship of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, when the Council rejected his resolution that Fire Chief Howard be discharged. He called himself a "victim of circumstances," and offered that under instructions from the Mayor he had visited Chief Thompson of Toronto with a view to replacing Mr. Howard with a man from the Queen City brigade. Subsequently Chief Thompson had written him that none of his men would accept the position, not even at $1500 a year. "The matter must now be settled by this council to-night. During the last month the Chief still persists in leaving the hall at meal times without a responsible head, notwithstanding the Mayor's and my own request not to do so. Then in regard to the firemen's uniforms, 14 uniform suits were ordered by the committee (one spare one in case of accident), and the Chief had instructed Anderson to make 13 uniforms and one civilian suit."

Ald. Brown explained that the Chief had ordered one civilian suit for himself for which he would pay as on other occasions. The tailor had misunderstood him in supposing form suit for a civilian one for himthat he wished to replace one uniself.

Ald. Buller supported Ald. Brown's contention in regard to this matter.

Ald. Johnston here moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That W. A. Howard be notified that after September 30 his services will be dispensed with, and that the Fire, Water and Light Committee advertise for a Chief.

Ald. Gillespie thought they had better get a man before discharging Mr. Howard.

Ald. Anderson offered that the Bobcaygeon fishing episode had not been sufficiently serious to warrant the Chief's dismissal.

Ald. Duffus—"Had the Chief been told definitely he could not go on that trip, I don't think he would have gone. The trouble is, Ald. Johnston left the question open by giving such indefinite replies as "he did not wish to make a convict of the Chief," and "if he went he did so on his own responsibility in the case of fire." "I believe we have one of the best fire-fighters in Canada. We have had no serious conflagration since Mr. Howard's appointment, and our insurance has been reduced."

Ald. Morgan raked up old sores and indulged in sarcasm.

The vote on the resolution was here taken and lost on a division of 5 against 4.

Ald. Johnston, Duncan, Morgan and Graham voted aye, the others distinctly nay.

Chief Sewell and band enter the enemy's country.

THE SADLY SUDDEN DEATH OF DR. G. E. MARSHALL

One of Peterboroughs Most Prominent Physicians Succumbed to Heart Failure While Bowling

A gloom was cast over a large part of the city yesterday when it became known that Dr. G. E. Marshall, one of the most popular and skilled physicians of this city had been stricken dead by an attack of heart failure, while bowling at the local green.

Dr. Marshall was one of the local bowlers who were competing yesterday against Oshawa rinks for the Stratton trophy, and in the midst of a game, without any warning, he fell to the ground unconscious and never recovered. Several medical men exerted themselves to restore him, but their efforts were in vain. Dr. Marshall had not been enjoying his usual health for a short time previous to his death, but there was nothing to indicate a fatal sickness.

The late Dr. Marshall was born in 1864 in the township of Cavan, and he received his public school education in Bailieboro, after which he attended Normal School in Toronto, and in 1887 he married Miss Hannah Dawson of Bailieboro. He graduated from the Detroit College of Medicine in 1897 and practiced for a number of years in the State of Michigan. Returning to Canada he graduated from the Trinity Medical College and seven years ago he came to this city. Since that time he has won hosts of friends in this city, and developed a large and remunerative practice. He was immensely popular among the local bowlers and was president of the Peterborough Bowling Association. He belonged to the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, the Woodmen of the World, the Independent Order of Foresters and the Peterborough Orange Association. He was an esteemed member of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

Surviving him are his sorrowing wife, and three children, all at home, namely Bruce, Olive, and Frederick. Six brothers and five sisters also are living, namely—J. G. Marshall, William and Charles of Midland; Robert of Sudbury, Ont., Isaac and Elmer, of Selwood, Ont., and the sisters, Mrs. (Rev.) Mowatt, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. John Foster, Midland; Georgina, of Toronto, and Pearl and Edna of Midland.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, from his late residence, 242 Hunter street, to the Little Lake cemetery. Service at the house at 2.30 o'clock.

WOMAN REVEALS ROYALIST PLOT TO CAPTURE PORTUGAL

She Was Arrested by Portuguese Government Because She Told an Admirer

Lisbon, Aug. 5.—The Government has learned of plans for a new Royalist outbreak, said to have been arranged to occur here next Friday, Aug. 9. The information came from a loyal Republican who learned of the plot from Ludovina Ruaz, an active Royalist, among whose admirers she was numbered. The woman paid the penalty of her indescretion to-day when she was placed under arrest.

The Government claims it has evidence that the conspirators contemplated seizing the Ministers of State and the deputies and that General Conceiva was to make simultaneously a raid upon the capital from the north. Search is being made for the leaders of the conspiracy.

CLOSING ON THE GUN MEN HARD FIGHT EXPECTED

New York, Aug. 5.—Four central office men and a force of deputies were closing in on Harry Horowitz ("Gip the Blood") and Louis Rosenzweig ("Lefty Louie") at Tannersville, Greene County, New York.

They telephoned to police headquarters here that they had located the men, who are named as two of the actual murderers of Herman Rosenthal, and they expected to have handcuffs on them by morning. Tannersville is in the southern part of Greene County, on the Ulster and Catskill Railroad, and a few miles west of the town of Catskill.

Inspector Edward P. Hughes, of the detective bureau, went up-State to take active direction of the Central Office men, and the deputy Sheriffs, sent word earlier in the night to Commissioner Waldo that the chase was getting warm, and that the arrests would certainly be made in a few hours.

The detectives at Tannersville, having learned in what boarding house "Lefty Louie" and "Gip the Blood" were hiding, stationed the deputy sheriffs assisting them to watch the roads and paths for miles around while they themselves made a ring about the house to which they had traced the fugitives. Their last word to police headquarters was that they were confident that they had trapped the right men and that they would have Rosenzweig and Horowitz in New York to-day.

chairmanship, and said the Chief could hoodwink, bamboozle, magnetize and hypnotize more men in the City of Peterborough than any man he knew of except one—a Government official.

"Do you think," he thundered, "that I am going to stand a figurehead for a man like that? Not much! He's let go again, and, for God's sake keep him then."

The Mayor—"Let your resignation stand, Ald. Johnston, and give it to me in writing to-morrow."

Ald. Johnston—"No, your Worship it's the last you'll hear from me."

Ald. Graham—"I move that Ald. Johnston's resignation be accepted."

Ald. Morgan—"I don't want to second that. There's some one of Ald. Johnston's friends here who have got him into this trouble and put a rope around his neck, who might wish to hang him now."

Ald. Johnston—"I know that Ald. Morgan is somewhat of a jollier, but there's probably a good deal of truth in what he says just now."

No seconder was forthcoming to Ald. Graham's motion, and as Ald. Johnston has definitely stepped down and out of his chairmanship, the department is at present without a head.

Ald. Graham—"I give notice of motion that the by-law be amended, and Chief Howard be given full control over the fire department, with authority to engage and discharge his own men."

The discussion regarding the foregoing business was somewhat prolix, but on old questions re the fire department with which the public are familiar.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and a little warmer.

FAMILY RUNT.

Kansas Man Says Coffee Made Him That.

"Coffee has been used in our family of eleven—father, mother, five sons and four daughters—for thirty years. I am the eldest of the boys and have always been considered the runt of the family and a coffee toper.

"I continued to drink it for years until I grew to be a man, and then I found I had stomach trouble, nervous headaches, poor circulation, was unable to do a full day's work, took medicine for this, that, and the other thing, without the least benefit. In fact I only weighed 116 when I was 26.

"Then I changed from coffee to Postum, being the first one in our family to do so. I noticed, as did the rest of the family, that I was surely gaining strength and flesh. Shortly after I was visiting my cousin, who said, 'You look so much better—you're getting fat.'

"At breakfast his wife passed me a cup of coffee, as she knew I was always such a coffee drinker, but I said, 'No, thank you.'

"'What!' said my cousin, 'you quit coffee? What do you drink?'

"'Postum,' I said, 'or water, and I am well.' They did not know what Postum was, but my cousin had stomach trouble and could not sleep at night from drinking coffee three times a day. He was glad to learn about Postum, but said he never knew coffee hurt anyone." (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"[illegible] condition [illegible] what [illegible] that [illegible] liver, [illegible] or anything else [illegible]. You should see the change in him now. We both believe that if persons who suffer from coffee drinking would stop and use Postum they could build back to health and happiness." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 49 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 386 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

Help With a String to It.

In an office on upper Wall street, where they make a specialty of the "coppers," a cousin of the head of the firm, after several bad "breaks," found his balance reduced to a very low figure. The Wall street man felt bad about it and offered to take the account in hand himself, the relative naturally agreeing. The first transaction was the short sale of a lot of Reading. Before 3 o'clock that day the stock had jumped up six points and the account was wiped out.

It reminds one of what happened on an East river ferryboat the other day when a passenger fell overboard. The man was strong and well able to swim—that is, he was well able to swim until a well meaning but excited deck hand threw a twenty pound life belt down on the top of his head.—Puck.

Tailors as Literary Men.

One does not look for literary men among tailors, but none the less the trade can claim some illustrious names. John Stow, the antiquary and author of the "Survey of London," for instance, began life as a tailor, and another famous tailoring antiquary was John Speed, one of England's early map makers and member of the Society of Antiquaries. And then there was Robert Hill, "the learned tailor" of Birmingham, who contrived to teach himself Greek and Hebrew and became famous as a writer of theological treatises. And George Meredith was born over a tailor's shop.—London Globe.

Placing Himself.

A man who was much in need of sleep rolled out of bed during the night. The jar did not awake him thoroughly, and his hand wandered in exploration. It encountered the mesh of some protruding springs and a sturdy iron corner post. "In jail at last," he murmured as he went off into another deep sleep.

The Baseball Courtship.

"How do I stand with you, little girl?" inquired the ardent fan.

"You have a percentage of about .780 just now," answered the lady fan, "and lead the league."

"I'm glad to hear that. I was afraid I was in the second division."—Kansas City Journal.

Trying to Beat the Game.

"Well," replied the other, "get a man to write her a song with only whole notes and rests in it."—Washington Star.

"They bought their tickets from the scalpers, my child."—Chicago Tribune.

Alberta's Cereal Map.

The second edition of the Cereal Map of Alberta, covering the crop areas for each township, is now being issued from the Railway Lands Branch of the Department of the Interior. The efforts of the Department have been for many years directed toward placing settlers on Dominion lands in the west. The lands available for free homesteading from existing lines of transportation are now, however, approaching exhaustion, and a question of great present interest, and the interest in which will increase from year to year, is "What is being done with the land?" The Cereal Map is an effort to answer this question.

The aim is to show graphically, and separately as to each, the areas under the four leading grains in correct proportion to the whole area and to each other. Circles in each township, drawn to scale, give at a glance the area under each grain and the colors show the variety of grain as follows: Red, spring wheat; dark red, winter wheat; green, oats; yellow, barley; blue, flax. An interesting feature of the map is the information with respect to the acreage throughout the province, which has been devoted to the production of fall wheat. The information incorporated in the publication has been furnished by the Provincial Government, having been compiled from the thrashers' returns for the province.

An Absent-Minded Inventor.

Several new stories have just been told about the famous Canadian inventor, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell. It appears that Dr. Bell hates the sight of his greatest invention, the telephone, so much that he does not make use of it unless he cannot possibly help it. In fact he has never appreciated its usefulness. Dr. Bell tells a story of how he was in a house where a child began to cough in the middle of the night, and the family feared the cough sounded croupy. He went to the telephone and asked a medical man to come over at once. It was an inconvenient hour, and the medical man desired some reason. When he heard what it was he asked why the child could not be brought to the phone. The inventor was immediately struck by the idea that it was quite possible, so that doctor decided over the telephone that the child did not have croup.

Why Wild Beasts Left Missouri.

No elk have been seen in central Missouri since 1836. Prior to that time they were reasonably plenty. They were attracted by the prevalence of the salt licks. Nathaniel Walker, or "Uncle Natty," as he was familiarly called, a famous pioneer hunter, claimed to have counted fifty elk in a drove on the knoll near the present Saline county courthouse. The bear disappeared about the year 1840, though occasionally animals of the bear tribe were afterward seen. Old time Democrats said that the Whigs scared the bear, deer, elk and almost every other kind of game out of the country in 1840 by their yelling, anvil firing and torchlight parades in honor of General Benjamin Harrison, their successful candidate for president.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Oars for the Navy.

All the wood used in making oars for the British navy comes from British Columbia. An Admiralty order was recently placed with a Canadian lumber company for 200,000 feet of white spruce to be used entirely for this purpose. The fact that the British Columbian white spruce is the wood best adapted for oar-making has been known to the navy for a good many years. Its supreme excellence in this direction was first discovered by the men on the North Pacific Station, who happened to use it for that purpose, and since then the oars for the whole navy have come from Canada. The timber growing on the Queen Charlotte Islands, lying just off the coast of British Columbia, is of especially good quality, and it is from this part of the province that the supply of wood for the navy's oars is drawn.

Old Glory.

I have seen the glories of art and architecture and of river and mountain. I have seen the sunset on the Jungfrau and the moon rise over Mont Blanc. But the fairest vision on which these eyes ever rested was the flag of my country in a foreign port. THE EXPANSION OF ITALY.

It is believed to be certain that Italy will succeed in her effort to win Tripoli away from Turkey. The daring rush into the Dardanelles discloses the presence of the Turkish fleet, which was the object of the movement. Still later news is that of a battle in Africa in which the Italians were successful and at the same time inflicted heavy loss upon their enemy.

The acquisition of Tripoli will round out the Italian kingdom in a way that realizes the ideal of the Italian people ever since the kingdom of Italy became a modern fact. The growth of the kingdom is among the marvels of the nineteenth century. Its creation has given Cavour a reputation unsurpassed by that of any other man of the century of success in the most difficult of all practical things, that is, the creation of an important State.

Beginning in the middle ages with the small territory of Savoy and adding Piedmont, gradually extending into Northern Italy, with Sardinia finally falling to the crown of Savoy, the peninsula would have remained cut up into many States but for the work of the Prime Minister of Victor Emanuel.

It was in 1720 that Sardinia was ceded to the Duke of Savoy. Victor Amadeus II., in exchange for Sicily, which at that time in the shiftings of politics belonged to Savoy, and immediately afterwards that Duke assumed the title of King of Sardinia which remained the title of his successors until 1861 when it was exchanged for that of King of Italy.

Cavour involving Napoleon in war with Austria, got control of northern Italy and Venetia and succeeded to such an extent as to encourage Garibaldi and others in their efforts to conquer the rest of the peninsula, beginning with the conquest of Sicily in 1860 by Garibaldi's famous Thousand. The kingdom of Naples was conquered partly at the battle of Volterno and after Sicily had been overrun and several of the duchies of the peninsula became annexed to the crown of Italy by their own vote.

When the Franco-Prussian war broke out in 1870 the French troops were withdrawn from Rome, Victor Emanuel immediately moved up and took possession of the city and made it his capital.

At that time the mainland of Italy with Sicily, which is separated by a very narrow strait from the mainland became the kingdom of Italy and at once longing eyes were cast on the opposite shore in order to have a commanding position in Africa such as Rome commanded at the height of her power.

The kingdom as it now stands was complete then, in 1870, but it remains for the conclusion of the war with Turkey to carry out the one step further that has been the ambition of Italian statesmen and rulers for the last forty years.

Editorial Notes

Colonel Roosevelt announces that there are to be no bosses in his Progressive party. It is easy to believe him. There will be no bosses—only one boss.

With a contaminated water supply and 510 cases of typhoid fever, Ottawa is supplying a striking illustration of the relation of cause and effect.

Sir William Mackenzie, just back from England, says there are only too many and good reasons for the "German scare." But there are peace-loving optimists in every little Canadian backwoods village who will boldly declare that Sir Bill doesn't know what he is talking about.

If there is good ground for the statement that Jose Calavaria, who died a few years ago at Tuxpan, Mexico, was 185 years old, this is the most remarkable case of longevity in modern times. The modern record has hitherto been that of Thomas Parr, an Englishman, who died in 1635 at the reputed age of 152.

The political activities of our contemporary, the Examiner, are interesting, especially since the head-on collision of September last, when its editor met his Waterloo. Our political lives would be distressingly dull were it not for the piquant performances and acrobatic feats of the Hon. Jimmy.

Headaches Over the Eyes Means Frontal Catarrh

APT TO GET INTO EARS, CAUSING DEAFNESS, OR TO REACH THE LUNGS AND END IN CONSUMPTION.

You Can Cure Catarrh in Any Stage by Breathing the Healing Balsamic Fumes of Catarrhozone, and Here is Proof,

Mr. Uric Berault, a young gentleman who has lived for years in Sweetsburg, Que., inherited catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected, and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

"Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continuously and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Everyone in town knows I was just about dead with catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

CAMPHOR GUM FOR TYPHOID.

(Editor Morning Times.)

Sir,—I see in your paper that there is typhoid fever in Ottawa. I can tell you what will kill all the fever in the country—camphor gum. I met a friend on the street one day and I asked him how his family were. He said his daughter had the fever and the doctor had ordered all the trees cut down. I told him to come with me. I gave him one ounce of camphor gum. When he came to pay for it he told me he should give me $5. It took all the fever away. There will be no fever where it is used. I take about the size of a small bean. If you want any more information I will give you all I can.

Ridgetown, Aug. 5.

THE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

(Editor of Morning Times).

Sir,—Such as are inclined to credit statements made by an anti-suffrage lecturer from New York, in a recent address to a Toronto audience, to the effect that accounts of the prevalence and growth of the "white slave traffic" are greatly exaggerated, and that equal suffrage would be powerless in checking it, would do well to study "A New Conscience and an Ancient Evil," a new book by Miss Jane Addams. When one compares the statements of Miss Addams, which are based on a wide experience and practical knowledge, with those of the lecturer referred to, based merely on vague theories, plus some very inadequate and inaccurate information, one can hardly fail to give Miss Addams' views the preference.

In her book Miss Addams dealt with that later aspect of the "social evil," which has come to be called the "white slave traffic," and which has reached such an appalling magnitude as to have at last roused all right-thinking men and women on this continent and in every European country (Balkan States excepted) to realize the imperative need for a total abolition of commercialized vice in all its phases. The author sets forth, in her book, a concise statement of the evil as it exists to-day, of the various methods employed to carry on the traffic, and of its far-reaching disastrous effects on the human race. She states that while collecting information she was impressed with the large, and ever-increasing number of persons, of all classes and callings, who responded promptly to any appeals for help to combat this evil, thus showing how the public is developing a "new conscience" in the matter, and coming to look upon it as one that must be boldly faced, and dealt with, not persistently evaded and ignored.

Miss Addams sees, in recent legal enactments, in the awakening desire to improve economical and social conditions, in the movements against germ diseases, for the suppression of alcoholism, and for the protection of the young, and in various other philanthropic works of rescue and prevention, an array of forces which are all tending towards the extermination of every aspect of the "social evil."

Referring to the public movements which are menacing the evil, she says: "First among these, perhaps, is the equal suffrage movement. On the horizon everywhere are signs that woman will soon receive the right to exercise political power, and it is believed that she will show her efficiency most conspicuously in finding means for enhancing and preserving human life, if only as the result of her age-long experiences. That primitive maternal instinct which has always been as ready to defend as it has been to nurture, will doubtless promptly grapple with certain crimes connected with the white slave traffic; women with political power would not brook that men should live upon the wages of captured victims, should openly hire youths to ruin and debase young girls, should be permitted to transmit poison to unborn children. Life is full of hidden remedial powers which society has not yet recognized, but perhaps nowhere is the waste more flagrant than in the matured deductions of judgments of the women who are constantly forced to share the social injustices which they have no recognized power to alter. If political rights were once given to women, if the situation were theirs to deal with as a matter of civic responsibility, one cannot imagine that the existence of the social evil would remain unchallenged in its semi-legal protection."

It is deplorable that the political influence of such women as Jane Addams is but an "indirect" one, since it is opposed to the "direct" influence of so many men who (in the words of an English M.P. referring to the social evil) "think things are very well as they are." The right-thinking men who are fighting this evil are sadly in the minority. A bill for checking the white slave traffic, promoted by a few righteous men, which has been moved again and again in the English Parliament for the past five years, and never met with anything but a curt rejection, is only now beginning at last to receive attention.

In the recent English Suffragette trial one of the prisoners said: "I have done a great deal of social work, and I have found that property is valued at a much higher rate than hundreds of girls of 16, and children of 9, 10 and 11. I will fight until I get that law altered, if I die for it, and the whole of the women in this movement will do this."

In the United States, where facts and statistics have lately been collected, we are told: "There are limited liability companies in every country in the world commanding large amounts of capital, for the sake of procuring young girls for the purpose of prostitution. One organization had its own burial lot, for the burial of infants and young women who died in their houses. One lot contained 451 nameless graves of girls. This society was only one of several. At a low estimate 15,000 fresh girls (designated "stock" by these companies) were imported in one year, and in 1900 one syndicate alone made a profit of about $200,000

And yet anti-suffragettes tell us that women do not need political power, as their interests are perfectly safe in the hands of men!

Yours, etc.,

—Adeline C. Roberts.

A WATERING STREET CAR.

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—The idea of making a sprinkler out of the old street cars, which was suggested in your paper some time ago, is, I think, a good one. By this means nearly all of George street could be watered, as well as the most heavily used sections of Water, Park and Charlotte streets. I would not suggest that the water be sprinkled out through the same holes that the cold is coaxed in in winter, but that a sprinkling attachment be used. I think this something that would be of much use to the city.

Yours truly,

Resident.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The present price of coal is very high and promises to go up before long. The thought that the people have to pay this price, not only for their private use but for heating of the Public buildings, suggests the idea of the city going into the coal business for itself. The scarcity of anthracite coal will be greatly exaggerated in the cold weather. It has been estimated that in Toronto this policy would save 50c a ton and the probability is that it would save more in Peterborough. I trust that this will be given consideration by the council.

Yours truly,

Tax-Payer.

IRISHMAN EATS JAIL CELL BARS

Chewed Up Iron and Some Cobblestones—Widow Married Burglar She Caught

BAD WORK OF GHOULS

Stole Valuables from the Two-Century-Old Corpse of the Duchess of Albans—Latest Budget of Irish News.

Dublin, Aug. 5.—A remarkable human ostrich has just discovered himself at Mallow jail. Denis Corcoran was convicted of a minor offence and tired of confinement. He bit the bars of his cell windows clean through, swallowed a good part of the old iron, and then proceeded to feast on the hard stones of his prison. Corcoran was removed to a fresh cell where the window is too far up to be reached by his sharp and strong teeth.

Out of Frying Pan.

A burglar entered a dwelling house in the outskirts of Armagh and in trying to escape when the lady of the house disturbed him packing up her valuables, got wedged in the chimney. The good woman followed him on to the roof and made him promise to marry her if she let him go free. He consented, thinking she would help him out of the tight place in which he was in; after that he intended to run for freedom. When she secured his promise, the woman—a widow and a good judge of the ways of men—got down from the roof and ran for the priest and witnesses. In the presence of her friends she took the burglar for better or worse, then after the knot was tied tight, helped him from the chimney and gave him a sound beating. He decided to make the best of a bad bargain, and now he is footing turf for the "widdy," his wife.

Work of Vandals.

What is believed to have been the act of London vandals—the robbery of a woman dead two hundred years—is stirring the indignation of the pious people of County Tipperary and spurring the Irish police in an investigation which promises to lead to a world-wide chase.

The sexton of the old graveyard at Newton Anner found one morning that the ancient tomb of the ducal family of St. Albans had been entered by force. The old bronze door had been forced, pieces of coffins, old velvet and decayed linen and bones long buried were scattered about the vault. He notified the rector and the clergyman sent for the police. Investigation proved that the ghouls had ceased their gruesome work at the crypt where a famous duchess of St. Albans was interred two centuries ago. It was found later that two men with a strong Cockney accent, evidently Londoners, had remained in the village and left hurriedly without settling their account early on the morning of the discovery of the outrage. In their room at the inn was found a clipping from a London newspaper giving particulars of the valuables buried with many famous people and describing particularly an emerald necklace and rings which were placed in the vault when Sophia, Duchess of St. Albans, was laid at rest by her husband, the Duke of two hundred years ago.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest [illegible] in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B.C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy ([illegible]) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice, and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

PRINCE RUPERT
"Canada's Golden Gate"

The work of transforming Prince Rupert into a modern terminus of a trans continental railway is proceeding rapidly, the Grand Trunk Pacific is devoting all its energy to getting its terminal facilities ready for the opening of the line in 1914. Settlers are flocking into the adjacent fertile valleys. Industries are starting which will employ a large number of men. In short, Prince Rupert is the centre of the greatest activity in the development of Northern British Columbia.

DO YOU WANT TO SHARE IN THIS PROSPERITY?

If so, here is your chance for a safe investment

An investment company is now in the hands of the Continental Trust Company, Ltd., of Prince Rupert, for incorporation, with the objects of

BUYING, SELLING, AND IMPROVING

Prince Rupert city property. It will be incorporated for $100,000, divided into one hundred thousand shares of the par value of $1 each and the shares will be sold at that price.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

MORE HOTELS NEEDED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—A pressing matter before the people of Peterborough is the matter of hotel accommodation. It is undeniable that the existing hotels fall far short of the number required for a city of this size. The best houses in the city are nearly always filled, and many other available rooms are out of the business section and some not altogether inviting. If an estimate was taken of those coming daily into the city it would be found that there is far too little accommodation for the large number of incoming travellers. While the poorer hotels depend wholly on the bar for their profits, the high-class hotel may be independently profitable. There is a feeling that the city's hotels do not do it justice and that something to remedy this should be done.

Yours truly,

Progress.

REMARKABLE TRIBUTE TO LATE DR. MARSHALL

Yesterday thirty outside rinks of bowlers were engaged in the annual tournament of the Peterborough Bowling Association when the tragically sudden death of Dr. Marshall occurred.

The Peterborough rinks at once withdrew the tournament, but requested those who had come from a distance to proceed with the games. They however unanimously decided to stop their contests, and in a spirit of kindness and fellowship, returned en masse to their respective towns. The death of Dr. Marshall, who was very popular among the bowlers, cast a gloom over the events, and the esteem shown him by the outside rinks is a remarkable tribute to him.

COL. GREENWOOD WAS IN CITY YESTERDAY

Col. Greenwood, who was formerly an engineer on the Trent Canal staff here, was in the city yesterday. Col. Greenwood went from this city to South Africa during the early stages of the war, in which he had a commission as colonel, and where he rendered great service.

At the close of the war he accepted a position on the staff of Sir Percy Girouard, who at that time had charge of the railway building in the South African colonies, and where he remained several years as Chief Engineer of construction.

Col. Greenwood lost his wife in South Africa. She was a daughter of the late Sir Henri de Joly, who was at one time Premier of Quebec, and afterwards Governor of British Columbia where he died.

Col. Greenwood is now chief engineer of construction of the Canadian Northern Railway, with his head office in Toronto.

This is a remarkably good season for fishing in this vicinity, perhaps the best in twenty years.

The Sixth Annual Excursion of the Holloway Street Sunday School, of Belleville, is coming to this city on Wednesday, August 14th.

Twenty-Seven Pound 'Lunge.

Returning from a week's camp at Jubilee Point on Saturday, Walter Flowers and Guy Quartermaine, after half an hours' struggle, landed the largest 'lunge that has been caught in this vicinity for a long time. It was a 27 pounder, and measured 53 inches in length and 20 in girth. This is no fish story, the finny monster being weighed and measured by representatives of the local press. The two young gentlemen are to be congratulated on their fine catch, which was affected about six miles down the Otonabee river, near Hale's Bridge.

Married in Brampton.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Brampton, when Miss Kate Elvina Manning, youngest daughter of Rev. H. M. Manning of Oshawa, was married to Mr. James H. Hare of Whitby. After giving his daughter away, the bride's father concluded the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. N. Chantler, pastor of St. Paul's Church. The bride was assisted by Miss Margaret Smellie and Miss Katie Scott; Miss Doris Milner, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Clark Hare, of Cobourg. Miss Jennie Milner of Brampton played the wedding march in her usual impressive style. During the signing of the register, Mrs. J. E. Middleton of Peterborough, sister of the bride, sang "Beloved, it is Morn." H. G. Manning, B.A., of Lindsay, and Dr. H. K. Manning of Toronto, brothers of the bride, acted as ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Hare will reside in Whitby.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—The local grain markets were quiet on Saturday, owing to Liverpool being closed. Cable enquiries for wheat received were out of line to the extent of one cent a bushel and no business was reported. Oats were firm, but also affected as to business done over the cable by the closing of Liverpool market. The enquiries received were too low to suit sellers here. Butter and cheese continue firm. Receipts of butter for the week were 14,746 packages, a small decrease from the week before and the same week last year. From May 1 to date there is a decrease of [illegible] packages, as compared with receipts in the same period last year. Cheese shows a decrease of [illegible], as compared with receipts in the same period May 1 to date last year. The lighter supplies give the market a very firm tone. COWANSVILLE, Aug. 5.—At the meeting of the Eastern Township's Dairymen's Association held here this afternoon, the factories boarded ten hundred and thirty-two packages of butter and one hundred and forty-three boxes of cheese. Five buyers were present. All the cheese sold at [illegible], and butter offered from [illegible] to [illegible], but no takers.

Grown on a Mat.

One of the most remarkable exhibits at the Royal Agricultural Show was a fine crop of mustard, which had been grown on an old door-mat on the roof of a house in Queen Victoria street, London E.C.

Suffragette Losses.

The damage done to store property during the recent window smashing campaign of London suffragettes is officially estimated at [illegible].

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

This is Transcona's Year!!!

The promise of Transcona, when the transcontinental shops and yards were located there, now fulfilled doubly by the C. P. R.'s immense project, Transcona bids fair to become an industrial centre. Manufacturers already established, and more coming.

During the past two years there has been more money made by the conservative investor in Transcona property than any other investment we know of. Have you shared in the big profits realized?

The amount of money you make in TRANSCONA practically depends upon the number of lots you purchase now.

We have specialized in Transcona property from the very first, and control the best buying in all parts of Transcona.

Our property, besides containing the best business locations, is the most natural home-site for a force of thousands of men to live here permanently as soon as the mammoth locomotive shops are opened.

$210 a Lot and upwards.

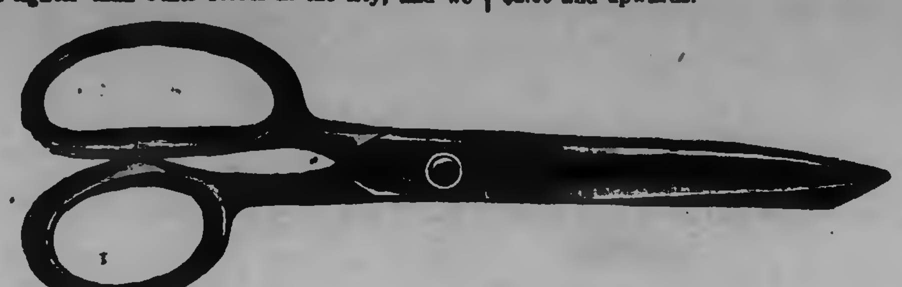
THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

has the largest, brightest and best stock ever shown in their store, consisting of Fancy Goods of every description, suitable for presents.

These will be sold at prices that defy competition. We are in a position to sell cheaper than others for the simple reason that our expenses are much lighter than other stores in the city, and we are not depending on the store sales to meet expenses, as our large and growing newspaper, printing and bookbinding business takes care of all this. So, the public are invited to call and examine our stock and prices, and they will be convinced. In addition to selling cheap, we offer a beautiful pair of Patent, Self-Sharpening Shears free with every purchase of $2.00 and upwards.



We ALSO GIVE a Splendid Kitchen Set as Shewn in Cut
Consisting of Nine Pieces, with every purchase of $10 or over

Call and see this splendid set, even though you do not buy.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, July 17th, 1912.

Heads Manitoba Commission.

All shades of opinion in Manitoba seem to approve the appointment of Judge Robson as provincial public utilities commissioner. Hugh Amos Robson, who is a Liberal in politics, having been appointed judge of the king's bench of Manitoba by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was born at Barrow-in-Furness, England, in 1871, and studied law at Regina, N.W.T. Civic authorities who have just invested the control of Winnipeg's public utilities, representing a capitalization of several millions, in the newly created provincial public utilities commissioner, express themselves as very well satisfied with the appointment.

Immigrants From Britain.

British Government returns of emigration shows that the following went to Canada during April: From England, 20,163; from Scotland, 5,567; from Wales, 316; from Ireland, 1,324; total, 27,370.

To the other dominions the number was 10,824.

While Scotland's population is one-eighth of England's, emigration from Scotland is twice as rapid as from England.

A Boswell and Johnson Story.

Boswell once asked Johnson if there were no possible circumstances in which suicide would be justified.

"No," was the reply.

"Well," says Boswell, "suppose a man has been guilty of a fraud he was certain would be found out."

"Why, then," says Johnson, "in that case let him go to some country where he is not known and not to the devil, where he is known."

His Orders.

Blink (the wholesaler)—Well, how many orders did you get yesterday? Glink (the salesman)—I got two orders in one store. Blink—What were they? Glink—One was to get out, and the other was to stay out.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Standing Joke.

Street Railway Magnate—Who's the complaint from? Secretary—A humorous chap. He signs himself "A Patron of Half an Hour's Standing."—Pittsburg Post.

Two Recipes.

For a Wedding—To one summer's night add two young persons, a beach and a little propinquity. Mix in one look of wavy hair, an atom of delicate perfume and stir with a slight breeze. Sprinkle the whole with moonlight and let alone for the evening.

For Happy Wedded Life.—To one woman add numerous kisses, each supplemented with "Yes, dear; I love you more than ever." Mix thoroughly with long pleased expressions at sight of new gowns and hats, and season with many remarks about "youthful appearance." Sprinkle liberally with checks and bonbons (courtship brand). Do not stir up.

Church Activities.

The news of Western Canada recently included an unusual church item.

At Spartanburg, B.C., a church, not a stone or stick of which was standing at sunrise on a recent day, was worshipped in during the evening by a congregation that filled the building and overflowed into the street.

It had been announced by the members of Bethel Methodist Church that they would erect a building in one day, the church to be known as El Bethel. There were those who doubted, but when more than two hundred workmen, well organized, gathered at the scene it became apparent that the undertaking might be accomplished.

It is estimated that 5,000 persons visited the building during the day. Motion picture machines played upon the building at every stage of its erection. At night the building stood completed, painted, papered, and furnished throughout.

The Luck of a Goat.

A man once owned a fine and resourceful goat of which he was very proud. One day this goat lost caste with his master by swallowing a red flannel shirt which was the property of his owner. Angered beyond reason, the man led the goat to the railroad track and, tying the animal to the ties, left him to what he believed was certain death. The goat was opposed to capital punishment and made violent efforts to release himself from his bonds. In this he was unsuccessful, but in straining himself he produced a violent fit of coughing, and he coughed up the shirt and flagged the train.

Fish Surgery.

Although the fish doctor probably finds less demand for his services than the practitioner of any other branch of the medical profession, his duties are of a most important character, and his knowledge of the diseases and biology of the fish must be profound. Fish surgery is one of the least known of the various departments of surgical work. It requires a most delicate handling of instruments and a minute knowledge of the anatomy of the fish.

Two of a Kind.

"How did you ever come to marry, old man? Thought you'd determined to stay single?"

"I had, but I was introduced one day to a girl who had determined never to marry, and our thoughts seemed to harmonize so completely that—well, we married each other."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Cobourg Harbour Extension to West Breakwater," will be received at this office until 4 p.m., Wednesday, August 14, 1912, for the construction of an extension to west breakwater at the entrance to Cobourg Harbour, Northumberland County, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud Esq., District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, Montreal, P.Q., and on application to the postmaster at Cobourg, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to do the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Dining in Luxembourg.

Though "town patriotism" exists all over the world, nowhere, perhaps, is it fiercer than in the little grand duchy of Luxembourg. The tourist can turn it to excellent advantage. When he arrives at the inn of any little town he should get into conversation with the master or, better still, with the mistress of the house and mention that at the last town at which he stayed the best and cheapest meals he ever had in his life were served. Madame will depart to the kitchen determined to demonstrate to the tourist that he has never before really had a decently cooked meal. And by the time for coffee and cigars he will come near to believing it. The finest cooks in Europe are women of Luxembourg.

A Sigh From the Author.

"Proofreading is Greek to me, even after having several books published," Miss Alice Louise Lee recently wrote to her publishers. "But what worries me is this psychological question. Will my corrections be as unintelligible to the printer as all his marks are to me? It seems to me very confusing. In the face of proofreading I feel like the farmer who before the rhinoceros' cage declared, 'There ain't no such beast!'"

When Kipling Was Hungry.

Had Mr. Kipling turned his attention to commerce instead of literature perhaps he might now be retained by some merchant millionaire as a writer of advertisements, at a colossal salary. After the siege of Kimberley he was staying with Mr. Rhodes at a charming little fruit farm near that town. One morning it occurred to Mr. Rhodes to take a stroll round the orchards for a little while before breakfast. As Mr. Kipling did not feel like walking he stayed behind. Time went on and the idea came to the author that breakfast would be desirable. But there was no sign of his host. As a matter of fact, Mr. Rhodes, as was usual with him, had become so interested in the matter in hand that he had quite forgotten the passing hours, and it was nearly ten o'clock before he remembered his starving guest, and hurried homewards.

"What's this, sir?" said the manager, suddenly pausing before a tree. Upon it was pinned a sheet of paper, bearing in large black letters "Famine!" The next tree was also decorated: "We are starving; feed us." Nearer the house they came upon a large sheet with these words in huge type: "For the human race. Breakfast. Purifies the mind; invigorates the system. It has sustained thousands; it will sustain you. See that you get it." Finally upon the front door was an enormous placard: "Why die when a little breakfast prolongs life?"

A Tip to Tired Wives.

"Mrs. Brown never sits up to wait for her husband."

"No?"

"No. When she expects him to be out late she retires early; sets the alarm clock at 3 o'clock, and when it goes off she gets up and dresses and is ready, refreshed and reproachful."

Sorrow and Happiness.

Sorrow, with his pick, mines the heart. But he is a cunning workman. He deepens the channels whereby happiness may enter and hollows out new chambers for joy to abide in when he is gone.—Mary Cholmondeley

Stomach Always Baulked Had Constant Indigestion

Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick—Bilious Two Days a Week.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons of Newbridge P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

S. A. Band Concert.

The splendid program rendered in a praiseworthy manner by the Salvation Army band last Tuesday evening delighted a large crowd of people. To-night a fine program introducing a new feature, "The Soldier's Song" will be given by 12 of the band's best singers.

Death of Mr. Andrew McClelland.

The sad intelligence has been received by Dr. McClelland of this city, of the death of his brother, Andrew, of Calgary. No particulars were given, but in answer to the informing telegram, Dr. McClelland has left for Calgary to attend the funeral.

Matriculation Results Delayed.

The junior and senior matriculation results are not expected out until the end of this week. This statement has been given out by the Education Department, accompanied by the explanation that the unusual delay is due to a new system of marking.

Asked to Send Representatives.

All arrangements have been made for the Business Men's Trip to Cochrane, August 13th, and a letter has been received by Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, asking that representatives of the Board of Trade be sent. A special fare from Peterborough has been set at $12.30 return fare.

Body Not Recovered.

The body of Max. Clendennan, of Lindsay, who was drowned in a hundred feet of water, near Owen Sound in an attempt to save his father's life, has not yet been recovered. His father, Mr. E. Clendennan, has returned to Lindsay and recounted the story of the young man's tragic but heroic death.

Looks Like the C.G.E.

The outlook is bright for the champion C.G.E. team to bring the Midland League Football honors here for the third successive year. They played in Oshawa on Saturday, and with a weakened team played a tie game. This was one of the finals, and the local stalwarts are confident that with their regular line-up they can again annex the championship.

May Not Meet in Ottawa.

Owing to the typhoid epidemic that has broken out in Ottawa, it is probable that Parliament may not meet this winter. A movement is on foot to arrange this, as members from other provinces say their families object to them entering the typhoid city. It is suggested to hold it either in Toronto or Winnipeg.

Presentation to Mr. Moss.

On Sunday afternoon the members of the Young Men's Bible Class of St. James church, gave an address and presented a scarf pin to a member of the class, who is leaving the city. Mr. Moss has been president of the class. Mr. C. W. Barrett read the address as secretary, and the presentation was made by Mr. Wm. McClaren.

Was Known Here.

Joseph Muldoon, who lost his life in the C.P.R. collision Sunday near Tweed, had a number of friends in this city. Some years ago he was a well known lacrosse player, and frequently came to Peterborough to play with visiting teams. He was at the time considered one of the best and cleverest players who ever handled a stick.

Left for the Penitentiary.

Patrick Doherty, sentenced for 15 years in the Penitentiary for burning down the barns of Thomas Armstrong, left yesterday for Kingston, accompanied by Mr. S. Newhall, of this city. He has a considerable criminal record and has travelled under different aliases. If he behaves decently in prison his sentence may be materially shortened.

Wedding Bells.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's Methodist church, at Brampton, when Miss Kate Elvina Manning, youngest daughter of Rev. H. M. Manning, of Oshawa, was united in marriage to Mr. Cas. H. Hare, of Whitby. Mrs. J. E. Middleton, of Peterborough, sister of the bride, sang "Beloved, It is Morn."

Purchased New Car.

Mr. Percy Bond, whose auto it will be remembered figured in an accident the other day, has purchased a new Overland car of the runabout type. He is highly pleased at the expeditious manner in which Mr. R. Wilson arranged the deal, as it was no fault of Mr. Wilson's that the car was damaged.

Sad Death in Port Hope.

Milicent Annie, the 11-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Cane, Mill street, Port Hope, met a sad death Sunday afternoon. The little tot was playing about and the mother left her just for a few moments. During the mother's absence, however, the child managed to climb to a tub of blueing water and toppled in and was drowned before assistance reached.

Musicale to Be Held.

On Wednesday evening of this week a twilight musicale and dance will be held under the auspices of the Upper Stoney Lake Cottagers and Campers Association, in the pavilion at Crowe's Landing. A number of Toronto soloists, and Miss Pearl Brock, Peterborough, will contribute to the musical portion of the program. The musicale will commence at 7 o'clock and cottagers from all parts of Stoney Lake are expected to attend.

Liquor Case Soon.

A charge of having a quantity of liquor, above the amount prescribed by law, will be charged against two local men. It is alleged that the parties concerned were responsible for the liquor being stored on the steamer "Stoney Lake," during the course of her passage to Jubilee on Saturday afternoon, with an excursion on board. The case will be heard on Saturday next. The committee in charge of the excursion reported the matter to Inspector Stewart and the liquor was confiscated.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

M. de W.: If you will shampoo occasionally with plain canthrox you will be delighted on how quickly your dull, brittle, unmanageable hair will become soft and lustrous. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water and your shampoo is ready. Rub briskly as you pour a little at a time on the head and it will dissolve every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Rinsing leaves hair and scalp immaculately clean and the hair then dries quickly and evenly.

Grace T.: I would not advise taking "patent" medicines. Your "worn-out" feeling and lack of appetite indicate a sluggish, poison-laden condition of the blood, and the best and safest thing of which I know is an old-fashioned kardene tonic, made by dissolving ½ cupful sugar in ½ pint alcohol, then adding 1 ounce kardene and hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before meals and in a short while the blood will be free from all poisons. Nothing can take the place of this simple kardene tonic as a body-builder and strength-giver for youth or old age.

Maude: It would be a shame to hide the beauties of violet eyes behind glasses, and I truly believe you can avoid wearing them if you will use this harmless, strengthening eye-tonic: Into a pint of cold, clear water dissolve an ounce crystos, then put 2 or 3 drops in each eye daily. This simple crystos tonic reduces inflammation, overcomes the watery condition, and to weak, dull eyes gives strength and brilliancy. For removing foreign particles and taking out soreness the crystos eye-tonic is unsurpassed.

Mrs. T. S.: Cutting the hairs on the cheek only encourages them to grow thicker and heavier. Mix a little powdered delatone and water and spread on hairy surface, then after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left smooth, firm and hairless.

C. T.: No woman who prizes her complexion will think of choking the skin's lungs with powder or greasy creams. Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water), then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine and you will have a lotion far superior to powder, and at a trifling cost. The spurmax lotion should be applied sparingly and rubbed lightly until it dries. It is invisible when on, cleanses the skin of impurities and gives to the complexion a refinement and gentility truly delightful. This does not rub nor blow off and perspiration fails to spot or streak it.

B. L. T.: I frequently advise the use of a quinzoin hair-tonic, because of the very beneficial effects following its use. To prepare it, add ½ pint water to ½ pint alcohol, then pour in 1 ounce quinzoin. The scalp should be massaged with this at least once a week. A few treatments stop falling hair and restore the original gloss and soft fluffiness. This is especially fine to banish dandruff and encourage a healthy growth of long thick, brilliant hair.

Agnes: (1) I appreciate your grateful feeling toward me for suggesting the spurmax skin-lotion. (2) Your weight is unusual, but that need not worry you, for reducing it is a simple matter if you use parnotis. In 1½ pints of hot water dissolve 4 ounces parnotis, and when it cools take a tablespoonful before each meal. This is a harmless, inexpensive fat-dissolvant, and while it is positive, its action is so gentle that not the slightest inconvenience is experienced. This method leaves the flesh firm and the skin smooth and clear.

M. L.: With the approach of summer it is necessary to safeguard the skin against freckles, tan and sunburn. This can be done by using a simple almozoin cream-jelly on the face, neck and arms before retiring at night, then in the morning applying a spurmax lotion (for formula, see answer to "C. T."). The almozoin cream-jelly cleanses the skin of pore-dirt, blackheads and other impurities and gives to it a rose tint and velvety softness, at the same time protecting it against the ravages of the sun's rays. To make the almozoin cream-jelly, dissolve 1 ounce almozoin in ½ pint cold water, to which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine.

ROOSEVELT'S RADICAL SPEECH Astonishes Even The Progressives | THE NAVY QUESTION May Come Before The Cabinet in September | SUFFRAGETTE CONVICTED

SUFFRAGETTES TO PLAY BIG PART IN ROOSEVELT'S SCHEME

Progressive Leaders Say They Hope to Gain Many Votes by the Stand They Have Taken---Many Will Be Influenced

Chicago, Aug. 6.—There is no denial of the fact that the introduction of the women suffrage element into the present political situation is going to play a tremendous part. Being an entirely new element in American national politics, injected into an already badly scrambled situation, every indication is that the political dopsters are going to have their figures shown sadly out of line.

The Progressive leaders are very frank in their statements that the suffrage plank in their platform will be one of their strongest vote-getters, especially taken in connection with the social betterment proposals. They say that the suffrage movement has already a much stronger following throughout the nation than has been generally understood—due, largely to the fact that until the Progressives made their plunge there seemed little immediate chance of the proposition becoming a live national issue. It is the hope of the Roosevelt followers that with the suffrage issue well to the fore, the indirect force of the millions of women will be exercised on the fathers, husbands and brothers in favor of the Progressive candidate.

THOUSANDS IN CONVENTION HALL CHEER "BULL MOOSE" LEADER

Col. Roosevelt Accorded Wild Demonstration Which Lasted An Hour---Seemed to be Geniune Throughout

Chicago, Aug. 6.—When Chairman Beveridge announced this afternoon that Col. Roosevelt was in waiting, the convention delegates spring to their feet, and the audience started cheering as the stalwart form of the Colonel came into view on the rear of the stage.

The entire hall was a sea of 10,000 waving red and white bandannas and Roosevelt stood, bowing, his face wreathed in smiles, as the crowd went frantic with enthusiasm. He bowed to friends in the first row of delegates and then in turn faced each side of the hall, bowing low and waving a railroader's salute to each of the galleries.

The band was playing, at least it was going through the motions, but its music could not be heard above the din of the shouts of "We Want Teddy, We Want Teddy."

There was no question of Roosevelt's happiness. His face radiated it, and as he nodded to the blue uniformed G.A.R. drum corps, it came across the stage and ranged itself in a semi-circle about the speakers' stand.

Shook Hands With Veterans.

Roosevelt grasped each of the veterans by the hand, shook it warmly and then, at his suggestion, they struck up a wild marching tune. The blare of the fifes and the boom of the drums aided the enthusiasm, and as the music died down General McDowell, of Tennessee, veteran of the Confederacy, pressed forward, and Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand and patted him on the back. Roosevelt finally swung into the spirit of enthusiasm himself, and waved his arms and cheered.

The demonstration was the most remarkable yet tendered to Roosevelt during the present campaign. Not a person was in his seat, even the women in the galleries standing on their chairs to contribute to the undulating sea of color made by the waving bandannas. From the rear of the stage many pressed forward to shake hands with the Colonel.

Tim Woodruff, from his seat in front of New York delegation, suddenly grasped the Empire State standard. In an instant wild demonstration in the aisles had been started.

Apparently much improved by three months spent in foreign travel, Charles W. Morse, who left this country immediately after his release from the federal prison at Atlanta, has just come back, accompanied by Mrs. Morse. He says he has much to accomplish, but denies he will re-enter the shipping business. He will attend a reception to him by his old friends in Bath, Me.

DARKENING OF THE WAR CLOUD WITH GERMAN EMPIRE

Montreal, Aug. 5.—That the German war scare is fast approaching a crisis is the opinion expressed by Sir George Doughty, a prominent member of the British Parliament, and a shipowner, who is now in Montreal.

"Every sensible man in Great Britain," said Sir George, "no matter to what party he belongs, is now firmly convinced that Germany is bending all her energies to prepare for war with Great Britain.

Germany Works by Design.

"The Germans," he said, "have never done anything without a design. They prepared for years for the Franco-German war, and when they were ready they struck. Similarly they are preparing for war with Great Britain, and because that war must be on the sea they are building up, at tremendous sacrifice to themselves, the great German navy which we see evolving before our eyes.

In Spite of Friendliness.

"They are doing that despite the fact that the present relations between the German and the British Governments are of a friendly character. They are doing it despite the fact that there is no single cause for difference between the two nations; despite the fact that Great Britain is in no wise menacing them; despite the fact that they are allowed to trade quite as freely in every port of the British Empire and on every sea in the world as are the British themselves.

Great Britain Alert.

"Great Britain is now thoroughly aroused to this danger. It is a characteristic of the British people that they are apt to be lethargic at first—apt to let things go for a time in the belief that everything will work out all right. But when they are aroused they act in a very determined, a very whole-hearted, and a very solid way. They are aroused now, and they are determined at all costs to keep the British navy overwhelmingly superior to that of Germany. The feeling is very different to what it was six years ago, when I created a sensation by stating that a squadron of German gunboats had paid a visit to the Humber to study the situation for landing a striking force, and had got away unobserved by the British navy."

Navy Protection of Commerce.

Sir George proceeded to say that every sovereign in Great Britain, and every dollar in Canada was worth its face value simply because of the protection of the British navy.

"We are beginning to realize this in Great Britain now," he remarked, "and the Dominions are beginning to realize, too, that our freedom, our homes,—yes, and the lives of many of us—depend on the continued supremacy of the British navy. The freedom of Canada to trade on terms of equality with other nations depends on it. In fact the whole fabric of our freedom and prosperity depends on it. Is it any wonder that in face of this new danger we are increasing our insurance premiums?"

WHAT GERMANY REALLY WANTS

Assurance That Russia Will Keep Clear in Case of War

GERMANY SEEKING HELP

The War With Britain Which is on The Horizon, Looks Like a Big Job for the Kaiser.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—It has been asserted, with almost suspicious zeal, that the object of the meeting between the Kaiser and the Czar was merely to cement the already cordial relations between the German and Russian Empires. It has been specifically denied that either monarch cherished the idea of taking steps to end the Turco-Italian war, and Germany in particular has disavowed any intention of trying to undermine Russian allegiance to either French alliance or the triple entente. These assertions, however, convince only the uninterested. The imposing entourage wherewith the two emperors surrounded themselves, prime minister, foreign secretaries, ambassadors, admirals and generals, is evidence enough that weighty affairs in the political, military and naval spheres were topics of discussion.

What Germany Is After.

A number of suggestive editorials during the weeks have let the cat out of the bag with regard to what Germany wants from Russia. That is nothing more nor less than a friendly understanding to the effect that Russia will decline to fall on Germany's rear if the day should ever come when Germany and Austria find themselves in a death grapple with Great Britain and France. Nobody in authority will ever admit that this is the goal of German diplomatic ambitions in respect to Russia, but it is thoroughly well understood to be the case just the same.

Is It Marriage?

A German society weekly circulates gossip to the effect that the Kaiser took his sailor son, Prince Adelbert of Prussia, along to the meeting with the Czar, in order to arrange a marriage between him and the Czar's eldest daughter, the Grand Duchess Olga.

Germans did not dignify the report with much attention, although they recognized the undoubted political value of such a matrimonial alliance with their eastern neighbor.

Match Not Popular.

Several things speak out against the probability of such a match. In the first place, Prince Adelbert is 28 years old, and the Grand Duchess is not 17. Secondly, the prince is a Protestant, and the Czar's daughter is a Greek Catholic. Thirdly, it is an open secret that Prince Adelbert is deeply in love with a beautiful young German girl of an aristocratic family. He is a particularly strong-minded young man, this handsome lieutenant-commander, who will some day become commander-in-chief of the German fleet, like his uncle, Prince Henry of Prussia, and those who know him doubt if he could ever be coaxed into a purely political marriage.

Furthermore, the prince has not seen the Grand Duchess Olga, and did not see her this week at Baltisch Port, so the gossip published by the Salonblatt is likely to remain such for a time to come.

BUFFALO COTTAGERS HAVE RETURNED HOME

Owing to the sad drowning of Miss Ruth Boasberg, of Buffalo, whose death was reported in yesterday's Times, the Buffalo cottagers at Chemong, the Weil and Deshecker families, returned yesterday to their homes. They were warm friends of the young lady who met such a tragic end, and are deeply effected by the fatality. Miss Boasberg was the daughter of Emmanuel Boasberg of Buffalo, a wealthy tobacco importer of that city.

UNITED FOR DEFENCE

Mr. W. D. Lighthall, of Montreal, prominent Liberal and founder of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, strikes the right note. He says that all Canadians regardless of party should give the Government an undivided national support for whatever expenditure it finds necessary for the safety of the Empire in the present emergency. The Conservative Premier of the Dominion and three of his colleagues have been in consultation with the Liberal Government of Great Britain as to the seriousness of the present situation abroad, and they are coming home to lay their first hand information before the full Cabinet. While in Europe the Canadian Ministers have taken occasion to visit Paris and when there members of the French Government impressed upon them the necessity for and the reality of the defensive alliance between the British Empire and the French Republic. It may be that a French Minister or a French warship will accompany Mr. Churchill on a British warship to the waters of the St. Lawrence. Nothing more could be required to solidify the French and English-speaking peoples of this country in active support of the entente cordiale between the two Mother Countries.

A NEW IMMIGRATION SCHEME BEING PLANNED FOR CANADA

Walter Harbord Plans to Send Out Men Fitted to Do Real Farm Work

Montreal, Aug. 6.—That a new form of immigration will in all probability be introduced into Canada, is the statement of Walter Harbord, one of the oldest head teachers of the London County Council, who was in the city yesterday.

Some three years ago Mr. Harbord came to the conclusion that Canada required trained farmers, and he eventually presented a scheme to the London County Council which he calls the County Council immigration scheme, which has for its object the training of juniors sent from the old country to properly manned schools in each province of Canada, so that when they reach the age of seventeen they will not only become of assistance to the farmers in the various provinces, but will be able to be settled on land as determined by the Government. Mr. Harbord comes out armed with strong credentials, and introductions to all the Premiers of the various provinces through out the country and many influential people, including members of Parliament and members of the Cabinet at Ottawa. He left for the capital last night to begin to interview Ministers there.

NEW YORK CITIZENS HOLD MASS MEETING

New York, Aug. 6.—It became known to-day that the Citizens' Committee, self-appointed by Jacob H. Schiff and others, to probe the graft charges against the police department, has decided to hold a mass meeting in Cooper Union, and there raise funds for a thorough investigation of the police department, wholly apart from enquiry now under way by the Board of Aldermen.

NAVY QUESTIONS BEFORE THE CABINET IN SEPTEMBER

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—The regime of Hon. George H. Perley as Acting Premier ended yesterday with the arrival of Hon. George E. Foster, who will now fill that position. Mr. Perley, however, will continue to look after the departments of several of the absent Ministers. That Mr. Perley has filled the position of Acting Premier with remarkable success is the general opinion in Government circles.

Mr. Foster states that Mr. Borden will sail for Canada on August 20th, and Cabinet meetings to decide on the naval policy of the Government will be held in September.

TURKS ARE DEFENDING LAST STRONGHOLD FROM ITALIANS

Italians Attack Zuara On Tripolitan Coast Both By Sea And Land---Is an Important Point

Rome, Aug. 6.—Extreme importance, both from military and political points, attaches to the possession of Zuara, against which operations have been begun. Zuara is the last town on the Tripolitan coast remaining unoccupied by Italians, and hence it has become a sort of general supply station for the Turco-Arab force and the centre of resistence. It is well situated in a densely wooded oasis. It had a population before the war of twenty thousand, and is linked by three caravan routes to Tripoli, Regdaline and Bengardane.

It is certain that Zuara will be obstinately defended by the Turks, as it is their sole remaining outlet to the sea. For the last six months they have been actively occupied in fortifying it and placing guns in position.

The Italians are attacking the place simultaneously from the sea and from the land side.

All the troops which for the last fortnight have been in Sicily taking orders to embark for the scene of operations, will be equipped with aeroplanes.

WARM-HEARTED QUEEN MARY

Got the Husband of a Poor Woman Pardoned and Released

TO AID KING MANUEL

A Lady of Royal Birth Pawned Jewels to Aid Ex-King Manuel to Regain His Lost Throne—Princess Mary as a Shopper.

THE warm-hearted Queen Mary is not the "Queen of Ice" which she is frequently called by hostile writers in British and continental journals opposed to monarchy. How easily her heart is moved to sympathy was shown in an incident concerning a poor woman which occurred a few days ago. A London laborer was convicted of a petty offence and sentenced to prison. His wife was left with three mouths as well as her own to feed; rent and clothing to pay for. Beaten in the unequal struggle, but still striving to avoid the poor house, she appealed to the home secretary to have her husband released. Her request was refused.

In despair she wrote to the Queen, explaining her troubles in a tear-stained letter. Queen Mary answered the letter by a personal visit the day after she received it, gave the poor woman gold with which to meet her immediate wants, and then went to the King and got his Majesty to request the home secretary to release the laborer. He was not merely pardoned, but given a good place in the royal service with the advice to remain sober and keep out of trouble.

Pawned Jewels.

In order to aid the efforts being made to restore the monarchy in Portugal, a lady of royal birth has pawned a number of jewels, said to belong to the Portuguese crown. This having come to the ears of the governing authorities of the republic, they have decided to take action for their recovery. The jewels in question were supposed to be safely locked up in the treasury. They are of great value.

Mary Garden.

Miss Mary Garden, the prima donna, is said to be contemplating the erection of a theatre in New York on the lines of the Opera Comique of Paris.

The Princess Mary

Princess Mary is very fond of shopping, and is most business-like in all her transactions. Royalty, as a rule, do not inquire the price of an article before buying, but the young princess always does.

King George's Health.

It is not unlikely that the King will soon follow the example of his aunt, the Duchess of Albany, and take to sculling for his health's sake. His Majesty is suffering rather from his liver at the moment, and has been ordered more exercise. He has been riding a good deal while at Windsor, and both there and in London has been trying what tennis will do for him, but the trouble persists. There is nothing seriously wrong, but the members of his court will not be sorry when he is better.

In High Favor.

Lady Beatrice Meade is one of the two unmarried sisters of the present Earl of Clanwilliam, and has for some years been a prime favorite in the more cultured set in society. She is clever, talks well, and is extremely musical, can read music at sight, and plays the violin and violoncello with the ease of a professional. As may be guessed, she is often in demand to play in trios and quartettes with her friends and acquaintances. The Meades have always been in high favor with royalty, and Lady Beatrice's next sister, Lady Katherine, holds the post of lady-in-waiting to the Duchess of Albany.

WOMAN CAPTAIN OF CONFEDERACY ILL

Capt. Sallie M. Tompkins Only Woman to Get Military Commission

Richmond Va., Aug. 6.—Captain Sallie M Tompkins, said to be the only woman who ever received a military commission from President Davis, of the Confederate States, is in a dying condition at the Confederate Home for needy women in this city, as a result of an attack of acute indigestion.

Captain Tompkins was one of the ministering angels of the Lost Cause. During the war she gave up everything in order that she might look after wounded Confederate soldiers. At her own expense she established a private hospital in Richmond. Later she was put at the head of the government hospital.

In recognition of her unselfish labors and unquestioned executive ability President Davis bestowed upon Miss Tompkins the rank of a captain of cavalry.

THE WEATHER.

Mostly fair and a little higher temperature.

HOW MANY OF US
Fail to Select Food Nature Demands to Ward Off Ailments.

A Ky. lady, speaking about food, says: "I was accustomed to eating all kinds of ordinary food until, for some reason, indigestion and nervous prostration set in.

"After I had run down seriously my attention was called to the necessity of some change in my diet, and I discontinued my ordinary breakfast and began using Grape-Nuts with a good quantity of rich cream.

"In a few days my condition changed in a remarkable way, and I began to have a strength that I had never been possessed of before, a vigor of body and a poise of mind that amazed me. It was entirely new in my experience.

"My former attacks of indigestion had been accompanied by heat flashes, and many times my condition was distressing with blind spells of dizziness, rush of blood to the head and neuralgic pains in the chest.

"Since using Grape-Nuts alone for breakfast I have been free from these troubles, except at times when I have indulged in rich, greasy foods in quantity, then I would be warned by a pain under the left shoulder blade, and unless I heeded the warning, the old trouble would come back, but when I finally got to know where these troubles originated I returned to my Grape-Nuts and cream, and the pain and disturbance left very quickly.

"I am now in prime health as a result of my use of Grape-Nuts." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth. The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 65 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 360 George St. directly opposite Creamman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

Spaniards Cut Words.

The most amusing instances of laziness in speaking are to be found in Spain. The Spaniards have made it a practice to cut down every word to an irreducible minimum of sound. Take their word for "son," which is as near as possible "[illegible]" (ch guttural, as in "loch"). That was originally the Latin "filius." The French made it "fils," the Italians "figlio" (feelyo). The Spaniards could not be bothered with the "f" at the beginning or the "l" in the middle, so they simply pronounced the two vowels with a guttural noise, which comes natural to them, in between—"[illegible]."—London Mail.

BARBARY PIRATES

These Fiends Terrorized the Sea For Five Centuries.

DEFIED THE ENTIRE WORLD.

They Held at One Time Forty Thousand Captives as Slaves, Among Whom Was Cervantes—The Cannon's Mouth For a French Envoy.

Those pests of the sea, the Barbary pirates, who defied the civilized world for 500 years, had at one time 40,000 Christian slaves in bondage in Algeria. The methods by which they were obtained and how treated are described by Sir Henry Norman in Scribner's Magazine:

"Ships were seized in all European waters, even off the coast of Ireland, and their crews taken into slavery. So were the crews of vessels which came to trade. When any state attempted punishment the consul of that country was sent to the galleys, and Sir Lambert Playfair, British consul general and erudite author of Murray's 'Handbook,' tells us that in one instance on the approach of a French fleet their representative was blown toward them from a mortar. Cervantes himself was a slave there in 1555.

"In the seventeenth century the Algerine pirates held prizes worth 20,000,000 francs. Again and again the Christian powers of that and the next century failed to inflict a lasting defeat upon this 'scourge of Christendom.' The British parliament passed an act to 'undertake the Christian work of the redemption of the captives from the cruel thralldom they lay under,' but its intention exceeded its power, for not long afterward 350 English ships were captured and 6,000 English slaves brought into Algiers in the space of seven years, and when after five years' war between England and the pirate state a peace was signed the dey refused to surrender a single English slave, and the treaty had a clause to the effect that 'the king of Great Britain shall not be obliged by virtue of this treaty to redeem any of his subjects now in slavery,' probably the most degrading treaty, as Sir Lambert Playfair remarks, ever signed between England and a foreign power.

"At one time 40,000 Christian slaves were in bondage in Algeria, of all the nations of Europe, many of them men of rank, learning and piety and all of them suffering daily the most cruel hardships, starvation and torture. One would have expected the Christian nations to join forces for one object at least and wipe this puny pirate state off the earth, yet for 500 years Barbary held them at bay.

"Just as the old sailors' chantry about 'the coast of the wild Barbaree' took its origin in the terrors of that coast, so the religious order of the Fathers of the Redemption was originally founded to collect alms for the ransom of the Algerian slaves, and many of its members, with perhaps the noblest Christian charity on record, voluntarily shared the lot of the captives for the comfort they could give and the services they could render in negotiations of ransom.

"One ghost of all these unhappy thousands takes literally concrete shape. An Arab Christian named Geronimo, taken as a baby by Spanish soldiers and educated by the vicar general, was captured by the pirates during a raid. As a renegade he was, of course, the subject of the utmost persecution, and when no inducement or suffering could make him apostatize he was at length offered by the dey the choice of being thrown alive into a mold of concrete which formed part of the foundation of a new bastion or of embracing Islam. He chose the martyrdom and was flung into the mold with his hands tied behind him and the concrete poured over him. This was in 1569.

"In 1612 a Spanish Benedictine father wrote a history of Algiers in the course of which he narrated at length the martyrdom of Geronimo and described particularly the situation of the bastion in which his body lay. In 1847 a translation of this passage was published in an Algerian newspaper, and in 1853, when the old fortress was destroyed, search was made. Exactly as had been described the skeleton was discovered, and on plaster of paris being poured into the impression in the cement the figure of the martyr emerged, the hands tied behind it, much as he had been three centuries before. This plaster cast is today in the Bibliotheque museo."

Satisfaction For Him.

"Well," said the millionaire's brilliant son, who has achieved success by his own efforts, "I have one great satisfaction."

"What is that?" asked his admiring friends.

"At least none of you can say that you knew me when I didn't have a nickel."—Detroit Free Press.

THE PERILS OF GOTHAM

New York newspapers began the month of August by confessing that 30 persons had been murdered in that city in July. How its 31st day happened to fail of representation was not explained. On August 2 the same newspapers came forward with the declaration that while murder was rife it was secondary in its destructiveness to the vehicular traffic of the streets of that city, which had killed nearly twice as many New Yorkers as did the murderers, besides injuring a very large number more.

In July automobiles killed 21 persons in Greater New York and seriously injured 168. The trolley car, to which the public has now become relatively accustomed, killed 12 and injured 60. Horse-drawn vehicles, supposedly as harmless as old Dobbin himself killed 19 and injured 31. And of the 52 persons thus killed by vehicular traffic, 30 were children under 16 years of age. Of these children 11 met death by automobiles, eight by trolley and 11 by wagons.

The statistician then proceeds with the figures for New York state, exclusive of the city. From these it appears that "the deadly grade crossing" of which we have heard so much and still inexcusably bad, has become a very minor peril. From Yonkers to Buffalo, from Binghampton to Malone throughout that great area, gridironed with railroads, little protected by the separation of crossings, in July just five persons were killed and 13 injured. In the process two wagons were wrecked and 10 automobiles demolished. No trolley was involved. This measure of misfortune seems small compared with the 24 persons who, in exactly the same time and territory, were killed by automobiles and with the 157 who were injured. Even trolleys caused the death of more people than the deadly grade crossings, besides injuring four times as many.

It is evident that the separation of railroad and highway crossings, toward which the civilized world is properly moving, will have to be supplemented by measures against vastly greater perils. The locomotive, confined to a pair of tracks, is a harmless animal beside the automobile, and confined to a track on a private right o way he is less menacing than the more slowly moving trolley on the public highways.

Editorial Notes

There is absolutely no opposition to Roosevelt in the Third Party. And why should there be? It is his party.

Because public drinking fountains are not being provided, as suggested some time ago by the Examiner, we trust the editor will not become addicted to the reprehensible habit of drinking out of the neck of a bottle.

Canada's lobster output last year was 50,500,000, and that did not include a few who devote some of their spare time in knocking this great family journal, which is rapidly taking its place in the front rank of Canadian newspapers in spite of them.

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Re-Toned

SEVEN DAYS' USE OF CATARRHOZONE PERFORMED REGULAR MIRACLE.

Miss Counter's Case Proves the Wonderful Efficacy of Catarrhozone in all Throat and Nose Diseases.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 7.—Miss Counter's case will prove of great interest to everyone troubled with sore throat, bronchitis or weak lungs.

When asked for a statement, Miss Counter said: "About seven years ago I contracted a heavy cold that settled on my lungs and resisted all treatment. After I had tried several doctors here and specialists in Detroit without benefit, I went to my druggist and asked him for the best remedy he had for cold on the lungs. He recommended Catarrhozone, which cured my cold in one week. It brought back my voice, and I have been ever since free from my old trouble. For coughs, colds and lung trouble I am sure that Catarrhozone is the best remedy. It goes right to the sore spot, gives quick relief and makes a lasting cure.

Catarrhozone cures because its healing vapor is inhaled to the very places that are sore and inflammed.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing and Catarrh, by all means buy a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only. 50c. and $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Ben Tillett, the British labor leader, who got some thousands of striking docv laborers to join him in the prayer that Lord Davenport be struck divine admonition, "Pray for them dead, evidently had no use for the that despitefully use you and persecute you."

COUNTESS TO AID AFRICANS

Darkies To Be Assisted In Securing Wives

Paris, Aug. 6.—Of all the freak reasons for running a philanthropic bazaar, that given by the Countess d'Eu for a gathering that netted $4,400 the other day was surely the queerest. Her object, she said, was to enable a hundred and ten darkies in Africa to wed as many dusky maids. M. Le Myre de Villers, of the French Anti-Slavery Society, lent his approval to this matrimonial hustle.

He explained in the course of the proceedings that they had discovered that only colored people with enough money to buy wives were able to enjoy connubial bliss in French Africa. Such was the colored custom. Mostly it took them years and years to rake enough money together. Then when they had it dusky December took to himself a shrinking May. The youngsters could not mate without the money, and if they risked the instalment plan they were kept in a state of unhappiness because the parents were always liable to drop down on the bridegroom at awkward times with the threat to take his wife away unless he paid up some more.

This moving spectacle so wrought on the minds of the French auditors of the orator that they shelled out enough to advance $40 each to five score and a half prospective bridegrooms to enable them to set up house in the African bush. It is proposed that the happy couples should pay the money back in five years, so as to enable others to be started on the matrimonial road in the prime of life.

Only two cynics had any doubts to express on these ideas. One questioned the guarantees as to repayment, the other urged the greatest secrecy as to the advances, lest the parents raised the price of brides directly they heard the news. Outsiders privately added the opinion that this is strange work for an anti-slavery society, since the black wife in French Africa becomes a bondwoman on marriage. But the officials say the movement is destined to be a great success. Apparently the French are to atone for their decreasing birthrate by boosting that in Africa

MODIFY DUEL LAWS.

Kaiser to Change the Code of Honor in Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Germany's inhuman duelling rules soon will be remodeled by the Kaiser, who will issue a Cabinet order stating that duelling is only compulsory for officers in the case of gross insult, and that when religious scruples interfere no duel shall be necessary. The Kaiser's action has been caused by the indignation of Roman Catholics throughout Germany over compulsory duelling. As the Roman Catholic party is very powerful in the Reichstag, the Kaiser is anxious to secure their support in his fight against the Socialists. It is not supposed that the Kaiser's order will be obeyed by officers unless they are punished for duelling, and it probably will bring about the resignation of General von Heeringer, who is an advocate of duelling

BEAUTIFUL WIFE PRIZE

A Remarkable Bachelors' Lottery is Being Organized in Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—A remarkable bachelors' lottery is being organized at Smolensk. The prize is a beautiful young wife, and 5,000 tickets at half a crown each are being sold.

Not everyone who pays half a crown can, however, hope to win the bride. She is to be "at home" every day for a week to the ticketholders, and, after interviewing them, if she does not approve of some candidate as a possible husband, his money is to be refunded to him and the ticket withdrawn.

Another stipulation of the scheme is that when the winner eventually comes to claim his bride he may yet be rejected by her, but receives, by way of compensation, half the sum of the total proceeds from the sale of the tickets.

The drawing of the lottery, which has been sanctioned by the authorities, will take place shortly.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—The local grain market continues quiet, with little or no business doing for export. Liverpool's closing is a factor in the present situation, but such enquiries as were received for wheat from the continent were shaded off again from the bids of Saturday, in sympathy with the weaker feeling in the option markets, and proportionately out of line with sellers' views here. As a result no business was done. Oats are quiet, but firm. Export trade in flour is as usual slow at this time of the year, but a fair business is passing to meet local demands

An easier feeling prevails in the butter market, owing to the decline of prices of Cowansville and Ste. Hyacinthe boards on Saturday. The market was in a waiting position to-day, buyers holding off evidently in the expectation of further lowering of prices. Cheese is firm on the advance at the country boards on Saturday. Eggs are steady.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, [illegible] to [illegible]; do. No. 3, 44c to 44½c; extra No. 1 feed, 46c.

Barley—Manitoba feed, [illegible] to [illegible]

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.80, seconds, $5.30; strong bakers, $5.10; winter patents, choice, $5.25; straight rollers, $4.85 to $4.90, bags, $2.25 to [illegible].

Millfeed—Bran, $23; shorts, [illegible]; middlings, $27; moullie, $30 to $34.

Hay—No. 2, per ton, car lots, $16 to [illegible].

Cheese—Finest westerns, [illegible] to [illegible]; finest easterns, 12½c to 13½c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 26½c to [illegible]; seconds, 25c to 26¼c.

Eggs—Selected, 28c to 29c; No. 2 stock, 21c to 22c

Potatoes—Per bag, car lots, $1.60.

Dressed hogs—Abattoir killed, $12.75 to $13.

Pork—Heavy Canada short mess, bbls., 35 to 45 pieces, $26; Canada short cut back, bbls., 45 to 55 pieces, $25.50; Canada clear, bbls., 30 to 35 pieces, $26.

Lard—Compound, tierces, 375 lbs., 10c; wood pails, 20 lbs. net, 10¼c; pure, tierces, 375 lbs., 13¼c; pure, wood pails, 20 lbs., net, 13¾c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 120 carloads, comprising 2361 cattle, 404 hogs, 731 sheep and lambs, 119 calves and 45 horses.

Exporters.

Coughlin & Company bought 80 choice London export steers for [illegible] Co., 1300 lbs. each, at $7.50.

Butchers.

Choice heavy steers, export weights, bought for butchers' purposes, $7.15 to $7.50; loads of good butchers, $6.75 to $7; medium, $6 to $6.50; common to medium, $5.25 to $6, common and inferior light weight steers, $4.70 to [illegible]; good cows, $5.25 to $5.75, medium cows, $4 to $5; common cows, $3 to $4; canners, [illegible] to $3; bulls, $3.50 to $5.50.

Milkers and Springers

A limited number of milkers and springers, not enough to supply the demand, sold at $50 to $75 each

Veal Calves

The market for veal calves was steady to strong at an average price of $7.25 per cwt. or a range of $4 to $8.25 per cwt., with an odd new milk fed veal at [illegible] per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Early in the day the market for sheep and lambs was inclined to be slow, but later on everything was reported as cleaned up at steady prices. Sheep, light ewes, $4.25 to $4.75, and for a few extra light ewes, $5 per cwt. was paid; heavy ewes, rams and culls, sold at $3 to $3.50 per cwt.; lambs sold as low as $4 and as high as $8.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

All the packing houses were represented on the market, Mr. William Harris for the Wm. Davies Company, W. J. Johnson for Gunn's, Limited; W. J. Neeley for Park, Blackwell Co., Fred Williams for Swift & Company, and R. Carter for Puddy Bros. Selects fed and watered sold at $8.50, and $7.15 for f.o.b. cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug 5.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week were 1,800 cattle, 800 calves, 2700 sheep and lambs and 2400 hogs. The offerings to-day were 1200 head of butchers' cattle, 250 calves, 2000 sheep and lambs and 1000 hogs.

Owing to the large run for the day and the relatively lighter demand the tendency was to lower prices. Top steers, which sold as high as $7.50 per cwt. a week ago, ranged $6.75 to $7. The bulk of the trading was done in cattle, with prices per cwt. from [illegible] to [illegible]. Sheep were easier, with old sheep selling at $4 to $5.00, and lambs, 6½c to 7c per lb.

The market for hogs was active and irregular. Eastern hogs sold at $8.25 to $8.50 per cwt.; short-run selects, [illegible], and long-run, $9, sows, $6.50, and stags $4.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 5.—Cattle—Receipts, 6000 head; active; good to choice, steady to strong; common, 10c to 15c lower, prime steers, $9.15 to $9.50; shipping, $8.50 to $9, butchers, $5.50 to $8.75; heifers, $4.50 to $5.50; cows, $3 to $6.00; bulls, $4 to $6.25; stockers and feeders, $4.25 to $5.65; stock heifers, $3.75 to $4.00; fresh cows and springers, steady, $30 to $70.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000 head; active and steady to 5c lower; heavy, [illegible] to [illegible]; Yorkers, $8.65 to $8.85; pigs, $8.00 to [illegible]; roughs, $7.60 to $7.00; stags, $5 to [illegible]; dairies, $8.60 to $8.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,400 head; steady, sheep, active; lambs, slow; lambs, $4.50 to $7.65; yearlings, [illegible] to [illegible]; wethers, $4.75 to $5.00; ewes, $2 to $4.75; sheep, mixed, $4 to $5.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Cattle—Receipts 22,000. Market, beeves 10c to 15c higher. Others mostly 10c to 15c lower.

Beeves, $5.85 to $10.10; Texas steers, $5 to $7.10; western steers, $5.25 to [illegible]; stockers and feeders, $4 to $6.60; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $8.40, calves, $6.75 to [illegible].

Hogs—Receipts 38,000. Market generally 10c to 15c higher. Light, $7.50 to [illegible]; mixed, $7.50 to $8.00; heavy, $7.35 to [illegible]; rough, $7.30 to $7.50; pigs, $4.25 to [illegible]; bulk of sales, $7.20 to $8.00.

Sheep—Receipts 22,000. Market generally steady. Native, $3.30 to $4.75; western, $3.50 to $4.65; yearlings, [illegible] to [illegible]; lambs, native, $4.50 to $7.75; western, [illegible] to $7.75.

St. Paul's, London.

London's great downtown cathedral, between Fleet street and Cheapside, stands like a huge rock fair amid the seas of traffic that wash up Ludgate hill from the Strand and on the east to the Bank of England; different from the Abbey, which stands remote at Westminster. St. Paul's was rebuilt by Sir Christopher Wren after the great fire of 1666. It is 516 feet long and 219 feet wide; took twenty-two years to build until the time of opening and thirteen years more for completion. St. Paul's is the tomb of many great men. Over the north door is the inscription, "Lector si monumentum requiris, circumspice." "Reader, if you seek this monument, look about you."

MODELED FROM MEMORY.

Danton Was a Wonder, Though He Did Once Mix His Subjects.

Danton, the celebrated caricaturist, had a wonderful power of modeling from memory. After one long look at his subject he could go to his studio and make a bust quite perfect in its resemblance.

One day a young man came to him, saying that his sister was ill and about to die and that, although the family wished her bust modeled, they dared not excite her by mentioning it. Would he undertake to reproduce her features after seeing her once? Danton agreed, and next day the brother informed his sister that he intended to present her with some jewels and that a young man would bring some specimens for her approval.

Danton brought in the jewels and, going home, modeled a bust of striking resemblance. Next year an old gentleman, the father of the young woman, came to order a bust of the brother, who also had died. This, too, was a marvelous success.

The result of such planning, however, was not always as satisfactory to his patrons as in these cases. A gentleman who could not persuade his wife to sit asked Danton to enter a certain omnibus one day and fix in his memory the features of the lady opposite him.

He did so, modeled a beautiful bust and sent it home. It proved, however, to be not the mistress, but the maid, who had also taken the trip in the omnibus.

MONARCHS AND COINS.

Napoleon In a Temper and Louis Philippe on a Hunt.

The great Napoleon was not great at the whist table, and a characteristic story is told of him at St. Helena. At a private party of whist he took out four napoleons to use as markers, and one of the young ladies took up one of the coins and asked him what it was. The polite hero snatched it rather roughly from her and, pointing to the impression, exclaimed, "C'est moi."

The annoyance caused by this incident ruffled him so much that he made a misdeal. The party begged him to try again, and he did so with the same result. His countenance then displayed the rages of convulsive fury, and his anger was not appeased until the house had been searched for old cards, which could be more easily dealt. Meantime the unhappy Count Las Cases, his only attendant, was ordered to sit down at a spare table to play the cards alone until they should run smoothly.

Louis Philippe showed equal regard for the coin that bore his name. He dropped a louis on the carpet while playing whist and arrested the progress of the game to look for it, whereupon a foreign ambassador who was one of the party set fire to a billet of 1,000 francs to give light to the king under the table.

Dynamite and Tree Planting.

Possibly what at first sight appears to be the strangest application of dynamite is for the purpose of planting trees. Yet its success in this connection is said to be peculiarly remarkable. When a hole is made with a spade the surrounding soil is left in its hard condition. The result is that the roots find it difficult to start. They are cramped in the tight quarters of the hole and cannot pierce the surrounding hard wall of earth. With dynamite a large clean hole is blasted out, and, in addition, the soil on all sides is loosened for five or six feet. When the tree is planted the young and tender roots force their way without effort through the crevices, sucking up nourishment, and commence to grow from the moment they are set without any retardation whatever.

A MIGHTY WARRIOR

General Dumas Was a Colossus In Size and In Heroism.

HIS AMAZING FEATS OF ARMS.

The Herculean Father of the Famous Novelist Had the Strength of Samson and the Valor of Horatius—His Son Was a Chip of the Old Block.

General Alexandre Dumas, the father of the celebrated French novelist, was a mulatto of herculean build, who was renowned as a tremendous fighter and as a man of marvelous bodily strength.

It is generally believed that he was the model from which his son drew the character of Porthos in the "Three Guardsmen"—the sometimes vainglorious, sometimes heroic, but always lovable Porthos.

Of the recklessness and daring of General Dumas there can be no doubt and evidently fear to him was an absolutely unknown quantity. "I had long thought the feats of arms ascribed to him in La Vendee, Italy, and Egypt rather apocryphal, too good to be true," writes M. Jules Claretie in a French paper. "They seemed to combine in one the tours de force of Porthos and the escapades of Chicot. But one day when I had promised to write a short life of the man his grandson put into my hands all the papers relating to the soldier's career, and I then saw that I had before me a real epic, describing a sequence of glorious actions of undoubted authenticity.

"It was, for example, established by official documents that General Dumas, standing, a solitary colossus, at the end of the bridge of Brixen, in the Tyrol, did, like Horatius of old, dispute the passage of it with a cloud of Austrians, whom he sabered and shot one after the other until he had broken his sword and used his last cartridge, and that he then did convert the body of an enemy into a battering ram.

"Again, at the theater one day he was in a box with a lady who had won his affections when a gentleman of the court, pointing at him, remarked to the lady, 'So, marchioness, you have got your negro here.' At which the mulatto, without a word, seized the man by his collar, lifted him from his seat and threw him across the footlights on to the stage.

"His son inherited the father's muscles. Traveling one year in the south of France for the sake of collecting some amusing 'impressions,' he came to Avignon by diligence with the intention of enjoying the well known view of the silhouette of the papal palace. The diligence, on stopping, was surrounded by porters, who tried to clutch the traveler's luggage. Dumas insisted on carrying his own valise, and this provoked some insolent remarks from the porters.

"'Look,' said one, 'at the big lout who won't let a poor fellow earn a living!'

"'What's so astonishing in that?' replied another. 'He's a nigger. Nature intended him for a drudge.'

"The son did not hesitate to imitate his father's example. He put down his valise, seized one of the porters, took him by the waist, carried him to the parapet of the bridge and held him out over the river, saying:

"'Give me your word that you are not the assassin of Marshal Brune!'

"Marshal Brune was assassinated at Avignon, in the white terror, 1815.

"'I! But, monsieur'—

"'Swear, I tell you, that you did not assassinate Marshal Brune or I will throw you into the Rhone!'

"The man's face became as white as a sheet, and he gasped out:

"'I will swear, monsieur, by all the saints, I did not assassinate him.'

"'All right,' said Dumas, and he threw the wretched man on to the bridge, took up his valise and went on his way, smiling, leaving the porters gasping with wonder.

"To return to the old general, he was coming back from Egypt when his ship was surrounded by some English vessels.

"'Fight to the last,' was the order, 'and when shot and shell are exhausted blow up the ship sky high.'

"All very well, but he could swim and others couldn't. To equalize matters Dumas got two cannon balls, put them into his pockets and said with a laugh:

"'Now I shall go all the quicker to the bottom.'

"But it was not to be. He was taken prisoner and thrown into a foul dungeon at Naples, from which he only emerged with his health shattered and his magnificent strength dwindled to the vanishing point."

Eating With the Knife.

It is strange that the Italian should have been the first to use the fork of civilization, for he is now the foremost of all men to suppress it in favor of the knife. In the restaurants of no other nation do men eat so horribly with their knives as in the Italian. In fact, it is only in England that the thrilling action is never seen. In Germany you may still watch an old gentleman cutting his portion up diligently with his knife and fork before beginning to eat. Having done so, he puts one of these implements away and falls to, and the one he puts away is the fork. But for the general use of the knife there is nothing like a first class restaurant in Venice.—London Chronicle.

If we do not reason we are bigots; if we cannot we are fools; if we dare not we are slaves.

FRENCH KID SKINS.

Why the Young Animals Are Not Permitted to Eat Grass.

The raising of kids for their skins is an important industry among the French mountaineers. Softness, delicacy of texture and freedom from blemish are principal factors in the value of kid skins, and to secure these essentials great pains are taken.

As soon as the young animal begins to eat grass the value of its skin declines, for with a grass diet the kid's skin immediately becomes coarser and harder in texture, and its chief merit thus vanishes. It is, therefore, kept closely penned, not only to keep it from eating grass, but also to protect its valuable skin against accidental injuries that might impair its marketability.

When the kids have attained a certain age at which the skins are in the best condition for the use of the glover they are killed and the hides are sold to dealers.

The superior quality of these kid skins, due somewhat to climatic conditions, is what has given France the supremacy in the manufacture of the finest grades of real kid gloves, a supremacy that will doubtless long be maintained, inasmuch as foreign manufacturers must rest content with second rate skins.—Harper's Weekly.

Cats as Food in China.

One often sums up the value of cheap fur by describing it as having been obtained from the domestic cat, but in China garments of catskin rank as high and are as precious as garments of sable in this country. In the Flowery Land cat's flesh is also much eaten and is especially recommended as a cure for consumption and all lung diseases. It is vastly superior to cod liver oil, and therefore cats are considered extremely valuable possessions. Black cats provide the best meat, and in a great many parts of China this food is so highly esteemed that cats are reared for sale like fowls or sheep.

Pun Upon Pun.

Strange, Moore and Wright, three notorious punsters, were on a certain occasion dining together when Moore observed, "There is but one knave among us, and that's Strange." "Oh, no," said Wright; "there is one Moore." "Aye," said Strange; "that's Wright."—London Tatler.

Peas and Lentils.

The word "pea" is derived from Pisa, a Greek city of Elis, which seems to have been the center of the pea growing industry for years before the time of Christ. The antiquarians aver that the "mess pottage," for which Esau sold his birthright, was a dish of peas. In those times they were called "lentils," and even at the present day the English common people of several of the English shires, notably Middlesex as well as Oxfordshire, call them "tils," dropping the "len." In the time of Mary they were called "peasons," and in the time of Charles I. "pease."

A Literary Sensation.

"What's the cause of the excitement? Look! There's a great crowd around the public library building. Something must have happened."

"Wait a minute. I know the librarian. I'll telephone over and see what's wrong."

(Business of telephoning.)

"Well, what is it?"

"Somebody has started a rumor that there is a business man inside reading a book of poems."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Unlike Fishing Lines.

"That fishing song in the new opera is clever, don't you think?" asked the critic.

"No," replied the hard luck angler; "it isn't at all natural."

"No?"

"No; the lines are too catchy."

A Later Development?

Father (to his son whom he has reproved for lying)—I never told a lie when I was small.

Hans—Well, how old were you, father, when you began?—Fliegende Blatter.

Worn Out.

The "Welcome" on their doormat was in letters woven stout,
But people came and went so much they were their welcome out.
—Dallas News.

Fellow Feeling.

"The children need something new every week. You have no children; hence you can't understand."

"I understand, old chap. I have an automobile."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Not What He Expected.

Harold—Suppose you and I were all alone on a deserted island, Elsie, what is the first thing you would do?

Elsie—Thank the good Lord that I know how to swim.—Town Topics.

Hard Work.

A dollar looks just like a joke.
It doesn't seem much when your luck is booming, but wait till you're broke
And then just try to raise one buck.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

What's the Difference?

Politician—Congratulations, Sarah. I've been elected.

Sarah (with delight)—Honestly?

Politician—What difference does that make?—St. Louis Times.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

UNWRITTEN BOOKS.

Thackeray and Conan Doyle Both Found Themselves Forestalled.

How strange are literary coincidences occasionally is illustrated in the case of Thackeray and Dumas. Thackeray says: "I came near writing a book on the same subject, 'Les Trois Mousquetaires,' and taking M. d'Artagnan for my hero. D'Artagnan was a real character of the age of Louis XIV. and wrote his own memoirs. I remember picking up a dingy copy of them on an old bookstall in London, price sixpence, and intended to make something of it. But Dumas got ahead of me. He snaps up everything."

A coincidence quite as remarkable occurred with Sir Conan Doyle for central figure. He learned while spending a holiday in a mountain inn in Switzerland that during the winter months for some reason two men remained in occupation. For four or five months they were isolated from the rest of the world. Suppose one of them went mad or committed suicide or— The possibilities were endless. He forthwith determined to embody the idea in a story. On his way home he happened to pick up a book of tales by Maupassant. There, in it, under the title "L'Auberge," he found himself forestalled in every particular.

An Old London Dining Club.

An old London dining club, the Dilettanti, was founded in 1732. This at one time was an extremely wealthy club, for, in addition to their subscription, members had to pay a fine when any money was bequeathed them. In 1790 the Dilettanti had £10,000 in hand. Soon after its foundation Horace Walpole wrote that "the qualification for the Dilettanti is having been in Italy and the real one being drunk." It has grown respectable with years, but even now, when a new member is balloted, all the members have to make a complete circuit of the dining table before placing the ball in the box. And a rule still survives that "every member who shall produce on the table a dish of tea or coffee must pay into the general fund a guinea for every such drink.—London Spectator.

Following the Rule.

"Barbara," the teacher scolded, "your writing exercise is very nice except the last line, which is dreadful. Why do the letters stagger and fall over one another in that disgraceful way?"

Barbara raised reproachful blue eyes wet with tears. "You distinctly said write every line better than the last!" she reminded her mentor.—New York Press.

Fire Insurance Policies.

There are not many real estate brokers who know how to write a fire insurance policy. Many, however, think they are experts about such matters until a client of theirs learns after his property has been damaged by fire that he was only partly insured. "If buildings are to be insured," says R. O. Haubold, "care should be taken to issue the policy in the name of the persons in whom title is vested; that provision is made that should the building stand upon ground held in any other way than fee simple the policy will not be voided by that fact. If the premises be or become vacant for a period of more than ten days the contingency must be met."—New York Tribune.

Willing to Be One.

"What!" began the father explosively. "You want to marry my daughter? You, who haven't a penny on earth? You, who aren't worth a picayune? You? Sir, let me ask you this: Don't you know that my daughter is accustomed to all the luxuries of wealth?"

"Y-yes, sir," replied the suitor, miserably. "But ain't I one of 'em?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mean Thing.

"No," said Miss Passay, "I don't like the photos Kamrer made for me. They make me look like a woman of forty."

"Well," replied Miss Pepprey, "you should have told him not to touch them up if you didn't want them to look so youthful!"—Philadelphia Press.

Painful Proof.

"What are you crying about, Willie?" "One of th' boys called me 'teacher's pet,' an' I went an' told her, an' she licked me to prove I wasn't."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Too Much Light.

Daughter—I love him. He is the light of my life. Father—Well, that's all right, but I object to having my house lit up by him after midnight.

Harsh counsels have no effect. They are like hammers which are always repulsed by the anvil.—Helvetius.

Some curious results follow from the precession of the equinoxes. The pole star varies from age to age, for the pole of the equator in its revolution round the pole of the ecliptic must pass different stars in succession. Wherever it points the star nearest is the pole star. When the first catalogue of stars was made the present pole star was twelve degrees from the pole. Gamma Draconis was the pole star 3,000 years ago. The brilliant Vega will be the pole star 12,000 years hence.—Harper's.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

. . . .

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorised capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

PRINCE RUPERT

"Canada's Golden Gate"

The work of transforming Prince Rupert into a modern terminus of a trans continental railway is proceeding rapidly, the Grand Trunk Pacific is devoting all its energy to getting its terminal facilities ready for the opening of the line in 1914. Settlers are flocking into the adjacent fertile valleys. Industries are starting which will employ a large number of men. In short, Prince Rupert is the centre of the greatest activity in the development of Northern British Columbia.

DO YOU WANT TO SHARE IN THIS PROSPERITY?

If so, here is your chance for a safe investment

An investment company is now in the hands of the Continental Trust Company, Ltd., of Prince Rupert, for incorporation, with the objects of

BUYING, SELLING, AND IMPROVING

Prince Rupert city property. It will be incorporated for $100,000, divided into one hundred thousand shares of the par value of $1 each and the shares will be sold at that price.

Stock in a similar organization formed in Prince Rupert is now worth three times its initial selling price, and no stock can be obtained.

A great number of houses and buildings of all kinds are required to take care of the rapid increase in population. THIS IS WHERE WE COME IN. We will provide homes for the incoming families.

Fortunes have been made in other western cities on this identical plan, and stock in similar companies is increasing in value and at the same time paying large dividends.

Reservations for stock are now being made. We want you to become a Stockholder. Subscriptions of $10 or more are being received.

If you will fill out the accompanying coupon and send it to us we will mail you complete information, with booklet descriptive of Prince Rupert DO IT TO-DAY!

"THE LOST CHORD."

Sullivan Wrote the Music at His Dying Brother's Bedside.

Perhaps the most successful song of modern times is "The Lost Chord," whose sale in Great Britain has exceeded 250,000 copies. The story of its composition, as told by Mr. Willeby in his "Masters of English Music," illustrates that in art, as in statesmanship, success came to those—

> Who knew the seasons when to take
> Occasion by the hand.

For nearly three weeks Arthur Seymour Sullivan had watched by the bedside of a dying brother. One night when the end was not far off and his brother was sleeping he chanced to come across some verse of Adelaide Procter's which five years before he had tried in vain to set to music.

In the silence of that night watch he read them over again, and almost instantly their musical expression was conceived. A stray sheet of music paper was at hand, and he began to write. The music grew, and he worked on, delighted to be helped while away the hours of watching. As he progressed he felt sure the music was what he had sought for and failed to find on the occasion of his first attempt to set the words. In a short time it was complete and not long after in the publisher's hands.

A Book and a War.

Copyright questions are grave enough nowadays, but they no longer threaten to end in war, as in the case of St. Columba, the Irishman who settled in Iona, converted north Britain and is commemorated on June 9. He had a passion for fine manuscripts and copies of them and among others copied a certain Latin psalter belonging to an Irish abbot, whereupon King Diarmaid condemned Columba at Tara, ruling that "to every book belongs its copy, as to every cow its calf." Columba appealed against the verdict in the practical form of inciting his kinsmen to revolt, and they defeated Diarmaid in the battle of the Psalter. The book is claimed to be the one which in a silver cover was carried into battle by the O'Donnells during more than a thousand years.

Man Worships Something.

Man always worships something. Always he sees the infinite shadowed forth in something finite, and, indeed, can and must so see it in any finite thing, once tempt him well to fix his eyes thereon.—Carlyle.

Business Men

Some men at their desk suffer discomfort and lose much time for want of suitable glasses.

A Business Man says: "I am now able to wear my new glasses constantly in business. They save me much time, and are a great comfort and a profitable investment."

Funeral of Late Dr. Marshall.

The funeral of the late Dr. J. A. Marshall will take place this afternoon from his late residence, 242 Hunter street, to the Little Lake cemetery. Service will be held at the house at 2.30 p.m., and the funeral will leave for the cemetery at 3 o'clock.

Preparing for Labor Congress.

Mr. James Stevenson, Provincial Organizer of the Trades and Labor Council, is in the city arranging for the Labor Congress which is to be held in Guelph from Sept. 9th to 16th, inclusive. It is proposed that every locality will have the right to send a delegate to the convention.

Capt. Williams Here.

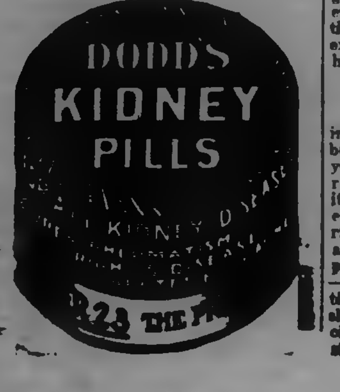
Capt. C. H. Williams has been in the city and dined with his daughter Mrs. C. M. Wallbridge, at the Oriental Hotel on Sunday. He was formerly in command of the Port Hope squadron of the 3rd Dragoons, and is a member of the legal profession. He is very well known in this city.

Once Worked It In Peterborough.

Arthur Jarry, the Canadian lumber jack, who took in the Merchants of Toronto and Buffalo, recently, by stories of untold funds, the result of the sale of a mine, and enjoyed high life (and a wife) for several days, is now in the toils in Buffalo. He once tried his game in this city.

BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS.

Messrs. Geo. A. and Hugh Gillespie have taken over the farm implement business conducted by Young & Vandewater, on Water street and have been successful in their first week's business. The Gillespie Bros. are well known in this vicinity and carry Henry and Tudhope-Anderson ploughs. The Times wished them success in their enterprise.



DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Chronic Throat Trouble Permanently Cured

When You're Dull, Tired; Restless Day and Night, Something is Wrong in the Stomach.

A Prominent Publishing Man Says the Quickest Cure is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callander, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvellous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver and bowels. In consequence food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 for $1.00, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston Canada.

Story Is Doubtful.

A story that appears in the Lindsay Warder alleging that there are two secret service men in that city looking for bogus one dollar bills and the people that passed them is doubted by a local bank manager. He says that a clever counterfeiter would never waste his time on the reproduction of a one dollar bill.

CIVIC HOLIDAY IN PETERBORO

The outlook for civic holiday sports is good. The track of the Agricultural grounds is in fine shape, and the entries so far are very satisfactory. They close on the evening of the 8th. The aviator will start from the ground in front of the grand stand. We are requested to advise horsemen that they must complete their entries by Thursday evening.

The Baggage Problem.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company have decreed that only trunks under a certain size be carried free by the company. Larger trunks will be subject to a nominal charge and after a time will be barred altogether. This rule has been made so that when the trunks are piled end to end in a baggage car there will be an aisle between them.

Out of Season.

The centre of attraction for the moment on King street yesterday were a boy, a hand sleigh and a roll of carpet. The boy had deposited the carpet on the sleigh and was drawing his reluctant load at a painfully slow speed along the street. He was of course, the object of passing people's wit, but declared that this method of transporation was easier than carrying the load.

Warm Weather Coming.

"So far, August has been cooler than normal," said the Weather Man of the Toronto Observatory, when asked if frost were on the way. "But we shall not have frost tonight. Seriously, the extreme coolness seems to be on the wane. It would be injudicious, however, to predict what this month is likely to exhibit in the way of weather. Tomorrow may be warmer than to-day with showers to-wards night."

Marriage in Hastings.

The marriage of Mr. Wm. J. Abernethy, took place at the Methodist parsonage, Hastings, when he was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Gussie Wilson, of Norham. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Mr. Anderson, and soon afterwards they left on their honeymoon for Peterborough. They are both popular here in Campbellford and their many friends extend hearty congratulations.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. Brown, whose death was announced in Monday's issue of The Times, took place yesterday afternoon at one o'clock, from the family residence, 298 Pearl avenue, to St. Paul's church cemetery, Cavan. Her rector the Rev. W. C. Allen, of Millbrook, officiated. The pallbearers were:—Robert H. Wood, Robert Fair, T. W. McCamus, Robert McCamus, Thos. Wood and Albert McNeil, all near relatives of the deceased.

Threw Live Dog in Burner.

One day last week, a resident of Lakefield, we were informed, had a dog which had bitten one or two children, and he was requested to destroy the animal. Last Friday evening he took the dog down to the Cavandish Co's Mill and threw it into the burner. As the fire was not very severe at that time of the evening, the dog's howls could be heard for several minutes before life was extinct.

Hand Caught in Gearing.

Mr. Hugh Morrison, of Lakefield, while working in the Cavandish Co. Lumber Mill, had the misfortune to get his left hand caught in some of the gearing, while attending his duties as oiling. His fingers have all been removed excepting the little finger and thumb of his left hand. Mr. Morrison has resided in Lakefield for about 20 years and has many friends in that section who will regret to learn of his accident. On enquiry last night it was learned that he is doing as well as can be expected considering the nature of his injuries.

Italians on a Joy Ride.

Two Italians, culpably under the influence of fire water, effected a mad but successful career on Park street yesterday with a lively horse and a rickety rig. The horse was taking its own course and very narrowly escaped running down a baby carriage. It removed some offending and newly planted trees from its path, and yet the exuberant couple—gentlemen, both of them—kept to their precarious perch in the boneshaker. They dashed away from the city and have not been heard of since.

Fishing Good at Rice Lake.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy, their son, Mr. H. D. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, returned from Rice Lake yesterday, where they enjoyed a pleasant outing. During their stay at Gore's Landing they were successful in landing a number of very fine 'lunge, a sport which the party, particularly the ladies enjoyed very much. The fishing has been remarkably good this season in Rice Lake as well as in the river. Mr. Kennedy informed The Times that one visitor at the Rice Lake house, who had been there for some time, went fishing every day and always returned with not less than two fine 'lunge.

A Stray Horse.

Considerable excitement was caused on the north part of George street yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, when a bay horse, without harness, buggy or owner in sight, trotted from Barnardo avenue on to George street. Turning down George street it stopped here and there to eat the grass at the roadside, but being of a nettled disposition, it became frightened frequently on its course and endangered the lives of a number of children. It proceeded down the street to London street, where, frightened by some autos and wagons, it dashed down the sidewalk to Water street. Here it swerved in its course and at a terrific speed returned to George street. After considerable trouble it was driven into the shed of T. C. Yonge at McDonnel street. Bearing in mind the tragedy that resulted in the death of the late Mr. Johns, it would be well for the owners to keep a close watch on spirited horses.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The G. T. R. Eye Tests.

So far as the Grand Trunk Railway is concerned at least, the recent order of the Board of Railway Commissioners to the effect that no one can be employed in the service of a railway or engine or train unless he has first passed an indoor eye and ear test in satisfactory manner, will make very little difference. This company's tests for prospective employees have always been very rigid, and all trainmen, yardmen, engineers and firemen are required to go through an eye and ear test every three months of their service. The indoor tests consist of holding a set of cards with letters of different sizes at a distance of 30 feet from the candidate, a glass being placed over one eye while the other is being tested. There is also a small card with small letters which is held at a distance of 30 inches. Each employee must be able to distinguish all letters. After this reading test comes a color test which consists of telling different shades of yarn. In this a box containing 60 shades and 7 shades of each color is used and an employee must be able to distinguish between them. In the hearing test one ear is plugged and a clerk recites a phrase which must be repeated correctly by the employee, who is 30 feet away.

ALD. GILLESPIE CHAIRMAN OF F. W. AND L. COMMITTEE

Ald. Johnston Replaces Ald. Gillespie as Chairman of the Manufacturers' and Power Committee. Ald. Gordon Refused the F. W. and L. Chairmanship

The City Fathers met last night in special session to appoint a chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, in place of Ald. Johnston, resigned.

There were present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Gillespie, Morgan, Anderson, Graham, Gordon, Brown, Buller and Duffus.

His Worship offered that he had interviewed Ald. Johnston and asked him to reconsider his resignation on Monday night, but Ald. Johnston had refused. Therefore, said his worship, council must appoint a new chairman for the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

As Ald. Johnston's resignation had not been accepted Monday night, it was necessary that he submit it again.

Ald. Gordon regretted that Ald. Johnston was earnest in regard to his resignation. He had been conscientious and active in his office and had done his work well. He could not very well agree with Ald. Johnston re the dismissal of the chief; had there been another man available and the committee a unit in support of Ald. Johnston, he (Ald. Gordon) might have voted otherwise Ald. Johnston has shown extreme care in the conduction of his department and many times left his business in the interests of his municipal office. He has been fair and always extended to every member of the Committee courteous and gentlemanly consideration.

Ald. Gordon here moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that Ald. Johnston's resignation be accepted.—Carried.

The Mayor—"I regret very much, Ald. Johnston, that you have taken this step. You have spent much time on the work of the department, have always consulted with me when necessary and give you a good deal of trouble in conducting the department's business in a manner you conscientiously considered fair and just."
the complimentary expressions so

Ald. Johnston thanked council for kindly offered. He had been particularly anxious, he said, to be just and fair on all occasions, in the face of conditions that have previously existed. Circumstances had arisen which forced him to take the stand he had in regard to the Chief, and he regretted that Council had thrown him down. "If I have received one," concluded Ald. Johnston. "I have received 50 congratulations on my present course. I thank you Mr. Mayor for your valued assistance and advice on all occasions, and also every other member of the committee."

Ald. Gillespie Chairman.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That Ald. Gordon be appointed Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Ald. Gordon declined. He had not the time to devote to the office. He was perfectly willing that Ald. Johnston or some other member wrestle with the Chief.

Aldermen Gordon and Duffus here nominated Ald. Gillespie. Ald. Graham nominated Ald. Brown, and Ald. Brown suggested Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Gillespie pressed for Ald. Gordon's acceptance. Ald. Brown is going to take two months' leave of absence for another western tour.

Ald. Morgan—"Excuse me. I don't want you to insult me, and I don't desire to sit on a powder mine."

Ald. Gillespie accepted the chairmanship and in doing so, said: "I don't envy the position, but am willing to do what I can. I am sorry that Ald. Johnston has resigned."

Ald. Johnston Chairman Manufacturers' Committee.

Ald. Gillespie here resigned his chairmanship of the Manufacturers' and Power Committee.

Ald. Johnston was voted to take Ald. Gillespie's place as chairman of the Manufacturers' and Power Committee.

Ald. Johnston also resigned off the Fire, Water and Light Committee altogether, which resignation was reluctantly accepted.

Ald. Gillespie still remains on the Manufacturers' Committee.

The Eastwood Building.

City Engineer Hay reported that the work on the Isaac Eastwood building over the creek on Hunter street is satisfactory, but is not erected according to special permit given.

Ald. Buller said Mr. Eastwood contends that the second story was built in his absence, and he was ignorant that it was being constructed contrary to permit. He also thinks it a hardship that he should have to tear down a portion of the structure when other buildings in the fire limits are contrary to the by-law.

His Worship replied that whatever buildings have been erected contrary to the by-law were done so under special permit.

Ald. Anderson said that both Messrs. Eastwood and Rutherford thoroughly understood the permit granted, and ignored council. "It seems to me queer that Mr. Eastwood should have been in ignorance of how his property was being constructed."

This matter was let stand in the absence of Ald. Duncan and Ald. Gordon who had retired.

TWO SUFFRAGETTES GIVEN FIVE-YEAR TERMS IN DUBLIN

Mary Leigh Convicted of Wounding John E. Redmond With a Hatchet

Dublin, Aug. 7.—Mary Leigh, the suffragette who was tried to-day on the charge of wounding John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, with a hatchet, she had thrown at Premier Asquith's carriage on July 19, was sentenced to-day to five years imprisonment.

Gladys Evans, whose sentence was yesterday reserved, after she had been found guilty of setting fire on July 18 to the Theatre Royal here, in which Mr. Asquith was scheduled to speak the following day on Home Rule, was also sentenced to a term of five years.

Lizzie Baker, who was charged with being an accomplice of Gladys Evans pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven months imprisonment.

LAID AT REST

Funeral of the Late Dr. Marshall Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Dr. Marshall took place yesterday from the family residence, Hunter street, to the Little Lake cemetery. A brief religious service was conducted at the house by Rev. T. J. Mansell, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

The Peterborough Bowling Club of which the Dr. was an enthusiastic member, marched in a body to the cemetery, while other societies of which the deceased was a member, were also represented in the large funeral cortege. The floral display was magnificent, and included tributes from the Peterborough Bowling Club, the Oshawa Bowling Club, the Port Hope Bowling Club, the medical associates of the deceased, the Nicholls Hospital Board, the nursing staff of Nicholls Hospital, L.O.L. No. 80, W.O.W., C.O.C.F., I.O.F., C.O.H.C., Charlotte street Ladies' Aid, Charlotte street Young Men's Bible Class and Charlotte street Boys' Guild. The pall bearers were composed of members of the Bowling Club, namely, Messrs. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, J. H. Renwick, R. J. Sodan, D. H. Moore, T. Brightman and Dr. Eastwood.

Among the out-of-town visitors were Mr. Geo. Marshall, of Midland, father of the deceased, Messrs. J. D. and William Marshall (brothers), Miss Pearl Marshall (sister), Mr. and Mrs. John Foster (the latter a sister), all of Midland; Messrs. J. B. and Elmer Marshall of Selwood; Mr. J. R. Marshall, of Desbarats (brothers), Miss Georgina Marshall, of Toronto (sister), Mrs. Craig, Dr. and Mrs. Sonuck and Mr. Rent of Toronto, Mr. John Marshall, Brighton, Mr. J. S. Marshall of Cannington, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bateson, of Bailieboro (uncle, Mr. John Bateson Midland (uncle), Dr. Edmundson, of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, of Lindsay, Mr. Bailie Thompson and Mrs. J. L. Thompson of Port Hope, Mr. G. Bateson of Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Fell, Bailieboro, Mr. McCartney, Mrs. T. Smith and Mrs. Thos. O'Brien of Bethany (cousins).

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Alfred Dawson.

A telegram was received announcing the death of Mrs. Alfred Dawson at Maple Creek, Sask., after a brief illness, due to blood poisoning. The funeral was held yesterday at Maple Hill.

Mrs. Dawson, whose maiden name was Latitia Jane Fisher, was in her 52nd year. She was a native of South Monaghan township, and resided with her family near Bailieboro until about ten years ago, when they moved to their present home in the West. She is survived by her husband and three children. Dr. Fred Dawson, who practices his profession at Maple Creek, Miss Muriel Dawson M.A., a graduate of Toronto University, and Miss Edna. Both the daughters reside at home.

Mrs. Dawson leaves a large circle of friends in the vicinity, and her death will be regretted by all who knew her.

TEDIOUS WORK OF LIFTING SUNKEN VESSEL IN THE EAST RIVER.

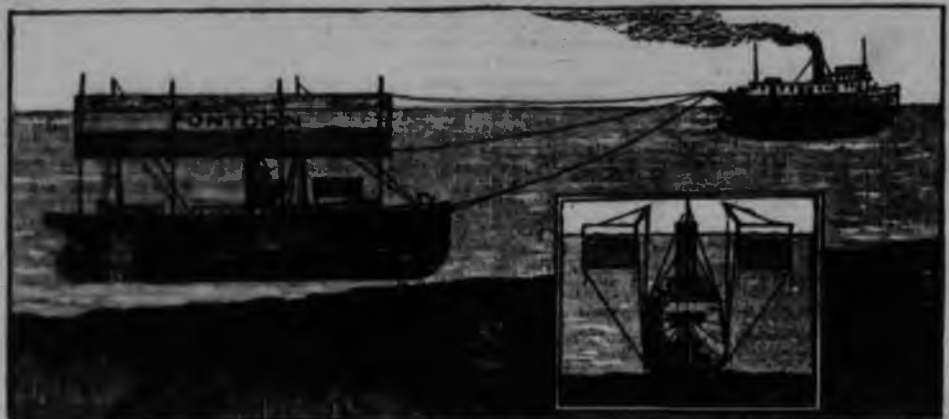

DIAGRAM SHOWING METHOD OF RAISING THE JOSE.

Three months' work on the Jose, a tramp steamship that lies on the bottom of the East River, in New York, has resulted in a lift of only eight inches. Yet the Merritt-Chapman Company is more than gratified that it has managed to make so much progress. In these three months thousands of persons have watched the work every morning and evening, for the funnel of the Jose and the dark red pontoons on each side of her are visible from the ferryboats.

In these three months divers have been at work constantly, but the conditions have been so unfavorable that one man could stay under water only forty-five minutes out of every twenty-four hours. There have been four men at work. Now their work of rigging her to a set of pontoons only is completed.

STORY OF THE FIRE CHIEF AND DEPARTMENTAL FRICTION

It is our purpose here to give in brief the story of the friction between the Fire Chief and the Municipal Committee in charge of his department. We are influenced neither one way or the other, and actuated solely by a desire to somewhat enlighten the public, pro and con, in regard to conditions that have been modified in the press when occasion demanded reference thereto, in the interests of all concerned.

When our permanent fire-fighting brigade was organized, Mr. W. A. Howard accepted the position as its head, and in doing so ran up against the opposition customary in all cases where an old order-of-things is substituted by modern methods. The members of the volunteer brigade and a good one at that—naturally were imbued with the idea that the "sun never sets" on Peterborough talent and qualifications, and did not welcome kindly the introduction of new outside blood. This spirit of opposition was also prevalent amongst certain members of the then Fire, Water and Light Committee, and engendered an espionage upon the Chief's movements, perhaps not wittingly organized, or even admitted to exist, but in evidence just the same, under which conditions he held an office that the Angel Gabriel could not fill without adverse criticism. We are not going into the charges laid against the Chief from time to time—suffice it to say they were many, resulting in an extended game of shuttlecock and battledoor between two factions of the Council, with Mr. Howard as the shuttlecock; and this state of things has continued up to Monday night, when Ald. Johnston resigned his chairmanship.

When Chief Howard first assumed his duties, Ald. Buller was Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and during his regime Ald. Johnston took exception to the Chief's indulgence in a habit to which many of the best men in this and all other countries are credited with being addicted. Ald. Buller saw no reasons for drastic measures, so long as the Chief filled his duties faithfully, and the matter was dropped.

Ald. Johnston succeeded Ald. Buller as Chairman of the Committee, was then, and is now, a temperance representative on the Council board, and in due course again questioned Mr. Howard's convivial characteristics. Other frictions also arose between the Chief and his committee, but with no drastic results.

Subsequently Alderman Johnston was retired from the Council and Ald. Morgan succeeded him as Chairman of the the Fire, Water and Light Committee, when another era of chords and discords commenced, in which Chief Howard figured as an angel fallen from grace, and still wanting conversion to the straight and narrow way at that time recently affected by certain of his opponents. More charges, some of a monetary nature, were laid against the Chief, and till this day Ald. Morgan is hugging to his bosom a pass book and cheque on the Bank of Commerce as exhibit A in evidence of the Chief's alleged questionable attitude in regard to monies donated by grateful citizens to the Firemen's Benefit Fund. The then Fire, Water and Light Committee decided to press for Mr. Howard's dismissal, and so moved in Council. The resolution was lost however, the majority of the Council contending that the Chief's conduct was quite explainable, the charges resulting from trivial circumstances, enlarged by a spirit of antagonism in favor of a local man being appointed as head of the Department. The next move on the checker board was the amendment of the By-law, by inserting a clause taking the supreme control of the fire hall out of Chief Howard's hands and vesting the committee with exclusive rights to hire and discharge the men. Such course admitted the traitor within the gates, who to curry favor in certain quarters constituted himself a spy upon the Chief, whose every movement was apparently reported. This resulted in a "court of enquiry" at the committee rooms, where firemen appeared in witness for and against their Chief, resulting, so to speak, in a verdict, of "not proven."

In due course Ald. Johnston again returned to the Council, and was nominated as Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. In face of past friction between he and Chief Howard he was not anxious for the appointment, which he accepted on the understanding that he would act fairly and justly on all occasions, but would expect the Council's support should he show reason for aggressive action against the Chief; otherwise he would resign. Mr. Howard, in return, promised to do his level best to please the Committee. Well, everything ran along pretty smoothly until the Bobcaygeon episode arose, last spring, in which which three men and a fire rig, to say nothing of the horse, would a-fishing go. Ald. Johnston, in this connection mainly took exception to the Chief's action in taking the horse and rig without his permission, and in committee last June pressed for his dismissal. The Committee was divided on that point, but to appease Ald. Johnston it was decided that the Chief should be notified that it would be better in the interests of all concerned that he resign and secure another position by the end of August, the Council to replace him—all to be done in a quiet "friendly" manner. To use Ald. Johnston's words, "Chief Howard flatly refused to resign, and said that if the Council wanted to get rid of him they must sack him." Then, The Times is informed, the Mayor and Ald. Johnston went to Toronto, saw

FRONTIER DEFENCE

Birmingham Post Prints a Story That Negotiations Will Be Opened

AFTER BORDEN'S RETURN

London, Aug. 7.—The Birmingham Post says a letter received here from a responsible authority in Ottawa expresses the confident belief that negotiations between Canada and the United States will take place after Mr. Borden's return for an agreement governing the frontier defence. Such an agreement would require the assent of the Imperial Government and would in the end benefit the whole Empire while eign powers which a direct Anglo-American treaty might pro- avoiding the opposition of for- voke.

TURKS MURDER 50 CHRISTIANS

Over Two Hundred Others Were Seriously Wounded —Killing Followed Bomb Outrage

Athens, Greece, Aug. 7.—A massacre lasting seven hours followed the bomb explosion which occurred in the market place of Kotschana, 50 miles southwest of Uskup, European Turkey, on Friday, according to reliable information received here.

No fewer than 50 Christians were killed and 200 seriously wounded by the infuriated Turks, who suspected them of having committed the bomb outrage by which about 50 persons were killed or injured.

ROOSEVELT NOMINATED

Chicago, Aug. 7.—At 1.50 o'clock this afternoon Col. Theodore Roosevelt was placed in nomination for the Presidency at the Progressive Party Convention by W. A. Pendergast of New York.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE CONGRESS OPPOSED TO BI-LINGUALISM

Orange Association Invites Sons of England to Join in Meeting Here on St. George's Day—Reply to French Congress Recently Held in Quebec

An English Language Congress is proposed by the Legislation Committee of the Orange Association.

At the meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the Sons of England Benefit Society, which will be held at Niagara Falls next week, overtures will be made to that organization to co-operate in the movement.

No definite programme has been formulated. The idea in the minds of those who have taken the initiative is to hold the Congress in Toronto, on St. George's Day, April 23, 1913, to have the meeting cover a period of two or three days, during which time papers will be read, discussions carried on, and resolutions considered.

The Sentinel in making the official announcement on behalf of the Orange Order in this week's issue will say:

"In this way an opportunity will be provided for Canadians of English speech to give expression to their sentiments on the bi-lingual school question, and to declare their determination to resist the organized attempts that are now being made to extend the lingual privileges which the French race unfortunately enjoy in the Province of Quebec.

"It is assumed that men of the English race in Canada are quite as deeply concerned as native born citizens in maintaining the Dominion as an English-speaking country. Their love for the flag, their pride in the Empire, and their firm adherence to the principles of the British Constitution, under which free institutions exist in Canada, constitute a basis for the expectation that they will lend their influence to make the proposed congress a success.

"The Sentinel believes that the members of these two great societies are able to make a demonstration that will afford the most convincing proof of the unalterable opposition of the electorate of this province, at least, to the unwarranted and dangerous aggressions of the leaders of the French Canadians."

The meeting is in the nature of a response to the French Language Congress recently held in Quebec.

BLAMES GREAT BRITAIN FOR PROTRACTING THE STRUGGLE

Distinguished Italian Says That Britain Will Determine the Position of Italy—Make Italy An Enemy

Paris, Aug. 7.—Signor Gabrielle d'Annunzio, who is passing a few days in Paris at the Hotel Meurich, outlined yesterday his views on the burning question raised by Winston Churchill's guarded hint that in certain circumstances Great Britain might have to count with the Italian fleet as with the fleet of an enemy.

"In the first place," said the most intensely Italian of all living Italians, "It is undeniable that Anglo-Italian official relations remain unaltered and friendly, but it is equally undeniable that in Italian public sentiment a change is discernible in this respect.

"The people are watching the course of events with anxious attention. The change is there, but it is yet awaiting crystallization in concrete form.

"To what do you attribute the change?" he was asked.

"To several causes," he replied. "The malevolent, mendacious and contemptible actions of some British newspapers in connection with the so-called atrocities of Tripoli infuriated all Italians. We were accustomed to consider Britain as a firm friend, as the protectress of Italy, whose friendship and support could be depended upon in any crisis. Imagine, then, the shock that it was to the nation to find the British press, approved apparently by the English, villifying our troops and accusing them of beastly crimes, of atrocities unworthy, I won't say of civilized, but of human beings.

Partially Effaced.

"That painful impression has been partially effaced, largely through the efforts of fairer-minded and clearer-sighted writers and political leaders in Britain.

"Any severity which has been exercised in Tripoli could be paralleled with scores of hundreds of greater severities in the conduct of Britain's colonial wars.

"The cessation of the anti-Italian campaign in British newspapers brought back to the Italian heart the old sentiments of friendship for Britain.

"At the present moment the Italian press is lauding to the skies an English writer who has come to the defence of Italy. Even the King and Queen called upon him a few days ago. I mean Richard Bagot, the novelist.

"His pro-Italianism may perhaps atone for his novel.

"But, as I said, although Italian public sentiment as regards Britain is difficult to define, being as it were, in a state of flux, there is a lurking uneasiness in it. We feel that Britain has not given Italy the support that Italy had every reason and every right to expect.

Britain Could End It.

"The prolongation of the war is in a great measure a consequence of Britain's policy. Britain could end the war, could have ended it long ago if Britain had wished. To prove the reality of her professions of friendliness towards Italy she had only to adopt a resolute attitude at Constantinople in the early phase of the war. Italy would have been on her side, France would have been on her side, Russia would have been on her side. Turkey would not have dared to resist, and Germany and Austria would not have found it polite to enrage Turkey to do so.

"Is it too late for Britain to act?"

"I don't think so. On the contrary, I think that her wisest policy would be to place her diplomacy resolutely at Italy's service. In the existing crisis acts, not words, not sugared declarations of amity, are requisite. Britain would be wise to strive energetically to end the war, for her inaction has contributed to prolong it."

EXCITING NOON BLAZE

Spectacular Mid Day Fire at Peterborough Matress Factory—Excellent Work of the Fire Brigade, Who Soon Got Blaze Under Control.

A fire broke out in the "picker" department of the Peterborough Matress Company yesterday about noon, and if it had not been for the heroic efforts of the fire brigade the entire mill would undoubtedly have been destroyed. The flames quickly spread and burst through the roof and into the air attracting a large crowd of people. The fire brigade first laid a line of hose at the rear of the premises, thus heading off the fire, and as soon as practicable two other lines were played upon the fire, proper, and soon the flames were under control. Meanwhile the hose wagon had been sent back for more hose in case of emergency, but it was not necessary to call it again into action.

The damage is estimated at $500 to the building, $200 to stock, and about $100 to machinery, belts, etc. The building and machinery are the property of Mr. W. Faint, of Winnipeg. The stock, which is the property of the company, is insured.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Moderately warm and showery.

Carbohydrates, phosphates, nitrogen and fat,
To proportionate the elements, I scarce know where I'm at!
Superfluous verbosity, not worth your little finger,
Toasties crisp contain them all, and—the memory will linger!

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address AH. PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottles 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 388 George St. directly opposite Crossman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

SLIDING DOWN A ROPE.

It Is Both Easy and Safe When Done In Sailor Style.

Sliding down a rope is not so simple as it seems. Few know how to do it properly. If you try to descend by letting the rope slide through your hands the friction will burn the palms so that you will have to let go after a few feet. If you try to lower your weight from one hand hold to another you are sure to become tired and will be forced to drop. You cannot slide with the rope between your knees, for the swaying of your body will jerk the rope out of the clutch of your knees, and then you are likely to fall.

The easiest and safest method you can employ is that used by firemen and sailors. Standing upright, throw out your right leg and give it a turn around the rope. Next put the rope in the crook of your right elbow and clasp it tightly, not in your hand, but in your arm.

In that way you can slide to safety without the slightest trouble. The rope does not touch any part of the body that is not protected by clothing, and your speed can be regulated by either straightening or cramping your leg. Once learned this method of sliding down a rope may prove in an emergency the means of saving your life or the lives of other persons.—Youth's Companion.

ALPINE LIFE LINES.

The Ropes Are Selected For Strength, Flexibility and Lightness.

The ropes used by Alpine climbers is of special manufacture, combining as far as possible the differing qualities of strength, flexibility and lightness.

Three qualities are in general use, being made from sisal, Italian and Manila hemps respectively, and occasionally, when cost is not a consideration, of silk. The latter, though very light and strong, is not so durable as the others. That which finds most favor among British mountaineers is known as Buckingham's Alpine rope. It is made of the best Manila hemp.

In the year 1864, Mr. McLeish recalls, a committee of the Alpine club made tests upon a number of ropes suitable for mountaineering. Of the two that were approved one was made of Italian hemp and the other of Manila. They both had a breaking strain of two tons and sustained the weight of a twelve stone man after falling from a height of ten feet.

Nonmountaineers have sometimes considered this insufficient, but it is highly problematical whether the human anatomy could survive the sudden compression of a thin rope arising from any greater fall.—Fry's Magazine.

A Single Blow.

"You say he died from a single blow administered by himself?"

"That is just what he said."

"But it isn't possible."

"Yes, it is."

"But how did he do it?"

"Blew out the gas."

"Oh!"—London Telegraph.

A Faith Cure.

"Have you ever really known of a cure by faith?"

"Yes. When I was sixteen years old I fell madly in love with a widow of thirty, but my mother and father had faith that I would live if I didn't get her, and I did."—Judge's Library.

GERMANY AND BELGIUM.

"Great Britain" says Premier Asquith "covets no nation's heritage." She seeks no quarrel, but she proposes to be ready if a quarrel is imposed upon her. The money Great Britain is spending upon her navy is premiums paid for insurance against war and for peace.

If Germany has no designs upon Great Britain, then her naval augmentation means, if it means anything, that in the event of a war between Germany and France, the German navy is to be used to prevent British interference with a plan which would place Belgium at the mercy of Germany by making that nation the centre of operations against France. Great Britain is pledged to maintain the neutrality of Belgium. Germany, once at war with France, would in all probability throw her troops into Belgium to march thence upon the republic. That plan would provoke instant action upon the part of the British government. Hence Germany's desire for a navy of sufficient power to challenge Great Britain in the North Sea and permit free use of Belgian territory as a base of operation against France. If, as the German publicists are declaring, Germany has no purpose of making war against Great Britain, then another reason for her naval activity must be sought for. It may be found in the position occupied by Belgium and the British pledge to maintain the integrity of Belgian territory.

Hence, as Premier Asquith says, Great Britain is responsible for the continued peace of Europe. That peace can be guaranteed only by a naval policy which shall leave no doubt of British determination to preserve the present distance between the British navy and that of nations which would challenge British supremacy.

Editorial Notes

It is said that an infant in the South End of the City has been named after our worthy mayor. If this is true, it ought to make Mayor Bradburn take more kindly than ever to infant industries.

The Examiner published an item a few days ago stating that there is a 16 months' old baby in Missouri, which weighs 77 pounds, wears a number 6 hat, and has been fed on whiskey by his parents since he was six weeks old. My dear boy, that is nothing. This g. f. j. has heard of men who went to bed with their boots on, loaded with whiskey and when they awoke in the morning required a No. 12 hat.

A Novel Catarrh Remedy Cures Without Drugs

THE HEALING VAPOR OF CATARRHOZONE LOOSENS THE COUGH, STOPS ALL DISCHARGE AND PREVENTS SNEEZING.

The real danger of Catarrh lies in putting off treatment. You may have Catarrh yourself, but you may not know it. Before the disease spreads from your nose to the stomach, lungs, or bronchial tubes, root it out—cure it with "Catarrhozone." Look over the following symptoms—then examine yourself:

Bad Breath
Frequent Sneezing
Watery Eyes
Bad Taste
Raising Phlegm
Stuffy Nostrils
Ears Buzzing
Hacking Cough
Droppings
Difficult Breathing

Don't continue to burden your system for another day when the germs of such a filthy, loathsome disease as Catarrh. Get Catarrhozone to-day—inhale its soothing vapor, fill your breathing organs with its balsamic essences, and all trace of Catarrh will forever depart. Read what Elwood S. Lee, of Sydenham, Ont., says of his cure with Catarrhozone:

"I was a chronic sufferer from continuous colds in the throat and nose and for many years have constantly had Catarrh. I was recommended to try Catarrhozone and find that by using the inhaler on the first touch of a cold or la grippe I am able to stay it in a few hours. I have been able to breathe through my nose freely since using Catarrhozone; in fact, I am completely cured."

Once you try Catarrhozone you'll realize how indispensable it is—the large dollar size contains an indestructible hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication to last two months. Beware of the substitutor and imitators of Catarrhozone—use the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

LATEST FROM APSLEY.

The usual social gathering at the home of Mrs. Grant last Thursday evening, Aug. 1st, was a most decided success. About 30 of her friends met there on this occasion and spent a pleasant evening with music and song. The following programme was rendered:

Musical selection, Miss Grant; song, "The Tar's Farewell," Mr. Thos. Tanner; W. A. P. Grant and Miss Grant; song, "Just a Picture of a Girl I Used to Know," by Miss Ella Brown; song, "In the Starlight," Mrs. Levoir; anthem by the choir; song, "We Are Britons None the Less," by Mr. Thos. Tanner; song, "'Tis Sweet to be Remembered," Miss Grant; "The Holy City," Mr. Musgrave; song, "The Old Piney Woods," Mrs. Levoir; anthem by the choir; song, "The Bridge," Miss Ella Brown and Miss Josie McIlvena; song, "Three Sailor Boys," Mr. Thos. Tanner; song "Waiting for the Tide," Mrs. Levoir; "Hello, Central, Give Me Heaven," Miss Flossie Stephens; "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," Mr. Thos. Tanner; anthem by the choir.

A dainty lunch was served, and after a short time spent in conversation, a few more selections were rendered:

Song, "Killarney," Mrs. Levoir; "Sweet Genevieve," Mr. Musgrave, and "The Warrior Bold," Mr. Thos. Tanner.

The evening's entertainment closed with the national anthem and prayer.

These social gatherings which take place once a month at the home of Mrs. Grant are looked forward to with pleasurable interest by all who take part in them.

The frequent showers we have had of late have made a wonderful appearance in the country, and farmers are smiling. Crops look fine, with promise of an abundant harvest. The lure of the West has got on to our farmers here, four families of Chandos are selling out next week and will go west at an early date.

We read in the Peterborough paper of the improved mail service you have there. It's a great pity the service to Apsley could not be improved. As it is at present, the stage from Mt. Julian, on account of having to wait there for the mail boat until 5 p.m., does not arrive here until 8.30, and sometimes 9.30. Saturday night, the 3rd, it got in a few minutes past 9, without any mail, as the boat failed to bring it from Lakefield, which was not very convenient for those who come several miles for their papers and letters.

Other Local Matters.

J. W. Stuart, of Peterborough, was again in our village taking orders for organs and sewing machines. Mr. Cooper, also of that city, a piano-tuner, accompanied him, and while here repaired several organs. Mr. Cooper intends visiting here again and will be pleased to repair organs and tune pianos.

Another party of Americans arrived in Apsley Saturday night en route to Mr. Kennedy's cottage, Loon Lake.

A jolly party of six Americans who have been camping at the cottage on Sharp's Bay, Jack's Lake, for the past two weeks, are having a good time. Two of the party return home Tuesday. The others will remain for some time yet. They all intend returning next season.

Mrs. Harrison, of Peterborough, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. Windsor, has returned home. Mrs. Windsor accompanied her daughter and will visit friends there.

Anvil Jim and the Secretary undertook to hunt up Jim's cow Sunday evening and after travelling until near night, finally managed to get out of the swamp and home before dark. The cow had been home and milked some time before. Both now admit their inability to find a cow.

Mr. Editor, could you recommend a good corn cure; also a nail-clipper, as scissors are awkward to cut your toe-nails with, and dad kicks about using his razor. And, by the way, knock loudly before entering your neighbor's house.

There's a wedding on the tapis. More next time.

Mr. George Seney Writes of Conditions in the West.

In a letter to the Times, Mr. George Seney, who is known to many of our readers, writes:

"I thought I would drop The Times a few lines to let the people know how things are in this part of the country. The weather has been fine for the crops, which never looked better. A bumper crop is apparently practically assured — all kinds: Wheat, oats, hay and roots.

I had a pleasant visit from Mr. of Emily. I had the pleasure of showing my farm.

The Times comes to me regularly and is like a letter from home. I will be down about 1st November. My address is Blairville, Sask."

RCUS WILL OPEN A WEEK'S EN-ION GROUNDS, COMMENC-GAGEMENT AT EXHIBITION GROUNDD, COMMENC. ING ON MONDAY NEXT.

Amidst a glare of lights and a blare of trumpets Peterborough's Mid-Summer Carnival will open at the Exhibition grounds on Monday next and continue in full swing for one week, with performances every afternoon and evening. The Monarch Greater Shows, which will furnish the amusement and entertainment will arrive early Monday morning on a special train of twenty cars and a large staff of expert hands will immediately begin throwing up the big structures in which the shows will be held. One of the feature attractions in the Monarch wild animal arena is Mlle. DeVaro and her great troupe of lions, tigers, bears, and pumas and many other ferocious beasts from the torrid jungles. Mlle. DeVaro is one of the most death-defying, fearless little women who has ever dared to enter a cage of wild beasts. She controls the untamable lion Nero and at the close of her act places her head in the animals mouth.

Oro Cecil, a woman who by herself has been a big attraction at the Dreamland Bostock wild animal show at Coney Island, is also with the Monarch shows. She performs with a group of leopards and holds the audience spellbound throughout her act. Kit Gordon, of the famous Gordon Bros., whose act has been a sensational vaudeville feature during the past few seasons, will be seen with his boxing kangaroo.

Col. Joseph G. Ferrari's great museum of wonders is considered the greatest novelty of its kind ever exploited with any outdoor amusement aggregation. He also has a dog pony and monkey circus that will appeal strongly to the little folks and amuse and entertain the adults as well.

One of the biggest novelties with the show is Minnie Ha Ha, an Australian bush-woman, and one of the strangest creatures ever born. Standing but three feet nine inches in height and weighing 39 pounds she has the strength of a couple of men.

Hinda Ben, direct from Egypt with a large group of Egyptian beauties and dainty Princess Mahara, will show the ways of the Orient, introducing the strange marriages and many other ceremonies performed in their native land. This attraction was one of the special features last season at the New York hippidrome.

Professor Heckler's German flea circus represents years of hard labors in training the hundreds of fleas used in the act. The strength of these small insects is wonderful. Although scarcely visible to the naked eye they do feats that show the wonderful strength of their legs and still more remarkable what it is possible to attain in the way of training even insects.

Gay Paree, introducing refined vaudeville features, Cicero's famous Italian concert band, the merry-go-round, ocean ferris wheel and many other attractions and amusement devices will make up what should easily prove the most pleasing combination of its kind that has ever visited Peterborough.

The opening performance will be on Monday afternoon.

NEW YORK HAS ENORMOUS JOB

Completion of Subway System Greater Than Panama Canal

OR EGYPT'S PYRAMIDS

The Building of the Latter Insignificant to the Latest Undertaking—Job Will be the Newest World's Wonder—Great Political Upheaval

(Special to The Times).

New York, Aug 7.—Coincident with the report that the city's new subways are now about 15 per cent. completed, New Yorkers have suddenly been made aware of the fact that this billion-dollar system, as it will be when finished, is entitled to be known as the world's biggest undertaking. Never since the beginning of hiseory has such a work been attempted or such an amount spent in an equal area. Some idea of its vastness may be realized from the fact that the building of the pyramids, looked upon as one of the greatest labors of any time, becomes insignificant. The cost of the new additions alone to the existing system will be greater than that of the Panama Canal.

The need for such a mighty system is indicated by the traffic estimates for 1925, based on the rate of growth in the past. By that time it is figured the number of passengers carried will be more than 3,000,000,000 during the year, a total of more than three times the number of passengers carried on all the steam railroads of the country at present. Necessarily the financing of this work has proven an enormous problem, but as matters now stand the city is to furnish an amount equal to the investment of the operating company for construction with certain agreements covering any further needs for the completion of the projected lines. The need for such a costly system is indicated by the increase in land values in New York in the last ten years. During that period the increase exceeded the combined output of all the gold and silver mines in the country by $170,000,000 and was greater than the dividends paid by all the railroads of the country by $278,000,000. It is to furnish travelling facilities in keeping with such expansion that New York is now undertaking the completion of the greatest job on record.

Great Political Upheaval.

That New York may be on the verge of a great political upheaval is one of the most interesting points now being discussed in connection with the Rosenthal shooting here, in which a gambler on the eve of fur-

The combined stores of Peterborough can easily outrival any two city departmental stores in the stocks carried, the prices offered, and the quality of goods sold.

Investigation will prove this point beyond dispute.

When you have ALL the big store stocks here to choose from you have more variety than any city departmental can give you in any one line.

By trading here you have the opportunity of inspecting the goods and comparing values on the spot.

You save the time, trouble, postage, express, and disappointment.

You have immense stocks of new goods to choose from.

You have the reputation of business men who are here all the time to back up the quality of what you buy.

You are not trading sight unseen. You see the goods you buy, and buy the goods you see.

It Will Pay You to Trade in Peterboro

Just make that comparison once or twice and convince yourself. In the meantime, read the advertisements in this issue; there are some great bargains offered. See the goods, get the prices, examine the stocks, and the rest may safely be left to your good judgment.

Read The Times each day and week. It contains the fresh, bright store news of all the leading advertisers in Peterborough. You will get up-to-date news about stocks, goods and prices. In addition you will get all the news of the district, a summary of the world's doings, special pages for the farm and the home. The Times costs only $3.00 a year daily and $1.00 weekly. UNCLE SAM'S "MIDDIES."

Training and Discipline That Prepare Them For the Navy.

The pay of a midshipman is $600 per year, and this begins on the day of his admission to the academy. He at once spends $220.64 for clothing, bedding and other equipments, some of which are as follows: A rug for 70 cents, a hair pillow for 75 cents, six pillowcases for 72 cents and six sheets for $4.20. So it can be seen that his apartments will not be luxurious. He must deposit $60 when he enters, and this will be credited on the books of the pay officer to be expended by the direction of the superintendent in the purchase of textbooks, etc.

When he has been fully entered as a midshipman it is the aim of the officers in charge to educate the young man to become a competent naval officer—to become a master of the art of maritime warfare, to be a gentleman as well as an officer and to hold honor and duty to country paramount to everything else. The neatness in dress of the officer of the United States navy is proverbial, and only those who come in close contact with him can appreciate the change four years at the Naval academy can make in the habits, dress and manners of a young man, to say nothing of the excellent education he receives.

The midshipman has few luxuries at the academy. His room is furnished in the simplest style. An iron bed, a bookcase, a cupboard, a washstand, a study table and a chair go to make up the furnishings. The walls are bare, and if he has a picture of "the girl he left behind" it can be tacked inside the door of his cupboard. Each midshipman occupies a room alone. These rooms are in suits for two men, with a shower bath to be used by both.—Mrs. C. R. Miller in Leslie's.

IRVING'S STAGE EFFECTS.

Silence, Light and Just One Other Essential Produced Them.

Wendell Phillips Dodge relates in the London Strand Magazine an incident growing out of the first meeting of Robert Mantell with Sir Henry Irving back in 1882, when both were playing Romeo in London. There were reviewers who found Irving too old for the youthful Romeo, and one advised that he should make way for "the young fellow over at the Olympic."

Irving prepared a special afternoon performance in the Lyceum, to which all the players in London were invited. After it was over Mantell went back of the stage, and Irving asked him how he liked the performance. "It has been like an afternoon at school with congenial lessons," replied Mantell. "How do you do it? How do you manage effects? How do you get such atmosphere, such a realization of the glory of the tragedy, with such little effort? Is there no recipe?"

"There is—indeed, there is," answered Irving; "simple, too—only three things to remember. The first is silence and plenty of it behind the scenes, so that the actor may be at ease, with nothing to distract when striving for his shadings. The second is light, regulated as far as possible so that nature is counterfeited, and that, young man, is the recipe."

"But," protested Mantell, "you said there were three things to remember. You have mentioned but two. Is there a third?"

"Did I say a third?" asked Irving. "Um—perhaps I did, perhaps I did. But what could I have had in mind? Let me see. Ah, yes, silence, light and—um, shall I say—actors? Remember that, my boy, actors. Silence, light and—actors, that is the third."

Vociferously Reluctant.

"Mildred, what was that loud noise on the front porch last night? It woke me up."

"Why, mamma, that must have been Jack tearing himself away."—Chicago Tribune.

NEVER CROSSED THE OCEAN.

But That Didn't Keep Him From Giving His Novel a Salt Sea Flavor.

The story is told by the Bookman of how a certain novel which was popular three or four years ago got its setting:

"When the story was being planned the author, who has since achieved a literary position of considerable importance, though not as a novelist, could not hit upon just the right background. He needed a setting that would hold his three principal characters, a woman and two men, together for a period of ten or twelve days, despite the fact that the complications of the tale itself would inevitably have moved one or the other of the men to immediate departure.

"He told a friend of his dilemma. 'Why,' said the mentor, 'put them on board a slow going transatlantic liner, one of the new boats.' 'But,' retorted the novelist, 'I have never crossed the ocean and know nothing about transatlantic liners.' 'That,' said the other, 'is a matter of easy remedy. The —— sails at 10 tomorrow morning. Let us go down at 9 and put an end to your troubles.'

"The next day the two visited the ship in question, the author asking questions of his friend and making observations and notes. The smoking room was studied carefully as being just the place for the fight and certain remote corners of the decks as suitable scenes for discreet and fervent courtship. Before the clanging of the gong, with its 'All ashore who are going ashore' message, the novelist closed his notebook with the manner of a man whose task is finished.

"'A year or so later,' said the friend who had directed the search for local color, 'I was crossing the ocean and gave my friend's book to the captain of the boat to read. He did not care so much for the love passage, but what did please him was to find at last a novelist writing of the sea who really knew his subject. He had not read half a dozen pages before he knew that here was the real thing.'"

BRUSHED THE LAW ASIDE.

The Way Witches Were Tried In Massachusetts In 1692.

When the witchcraft delusion of 1692 seized the province of Massachusetts the people would not wait for the workings of the established tribunal of justice. It was too slow to suit them. So they cried out for a special court to hustle along the trial of witches, and Governor Phipps meekly yielded to the clamor and named seven judges to conduct the trials.

It was distinctly a popular court and was controlled absolutely by the popular will. Not a single one of the seven judges was a lawyer. Two of the judges were clergymen, two were physicians, and three were merchants. The common law was thrown aside, rules of evidence were ignored, and the judges and juries were left untrammeled by any "quibbles of the law" to follow their own feelings and the popular will.

Says Washburn in his "Judicial History of Massachusetts:" "The trials were but a form of executing popular vengeance. Juries were intimidated by the frowns and persuasions of the court and by the outbreakings of the multitude that crowded the place of trial to render verdicts against their own consciences and judgment." He cites one case, that of Rebecca Nurse, in which the jury actually had the courage to bring in a verdict of not guilty, whereupon "the accusers raised a great outcry and the judges were overcome by the clamor." The jury was sent back, returned with a verdict of guilty, and the woman was accordingly executed.—Boston Herald.

A Modest Judge.

Alvo Yusuph, chief judge of Bagdad, was remarkable for the modesty which accompanies wisdom. Once, after a long investigation of the facts of a case, he publicly confessed that his knowledge was not sufficient to enable him to decide it. "Pray," said a pert courtier, "do you expect the caliph to pay you for your ignorance?" "I do not," meekly answered the judge. "The caliph pays me well for what I know. If he were to attempt to pay me for what I do not know the treasures of his empire would not suffice."

A Definition.

The teacher was explaining the meaning of the words "ex-president" to the little folks and told them that it was a man who was formerly president, but had retired to private life. The next day the class was asked the meaning of the word "export." A little hand went up. "Well," said the teacher, "what is the meaning of the word export?" "It's a feller that used to be a sport," replied the young American.—Kansas City Star.

Judged by Their Faces.

Burne-Jones held original ideas as to the administration of justice. After a visit to the Parnell commission he wrote: "Legal testimony doesn't affect me at all. I want people tried for their faces, so I spent the time in court settling things all my own way. I tried the judges first and acquitted one, so that he sits in court without a blemish on his character, and one I admitted to mercy, and of the other I postponed the trial for further evidence. Then I tried the counsel on both sides, and one of them, I am sorry to say, will have to be hanged for his face."

They Get an Appetite For Work.

In Denmark, as in other countries, they are troubled with men born tired, men who are "snow shovelers in summer and haymakers in winter." Denmark takes them firmly, but kindly, and puts them to bed. In bed it keeps them as long as may be necessary. Four days are, as a rule, sufficient for the most obdurate cases. At the end of that time the idler is found to be feverish for work.

Needless.

The good fairy called her assistant and showed her a golden box.

"Take this box," she said, "and lock it carefully in the safe. It contains good advice."

"My mistress," replied the assistant, "why should we lock up good advice? No one will ever take it."—Puck.

nishing the District [illegible]torney with evidence which he claimed would involve the police in a sca[illegible]dal with the gamblers was coolly p[illegible] out of the way in the heart of t[illegible] city. Even staid New Yorkers are [illegible]rced to admit the presence here of [illegible]nds of hired assassins who will do a[illegible]thing with any designated victim provided their price be paid. The po[illegible]litical significance of the murder is at present confined to speculations as to what the result will be if District Attorney Whitman is actually able to bring the murderers to justice and in doing so develops complicity between the police, the gamblers and the hired murderers.

Such a result would cause the greatest airing of dirty political linen since the days of the Lexow committee, and it is believed would make Mr. Whitman the logical Republican candidate for the Governorship of the State. In this connection it is pointed out that the conditions revealed by the Lexow investigating committee which laid bare an almost unbelievable state of corruption resulted in the swinging of the State from the Democratic party, which was then in power, to the Republican lists resulting in a succession of Republican governors. Added importance is given to the present situation because of the fact that this is a presidential year.

RUSSIA'S RED STAIRCASE.

Its Steps the Scene of Many Fateful and Historic Incidents.

The red staircase is very ancient and very memorable in the history of Russia. From the Church of the Assumption, where all the czars are crowned, it led to the old palace of the Kremlin, as now it leads to the new. This marble structure was built on the site of the former church by the Emperor Nicholas, but he left the historic staircase undisturbed.

It was on the red staircase that Ivan IV., known as "the Terrible," stood when he received the celebrated letter from Kurbski, his traitor general, who from a safe place of refuge sent a message of defiance by his servant. This haughty czar is said to have nailed the foot of the messenger to the red staircase with his famous iron staff while the letter was being read to him.

This same iron staff in the hands of the angry czar afterward killed his son and heir. Great and fierce was the sorrow of Ivan over this horrible tragedy, and as he stood on the red staircase one night mourning for his son he saw the comet which, he believed, foretold his own death.

Another historic scene on the red staircase began with the ringing of the 400 bells of Moscow, relates the New York Herald. Regiments of soldiers, numbering thousands, followed by a great crowd of people dragging cannon, were marching to the Kremlin. They had been roused into fury by a false report that a brother of Natalia, widow of the Czar Alexis, had seized the crown and that Ivan, the heir of the Russian throne, had been murdered.

Reaching the palace, they clamored for vengeance. Suddenly the tumult was quelled as Natalia appeared on the platform of the red staircase with her two children beside her—Ivan, her feeble, imbecile stepson, and Peter, her own bright, handsome boy.

Natalia trembled as she faced the angry crowd, who had placed ladders against the rails and climbed up to the platform, but the young prince, Peter, afterward Peter the Great, stood and looked at them without showing a sign of fear.

On July 6, 1682, the same young boys, Ivan and Peter, appeared on the red staircase surrounded by boyars and nobles, but under very different circumstances. Peter looked on the crowd with the same calm gaze as when he stood holding the trembling hand of his mother before a mob insane with rage. The people now greeted him with joy, and the great procession that preceded and followed the two brothers passed slowly down the red staircase on its way to the Cathedral of the Assumption, where, amid the pomp, magnificence and ceremonial of the Russian church, Ivan and Peter were crowned czars by the patriarch.

The steps of the red staircase have been ascended by conqueror and conquered. Napoleon ascended these steps when he took possession of Moscow, and perhaps he felt forebodings of his destiny when he passed over them for the last time.

Sympathetic Jury.

"Here's a dispatch about a man who tried to choke his landlady to death and got off with a small fine."

"Must have been tried by a jury of boarders. Cut it down to seventy-five words and put a one line head over it."—Chicago Tribune.

SUNDAY NEW YORK HERALD.

Politics spells temptation these days for so involved is the political situation and so many are the vagaries of wagers that even experienced wiseacres hardly know what to do. Gideon A. Baker, one who knows, tells all about it in the forthcoming number of the SUNDAY NEW YORK HERALD, August 11. Truly a breath from the open sea pervades this paper, with the lovely creation of Mr. W. H. Loomis, "The Yachting Girl," on the first page, and the "Cruise of the Week" on the last.

Why Canada is vitally interested in the Panama Canal is explained by Michael J. Westover. Society's new resort of sylvan solitude, the American Petit Trianon, is piquantly described and artistically pictured. "Bill" Snyder, one of the best known circus men in the country, has just been promoted to full charge of the menagerie in Central Park and you will learn how he stood treat for eight hundred wild animals and birds.

The Ancient and Honorables are shortly due in Boston and there will be a full account of their eventful return. There is a stirring bit of fiction, "The Tale of Two Parties," by John A. Heffernan which is right up to the minute. Mr. J. A. Fitzgerald this week has a talk with the Cleveland star, "Joe" Jackson in one of his inimitable "Batter Up" stories.

Father Knickerbocker is about to start municipal dance halls and New York has a delectable Altruria. The Women's Page has an illuminating article on lace, real and sham, and contributes from experts in household science.

TYPHOID NOW ABATING

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—From present indications the typhoid epidemic at the capital shows signs of abatement, only 20 new cases being reported by Dr. Sheriff yesterday, as compared with from 40 to 80 on previous days during the past week. The abatement is reported to be due to the fact that for about 12 days the water has been comparatively pure. Yesterday, however, slight contamination was again reported, and the citizens were advised to boil their drinking water.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines

In a Quandary.

The young lady sighed deeply and was almost affected to tears.

"Harold," she said, "declares that if I don't marry him he will end his life. And I am afraid he will."

She stifled a sob, then continued:

"And Randolph declares that if I don't marry him he will go into politics and become great and famous, and then he says I shall see what I have missed. And I am afraid he will keep his word too."

Overcome by emotion, she buried her face in her hands, not knowing whether to save a life or to spare the country another politician.—Exchange.

An Amendment.

"Are you ready to live on my income?" he asked softly.

She looked up into his face trustingly.

"Certainly, dearest," she answered, "if—if"—

"If what?"

"If you get another one for yourself."—New York Journal.

Naturally Surprised.

An old German furniture dealer had a woman customer who was a great talker. Nobody could get away from her when she started in. One day he sent a clerk to the lady's house to try to collect a bill. When the clerk returned empty handed the old German said:

"Vell, vat did ze lady say?"

"She did not say anything, sir. She was mute," replied the clerk.

"Vat!" exclaimed the surprised German. "Vas she dead?"

Let Father Do It.

Ellie—Shall I put on my mackintosh and run out and post this letter, mother?

Mother—No, dear, it's not fit for a dog to be out on a night like this. Let your father post it.—London Opinion.

Her Fortune Teller.

Mrs. A.—Did you ever go to a fortune teller?

Mrs. B.—Yes, once. Before I was married I went to the probate court to see how much my fiance's father had left him in his will.

DESK FILE

It is a personal desk system. Keeps the details of your work always at your finger tips. It automatically reminds you of your appointments and engagements, it calls attention to collections due, prospective orders that need attention; it's a sort of mechanical memory—an automatic collector, salesman and correspondent. The Dreaded Doctor.

"How did you like your dinner?" inquired the epicure.

"Well," answered the dyspeptic, "it was admirable in every respect. But my doctor has put me into such an apprehensive frame of mind that whenever I really enjoy eating anything I become utterly miserable."

The Analysis.

"Did you have the soil of your back yard analyzed by the agricultural department?"

"Yes. They said it consisted largely of glass, tin and putty, with traces of builder's lime, and suggested that it might do to raise a mortgage on."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Riddle of the Sphinx.

The sphinx—some sort of fabled monster—propounded a riddle to the people of Thebes, it is said, and murdered all who could not answer it. Oedipus finally solved it, and in chagrin the sphinx put herself to death. The riddle was as follows: "What goes on four feet in the morning, two feet in the afternoon and three at night?" The answer given by Oedipus was this: "Man, because he crawls as a child, walks upright in his full strength and walks with a staff when an old man."

Not Lost.

"Sam Johnson, you've been fightin' ag'in. Youse lost two of yo' front teeth."

"No, I ain't, mammy, honest. I's got 'em in me pocket."—Life.

How Authors Slept.

Are authors early risers? Bjornson, Tolstoy and Goethe were all advocates of the "early to bed, early to rise" principle. Byron, on the other hand, turned night into day, and Alfred de Musset, in a letter to Aimee d'Alton, writes, "I generally sleep till 2, and sometimes till 5 in the afternoon, when I have boxed the ears of the night." Probably the laziest genius on record was Rossini, who practically did all his work in bed and would rather recompose a whole page of music than trouble to get out of bed and pick up a sheet of manuscript that had fallen onto the floor. —London Chronicle.

Great Achievement.

"And what do you regard as the greatest triumph of modern surgery?"

"Collecting the bills," promptly responded the great practitioner.—London Spare Moments.

Especially in the Subways.

"There ain't but one trouble with this here city air," said Uncle Eben, sniffing the atmosphere speculatively; "it do need ventilatin.'"—Holland's Magazine.

His Reason.

"Why do you always leave the house, James, when I begin to sing the old songs?" pouted Mrs. Howitt.

"Fresh air," said Howitt.—[illegible] Weekly.

He who has the truth in his heart need never fear the want of persuasion on his tongue.—Ruskin.

Named For His Satanic Majesty.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that hardly a county in the British isles is without some place or thing with the designation Devil, all of which prompts the thought that his Satanic majesty must be a holder of a considerable amount of property on this terrestrial globe. The Devil's Punch Bowl, the Devil's Bellows, the Devil's Kitchen, the Devil's Beef Tub, the Devil's Frying Pan, the Devil's Lake, the Devil's Dike, the Devil's Caldron, are a few instances which occur at random, scattered about in various parts of the country.—Dundee Advertiser

Undressing While Swimming.

An authority on boating and swimming advises that every boy and girl who is learning to swim also learn to undress in the water, so that in case of falling overboard from a boat there will be less danger of drowning. Put on old clothes, he says, swim with one hand and the opposite foot and take off the shoe from the free foot with the free hand. After the shoes are off they being the first things to get rid of, the swimmer should turn on his back and take off his clothes or as many as he can get off, swimming meanwhile with his legs.—New York Herald

WILDS OF ENGLAND.

Devonshire's Rolling Slopes Are a Wilderness in Winter.

The western quarter of England has a set of literary associations second to no other district, not even the far famed lakes of Cumberland and Westmoreland. The "Quiller-Couch country," which is Cornwall; the "Blackmore country," which is North Devon; the "Kingsley country," which is all Devonshire, and the "Hardy country," which is Dorset, will be found underrated rather than overrated in beauty and interest, which are greatly increased by their associations with "Lorna Doone" or "Tess of the d'Urbervilles."

The two great Devonshire towns Exmoor and Dartmoor are particularly beautiful and offer a happy hunting ground to the artist. It seems strange that spaces of such wildness exist within the restrained and highly cultivated boundaries of southern England. The casual visitor would find it difficult to believe that on these splendid rolling slopes, purple with heather in August, people go astray and die of starvation every winter.

No visitor to England can afford to miss a visit to Devonshire, which around May especially is one of the most beautiful bits of country in Europe.—Exchange.

Modern Beauty.

A young man the other day said to his best girl:

"I visited that fashionable palmist this afternoon, and he told me I'd marry a blond."

The girl, who was very dark, said thoughtfully:

"Did he say when the marriage would take place?"

"Yes; in three months."

"Well, I can easily be a blond by that time, dear," said the girl with a shy smile.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost His Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Waldegrove, N. S., no one is better known than Sergt.-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergt.-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergt.-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Col. Hughes Pessimistic.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 7.—Col. Sam Hughes, at the Conservative Club last night, spoke in favor of military training for all Canadians under 65 and over 14. He said an invasion of Canada is probable and that war with Germany is imminent.

Lo, the Poor Indian.

It is said that Bennett, an Indian from Brantford, accused of murdering a dissolute woman a short time ago, is hiding in the locality of Peterborough, and officers are now searching among the Indians of Chemong and Rice Lake for him.

No Bus to Chemong.

The Times was called up by 'phone yesterday by an irate liveryman who stated that there was no 'bus line to Chemong Park, as stated in The Times. The public who are in the habit of patronizing the park will therefore please take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Drowned in a Washtub.

A sad accident occurred in Port Hope on Tuesday, by which the 11 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Charles Cane, was drowned in a tub of bluing water, which was left standing upon the floor for a few minutes and into which she fell. She was alone in the room only a very few minutes, but when taken out life was extinct.

A Bumper Crop.

The attention of The Times has been called to the bumper crop of weeds that are under cultivation in the vacant lot on Hunter street, immediately north of the Bell Telephone Company's premises. We are quite sure that when Chief Thompson's attention is called to the matter the owner of the property will be obliged to cut the weeds.

Civic Holiday.

For civic holiday, Monday, August 12th, the Grand Trunk Railway will issue return tickets at single first-class fare from Peterborough to all points, good going Saturday, Aug. 10th, and all trains Monday, Aug. 12th; good returning until Tuesday, Aug. 13th. Secure tickets and all information from city ticket office, 334 George street. 'Phone 259.

Excursion From Frankford.

A large excursion party arrived yesterday from Frankford, and spent the day in sight-seeing and calling on friends. Many visited the Lift Lock, with which they were greatly interested. Others drove around the city in hacks and carriages, while the "round trip" on the street railway was also well patronized. They returned home in the evening.

Overhauling Its Tracks.

The Radial Railway Construction gang is engaged in repairing the tracks and laying down the rails and stays at the C.P.R. crossing on George street, and also for a long stretch on either side of the crossing. The C.P.R. crew are laying down the new rails in front of the station to the end of the yards.

A Narrow Escape.

At the corner of George and Simcoe street an auto, which was said to be travelling at a good clip, yesterday, collided with a pedestrian who was on the edge of the crossing, knocking him down, but fortunately without imparting serious injury. The victim was a young man named Percy Gilman, who came to this city with the Frankford excursion party.

A Powerful Delivery Truck.

The Canadian General Electric Co. have put in service a powerful motor delivery truck, or wagon, as an auxiliary to the team service. The demands of the work have been increasing and additional help is necessary. This is the first heavy duty truck to be put in use in this city, and its service will be watched with interest.

After Indian Murderer.

The representative of the Dominion Police who has been working in Lindsay is not after the counterfeiter of a one-dollar bill, but on the trail of an Indian murderer wanted for the murder of a dissolute woman near Brantford, and reported to be in that district. The Indian reserves at Rama, Scugog, Chemong, Hiawatha and Alnwick will be searched by him.

Died in Colborne.

The death occurred on Tuesday morning at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. McMann, of Colborne, of Miss Katherine Boyle, daughter of Mr. John Boyle, of 52 McGill street, city. The funeral will leave the residence, 52 McGill street, to-day at nine o'clock and proceed to the Sacred Heart Church, and from thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

A New Regular Train.

It is rumored in railway circles that a passenger train running between Peterborough and Port McNichol on the new Georgian Bay seaboard Air line will be put into operation early this fall. The train will run via Lindsay and Bethany, with headquarters in Peterborough. This will be good news as it will greatly assist in developing Peterborough as a railway centre.

Had Both Ankles Broken.

Mr. Fred. Graham, the 16-year-old son of Mr. R. Graham, Naylor's Corners, Mariposa, was the victim of a very painful accident while on a visit to his uncle, Mr. Fred. Graham, Pleasant Point. It seems that a team of horses which the young man was driving ran away, throwing him out of the wagon and breaking both of his ankle bones so that they protruded three inches through the skin. He was removed to the hospital.

Football Match.

In preparation for their final game with Oshawa in competition for the Midland League championship, the C.G.E. Football team have decided to select a strong team from the Church League and Machine Shop aggregations for a match this evening. The following players are requested to report at the Brinton field at seven o'clock sharp to-night: Evans, Hull, Gribb, Ward, Padgett, Vickers, Fallis, Moriaty, French, Mason and Davey. Saturday's match between Oshawa and the C.G.E. will be played on Nicholls Oval.

Grand Demonstration.

Arrangements are about completed for the grand demonstration to be held under the auspices of the Peterborough Turf Club. The aviator, who is billed to make several flights of 6,000 feet at the rate of 60 miles per hour, is expected this week. Entries for the motor cycle race and other events will close to-morrow night, full particulars of which can be had from the secretary, Mr. Arthur Rountree. The 57th Regimental band will be in attendance and not at the Stoney Lake Regatta as previously announced. Mr. Gliddon states that no official of the Board has been approached for the purpose of securing the band for the regatta, and that the announcement that the band would be at Stoney Lake on that date was misleading.

The Refuse Dump.

Owing to the efforts of Mr. Fair, who is looking after the work, the dumping ground at the end of Charlotte street has been materially improved, not only in appearance, but in usefulness. A short time ago the ashes, tin cans and other refuse was lying in heaps all over the grounds. It was dangerous and difficult work to get a horse in to the dump on account of the irregular piles of refuse and glass which threatened to cut the feet of the horses. Now this has all been levelled down and a smooth roadway has been made to the farthest corner of the grounds. The paper which was lying around has been burned, and instead of adding a new inconvenience to the already uneven ground, every load is now spread carefully and used to cover the tins and like debris. A remarkable improvement is in evidence, and by steady and efficient work Mr. Fair hopes to further improve the dumping grounds.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

STORY OF FIRE CHIEF

Fire Chief Thompson, and enquired if he could recommend one of his men as head of Peterborough's brigade. Mr. Thompson replied that he could—three or four—who, however, were away at the time, but on their return he would write Ald. Johnston. "But" said Mr. Thompson, "Chief Howard is a splendid fire fighter; he has his failings, so have I, and every member of my brigade, and my advice is that Peterborough retain its present Fire Chief." Monday evening, however, Ald. Johnston informed the Council that Chief Thompson, of Toronto, had written him that not one of his men would accept the position. "$1500 a year would not do the trick." He then moved for Chief Howard's dismissal, which resolution was lost. Ald. Johnston then resigned his Chairmanship, as threatened in the event of Council not dismissing the Chief when he could show that in his opinion occasion demanded it.

In summary, this is the situation, and "what will Council do with it?" Aldermen Johnston, Graham, Morgan and Duncan voted for the Chief's dismissal, which the others claim is not warranted by the real cause of present friction—the Bobcaygeon fishing trip. His Worship says the Chief has been considerably hounded in the past; Ald. Johnston replies the Chief can hoodwink, bamboozle, hypnotise and mesmerise all Peterborough and the world at large; Ald. Morgan chips in that he (the Chief) can do as he "hang pleases." Ald. Anderson, who at the Committee meeting in June moved that the Chief be dismissed, has changed his mind, and agrees that old sores of past years have largely influenced the action of the aggressive quartette. Ald. Johnston is consistent in resigning, and is admitted to have been fair and just in handling the Department, which he would have been wise in keeping clear of, owing to previous experiences. But what do the public say? A large section agrees with Ald. Anderson, and in our knowledge heads of big manufacturing concerns and business interests characterize Chief Howard as a splendid fire-fighter and fire preventer, a good disciplinarian, whose policy and effective work has saved the city thousands of dollars. It is reported also that the underwriters have absolute confidence in the Chief and his Department, in consequence of which commercial insurance rates have been reduced. All of which goes to show that it might be advisable to make a fresh start with a clean sheet. Bury the hatchet and smoke the pipe of peace, with Ald. Gordon as Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, unless Ald. Johnston will reconsider his resignation. Ald. Gordon is fair, broad-minded, can analyze a situation intelligently, and has an inherent disposition for throwing oil upon troubled waters. It might be well to remember the injunction, "let he who is without sin cast the first stone," and be governed accordingly. Both the public and the Aldermanic Board are tired of this continued "nagging" concerning the Fire Department, with no decisive action accruing therefrom. Ald. Buller has frequently contended that the next Chief would find the rough knots of opposition consequent upon the change from a volunteer to a permanent brigade worn smooth for him by the present Chief, and perhaps in Christian fairness it might be as well to eliminate the rough knots at once, in Mr. Howard's time, he in turn to exercise exceptional care to keep clear of any course liable to revive old sores.

* * * * * * * * *

We have attempted in the foregoing to so crystalize the long drawn friction re the Fire Department that the case may be presented as intelligently as possible without lengthy detailed reference to many incidents which have arisen from time to time—all culminating in negative divisions of Council by 6 to 4 against two resolutions for the Chief's dismissal. In the report of Monday night's proceedings a typographical error made us say that the second of these resolutions was defeated by 5 to 4; it should have read 6 to 4, all the members being present and all voting. Ald. Graham reached the Council Chamber at the eleventh hour, just in time to vote. On each occasion six aldermen have voted to retain the Chief, and allowing that each and every member of the Council Board has been actuated with a desire to promote the best interests of the City, in municipal affairs, as in politics, those interests are publicly considered best served under a majority decision.

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretions and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so."

AWFUL DISASTER Heavy Loss of Life Follows Explosion | ALL EUROPE ALARMED By Fear of Civil War In Ottoman Empire | HAITI PRESIDENT BURNED TO DEATH

ALL EUROPE ALARMED BY FEAR OF CIVIL WAR IN OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Little Hope That Turkey Will Survive The Ordeal it is Undergoing---Trouble With Montenegro and Bulgaria Are Added to Internal Troubles

London, Aug. 8.—The Telegraph's St Petersburg correspondent says that a feeling of alarm is creeping over political Europe. The general conviction that the fear of civil war in Turkey suddenly will be rendered an actuality is the most potent factor in the calculations of foreign secretaries. Complete readiness for all contingencies is absorbing every government. Little hope is entertained that Turkey will survive the ordeal it is undergoing.

These are the views of the most influential European statesmen, all of whom believe that the political existence of the Ottoman Empire will end. Whatever the outcome of the Macedonian conflict may be, it will not modify the belief of European statesmen that for the Ottoman Empire the blast of doom has sounded.

The Telegraph's correspondent in Vienna says that in official circles there it is not expected that the Turco-Montenegrin conflict will go as far as a rupture of diplomatic relations.

A Grave Crisis.

London, Aug. 8.—Near Eastern affairs are reaching a grave crisis, according to reports from Constantinople, which says that the committee of Union and Progress have resolved to summon the dissolved Chamber of Deputies to reassemble at Adrianople to which city the leaders have already gone. The government has proclaimed martial law at Salonika, Adrianople and Smyrna.

The Daily Chronicle correspondent, who was recently in Constantinople, considers that civil war is inevitable that it is not likely that the committee's rival parliament will form a cabinet and recall and proclaim the deposed Abdul Hamid as sultan. Added to the internal troubles are difficulties with Montenegro and Bulgaria.

Butchered the Aged.

A Vienna despatch says that after the Kotschana massacre the Turkish troops proceeded to Sermenena, massacring the people of two Bulgarian villages on the way. The fighting at Sermenena lasted five hours and the Bulgarians were defeated. They fled and the Turks then butchered the aged men, women and children who were left behind and set fire to the town, many perishing in the flames. This report has not yet been confirmed.

Theodore Roosevelt's Campaign is Being Rapidly Scheduled With Committee Active

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Roosevelt this afternoon decided that he would remain in Chicago over night, leaving for Oyster Bay on the Twentieth Century Limited at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow. He will meet the members of the new national committee before leaving. The location of the Progressive headquarters will be decided upon at that time.

Roosevelt's campaign tour is being rapidly scheduled. This afternoon plans had been begun for his first campaign speech at Providence, R.I., on August 16th. The following day he will speak at Point of Pine, Mass. On August 22nd he will be at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and address the miners who will be there attending Father Curran's annual "jubilee."

An important speech will be delivered in one of the large cities of Vermont on August 26th. He expects to address half the population of Minnesota when he appears at the State Fair in St. Paul on September 6th.

The Colonel will deliver at least one important speech in each State before the election.

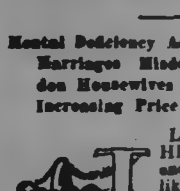
A LONG STEP FORWARD

Mental Deficiency Act to Make Such Marriages Misdemeanors — London Housewives Despondent Over Increasing Price of Meat.

London, Aug. 8.



THE mental deficiency bill, which is likely soon to become law, will include a government measure which the County Council understand is going to be passed this year. In the circumstances the council are anxious that their recommendations may be incorporated in the proposed legislation, of which the council generally express approval. A report on the bill by the Education Committee had been drawn up, and will be considered by the council at its next meeting.

The measure contains the following clause, by which, for the first time, an effort is to be made to eliminate the unfit. "If any person inter-marries with, or attempts to intermarry with any person whom he knows to be defective within the meaning of the act, or if any person solemnizes or procures or connives at any marriage, knowing that one of the parties thereto is defective, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The County Council, which will have to administer this new legislation, will thus have the duty of deciding what persons are marriageable and those who are not. Apart from the people who are declared to be lunatics and who are maintained in the asylums, the council now maintain ninety schools for mentally deficient children, and at present there are 7,000 such children on the roll. These children cost the ratepayers $500,000 a year. When the new legislation comes into operation there will necessarily be an augmentation of the numbers, and though the government proposes to make grants for maintenance, a great additional burden will be placed upon the ratepayers.

Mrs. Barnardo Appeals to Strikers.

A good deal of human interest attaches to the intervention of Mrs. Barnardo, widow of the late Dr. Barnardo, in the dock strike. According to a report, she made an impassioned appeal on Tower Hill to the strike leaders to order the men back to work and put an end to the sufferings of the starving children. One of the most pitiful aspects of the struggle which has been going on along the riverside has been the cruel privations endured by the families of the strikers, and it is certain that if the agitators concerned had to share the want and hunger of their followers and their dependents, the existing trouble would not have occurred.

Great Britain and Germany.

A conference of personages interested in the promotion of better relations between Great Britain and Germany, from both a political and a commercial point of view, is to be held in London next month. Special importance may be attached to this consultation, as there is every reason to believe that it will finally determine the course of various schemes which for some time have been under discussion in London and Berlin alike schemes that in their principle and essential details have the approval of both the British and German governments.

Dearer Meat in London.

London housewives are already despondent over the prospects of dearer meat in consequence of the spread of the cattle plague, and the closing of the London markets is likely to have a far-reaching effect. That the authorities are fully alive to the dangers of the situation is evidenced by the fact that a flock of sheep was held up by the police until they had passed the examination of a veterinary surgeon, hastily summoned for the purpose.

Mrs. Cornwallis West, who has organized the successful Shakespeare's England Exhibition, is said to have decided to reproduce it next year in New York, and also at the San Francisco Fair in 1915.

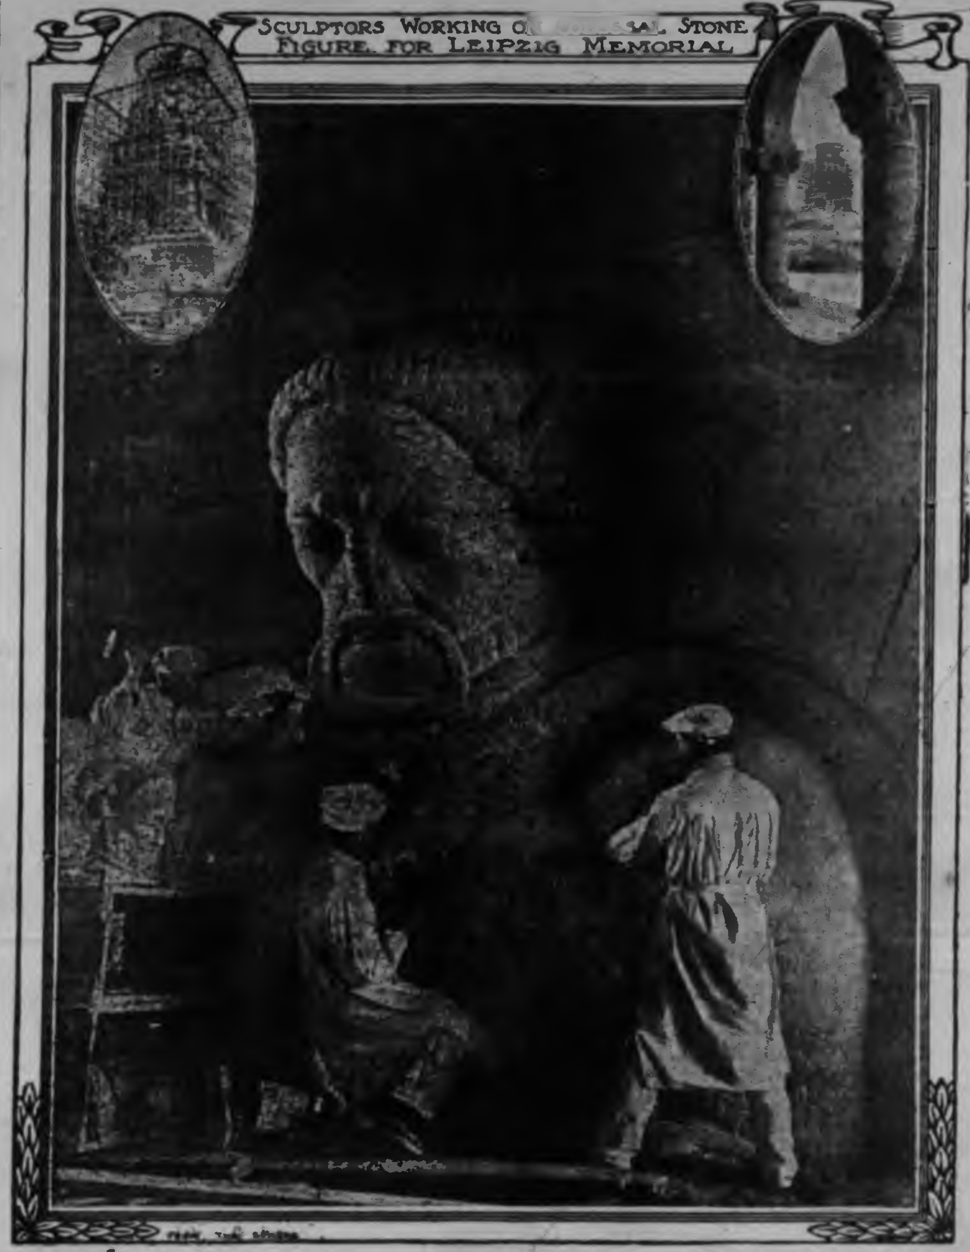
BATTLE OF NATIONS MEMORIAL TO BE READY IN 1913.



SCULPTORS WORKING O[illegible] STONE FIGURE FOR LEIPZIG MEMORIAL

The Battle of Nations Memorial which is being erected in Leipzig to the memory of soldiers who died in the wars of the Fatherland is a notable example of the cyclopean style of architecture now much in vogue in Germany. The two upper views show, on the left, the network of scaffolding surrounding the memorial, and on the right a similar view as seen from the crematorium. The memorial is to be opened in October, 1913, on the occasion of the centenary of the Battle of Nations, fought at Leipzig on October 16, 18, and 19, 1813, between the French army and its allies commanded by Napoleon, and the Austrian, Russian and Prussian armies, resulting in the defeat of the French. Some 80,000 men perished on the field, of whom more than 40,000 were French, who also lost sixty-five pieces of artillery and many standards.

UNION IS STRENGTH

What is there in closer Imperial relationships for any one Canadian to be afraid of ? asks the News. Is not New South Wales better off since its inclusion in the Australian Commonwealth a few years ago ? Is not New York State stronger because of its close linking up with the other States which compose the American Union ? Has not Ontario gained mightily from Confederation ? Will not Canada be stronger by reason of a firmer alliance with Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the rest of the Empire at least for purposes of defence ? No reasonable person can fear that any loss of autonomy is involved in the proposal that we shall have a voice in Imperial affairs and share in the responsibilities as well as in the privileges of British citizenship. Rather shall we gain in prestige by such a forward movement. The time is coming when because of area, population and wealth this Dominion may expect to be the foremost of the British Commonwealths under a common flag and throne.

PRESIDENT HAITI REPUBLIC IS BURNED TO DEATH

Gen. Cincinnatus Leconte Killed When Powder Magazine Exploded in Palace

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Aug 8.—Gen. Cincinnatus Leconte, President of the Republic of Haiti, perished to-day in a fire which destroyed the National Palace. It was caused by an explosion of the powder magazine attached to the Palace.

At a quarter past three this morning a formidable explosion shook violently every house in the city and caused all the population to rush into the streets. Everybody rushed toward the National Palace.

A few minutes afterwards the Palace itself which was built of wood, and had been badly shattered by the shock, caught on fire and was destroyed in less than an hour.

The force of the explosion was such that it projected a number of small cannon to a distance of over two hundred yards.

The members of the family of the President, all of whom were in the Palace at the time, were saved, but President Leconte himself was not seen again.

Consternation reigns among the population but no disorders have occurred. The military authorities are maintaining order in the town. Both the Chamber and the Senate have been called together in national assembly and will probably nominate a successor to President Leconte to-day.

COBALT SPECIAL WRECKED KILLING ONE, INJURING TWO

Fireman Met Death When Toronto Train Collided With Freight Near North Bay---Passengers Escaped Two Members of Train Crews Injured

Cobalt, Aug. 8.—The Cobalt Special, which left Toronto at 8.30 last night, crashed head-on into a freight train 33 miles north of North Bay at 7.30 this morning, killing Fireman Carmichael, of the special, who jumped, and injuring several others.

Meagre details only can be heard of the accident.

Engineer Smith of the passenger train, was injured, while Express Messenger James Casey had his leg broken. No passengers were injured.

This is the first fatal train wreck that has occurred on the T. & N. O. since it commenced operations nine years ago.

Confirmed at Headquarters.

At noon to-day, secretary McGee, of the T. & N. O. Commission admitted that train No. 47 collided head-on with a freight at Ridlle, about 7.30 this morning, killing Fireman Carmichael, who jumped from the special.

"We have had a number of accidents but never yet killed a passenger and up to the present minute I have not been able to discover the cause of this accident," said the official.

SCORES OF GERMAN MINERS KILLED IN COAL EXPLOSION

Twenty-Five Dead Bodies Have Been Removed, And List of Victims May Total to a Hundred---Level Where Men are Imprisoned Is in Flames

Bochum, Germany, Aug. 8.—Six hundred and fifty miners were imprisoned to-day in the Lorraine pit of the coal field, of which the centre is the village of Gerthe, about four miles from this city.

The day shift of 650 men had just descended into the workings and were distributing themselves along the various levels when a serious fire damp explosion occurred.

The detonation was heard at the surface, and the officials on duty immediately formed rescue parties of the men belonging to the night shift, who rushed back to the pits mouth together with the villagers.

The bodies of seven dead had up till 2 o'clock this afternoon been brought up from the pit. Sixteen miners have also been brought to the surface suffering from serious injuries.

The extension of the disaster could not be estimated by the officials in charge of the rescue work, who expressed the opinion that most of the men were caged up in the various levels, but were unhurt.

CRIME RECORD CANADA'S WORST

Daring Convicts Have Time and Again Escaped From Their Prison Guards

ARE NOW IN PRISON

And Will be Forced to Serve 19 Years—Dare-Devil Escape From Kingston the Last Exploit of Their Career.

The four criminals, Frank Jones, Harry Kelly, George Brown and Arthur Boomer, who, on April 29th last, escaped from Kingston Penitentiary, assaulting and wounding guards and keepers in doing so, and who were subsequently sentenced by Judge Madden to serve nineteen additional years to their sentences for having escaped, are well-known characters in Western Canada.

Jones and Kelly, who are really brothers, and whose family name is Mecum, are recognized as the worst desperadoes who ever came from the west. In the course of their notorious career they have been the authors of deeds which would cast into the shade colored-covered Wild West novels.

They are known to the police of this continent as incorrigible, and have as little regard for human life as they have for etiquette. So quick are they to take a chance to make an escape that guards who have had them in custody have been foiled more than once.

The records of the Mecum brothers are ones of alarming and astonishing deeds. They came originally from Iowa, and first loomed up into the limelight when they made their escape from the Iowa Penitentiary, where they were serving a term for horse-stealing. In their escape the brothers shot down a guard, who subsequently died from the wound.

Held Up Winnipeg Car.

Finding Iowa too hot a place to hold them, the desperadoes crossed the border and made for Winnipeg. There they committed a series of the most daring and ruthless robberies ever known in that city. From day to day things grew worse, and finally the city was in terror of these two men. One day, on a crowded thoroughfare of Winnipeg, two men jumped suddenly from a doorway, and, mounting a passing street car, one of the Mecum brothers shot the motorman; then, covering the passengers with the big Colts, which were ever in their possession, they started to go through the astonished and terrified passengers, taking every article of any value from their pockets. But the hold-up was not as successful a one as the desperadoes had planned it to be. The police of both the city and provincial forces were summoned, and, after a desperate revolver battle in the street, which was crowded with people, the brothers were captured; not, however, until they had shot a policeman and a horse and endangered the lives of hundreds of people by recklessly

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 366 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit? If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

A Woman's Reason.

"My, but I do hate this corset!" said Mrs. Nagg as she tossed her harness on the dresser.

"Then why do you wear it?" snapper Mr. Nagg.

"Oh, it feels so good when I take it off," replied Mrs. Nagg.

A Possible Explanation.

Junior Partner—Slowpay has made an assignment, but he says the creditors won't lose anything.

Senior Partner—Perhaps he means that they wouldn't have got anything anyhow.

BROKE HER PROMISE.

She Hated to Do It, but Then She Felt That She Was Justified.

A widely known motor racer was asked by a friend if he would be so kind as to allow three young women to accompany him while he was trying out a new racing car.

"Why, I can't be bothered with passengers at a time like that, and especially with women. They always talk to me, and I can't have my mind distracted. It might prove dangerous, you know."

"But these girls won't bother you. I'll tell them not to. One of them is my sister. They are crazy to go; want to say they have ridden with you. You know how girls are."

"Well, if you will tell them they mustn't speak to me while I am driving they may go. They mustn't move around or do anything to distract my attention. You impress this upon them. If they are willing to do this they can go."

The promise was made, and they started. At one place the driver ran over a water guard and there was a tremendous bump. He did not try to look around, as he was going at a rapid rate of speed, but presently he felt a timid touch on his shoulder.

"What is it?" he growled.

A weak little voice answered him: "Really, I hate awfully to bother you. I know I shouldn't and promised not to. But I feel I must tell you Helen isn't with us now."—Harper's Magazine.

A Hotel Experience.

"There are two classes of arrivals who ask you to register for them," said a hotel clerk yesterday. "One is the woman with tight gloves who really cannot write. The other is the man who arrive after 11 p. m. and who says 'Just register (hic), old man, will you? Been carrying this grip and m' hand's so nervous I couldn't hold a pen.'"—New York Sun.

Needed Them.

"You have three pairs of glasses, professor?"

"Yes; I use one for reading, one for distance and the third to find the others!"

Dying to Order.

Dying to order is one of the most sacred customs of the American Indian. Many years ago Standing Elk went to Major James McLaughlin, the author of "My Friend the Indian," and said, "Father, my wife will die today, and she wants a coffin from you."

The major asked him what the ailment was, and he replied:

"Just nothing but that she heard the ghosts calling and must go."

Somebody had told her, it turned out, that she was sick, so she had "painted for death," and all her relatives had gathered about to bemoan her—and incidentally divide her property as soon as she was dead. There was no use in the major's arguing about it, so he had the coffin made.

In many cases those "painted for death" are actually bullied into dying, but Mrs. Standing Elk was still too vigorous. Finally in despair she carried the coffin into the house on her own shoulders, and several years later the major saw it still standing on end in her house. Shelves had been fitted into it, and it was doing duty as a cupboard.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Improving Americans.

"Nothing is fixed but the certainty of change," said Goethe, and we know that the future American will represent a change. He may be taller or shorter or thinner or fatter than the American of today, but there is nothing in the existing state of society—and we use society in its broad sense—to indicate that he will not be better in many ways. Confidence in this is based largely on the evident determination of the American of today to leave our institutions and our ideals better than he found them. Every American, native or foreign born, wants his children to have a better education than it was possible for him to secure. He wants to have his children live in a community of higher standards and ideals than he has; he wants betterment in local, state and national conditions, and the result of the want will be improvement and a demand by his children for still greater improvement.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

An Economical Man.

A commercial traveler told of a man who was riding on a train and pretended to become ill after eating a sandwich. The man opened his grip and took out a hot water bag. "He got a sympathetic porter," the commercial man continues, "to fill the water bag with boiling water, and then he opened up his lunch basket, took out a piece of fried steak and warmed it up on the water bag. You talk about your light housekeeping! Then after he had warmed the steak he cut it all up with a pair of scissors and fed it to himself with a pair of sugar tongs, because he would not take a chance with a fork going around a curve. But his finish was a limit. After he had eaten the steak he unscrewed the stopper of the water bag and poured himself out a cup of hot coffee. He had the grounds in the bag all the time."

EVEN HOLLAND IS ARMING.

[illegible] a $5,000,000 coast defence programme, [illegible] tu Brute!" For Holland, the cradle, of world peace, the home of the peace palace, the dwarf among the nations [illegible] the last country one might suppose in need of forts and cannon. But alas! Even the quiet meadows of Wilhelmina's lovely realm have heard the rumble of war preparations that are now echoing around the world. Holland [illegible] would like nothing better than to go on polishing the world's diamonds at Amsterdam, and raising the world's bulbs and flower seeds along the shores of her myriad waterways with never a thought [illegible] industry of much needed capital and put human labor to unproductive use. But gentle Wilhelmina has two neighbors who are snarling at each other from both sides her beautiful garden, and if they ever get to the point of scratching and biting it may take more than a "keep-off-the-grass" sign to prevent their doing damage to other people's property. And so Holland proposes to erect something in the way of a barbed wire fence.

At Flushing, which is so close to England that the coast line is sometimes visible, a good share of the 12,000,000 florins asked by the Government will be spent. This port is to be protected by hidden forts, equipped with canon of the latest design and able to sweep the sea for a dozen miles in any direction. Flushing is so located as to be a splendid base of operations for either England or Germany in case these two powers should go to war. Holland believes it will be best to keep them out of temptation. A struggle between them would be so fierce and of such momentous import to either that the rules of neutrality might easily be broken if the neutrals are not prepared to enforce them at the canon's mouth. That, at least, is the way the Dutch government looks at it, and who shall say that the position is not well taken?

And yet what a pity! Have two Hague conferences accomplished so little that the land and city where they meet is not safe from unprovoked attack? Are there not some points of agreement among nations that are as binding as pledges in honor between individuals? It is evident that in the labor on behalf of peace by far the larger part of the task remains to be done. Mr. Carnegie's ten millions can be put to no good use. But as to the situation in Holland itself, the conferees who will meet at the Hague in 1915 ought to work out some means of guarding the neutrality of the country whose hospitality they enjoy.

5 Years' Throat Trouble and Influenza Cured

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

This Case Does Prove That When Catarrhozone is Breathed Every Trace of Catarrh Disappears.

Milford, Ont., July 24.—Everyone in [illegible] knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. D. Gurney. To-day she is well. Her recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and endured the manifold tortures of influenza for five years. My life was despaired of. Catarrh was undermining my strength very fast. I used treatments from eminent doctors, but all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever becoming well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrhozone. Immediately I sent for Catarrhozone, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. To-day I am cured.

"We would not be without Catarrhozone in our home. It's so sure in colds, coughs, bronchial and throat trouble. I feel it is my duty to publicly recommend Catarrhozone."

Get the large dollar size of Catarrhozone; it contains a beautiful hard rubber inhaler, and medicine that lasts two months. Smaller sizes [illegible] 50c each. Beware of imitations; accept only Catarrhozone sold by all reliable dealers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Company, of Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.

[illegible] family journal has been [illegible] by the discovery that poultry raising is becoming a fine field for the inventive fabricator.

THE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—The letter under the above heading by Adeline C. Roberts, in my humble opinion, reflects the greatest credit upon the writer. I have been studying the question of Woman Suffrage for some months, and honestly I have not made up my mind on this important matter. I feel that there are too many men misusing their franchise men who are unworthy of a vote and I should not like to see the vote given to all women. I do say this, however, that in the great missions in London, England, and in our large centres, there are thousands of noble women combating social evils; who I would rejoice to see having the vote. These great and good women are working and have given their lives day by day to fight the social evils in their midst. How it would help them in their noble work if they had the power to make it illegal to do that which they have to devote their lives to combat. I do not believe in universal woman suffrage but such women certainly should have the vote, in my opinion.

GERMAN SLEUTHS GET RICH HAUL

Fatherland Said To Be Honeycombed With Traitors

GERMAN FOOD SUPPLY

Salvation Army in Kaiser's Land Dr. Somary Warns Country to Look to Its Food Supply.

Berlin, Aug. 8. A Martian stranger, dropping in unawares on Gay Berlin these salubrious days and nights and reading his "Lokalanzeiger" or "Tagblatt," would be pardoned for imagining that espionage and suicide were Germans' favorite pastimes in the glad summer time. It is long since the papers have been so full of high treason and self-destruction "stories." Every day somebody or other is arrested for attempts to betray the Fatherland's military secrets, and every edition of the newspapers seems to overflow with suicide tragedies, usually as the sequel to some sordid murder or other.

Captain Kostevitch, the Russian Guards officer, is considered the richest "haul" the German espionage sleuths have made since apprehension af Captains Trench and Brandon. The captain, vehemently protesting his innocence, has been transported to Leipzig as the overture to trial in the Supreme Court. The evidence against him is said to be conclusive, and unless the Port Baltic pleasantries have resulted in promise of a reprieve, he is almost sure to be headed for a German fortress. Since Kostevitsch's arrest, a fortnight ago, there have been a dozen cases of actual or suspected "espionage" in various parts of the empire. Germans are convinced that the Fatherland is honeycombed with [illegible] ants, native and foreign, [illegible] undermining [illegible]

One feels like taking back all the slanderous things one says about Berlin at other times in the presence of her [illegible] summer. We [illegible] outdoor life [illegible] have not gone to the Baltic or the North Sea, or the Black Forest or the "cute" places like Nauheim and Baden Baden, and it is the season of seasons to be here. To take the places of natives who have fled, chiefly to give children the benefit of school holidays, there are myriads of visitors from abroad, chiefly American and Russian. In the Unter den Landen hotels you hear nothing but American spoken these days, and the number of Stars and Stripes which have blossomed forth in Friedrich and Leipzigerstrasse are evidence that sleepy Berlin is thoroughly alive to the business possibilities of the hour.

The Salvation Army in Germany.

General Booth's organization, like a good many other things in Germany, had to suffer from its nationality and fight for recognition has been long and bitter. That the struggle has been worth while is demonstrated by a volume which has just left the press, entitled "My Opinion of the Salvation Army," a compilation of eulogistic views by a number of eminent Germans. Among those testify to the achievements of the army, which an Archbishop of Canterbury once called "The Church's Scavenger Force," are ex-Imperial Home Secretary Count Pasadowsky, M.P.; ex-Colonial Secretary Dernburg, ex-Prussian Ministers Von Moeller and Von Studt, Dr. Friedrich Nauman, Dr. Burchard (Lord Mayor of Hamburg), Herr Ballin, Professor Harnack, Professor Schmoller, Mme. Lilli Lehman and others. Nothing is better calculated than this symposium of praise to overcome prejudices.

Germany Food Supply in War Time.

Dr. Felix Somary, as economist, discusses Germany's food supply in wartime in a suggestive article in Professor Schmoller's "Jahrbucher." He foresees grave peril from "encircling" of the Fatherland by hostile armies and fleets, and advocates the novel project of building forthwith gigantic warehouses for the storing of at least 2,000,000 tons of wheat. He estimates that the cost of purchasing and husbanding the wheat, including the construction of steel and cement storage vaults, would be in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, which he thinks would be a cheap investment, viewed from the standpoint of vital emergency it is sought to meet. The $6,000,000 a year interest which the project involves, if carried out with borrowed capital, is dismissed by Dr. Somary as a bagatelle. He thinks Germans are concentrating their attention too exclusively on the purely military side of a great European war, and neglecting the vital question of physical sustenance.

ART TREASURES IN WINDSOR

Queen Mary Finds Some Superb Miniatures of Former Beauties

London, Aug. 8. Although King Edward and Queen Alexandra did much toward the recovery of the many valuable treasures of art which lay buried in the various unused rooms of Windsor Castle, there is still much to be done, and Queen Mary is undertaking the task of overhauling and classifying the vast accumulation which has not seen the light of day for centuries.

She has discovered, among other things, a superb collection of miniatures of the leading beauties of the early and middle parts of last century, a number of which defied identification until her aunt, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg Strelitz, came to her aid with her inimitable knowledge of the women of that time. The buried treasures at Windsor when recovered will form a magnificent addition to the nation's collection of art, and will shed an interesting light on many historical events.

A Museum of Sport Relics and Records.

A movement which will no doubt find considerable favor has been inaugurated for the purpose of collecting in a central museum the records, portraits, statuary, trophies, relics and literature of all British national sports, and for providing an honorable resting place for objects of interest connected therewith which are now scattered throughout the country. The scope will be broad and comprehensive, embracing everything in sport. An influential committee has been formed, which includes the names of many well-known sportsmen.

GRAFT UNEARTHED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Aug. 8. — "Graft" among minor employes of the Department of Public Safety of this city was disclosed Thursday when Michael Bendon, for twenty-two years connected with the municipal stables, was arrested charged with larceny of property of the city. He confessed, the police say.

Bendon owns a farm near Camden, N.J., and it is alleged by detectives that horses stolen from the city stables were taken there, rested up and then sold back to the city to be used in the police and fire service.

Pour Oil on Meat.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—Four women were arrested in the southern section of this city after noisy demonstrations before butcher shops which recently increased the prices of meats. Women at a mass meeting Tuesday night decided to boycott the butcher shops in an attempt to force down prices. The women entered the shop and sprinkled kerosene over the meats.

CAPT. JOSEPH FERARI'S

BIG PONY, DOG AND MONKEY CIRCUS WILL OPEN A WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS, COMMENCING ON MONDAY NEXT.

Amidst a glare of lights and a blare of trumpets Peterborough's Mid-Summer Carnival will open at the Exhibition grounds on Monday next and continue in full swing for one week, with performances every afternoon and evening. The Monarch Greater Shows, which will furnish the amusement and entertainment will arrive early Monday morning on a special train of twenty cars and a large staff of expert hands will immediately begin throwing up the big structures in which the shows will be held. One of the feature attractions in the Monarch wild animal arena is Mlle DeVaro and her great troupe of lions, tigers, bears, and pumas and many other ferocious beasts from the torrid jungles. Mlle DeVaro is one of the most death defying, fearless little women who has ever dared to enter a cage of wild beasts. She controls the untamable lion Nero and at the close of her act places her head in the animals mouth.

Oro Cecil, a woman who by herself has been a big attraction at the Dreamland Bostock wild animal show at Coney Island is also with the Monarch shows. She performs with a group of leopards and holds the audience spellbound throughout her act. Kit Gordon, of the famous Gordon Bros., whose act has been a sensational vaudeville feature during the past few seasons, will be seen with his boxing kangaroo.

Col. Joseph G. Ferrari's great museum of wonders is considered the greatest novelty of its kind ever exploited with any outdoor amusement aggregation. He also has a dog pony and monkey circus that will appeal strongly to the little folks and amuse and entertain the adults as well.

One of the biggest novelties with the show is Minnie Ha Ha, an Australian bush-woman, and one of the strangest creatures ever born. Standing but three feet nine inches in height and weighing 39 pounds she has the strength of a couple of men.

Hinda Ben, direct from Egypt with a large group of Egyptian beauties and dainty Princess Mahara, will show the ways of the Orient, introducing the strange marriages and many other ceremonies performed in their native land. This attraction was one of the special features last season at the New York hippidrome.

Professor Heckler's German flea circus represents years of hard labors in training the hundreds of fleas used in the act. The strength of these small insects is wonderful. Although scarcely visible to the naked eye they do feats that show the wonderful strength of their legs and still more remarkable what it is possible to attain in the way of training even insects.

Gay Paree, introducing refined vaudeville features, Cicero's famous Italian concert band, the merry go round, ocean ferris wheel and many other attractions and amusement devices will make up what should easily prove the most pleasing combination of its kind that has ever visited Peterborough.

The opening performance will be on Monday afternoon.

The combined stores of Peterborough can easily outrival any two city departmental stores in the stocks carried, the prices offered, and the quality of goods sold.

Investigation will prove this point beyond dispute.

When you have ALL the big store stocks here to choose from you have more variety than any city departmental can give you in any one line.

By trading here you have the opportunity of inspecting the goods and comparing values on the spot.

You save the time, trouble, postage, express, and disappointment.

You have immense stocks of new goods to choose from.

You have the reputation of business men who are here all the time to back up the quality of what you buy.

You are not trading sight unseen. You see the goods you buy, and buy the goods you see.

It Will Pay You to Trade in Peterboro

Just make that comparison once or twice and convince yourself. In the meantime, read the advertisements in this issue; there are some great bargains offered. See the goods, get the prices, examine the stocks, and the rest may safely be left to your good judgment.

Read The Times each day and week. It contains the fresh, bright store news of all the leading advertisers in Peterborough. You will get up-to-date news about stocks, goods and prices. Steps a Cough IN ONE NIGHT

CATARRH AND WEAK THROAT NOW CURED WITHOUT SWALLOWING DANGEROUS DRUGS

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing Vapor of Catarrhozone All Throat and Catarrhal Trouble is Quickly Cured.

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or Catarrh can be cured with Catarrhozone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes and chest, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old-standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pain over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave me permanent relief till I used Catarrhozone. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of Catarrh from my system.

"TIMOTHEUS A. SALMON.
"No. 9 Lopez street, Kingston, Ja."

REMEMBER THIS—You breathe Catarrhozone and it will cure any throat, chest or bronchial cold. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00, and lasts two months; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations and insist on "CATARRHOZONE" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guarantors, who are equally interested in its management. Home Office, Toronto.

Successful "Duffer."

Major Sir T. B. Robinson, agent-general for Queensland, presented the prizes at the Crystal Palace Engineering School, London, some time ago. He said that he had always been very bad at examinations and had never won a prize. Nevertheless, he was included in a list which contained the names of all the leading engineers of the day, though he did not know why he was placed there.

"It is really astonishing," Sir T. B. Robinson went on, "what duffers can do if only they stick to it. It is my advice to duffers, among whom I reckon myself, that all our difficulties must yield to persistent effort. I have often asked men in high positions to what they attribute their success, and it is astonishing to find how little they know about it. It is the fellow who does everything a little more thoroughly and possibly a little quicker than other people who goes ahead."

THEY HAD TO KILL GAME.

So They Couldn't Waste Powder on a Man-Eating Crocodile.

In "Animal Life in Africa" is the following curious narrative, which shows the indifference of the natives of East Africa to the sacrifice of human life:

One morning I was standing on the banks of the Lujenda river, in Portuguese East Africa, watching, with my friend, Mr. Maugham, our stores crossing. We had just come to the conclusion that what we had fancied was the protruding nose of a crocodile was, in fact, only a piece of rock when a local native, who was standing near, said, "If you will come with me to the village I can show you a big crocodile." Mr Maugham electing to stay and superintend the porters across the river, I went along with the "boy."

The village in question lay but some 400 yards distant and proved to be of considerable size and full of people, who at the moment were in a state of pleasurable and noisy excitement over the arrival of our large caravan. "But surely there can be no crocodile here with all this noise going on?" I remarked. "Oh, yes," nonchalantly replied the guide. "He lives here and does not mind the people."

Sure enough, on reaching the bank the first thing I saw was a huge crocodile basking at full length and with his mouth wide open on a rock not more than twenty yards away. He was not in the least disturbed by the chattering of the women and children, and there was no question of stalking him. It was only necessary to sit leisurely down on the bank and put a bullet through his shoulder, when, after shutting and opening his mouth a few times, he fell off the rock and sank like a stone.

The headman was quite pleased, saying that the animal took some one, usually a woman or child, at least once a month. "Why, then," I said in astonishment, having noticed that about every second man seemed to be provided with a firearm of some sort, "did you not shoot it?" "Ah, well, we have very little powder, and it is very expensive, and we are poor and require all we have to kill game." was the surprising though characteristic answer.

THE DEATH ORCHID.

Its Lethal Odor Has the Effect of a Powerful Narcotic.

The death orchid of the Venezuelan Indians has been proved to be no mere campfire yarn.

Years ago an orchid hunter, Grayson, set out to find "El Lugar de los Flores Venemosos"—that is, "the place of the poisonous flowers"—which was said to be located in the dense and pathless wilderness occupying the vast stretches between the headwaters of the Orinoco and the Andes. Two weeks passed without any incident out of the ordinary. But one morning there was a perceptible smell of flowers in the air. When the orchid hunter and his Indians camped that night the jungle smells had been entirely lost in the cloying scent. Many of the band refused to go farther.

As Grayson and the others proceeded the rankly sweet and oppressive odor became stronger, attacking the senses like a narcotic. One after another the remaining Indians collapsed till only Grayson and the guide were left, pushing onward. The orchid hunter felt as if he was being attacked by the insidious power of opium, but retained enough consciousness to become aware that, gleaming through the trees ahead, he saw flowers of huge size and vivid colors, many hued clusters of them hanging in trails.

It was the death orchid!

When he recovered his senses he found himself being carried back to camp, where the rest of his porters had remained. Many of the band were severely sick and many half witted with the continued effect of the scent.—Suburban Life.

WHIMS OF AN ARTIST.

Turner's Red Wafer Setting Sun and Finger Print Landscape.

Turner not only took strange liberties with the topography and architecture of the landscapes he painted, but showed his eccentric genius in the materials he employed. Some masterly effects he obtained in ways which, although amusing, were questionable, and must, some hold, in time impair the value of his work.

On one occasion he clapped in a setting sun by means of a common red wafer, and finding it looked as he desired, left it there and painted up to it. Again, wishing to secure the contrast of some animated figure upon a terrace in silhouette against a golden sky just put in, he cut out a barking dog in black paper and applied it by way of experiment. It proved successful, and the paper dog was not afterward removed or replaced.

Still more extraordinary is the story told of Turner's invitation to three children to collaborate with him. The artist was staying at the house of a friend at Knockholt and had brought with him a fine drawing, of which the distance was already carefully outlined, but the foreground of which remained blank.

One morning, instead of resuming work himself upon this drawing, he called in his host's children and, rubbing in three separate saucers three cakes of paint, red, blue and yellow, gave one to each child, telling them to dabble their fingers in the bright colors and then amuse themselves by making prints and marks upon his unfinished picture. Of course they accepted the unexpected invitation with glee, and presently he was gravely looking on while thirty smeary fingertips did their very best to convert his sketch into a crazy rainbow.

Suddenly, in the midst of the frolic, he cried out, "Stop!" They stopped, and he took back the drawing, added imaginary landscape forms suggested by the accidental coloring, and rapidly completed a striking and beautiful whole.

Shortly afterward at dessert one day, Turner amused himself by arranging some varicolored sugar plums upon his plate. When suddenly disturbed and the pattern scattered he cried out in vexation:

"There! You have made me lose 50 guineas!"

He had been evolving a color scheme in candy for his next landscape.

Heir to $15,000,000.

There is in the British Chancery Court an estate which has now reached the figure of $15,000,000. It lies there, unclaimed, in the name of Walters, an Exeter family whose heir has been duly advertised for without avail.

It is now known, almost to a certainty, that this same heir has just died at Point Chevalier, Auckland, New Zealand, that he knew he was the heir, and that he refused to claim the money.

His death took place suddenly, and it was at the necessary inquest that the facts came to the knowledge of the public.

Richard Walters was an old-age pensioner, and was employed by a Mr. Mayson as gardener. He had shown his employer documents which, the latter considered, afforded quite conclusive proof that he was the heir to the family estate of Walters.

The reason he gave for refusing to take any steps to secure the millions was that it was too much trouble, as he was becoming an old man.

The Ducking Stool In England.

The latest recorded use of the ducking stool in England (the designations cucking and ducking were, of course, synonymous in the days of Queen Elizabeth) was in 1809. It was at Leominster, when a woman named Jenny Pipes, alias Jane Corran, was paraded through the town on the ducking stool and ducked in the water near Kenwater bridge by order of the magistrates. In 1817 another woman, called Sarah Leake, was wheeled round the place in the same chair, but not ducked, as, fortunately for her, the water was too low. The instrument of punishment in question has not been used since then.—London Notes and Queries.

McArthur's Victory.

H. K. McArthur, who won the twenty-five mile Marathon race, the classic of the Olympic games at Stockholm, is a tall Transvaal policeman. His time was two hours and 36 minutes.

McArthur ran smoothly all the way and showed no signs of fatigue. When he took command he soon opened up a big gap on his opponents. When the stadium was reached he was far in front. As he reached the stadium the entire assemblage arose and cheered him to the end of the journey, which was one lap on the stadium track. When he had finished a crowd of his supporters rushed up to him, crowned him with a floral wreath and carried him off the field.

Incongruous.

A clerical correspondent of one of the London church papers relates that a certain prelate had great difficulty in suppressing his laughter at the consecration of a church the other day owing to the device on one of the school banners which were carried in the procession before the service. This banner was adorned with a very fierce looking lion, with terrible claws and teeth, while underneath him was the legend, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

The First Knitting Machine.

Historic mention of hand knitting is first found in the books of the time of Queen Elizabeth, though it is known that it was one of the arts of the Pompeians. The first machine for knitting was the invention of William Lee, who made application for a patent in England in 1589. On being refused a patent by the English authorities he departed for France and soon afterward set up a large factory at Rouen.

A Coin's Journey.

An interesting story of a half-sovereign's journey is related in the monthly magazine issued by the Great Western Railway Co., England. It appears that a ticket collector dropped the coin on the footboard of the 11.5 a.m. two hours' express from Paddington to Snow Hill station, Birmingham. The train sped off before he was able to snatch the half-sovereign, and yet the coin was still in position when the train reached Birmingham. A florin was similarly recovered a few days later from the footboard of the Fishguard express at Reading after a fast run from Paddington.

HIGH AND LOW CITIES.

And the Difference In Our Altitudes East and West.

The differences between the eastern and western elevations in this country are curiously striking. Colorado has forty peaks that are more than 14,000 feet above sea level. Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, and, Mount Mitchell, in North Carolina, the highest peaks in the Appalachian system north and south respectively, are considerably less than half as high as this above the ocean.

Several transcontinental railway lines in the west pull their main line trains over a greater elevation than that reached by the cog railroad up New Hampshire's above mentioned peak. These western elevations are, of course, reached gradually.

Most large cities lie low. Chicago is only about 600 feet above sea level and Pittsburgh but a hundred feet higher. Philadelphia ranges from sea level to a height in its suburbs of some 300 feet. Minneapolis, near the head of the Mississippi, has an elevation of less than 1,000 feet, and various parts of New Orleans, at the mouth of the great river, are recorded in the government tables as having elevations of from one foot to fifty feet. St. Louis lies about halfway between these terminal cities.

Montana is away up, with its leading city perched at the elevation of the highest peaks of the Adirondack mountains. In Denver there is a mark near the state capitol which is just one mile above sea level.—New York Sun.

SLEEPING IN CHURCH.

Restful Pews From the Serious and Humorous Standpoints.

It is a matter of common experience that bright lights in a chamber, church or hall where numerous persons are gathered have the effect of producing drowsiness among certain members of the congregation or audience. This phenomenon is easily explained by the current knowledge of hypnotism. The drowsiness produced by the lights is a species of hypnosis. It has been suggested also that lack of proper ventilation causes a toxic quality in the atmosphere to which some people are especially susceptible, the result being an irresistible drowsiness.

Sleeping in church has always been a ready subject for humor. It is related that on one occasion when a proposal was under discussion to have a series of sermons preached on topics of the day which were agitating the public minds Rufus Choate, as a member of the congregation, protested vehemently, saying, "I seek my pew, as I seek my bed, for repose." There is also an anecdote of an old Scotchman who was asked if he knew a certain man in the same neighborhood. "Know him?" he replied, with emphasis. "Why, I've sleepit in the same kirk wi' him for forr-ty year." But the majority of preachers have never been inclined to take a humorous view of the matter any more than Dean Swift.—Philadelphia Press.

Largest Water Tank.

The water supply system of Calcutta includes the largest water tank in the world. It covers an area of two and a half acres, and the total weight when it is full of water is 72,000 tons. There are thirty-two miles of steel joists in the vertical columns and bracings and in the foundations twenty miles of steel joists and tie bars.

The capacity of the tank is 9,900,000 gallons of water. The tank acts as a balancer and to assist the pumps when they cannot send sufficient water into the mains to meet the demand. During the night hours, when the pumps provide more water than is required, the excess quantity goes into the tank. When the demand is greater the water from the tank flows automatically into the mains.—New York Herald.

Browning's Pets.

Browning shared Rossetti's taste for queer pets. His pet owl was well known to visitors at Warwick crescent; also his pet geese, which followed him about like dogs and upon which, "having suffered much from the cackle of reviewers," he bestowed the names of Edinburgh and Quarterly. As a boy he had a monkey and an eagle in the garden at Camberwell, and later in life his pockets were often full of uncanny "portable creatures" to which he had taken a fancy—frogs, toads, lizards and even snakes.—London Standard.

A Man of Nerve.

He—I called to see you last evening. She—Yes? He—Yes; the servant told me you were not in. She—Yes; I was so sorry to have missed you. He—I thought you must be. I heard you laughing upstairs in such grief stricken tones that I almost wept myself out of sympathy.

Picking Pockets.

"Picking pockets," said the reformer to the thief, "must be a difficult and precarious business."

"It is," agreed the pickpocket. "It is until you get your hand in."

Unhappiness.

It is well for us that man can only endure a certain amount of unhappiness. What is beyond that either annihilates him or passes by him and leaves him apathetic.—Goethe.

Silencing Informers.

It is conjectured that one of the Berlin apaches shot his wounded companion to prevent any possibility of his giving evidence against the band. In one notable case a prisoner secured the assistance of authority for the same purpose. They were two captured Irish rebels of 1798, and one of them told the officer in command that he could make very important revelations, but that he was afraid to do so while the other was alive, because if by any chance that other escaped his own life would not be worth a day's purchase. The officer promptly had the stumbling block removed, and then the survivor simply said: "Now shoot me as soon as you please. I knew he'd peach."

The Only Ratepayer.

Mr. Williams, a farmer, the only ratepayer in the parish of Boscobel, Shropshire, England, has been appointed overseer. The other residents in the parish pay him their rates in their rents.

Dueling In Old Ireland.

In the old days dueling was almost a pastime among the Irish squires. It was the dessert to the dinner. There is the story of the Galway gentleman who was seen practicing with a pistol in his back garden. And the explanation, "I've a dinner party of friends this evening, and I am getting my pistol hand into practice." One recalls, too, Mr. MacDonagh's note of a dying squire's last words of advice to his son. "God bless you, my boy!" he said. "I leave you nothing but debts and mortgages. But I'll give you one piece of advice — never drink with your back to the fire and never fight a duel with your face to the sun."—London Chronicle.

TYPHOID NOW ABATING

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—From present indications the typhoid epidemic at the capital shows signs of abatement, only 20 new cases being reported by Dr. Sheriff yesterday, as compared with from 40 to 80 on previous days during the past week. The abatement is reported to be due to the fact that for about 12 days the water has been comparatively pure. Yesterday, however, slight contamination was again reported, and the citizens were advised to boil their drinking water.

A Similar Mistake.

In one building community was a mechanic who used to fiddle around the mail box to look over the letters. Of those that seemed interesting he opened some, and after having read them he would write on the envelope:

"Opened by mistake."

This happened so many times that the rest of the shop force got on end became resentful.

The offender was in the habit of bringing a fine lunch with him, and this he had spread out when the conspiracy was planned. A phony call to the telephone took him away, end when he came back a piece of pie with a semicircular minus bore a card reading:

"Bitten by mistake."—Chicago Post.

Real Gems Made by Science.

There recently appeared in Paris some diamonds having all the earmarks of the genuine article, and they were offered to a number of dealers at very attractive prices. Certain rigid tests were applied by experts engaged in the trade, with the result that they were proved to be slightly different from natural stones. The diamonds were believed to be manufactured by a synthetic process, but by the experts who examined them they were claimed to be genuine. From this, it seems, the secret of making diamonds is rapidly being solved, and it will not be long until this new product of the electric furnace will take its place with synthetic rubies, sapphires and other manufactured gems which are now sold in the open market.

Grocers Who Dressed In Colors.

In the early part of the fifteenth century it is recorded that the "grocers' guild appeared in livery of scarlet and green." A few years later scarlet and black were adopted. Funeral services of deceased members "were attended with much show of pageantry." At the burial of Sir Philip Sidney, who was a member of the grocers' guild, his worship the mayor, aldermen and other civic officials were present, "rydinge in purple."—London Telegraph.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, July 30, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.—[illegible]

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Enter by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, July 17th, 1912.

Pieces of Eight and Doubloons.

The pieces of eight and the doubloons are indissolubly united with the traditions of the Spanish main and the old buccaneers. Pieces of eight were more properly called piasters—from the Greek and Latin, emplastron, "a plaster;" in the Romance languages, "anything spread out or flat, as a plate, a coin." The piece was silver and worth about $1. Being divided into eight silver reals, it was termed a piece of eight.

Doubloons were gold pieces, originally double the value of a pistole, and formerly coined in Spain and Spanish America. The name is derived from the Spanish doblon, "double." Prior to 1848 the doubloon was worth $15.75. The doblon de Isabel, coined in that year, was until 1868 equivalent only to $4.96

He Had Tact.

Merchant—Our salesmen must show tact. Now, for instance, if a lady came in the store and asked to see some false hair what would you say to her?

Bright Boy—I'd ask her what shade her—her friend preferred, an'—

"Enough," said the merchant; "name your own salary."

Defiance.

"There is a place awaiting you in the abode of future punishment," said the man who, even though angry, strives to be discreet of speech.

"It don't scare me none," replied the janitor. "I'll be kind o' glad to get some place where the tenants never complain because the radiators are cold."

A Bad Heart Its Cause and Cure

Many Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble Have Often the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular ; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart

Just read what happened to Isaac Mailloux, of Belle River, Ont

"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often weaken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.

"I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Boil City Water.

Dr. McPherson, Medical Health Officer, advises the people to boil the city water before drinking. This is simply a precautionary measure and we hope the doctor's advice will be followed.

Will Arrive To-morrow.

Mr. J. M. Brooks, President of the Peterborough Turf Club, last night received a telegram from the Curtiss Exhibition Company, stating that Mr. Hemstrought, the noted aviator, who is to fly in the exhibition grounds on Monday, will arrive in Peterborough to-morrow.

Funeral on Monday.

The Times is requested to state that the funeral of the late Andrew McClelland, who died at Andrie, Alta, will be held from the residence of his brother, Mr. Geo. H. McClel streets, on Monday, August 12th, at land, corner of Lock and Morrow 2 p.m.

Received Electric Shock.

While hanging clothes on a line in the Palace Hotel yard yesterday, Mrs. West received a severe electric shock, her hand coming in contact with a live electric wire. The shock threw her to the ground and it was at first thought she was killed. She quickly revived, however, and is none the worse for the accident.

The Stoney Lake Regatta.

Those who intend spending the holiday at Stoney Lake to witness the regatta on that day, are assured of good connection home. The Stoney Lake Navigation Company will have a boat leaving Jumper Island at 11 p.m., after the regatta and dance. This boat will meet a special train at Lakefield which will arrive in Peterborough at about 12.30

The Late Dr. Marshall.

As a token of the high esteem in which the late Dr. G. E. Marshall was held in Woodmen of the World circles, Mr. A. Haskall clerk of the local branch, has received a letter from W. S. Harrison, head counsel Commander, expressing his personal regret at the loss of such a valued and respected member. Mr. Harrison also extended his sincere sympathy to Mrs. Marshall, widow of the deceased

A Bad Break.

The large press on which The Times is printed met with a serious accident yesterday while the weekly edition was under full swing. A bolt under the bed broke, with the result that the machine had to be laid off for a few days until new castings arrive from New York. Fortunately The Times is equipped with a large auxiliary press and this will be in commission until the necessary repairs are made

TENDER FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WIRE FENCE.

TENDERS addressed to W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., marked "Tender for Wire Fence," will be received up till 12 o'clock noon of the 20th August, 1912, for the construction of a wire fence around Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, situate on sections 16 and 17, township 9, range 3, west of the 2nd meridian.

The length of the fence is estimated at six miles, more or less, but the Department reserves the right to extend or lessen the mileage should it be found necessary ; final payment to be made on the exact measurement of the fence constructed.

Each tender must be accompanied by a sample of the wire and lock.

Each tender must also be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank in favour of the Deputy Minister of the Interior, for ten per cent. of the amount of the tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract, or fails to complete the work contracted for ; but will be returned in case the tender is not accepted.

Further particulars, including sketch and specifications may be obtained from the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., or from the Chief Supt. of Dominion Parks, Edmonton, Alta., or from the Supt. of Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, Arcola, Sask.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

P. G. KEYES,
Secretary

Department of the Interior,
Ottawa, July 10, 1912.

Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—25846.

Taken to Belleville.

John S. Meyerholz, a real estate agent, who was yesterday acquitted in the County Court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, has been taken to Belleville. It is understood that a charge similar to the one preferred against him here is recorded against him in Belleville. It is said that he is also wanted in Trenton, where, it is alleged, he was concerned in some questionable land deals.

A Delightful Trip.

The venerable Major Clarke, who has reached the good old age of 88 years, accompanied by his son, Mr. Frank Clarke, Mrs. Clarke and his neice, Mrs. Fee, of Rochester, N.Y., returned yesterday from a delightful trip over the canal to Lake Simcoe and return. They spent the week stopping at different points on the way. Major Clarke is one of Peterborough's grand old men, and is as lively as a young fellow of fifty or sixty.

A Quiet Wedding.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized on Friday last, when Mr. Abraham Youngs of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Helen Slaughter of Norwich, England. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McFee and took place at the latter's residence, 422 Stewart street Mr. John Youngs and Miss Lelie Youngs being present. Mr. and Mrs. Youngs have taken up residence at 594 Waterford street. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

Had a Close Call.

While riding out to Chemong on a bus, Capt. Williams, of Port Hope who was the only occupant of the vehicle beside the driver had an exciting experience. While going down the Finlay Hill the horses ran away and one of the front wheels of the vehicle was wrenched off. The veteran Captain clung pluckily to his seat and after the vehicle had been dragged some distance on three wheels, the driver succeeded in stopping the horses. Fortunately he or the driver were not injured.

A Lively Runaway.

A lively runaway occurred yesterday morning at the new wharf on George street. A team belonging to Mr. Kelly of Bridgenorth broke loose and ran up George street above the C.P.R. crossing. After running down the street they caught up to Peters delivery rig, with Mr. Peters driving. Instead of turning out they ran one on each side of the wagon, and the pole came over the top. If Mr. Peters had not ducked, the pole would have crushed in his skull. Mr. Thos. Lane and Harry McElroy at this juncture stopped the wild career of the team, but the rig was badly damaged

Will Be Deported To-day.

Alice Haigh, who came from England some months ago, and who has been adjudged insane, will probably leave for England to-day. Her case was serious enough to warrant the intervention of the authorities, and for several days she was confined in the county gaol. Later her condition became somewhat ameliorated, and she was allowed to rejoin her friends who reside in the north end of the city. The unfortunate girl is only 26 years of age and at the time of her emigration to Peterborough two months ago, no outward sign of a mental derangement were apparent. It is believed by those who are intimate with the case, that the girl's present condition was brought about by the combined efforts of a high strung nervous system, and a prolonged period of homesickness.

DRIVING PARK EVENTS.

Entries for the Races Next Monday Close To-day.

Mr. Ike Waters, of Port Hope, has arrived in the city, bringing with him his chestnut mare, "Karo," one of the many horses billed to start in the free for all race at the Driving Park on Civic Holiday. Karo is being worked out daily on the track and is in first class shape.

This is the last day for entries in the different events. A number of fast horses owned throughout the province, and at present at the North Bay races, are expected tomorrow.

Dr. T. Johnston, drove his pacer Harry Direct, the last quarter of the track in 32½ seconds, or at the rate of a mile in 2.10. The horses will start in the 2.18 class.

Double Barrel Fishing.

Lindsay Warder. Several passengers on board the streamer Lintonia coming to Lindsay this morning were attracted by a fisherman in a canoe a short distance away. It was not the man in the boat that caused them to converge their gaze to the particular spot on the waters, but the action of the lone boatman He was as busy as the proverbial cat on a tin roof. Instead of one line he had two working on a rapid transit service, which he manipulated dexterously. He was noticed tugging vigorously on one line and hand over hand he hauled the hemp in until he reached the hook, where a fine lunge was firmly attached that looked like a fifteen-pounder. The fisherman had just stowed him away when another pull from the line No. 2 said something was doing, and in came another apparently larger than the first. This is a unique catch and proves that two lines are better than one in more ways than driving horses.

shooting in every direction. This battle between representatives of the law and breakers of the law is a memorable one in Winnipeg, and for weeks after their daring attempted hold-up the city was astir.

They were tried and convicted of the charges laid against them for this act, and were sentenced each to ten years in the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary. Shortly after being confined in that institution they came in contact with Arthur Bonner, an Australian ex-sailor, who was possessed of a very high education. The brothers soon induced Arthur Bonner to join them in an attempt to escape. The three men made an escape, but were re-captured soon after. One of the brothers was not captured before he had been severely wounded. He was taken to a small lock-up, and as soon as he found that he was not under surveillance, set fire to the building, hoping that when the wooden structure had been weakened by the flames, he would be able to force his way out and again be at large. The attempt, however, was discovered in time, and the man was only rescued with difficulty from the burning building.

Their Daring Attempt on Train.

The three outlaws were then, in charge of four guards, taken from Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, and the party set off for Kingston, where the men were to serve their long sentences. The authorities thought that the men were now out of the way, but as the train conveying the prisoners drew into Toronto, an attempt to escape was made, which, for daring, overcast all their other deeds.

The men jumped suddenly on their guards at the time when, as they thought, the train was drawing up at Toronto. They beat their guards unmercifully, and, leaving them in an unconscious condition, they attempted to jump from the train and make their escape to some place of refuge in the city. They had, however, made a miscalculation, and were not near enough to the city when they attacked the guards. Manacled and shackled as they were, they did not have the courage to leap from the train, which was still moving swiftly, and they were discovered on the platform of one of the cars by train hands and over powered.

Again Escaped From Prison.

They were taken to Kingston, and had no further opportunities to escape until April 29th last, when they assaulted their keepers and made a most remarkably daring escape.

In this successful attempt there were four men, the two brothers and one named George Brown, who, though not essentially a "bad man," committed a deed of daring when he abducted a school teacher, named Gladys Price, and carried her off with him, keeping her a prisoner for a week, and at the same time defying a posse of some 300 men, all armed, who hunted him for seven days, finally effecting his capture. Brown was serving an eight-year term for the abduction when he escaped

Bonner, who, as previously stated, is a man possessed of an extraordinary fine education, pleaded eloquently his case before Judge Madden, and such an effect did his eloquence have on the judge that although he was told that if he conducted himself properly, he would be allowed, at the end of seven years, to apply for a pardon.

Such is the life story of the famous Mecum brothers, characterized as the most dangerous enemies to society that Canada has ever known. They are now serving what are practically life terms behind the bars of Kingston Penitentiary.

BALKAN WAR CLOUD Hovers Darkly Over Horizon | 20 ALDERMEN ARRESTED Big Sensation As Men Are Jailed | MAY TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE

A Sheer Repudiation Of Nation's Pledges

Violation of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty By The United States a Disgraceful Act

May Have Far-Reaching Consequences, say the London Newspapers

New York, Aug. 9.—A London cable says: In regard to the rejection of Senator Burton's amendment to the Panama Canal Bill, this morning's Post says it is to be regretted that this decision has been reached, since nothing can be plainer than that the discrimination in favor of American vessels using the Panama Canal is a violation not only of the strict letter of the Haye-Pauncefote Treaty, but a repudiation of the pledges made by the United States to the British Government at the time the treaty was negotiated.

Neither legally or morally, The Post says, can discrimination be exercised against shipping under the British flag unless the United States violates the good faith that it pledged itself to observe under the terms of the treaty.

An Admission of Wrong.

The Daily Mail, in an editorial this morning on the Senate's vote, says: "That idea would put back the whole world by a century, and might have far-reaching consequences beyond the question of the proposed exemptions forbidden by the Haye-Pauncefote Treaty."

The Daily Mail adds that other powers might repudiate treaties which they regard as favoring the United States and injuring themselves. "Beyond question the exemptions proposed" says the Mail, "are forbidden by treaty, but if there is any real doubt as to the interpretation of the document we are willing to refer the issue to the Hague Tribunal. A power which in such circumstances should refuse such arbitrament thereby declares itself wrong."

BALKEN WAR CLOUD IS SURE TO CAUSE TROUBLE

Montenegrin Minister is Convinced That Complications Are Imminent

London, Aug. 9.—The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that events on the Turco-Montenegrin frontier are creating increased excitement. The latest Turkish news says that serious fighting is going on and that the Montenegrins are using artillery.

In conversation with the representative of the Daily Telegraph, the Montenegrin Minister of Foreign Affairs says yesterday:

"Despite the somewhat hopeful view taken in diplomatic circles here, I am personally pessimistic, being convinced that in the very near future a storm will burst over the entire Balkan peninsula. The condition of Albania is certainly one to cause the complications which are now imminent there to grow rapidly.

"As Montenegro now is, we feel ourselves greatly hampered, and the necessity of removing our frontiers further apart confronts us on every hand and at every turn. The question of frontiers is the one crucial problem with which the tyranny of circumstances confronts us and which repuires immediate settlement."

FIRE CHIEF GIVEN INCREASED AUTHORITY AS TO HIS MEN

MAY HIRE AT ONCE, CHAIRMAN TO CONFIRM SAME WITHIN TWO WEEKS.

Given Power to Suspend, the Mayor and Chairman to Approve or Disapprove of Offender's Subsequent Dismissal. The Fire, Water and Light Committee Passed Resolution on Foregoing Lines Last Night for Recommendation to Council.

The City Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night for the first time under the chairmanship of Ald. Gillespie, appointed Wednesday evening in the place of Ald. Johnston, resigned.

The application for a light on Victoria avenue was left in abeyance for enquiry.

The committee approved of a new hydrant east side of Monaghan road.

A difference between the committee and Peterborough Light and Power re lights not burning, was referred to another meeting when Mr. W. H. Munro, manager of the company, can be present.

The Chairman was authorized to have painted the new wheels for fire rigs at present in Fitzgerald's shop.

Wm. Thomas applied for a position on the fire brigade. Thomas will be asked to meet the chairman and the Chief for approval or disapproval, as the case may be.

Ald. Buller here said he felt that the Chief should have full power to hire and discharge his men; when the committee have not sufficient confidence in the Chief in this regard then it would be time to make a change. Ald. Buller said he would not object to the chairman's voice being necessary in this connection.

Ald. Gordon thought a man in office where he is expected to use his skill and judgment in regard to appointing or dismissing men should have full responsibility; and if he falls down, then the council could act accordingly.

The Chief offered that when men are acting exclusively under the head of the department, they will work differently than when the power for discharging or hiring is vested in others besides the Chief.

Ald. Gillespie strongly contended that the Chief should assume full authority in this regard, in the interests of discipline and effectiveness at the fire hall.

Ald. Gordon suggested that to meet the views of the committee in general it might be well to vest the Chief with authority to suspend a man and the Mayor and chairman to be consulted before his actual dismissal.

A resolution moved by Ald. Buller seconded by Ald. Anderson, was past giving the Chief power to suspend any member of the brigade, immediately to report such suspension to the Mayor and Chairman of the Committee for approval or disapproval of the man being discharged. The Chief also to have authority to hire any man for the department who shall, however, not be retained more than two weeks without the appforval of the chairman.

The by-law governing the fire hall will be amended on the foregoing lines, should the same be confirmed by the council in the regular way.

The members present were Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Chairman Ald. Gillespie, Aldermen Buller, Brown, Gordon and Anderson.

STUCK KNIFE IN PHYSICIAN'S NECK

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9.—A terrible scene occurred in the principal lunatic asylum of St. Petersburg. During the usual round and inspection by one of the medical superintendents, Dr. Grekker, accompanied by his assistants and a nurse, one of the inmates, a shoemaker named Sizoff, who has been confined there since 1908 by order of the Court of Justice for murdering his master while in an unsound state of mind, complained to the doctor of being very ill.

The doctor, therefore, proceeded to examine him, but when he was using his stethoscope Sizoff drew from his pocket a cobbler's knife and thrust it into the back of the doctor's neck. The doctor immediately dropped to the ground, mortally wounded and unconscious.

A number of other inmates, greatly excited at the sight of the blood, rushed to the side of Sizoff, who was overpowered and thrust into a cell reserved for violent inmates, only after a great struggle.

It is not stated how the excitement among the rest of the lunatics was quelled, but the dying doctor was removed from the building with great difficulty.

TWENTY DETROIT ALDERMEN ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY

Detectives Sent Out to Round Them Up, and Many Now Placed Behind The Bars

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—Sensational developments in the local aldermanic graft scandal occurred to-day when Prosecuting Attorney Sheppard announced that before night about twenty aldermen would be placed under arrest on charges of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with their official positions. The nine aldermen recently arrested on a similar charge are also included among the twenty new arrests.

Based on New Evidence.

It is said that the arrests to-day are based on entirely different evidence than that procured by William J. Burns and his operatives a few weeks ago, which led to the arrest of nine aldermen and the secretary of the Common Council Committee, who are now at liberty and on bail on the charges of receiving and conspiring to receive bribe money for giving the Wabash Railroad certain city property for building purposes. The latest arrests are alleged to be based on evidence obtained by the prosecution covering the city administration for years back.

Many New Instances of Graft.

The prosecutor stated to-day that he had struck many new instances of graft, but he refused to say whether the evidence was obtained as it has been rumored, from confessions made by aldermen previously arrested on more than two charges.

The Superintendent of Police early in the forenoon had sent out nearly every detective on the force to arrest the aldermen, and the prisoners were immediately locked in cells at police headquarters.

"They're coming in so fast I'm afraid we'll have to put three in each cell pretty soon," said the doorman, shortly before noon.

Aldermen Refuse to Say Anything.

The aldermen arrested refused to make any statement when brought into the prosecutor's office. Each was hustled in and the door locked behind them. Prosecutor Sheppard said he had nothing new to say, but might issue a statement later in the day.

MARRIED IN APSLEY.

Nuptials of Miss Maggie J. Lean and Mr. Ephriam J. Brown.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

On Wednesday, Aug. 7th, the wedding took place in St. George's Church, Apsley, when Miss Maggie J. Lean was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Ephraim J. Bronson of St. Julian. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Christopher Lord. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Isaac Lean, Burleigh.

While the ceremony was being performed some enthusiastic friends decorated the groom's buggy with the proverbial old shoes. The wedding party on leaving the church were showered with rice. The church bells rang and Norman kept the factory whistle blowing for fully ten minutes, while the happy couple received hearty congratulations from friends.

The village presented a gala appearance early in the morning, with flags flying and gaily dressed young ladies wending their way to the church. The contracting parties then drove to the residence of the bride's father, where a recherche dinner was partaken of by a large number of friends. The hearty good wishes of all go with Eph. and his bride.

MAY TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE IN ORDER TO SAVE HIS NECK

Reports Current Around the Prosecutor's Office That the Alleged Murderer of Rosenthal is Ready to Turn States Evidence

New York, Aug. 9.—The Tombs prison keepers seemed to think to-day that Police Lieut. Becker was on the point of breaking down, and there were reports at the Public Prosecutor's Office that the police officer under indictment for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, might turn State's evidence.

District Attorney Whitman conferred with John F. McIntyre, counsel for the accused Lieutenant, but the State's Attorney said that no terms for a confession were discussed. Mr. Whitman said:

"I have hopes that Becker, who is a shrewd man, may decide that his best interests will require him to tell the whole truth. If he should do that I would have to think over pretty carefully what my attitude should be. While murder is a graver crime than blackmail, it might be that I would decide in the event of a confession, to ask some clemency for Becker. One of the greatest accomplishments for the good of the community would be to find out who are the big blackmailers in the Police Department, and to abolish forever that treacherous and wicked system."

Mr. McIntyre expects to be out of town until next Wednesday, when he said he would return and talk over matters with his client.

German Boat Detained With Arms For Turkey

Antwerp, Aug. 9.—The German steamer Hermia from Hamburg was detained by the authorities here to-day in consequence of the discovery of great quantities of cartridges gunpowder and other explosives among her cargo destined for Turkey. The munitions were found hidden in bags of rice.

VERY SIGNIFICANT UNIONIST VICTORY IN MANCHESTER

London Papers Say it Indicates The Early Fall of the Asquith Government—End of Home Rule

New York, Aug. 9.—A cable to the Tribune from London says: The Unionist party has won its greatest bye-election triumph since the present government came into office by capturing Northwest Manchester. So many historic contests have been fought on the free trade question in this division that it has come to be regarded as a pivot constituency—as a weather vane which shows which way the political wind is blowing.

Its capture by an out and out tariff reformer, who has made no secret of his convictions in a straight fight against brilliant free trade Liberal is an event of great importance.

BY 1,202 MAJORITY.

London, Aug. 9.—Sir John Randles, the Unionist candidate, was returned for Northwest Manchester at the bye-election caused by the retirement of Sir George Kemp by a majority of 445.

BLOW TO GOVERNMENT.

London, Aug. 9.—If the aphorism "what Manchester thinks to-day England thinks to-morrow" still holds good, then the Liberal tenure of the Government is approaching its end.

The Unionist papers describe the result as a deadly blow to the Government's Insurance Act and to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Bonar Law, the Opposition leader in the House of Commons, telegraphed to the victor, "What Manchester said to-day, England will say at the first opportunity, and in my opinion that opportunity cannot long be delayed."

SUFFRAGETTES WILL NOT QUIT OFFENSIVE TACTICS

London, Aug. 9.—Warning that no punishment it can invent will frighten the militant suffragettes into abandonment of forcible methods in their fight for the ballot was served on the Government to-day by the Women's Social and Political Union.

"The iniquitous sentences pronounced against Mrs. Mary Leigh and Miss Gladys Evans were not intended as penalties for any offence they were accused of committing," says a statement the union issued, "but were passed in the hope of terrorizing the militants. It was a last desperate effort to break the suffragette spirit.

"The judge's hint that abandment of militancy might justify a reduction of the sentences amounts to the same thing as bribery, which it was impossible for us to accept. Militancy will continue until the ballot is granted to us.

"We are determined not only to secure the release of Mrs. Leigh and Miss Evans, but the franchise, and to secure it during the life of the present Government."

INVITATION IS DECLINED

Mr. Harvey A. Morris, the expert who has charge of the aeroplane which is to be used on Monday, is in the city, and called on the Times yesterday. Mr. Morris stated that the machine which Aviator Hemstrought will use is a one passenger flyer, and is equipped with 60 horse power engines. It weighs about 800 pounds, with aviator on board, and will make the flights at the Driving Park on Monday afternoon. The machine cost about $4,000.

It was suggested that the editor of this great family journal might accompany the aviator in his flights, but with that unselfishness natural to those connected with the g.f.j. he has decided to retire in favor of the editor of one of our local contemporaries.

SAYS MRS. ASTOR SAVED HIS LIFE

Prevented Titanic Sailors From Dragging Him From Lifeboat.

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—Hadno Mamee, a cabin passenger saved from the Titanic, has brought suit against the White Star Line for $25,000, the value of jewels he was bringing to this country.

Mamee credits Mrs. John Jacob Astor with saving him from the doomed ship. He declared that she prevented sailors from dragging him from the lifeboat into which he jumped at the last moment.

In the June issue of the Monthly Cyclopedia and Medical Bulletin of Philadelphia, edited by Charles E. de M. Sajous, M.D., L.L.D., appears the following:

"Many physicians have come to realize that caffeine, as daily consumed in coffee and tea, has much to do with the causation of many annoying ailments that formerly were obscurely diagnosed and vaguely treated. It stands to reason that this alkoloid, when taken in daily doses of six or more grains, must exert a harmful action on the nervous circulatory and digestive systems. Its action must also modify the action of other drugs prescribed by the physicians."

Continuing, this article says:

"Postum, the well-known cereal beverage, made of clean hard wheat and a small percentage of molasses, has been the means of effecting an easy change from coffee and its harmful stimulant — caffeine — to a wholesome, harmless, nourishing beverage."

Eminent analysts such as Prof. J. W. Mallet of the University of Virginia have proven that a cup of coffee (only three-fifths coffee and the rest milk) contains about 2½ grains of caffeine.

A Government report issuing April 4th, this year, from the Bureau of Chemistry shows that the deadly coffee drug, caffeine, administered in small doses, caused the death of cats, dogs, rabbits and guinea pigs in a few hours.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly; Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 60 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 to J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 9c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 358 George St. directly opposite Crossman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $150 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit?
It Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

HOW TO WASH LINEN SUITS.

An Expert Laundress Describes the Best Method.

"For washing linen suits," said an expert laundress, "use only the best white soap and never rub the soap on the cloth unless there is a lot of hard dirt to be taken out. In the majority of cases the suits soak for an hour or so in soapy water, putting them in when the water is quite hot. By the time it is cool enough to permit washing freely the soiled parts are sufficiently soft to admit of cleaning without very much scrubbing. Rinse in several waters, always until the last water is perfectly clear, then pass the garment through the stiffening water, after which it is pressed as dry as possible in the cotton sheet.

"Some stiffening is necessary to give the linen the appearance of freshness which it has when it comes to you from the tailor. On the other hand, the greatest care should be taken not to have too much stiffening. That ruins the appearance of what would otherwise be a perfectly washed suit. You want just enough to give the linen body and yet not take away from its suppleness.

"In washing colored linens, excepting tans and browns, color all the waters and try always to avoid putting soap on colored linen, and also do not use water hotter than blood heat, allowing the linen to soak only a few minutes before washing it out and putting it in a second water of the same temperature and colored. Three waters are generally enough for a colored linen suit. Where the suit is not much soiled two will be enough. The stiffening water must be colored just as was that in which the washing and rinsing was done.

"After wringing in the cotton sheet care must be taken in hanging both coats and skirts for the drying process. Fresh air for colored linen and sun for the white—that is the ideal drying process. House drying never gives the satisfaction that a good laundress wants for her work. Steam drying should be a last resort. It injures the texture of the goods and leaves the colors less brilliant.

"The figures on which suits get their final shaping are the kind used by good dressmakers and tailors. I have all sizes and covered so that the suits get as nearly as possible the shape of their owners. I keep the figures arrayed in fresh petticoats and shirt waists, and when the freshly washed suits are on them I'm not ashamed for any one to walk into my shaping rooms. Each suit is taken from the figure and placed in its box for shipment. Great care is taken to see that every part of it is perfectly dry."

A Gilbert Mot.

The following is said to be about the choicest mot in the long W. S. Gilbert list of mots:

After several days' absence from London, Gilbert walked into the Savage Club one day, and somebody shouted a greeting.

"Hello, Gilbert! Where have you been?"

"I've been up to Birmingham to see Wilson Barrett as Hamlet," Gilbert cried.

"The deuce you say! How was it?" asked his friend.

"Oh, very funny—and not at all vulgar," was the answer.

Smoking and Eyesight.

Giving evidence in a High Court case, Mr. William Long, an ophthalmic surgeon of Cavendish square, London, told the court that if he smoked half an ounce of tobacco daily for forty years—which meant that he would have to smoke about four hundredweight—his sight would probably be affected.

Beating of Dead Hearts

Hearts of cold-blooded animals will beat for a comparatively long time after death or removal from the body (if kept cold and moist) because of powerful internal collections of nerves known as ganglia, whose automatic impulses cause the regular contractions of the muscles. Similar ganglia exist in man and other warm-blooded animals, but their action is less prolonged. Scientists have ascertained that a turtle's heart will beat after removal if put on a piece of glass, kept cool and moist and covered with a bell jar. I believe it has been known to beat thirty-six or even forty-eight hours. Twelve or fourteen hours is a common record.

Boulevard and Esplanade.

Both "esplanade" and "boulevard" are military terms by origin. The original "boulevard" was a bulwark or horizontal part of the rampart, and an "esplanade" was originally the glacis or slope of the counterscarp of a fortified place. A writer 200 years ago noted that the word boulevard was "now chiefly taken for the void space between the glacis of a citadel and the first houses of a town"; hence its extension to other "void spaces" suitable for promenading. The old French "esplanade" was defined by Cotgrave as "a planing, leveling, evening of ways," from Latin "explanare," to smooth or flatten out, whence the English words "explain" and "explanation."

Rats and Eggs.

No single point better illustrates the sagacity of the rat, according to an article in McClure's, than the way in which it eats an egg. It bites through the shell and chips off small fragments as neatly as a squirrel opens a nut, consumes the entire contents without spilling a drop and then sits up and licks itself clean like a cat. Rats will steal the eggs from under a sitting hen. In one case they carried off seventy-five dozen eggs which a commission merchant had incautiously stored in a wooden tub.

THE RECIPROCITY FOOTBALL.

William Howard Taft comes forward with the proposal that the "standing invitation" to that "wider market," the reciprocity agreement, be stricken from the American statutes. Mr. Taft has seen things in a different light since his endorsation of reciprocity alienated the support of the agricultural interests of the United States. He is anxious that the law be repealed, in order that it may not be used further as a weapon against his ambition to succeed himself.

But right here comes the difficulty. The Democrats in the lower house will not repeal the law. They assisted in the passage of the Reciprocity bill in order to embarrass the president, and they will resist its repeal for the same reason. It may be ungenerous of the Democrats to thus prod the president, but it may turn out to be very good politics.

The "stand pat" Republican senators, thinking also that there is a chance at playing politics, are quite willing to permit the Democrats to assume responsibility for the continuance of an unpopular measure on the statute books; hence they will not resist the efforts of the Democrats to defeat the president's desire to have the act repealed.

All of which is illuminating, says the Winnipeg Tribune. It is very good evidence that President Taft proposed reciprocity in order to use Canada as a means of strengthening his administration and to pull the Republican party out of the hole into which his leadership has trashed it. Reciprocity has been a plaything of American politics ever since. The Democrats are not committed to it, since their revenue tariff policy makes reciprocity unnecessary as a party principle. If they are supporting reciprocity it is for the sole purpose of keeping the Taft administration in a dilemma. The Republicans were for Reciprocity when they believed it would aid their party; they are denouncing it now that reciprocity is discovered to be a poor political asset.

Meanwhile, Liberal reciprocity organs in Canada are continuing to assert that the people of the United States are deeply grieved at the failure of Canada to endorse reciprocity and are determined to leave nothing undone to induce the Canadian farmers to step in and conquer the American market for his products. It is disconcerting to discover the American politicians spoiling the effect of this pretty picture of unselfish regard for Canada.

Editorial Notes

A witness for the State in a New York criminal case evidently has more to fear than the prisoner.

"Give me my wife and baby and the old farm and I will be content," says Dr. Wiley. They must have struck oil on the farm.

When burglars in New York rob policemen and policemen murder their partners in the gambling business, the inference is the reform wave has yet struck the town.

The Examiner warns its readers "never to put ice in your drinks; cool them by standing on ice." This great family journal might remark that this is surely a sure way of getting cold feet.

A women's society has been formed with the object of having all classes of women, single or married, called madame. Even if this custom becomes universal this g. f. j. is of the opinion that some married men would still persist in calling their wives "dearie" and the hired girl "Darling."

There is only one man who has any right in the world to hope for the best and that is the man who has worked for it. The lazy, easy-going way of expecting that things will turn out all right when we have done nothing to help them along is usually doomed to disappointment.

Nasal Discharge Proves Catarrh is Active.

THE PURE BALSAMIC ESSENCES OF CATARRHOZONE AFFORD SUREST AND QUICKEST CURE.

Catarrhozone is certain to cure because its healing vapor is carried with the breath directly to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences, it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the ejection of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing winter ills—that's what thousands say about Catarrhozone. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog or damp can affect them—let them get Catarrhozone and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS.

"I was unfortunate enough to catch a bad cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head" writes Miss Nora E. Jemieson, well known in Sangre Grande, Td. "An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhozone and sent to Smith Bros. drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhozone cleared out my nostrils cured the sneezing, coughing, and all traces of catarrh."

Large size Catarrhozone, sufficient for two months' use, guaranteed price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations and substitutors, and insist on getting "Catarrhozone" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

ONCE A ROMAN CATHOLIC, ALWAYS A ROMAN CATHOLIC

(Editor Morning Times).

Ne Temere and the ecclesiastical explanations that go with it lay it down in so many plain words that since the Church says, "Once a Catholic always a Catholic," therefore any former Catholic who comes to the State asking for protection cannot get in defiance of the Church. The Church includes in this word "Catholic" not only attendants at its services, but all those "validly baptized" or whom it chooses to consider so. It claims the right to punish all these. In a word, the Church defies the State and apparently successfully so. The very moment the State is unable to protect any part of its people that appeal to it that moment it has broken down. Has it broken down? Is the Church of Rome or any other Church, then, to triumph over the will of the people? Is the cry of a woman to the State to protect her and her children to be ignored because a Church commands it? Provincial autonomy of course cannot be violated. But neither can the laws of nature, and above all our sense of natural justice. This is a case of natural justice, surely.

AUTO BUS NEEDED.

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—I saw by The Times that there was no regular 'bus line on between the city and Chemong Park. I understand that a 'bus had been put on for July and August, but I must have been misinformed.

I think the time has arrived when a first-class motor car on this road should be installed, and I for one would be willing to become a stockholder to the extent of a few hundred dollars, provided a first class car be secured, with the maker's guarantee. If the right parties could be induced to take the matter up, I am satisfied the required capital could easily be secured.

RAISE THE LICENSE

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—The Times appears to be the only paper in Peterborough not afraid to call a spade by its proper name. It is entirely through your widely-read newspaper that the cheap theatres in the city were forced to alter their tactics in regard to overcrowding.

Now, sir, a large number of people are of opinion that we have too many of these catch-penny shows, and would favor putting up the license so that their number may be reduced at least two-thirds. Will The Times do this for the people? The city cannot afford to maintain so many of these playhouses, which absorb all the loose change in the community, especially from the children. The Council will be lax in its duty if it does not take action as above suggested.

I hope others will take this matter up through The Times.

New Nationalism Adopts Abstinence As Blow At Country's Oppressors

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 9.—All Poland will give up smoking and use the money saved to fight the oppressors, Prussia, Russia and Austria. "Our national honor demands this sacrifice," said the projectors.

At the present time the Poles spend for tobacco in various forms seven marks ($1.75) per annum per head. There are four million Poles in Prussia alone. They hope to save three hundred million marks by abstaining from tobacco in ten years.

"This abstinence will benefit Poles in their health, and will materially reduce the incomes of the several States that govern us, for if so many millions stop smoking, the tobacco tax must be materially reduced."

TWO CATHEDRALS MAY COLLAPSE

Architects Warn of Danger To Historic Structures

MAY BE TAKEN DOWN

Architects Warn of Danger to Historic Structures of Milan — Napoleon's Facade to Milan Cathedral is Crumbling and May Have To Come Down.

Milan, Aug. 9.—Milan and Como cathedrals have been declared by experts to be in imminent danger of the collapse of their respective facades.

The Milan facade was added to the gorgeous sixteenth century pile by the first Napoleon, who, as though he realized that his power was too mighty to endure long, insisted that it should be rushed up within a brief specified period. Hence this part of the grand gothic cathedral was jerry built in a hybrid Renaissance style, with unselected marbles, most of which are so soft and so badly set together that twenty years later serious signs of decay appeared, which necessitated periodical clamping with iron.

During the last fifty years various projects have been entertained by the civil authorities for the demolition of the facade and its entire reconstruction in harmony with the rest of Milan's noble national monument. Indeed, a definite design was approved by the government a few years ago, but the opinions of the experts were too conflicting, and popular opposition too intense, to render such a solution feasible.

Since then the prospect of a collapse has become very grave, and a resolution has just been taken to demolish the upper part of the facade immediately.

It is reckoned that the work of demolition will occupy the next four months.

After the Milan Cathedral and the world renowned Certosa at Pavia, the Como Cathedral front presents the finest example of Lombard architecture of its kind extant. Constructed of black and white marble, it has been gradually bulging outward for nearly a century, until a large section now protrudes well nigh three feet out of the perpendicular. Much money has been expended from time to time in commissions, expert consultations and reports to the utter neglect of any effective action.

Architects say that the facade is likely to come down with a crash at any moment, in which case they fear it may involve the destruction of a large portion of the nave of the cathedral, to which it is affixed by huge metal clamps.

FOR SALLOW, BLOTCHY, ROUGH OR GREASY SKINS

(From Woman's Tribune).

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt—especially in warm weather—making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or more and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggist's, is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy. Mix ½ pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered saxolite and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

Early Table Manners.

Strict etiquette was observed at the table long before forks made an appearance. The fork came into common use in the seventeenth century, but gold and silver ones existed in the thirteenth century. Edward I., for instance, could boast of six silver forks and a gold one, and Piers Gaveston possessed three for use in eating pears. These, however, were exceptions. The ordinary individual dining out found only a trencher, a napkin and spoons laid before him. His knife he brought with him in a case. A new course meant no clean spoon. There was bread to hand, and the guest was expected to use his ingenuity and clean his spoon as best he might. Those were the days of the expert carver in attendance.—London Chronicle.

Royal Gamblers.

The fascination which games of chance have exercised over gentle and simple is well illustrated in the description by Stow of the entertainment given by Henry Picard, mayor of London, in 1357, when the kings of France and Scotland, being prisoners in England, and the king of Cyprus on a visit to Edward III., the mayor kept his hall against all comers that were willing to play at dice and hazard. "The Lady Margaret, his wife, did keepe her chamber to the same intent." The mayor, having won 50 marks from the king of Cyprus, returned him the money, saying, "My lord and king, be not aggrieved, for I covet not your gold, but your play."

Big Spending.

New Westminster, B.C., has been doing some shopping. The other day the people of the coast city appropriated the cool sum of $1,190,000 for certain improvements, of which the city long has been in need. Half a million dollars was set aside to initiate some great works on the river front. There was a great deal of trepidation whether the harbor bylaw would go through. But it did; score 681 votes for, 108 against. A new, big, modern city hospital costing $200,000, and a gas plant costing $225,000 are other additions provided for New Westminster's equipment.

The Judge and "Barmaids Blush."

Judicial ignorance is generally assumed, but there are occasions when a judge is honestly lacking in knowledge. The other day a witness in an Australian court casually mentioned that a certain thing occurred just after he had a "barmaid's blush." Judge and counsel were for the moment "stuck up" by this hitherto unheard of phrase, but the fact was gradually elicited that it meant a drink compounded of beer and raspberry vinegar.—London Chronicle.

Ladies' Orchestra.

"The English Ladies' Orchestral Society is a full band of women only, consisting of wood, wind, and brass instruments, as well as strings. It plays for charities, and has handed to them considerably over $10,000 since its foundation in 1883. It is an amateur society."

Prize Plumes.

Fancy prices have recently been paid for prize winning ostrich plumes in South Africa, the highest being $487 a pound, far above the ordinary market value.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

TYPHOID NOW ABATING

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—From present indications the typhoid epidemic at the capital shows signs of abatement, only 20 new cases being reported by Dr. Sheriff yesterday, as compared with from 40 to 80 on previous days during the past week. The abatement is reported to be due to the fact that for about 12 days the water has been comparatively pure. Yesterday, however, slight contamination was again reported, and the citizens were advised to boil their drinking water.

THE REGENCY BALL.

London For a Night Went Back to Good Old Days.

English society witnessed a brief reincarnation of the joyous extravagant days of the Regency, last month, when the Albert Hall, London, was the scene of the greatest and most brilliant ball of the season—a most successful attempt to revive the sartorial glories of the age of the Dandies, of "bucks" and beaux, of mincing macaronis and wonderfully-dressed fops, of powder and patches and poke bonnets. The "Hundred Years Ago" ball, as it was styled consisted of a series of beautifully-schemed quadrilles such as were danced in the days when the vicious, heartless, and grossly licentious Prince Regent, afterward George IV. of infamous memory, "the first gentleman in Europe," held his dissolute and drunken court at the Pavilion, Brighton, with his morganatic, but excellent wife, the beautiful Mrs. Fitzherbert. His life has supplied as much foul material for scandal as any in English history. Thackeray bitterly describes a buckle he invented as his single contribution to the riches of the world. But there was a certain charm about those hazy illusive days of a century ago. Society was virile and on the whole wholesomely gay, notwithstanding the profligacy of "the fount of honor" and the arbiter of fashion. Waterloo was three years distant in the future, but the long life-and-death struggle with Napoleon had cast over the land a tinge of chivalry and of heroic patriotism.

The waltz had just made its appearance in the salons of London but had not become popular. The stately minuet and the ancient English gavotte were departing into oblivion. The quadrille was supreme. The presentation of the life of a hundred years ago, correctly staged as to dress, manners, and environment, formed a great and delightful spectacle. The dresses rivalled one another in splendor. Among the richer types the most beautiful were the regal-looking Napoleonic dresses, with rich gold embroidery and ermine trimming, but the charm of Arcadian simplicity was not missing. Naturally in that period of strife, social gatherings took on a military aspect, and, at the Albert Hall, the beautiful costumes of the ladies mingled with the brilliant uniforms of every nation in Europe and the extravagant modes of the Dandies. The "famous gardens at Vauxhall, the celebrated Almack's, the club where Pitt and Sheridan and Charles Fox and many more drank deep and gambled recklessly, the splendid regiments of the time and other characteristic features of the "merry past," were commemorated in the naming of the different quadrilles. The famous men and women, who cast lustre on that period of England's history, were represented to the life. The "Iron Duke" of Wellington was a prominent figure in the "Waterloo" quadrille, as were also the intellectual Madame de Steel, the "Rousseau in petticoats," and the Duchess of Richmond, who gave the celebrated ball at Brussels, two nights before the battle of Waterloo, when "there was a sound of revelry by night," interrupted by the note of dread reality, "the cannon's opening roar." The energy and good haste of the organizers of this memorable ball and the enthusiasm of the participants resulted in an unqualified success.

"Three Bloomin' Knights."

In addition to painting many famous pictures, Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema designed scenes and costumes on several occasions for some of the leading actors and actresses of the day, and there is a story of a stage hand who was reading a preliminary announcement of a production of "Coriolanus" at the Lyceum. The following words appeared in the notice: "Coriolanus—Sir Henry Irving. Incidental music by Sir A. C. Mackenzie. Scenes designed by Sir L. Alma-Tadema." "There y'are," remarked the stage hand, in a disdainful tone, to a fellow-employe; "three bloomin' knights, and that's about as long as it will run."

Albanians' Queer Duels.

Albanians used to practice a peculiar form of dueling. Sir Richard Burton, who once commanded a corps of bashi-bazouks, writes that "the Albanian contingent, who generally fight when they are drunk, had a peculiar style of monomachy. The principals, attended by their seconds and by all their friends, stood close opposite, each holding a cocked pistol in his right hand and a glass of raki or spirits of wine in the left. The first to drain his draft had the right to fire and generally blazed away with fatal effect. It would have been useless to discourage this practice, but I insisted on fair play."

Sons of Clergymen.

An English newspaper, noting the fact that Wilbur Wright was the son of a clergyman, agrees with a French authority that clergymen's sons have played an enormous part in the history of the British nation. A few names picked out at hazard are Nelson, Tennyson, Dryden, Coleridge, Cecil Rhodes, Sir Christopher Wren, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Matthew Arnold, Brontes and the Wesleys. John Galsworthy, one of the foremost English writers of the present, is also the son of a clergyman.

Cleverly Evaded.

A wealthy Australian squatter in order to protect his six daughters from fortune hunters left his property to them in equal shares, but decreed that if either of them married without the consent of the trustees she should forfeit her share to her sisters. When the case came up at Sydney it was found that all six sisters had all married without permission and thus each had forfeited her share in the property to her sisters, a state of affairs which the ladies doubtless considered highly satisfactory.

A Poet Successful and Lazy.

Aspirants to success who are discouraged by the very early rising of Cole and Kant should think of the successful poet Thomson and be comforted, for Thomson was one of the laziest men that ever lived and seldom rose before noon.

And yet in "The Seasons" he managed to give us one of our finest descriptions of a sunrise. It is said of him that he would eat the sunny side off the peaches in his garden with his hands in his pockets, but even such [illegible]

TIED UP IN RED TAPE

SOME BLUNDERS THAT COME FROM TOO MUCH SYSTEM.

Army, Navy and Other Services In the Empire Have Occasional Farcical Episodes Arising Out of Absurd Actions of Officials—Lists of Spare Parts Hard to Secure — Had to Prove He Was Alive.

An example of army red-tape has come to light so extraordinary that it is worthy of comment, not because any issue whatever is concerned, but on account of the fine sample it affords of the brand of tape still kept in stock. In the matter of red-tape the Ordinance Department have always been hard to beat, and it is only seemly that the present choice piece should emanate from the Ordinance yard at Woolwich.

Each Territorial unit that possesses a Maxim gun is supposed to be also in possession of a spare-part box. Inside the lid of this box is pasted a paper, on which the contents thereof are set forth in print. From time to time additions and erasures have had to be made to this list to keep it up to date. Recently the Ordinance people were beset with the happy inspiration of printing a revised list. All that was necessary was to send this bit of paper round to each unit in possession of a spare-part box, so that it might be pasted in position.

But that is not the way they do things in the A.O.D. They prefer to publish abroad in Army Orders that such a list has been printed, and that units must apply—through the usual channels and in triplicate—for the bit of paper.

First of all in the orderly-room the requisition has to be made out in triplicate and signed (in triplicate) by the colonel, it must then be forwarded, with a covering official letter, to the brigadier, who, after minuting it, sends it to the divisional commander, who also minutes it, and sends it to the General Officer commanding the district, who sends it (with a minute, of course,) to Woolwich. Then the paper indented for is sent back through the same channels, and duly get stuck inside the lid of the spare-part box. Cost in stamps 8d., and in labor some ninety minutes of various clerks and senior staff officers.

The whole thing could have been done better and in infinitely less time by sticking the paper in a halfpenny envelope and posting it direct to all units possessed of spare-part boxes.

This, of course, is by no means the first occasion upon which the army officials have so distinguished themselves; they have a glorious record of comic absurdities!

That, for example, was a smart piece of work which happened in Dublin a year or two ago. A certain cavalry regiment stationed there was conducting one of their annual pioneer instruction classes. Part of the week consisted of building temporary bridges, the material used being principally poles, lashed together by rope.

At the commencement of the class no poles were in stock, so some were applied for from the Engineer Department, Chatham. This department replied that poles were to be purchased locally, which was accordingly done; but the articles so obtained had to be shipped to Chatham for issue to the troops. So that after they were received in Dublin they were shipped at the North Wall for Chatham, and there transhipped and sent back to Dublin for use, arriving a week after the class for which they had been intended had been dismissed

The last South African war was responsible for an enormous display of red tape. One of the most amusing instances concerned the fitting-up of troopships to take "Tommy" to the front. A certain amount of air-space was specified for each man, but in some of the ships utilized the space in the cabins and steerage slightly exceeded the specifications. One would imagine that this was a fault on the right side, but for some reason for which nobody understood, false ceilings had to be put up to reduce the air space to Government allowance per man.

An Indian Government official once had a most extraordinary experience of red-tape methods, and which he thought was "going a bit too far." He had been "on leave to the hills," invalided, for over three months, but owing to the exacting formalities of the Accounts Department he had been unable to procure the necessary requisites to complete the forms for drawing his salary for that period.

These being at last sent in for sanction, imagine his chagrin when, in course of time, an order for June's pay only was received, accompanied by the information that he had only sent in a certificate stating that he was alive on the 1st of July, and that, before sanction for the drawing of his salary for the previous two months, a certificate signed by the medico of the station must be submitted, proving that he was alive on the 1st June and 1st May respectively!

A gallant officer in a famous corps managed to get even with "the powers that be" upon one occasion. Having been despatched by the authorities on important business, he sent in a claim to Whitehall for about $200. Among the items appeared, "Cab 2s. 6d.; porter, 3d." After much delay and the bandying of many documents, he was told that his claim could not be paid as it stood commissariat expenses not being allowed.

The officer explained that "porter" referred to a man, not to drinks; then after more delay, he received another red-tape missive to say that the item in that case should have been entered as "porterage," and that his only course was to make out another and correct list. Determined to be in the right this time, the officer's next claim appeared before My Lords as: "Porter or porterage, 3d.; cab or cabbage, 2s. 6d."

Sartorial Discord.

Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood was greatly attached to a regiment of highlanders when the latter were stationed at Portsmouth. Sir Evelyn, then a captain, one day returned from London and with great hurry proceeded to array himself for parade. When he at last emerged he observed that his men were evidently at great pains to conceal their laughter, and he quietly questioned his subaltern as to the probable reason. "Well, sir," replied the latter, "you are dressed correctly as to kilt, sporran and all the rest of it, but you have forgotten to remove your tail half!"

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

A FEW FACTS OF INTEREST

The Acadia Trust Company Limited, was incorporated November 26, 1911, with an authorized capital of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, which is now being increased to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00); and the charter granted by this Province covers all business profitable to a Trust Company.

Trust Companies, under the B. C. Act, are required to render quarterly statements to the Minister of Finance, giving very detail of their assets and liabilities, thus affording absolute security to investors and depositors.

THE GROTESQUE MANTIOS.

Desperate Fighters Are Among These "Praying" Insects.

The grotesque mantis is a saintly-looking insect, yet his object is to prey rather than to pray. For hours together it will assume an attitude of innocence and quietness, its forelegs raised as if in supplication, and not until some unwary fly or other insect approaches would a watcher realize the object of its quaint posture. Then with a dart the mantis seizes its victim which is soon devoured. It is easily explained, for the mantis is carnivorous, requiring food such as grasshoppers, flies and caterpillars, but being slow of foot has to depend upon craft in capturing its quarry. Its saintly attitude while awaiting the coming of some victim has given rise to the common names of "praying insects," and "soothsayers."

Even the Greeks endowed the mantis with supernatural powers, and in Nubia the Hottentots regard these insects with the greatest reverence. Should one alight on a Hottentot the man is at once considered as selected of heaven and becomes a saint; but woe unto the native who kills a mantis; he becomes no longer a skilled hunter and is ill-fated until the end of his days. Turks and Arabs contend that these insects are in constant prayer, with their faces ever turned toward Mecca. France, Portugal, America and many other countries provide similar superstitions, all of which have doubtless arisen from the quiet demeanor and devout attitude serving to disguise the highly predaceous character of these insects.

It is interesting to note that the Chinese have better realized their true character. In that ancient country the mantids are kept in bamboo cages and matched like fighting cocks. Such a thing is quite possible, for should two female mantis meet a fight is tolerably certain. By means of their powerful forelegs they are able to strike tremendous blows, and with these weapons they engage in fierce combat, the result often being that the weaker of the two has one or more of its limbs severed by one successful stroke of the enemy, or even its body may be cut through.

The male mantis has a difficult task on hand when wooing his mate. She is both larger and stronger than he, and should his advances not prove favorable he rarely has the opportunity of retreating; for while she will not accept him as her lover, she takes care that he does not become the husband of another of her species by killing him as a final act of refusal and then dining off his remains. Cannibalism is a common feature with these insects, but this is practicing it in its worst form.

Cutlery.

"I call 'em the cutlery family."

"Why so?"

"Well, the daughter spoons, the father forks out the money and the mother knifes the other guests."

His Profession.

"There goes a man whose life is nothing but one long regret."

"Mercy! How sad! What is he?"

"An editor."

HARDY SERI INDIANS.

They Can Outrun a Horse and Go For Days Without Food.

From an ethnological standpoint one of the strangest peoples in the western hemisphere is that tribe known as the Seri Indians, living in the western part of the state of Sonora, Mexico, along the shore of the gulf of California and on the island of Tiburon in that gulf.

From time immemorial Seriland has remained practically unexplored, partly because it lies behind a desert barrier and partly on account of the warlike reputation of its fierce and bloodthirsty inhabitants.

These Indians are of superb physique, able to run down fleet game and to capture half wild Mexican horses without rope or projectiles; able to run across the desert, waterless and foodless, so rapidly as to escape pursuing horsemen; able to abstain from food and water for days; able habitually to pass barefoot through cactus thickets and over jagged rock slopes without thought of discomfort.

They speak a distinct language and strictly practice monogamous marriage. Their hatred for alien peoples is hereditary. The remains of ancient ruins in Seriland indicate that the inhabitants have always kept their country free from foreign invasion and that for centuries their customs and arts, which are crude and simple, have remained unchanged.—Detroit Free Press.

TENDER FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WIRE FENCE.

TENDERS addressed to W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., marked "Tender for Wire Fence," will be received up till 12 o'clock noon of the 20th August, 1912, for the construction of a wire fence around Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, situate on sections 16 and 17, township [illegible] range 3, west of the 2nd meridian.

The length of the fence is estimated at [illegible] miles, more or less, but the Department reserves the right to extend or lessen the mileage should it be found necessary, and payment to be made on the exact measurement of the fence constructed.

Each tender must be accompanied by a sample of the wire and lock.

Each tender must also be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank, in favour of the Deputy Minister of the Interior, for ten per cent. of the amount of the tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering decline the contract, or fail to complete the work contracted for; but will be returned in case the tender is not accepted.

Further particulars, including sketch and specification, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., or from the Chief Supt. of Dominion Parks, Edmonton, Alta., or from the [illegible] of Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, [illegible] Sask.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
P. G. KEYES,
Secretary.

Department of the Interior,
Ottawa, July 10, 1912.

Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for. [illegible]

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Breakwater at Port Arthur, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4 p.m., Wednesday, August 28, 1912, for the construction of a Breakwater at Port Arthur, Thunder Bay and Rainy River District, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and F. [illegible], Esq., District Engineer, Port Arthur, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

THACKERAY AT OXFORD.

A Jolt to the Author's Fame and an Awful Libel on Punch.

The ignorance of the scholar concerning what is going on in the world around him is proverbial. But a story of Thackeray's own telling gives an astonishing instance of "cloistered ignorance" at Oxford in the last century. Thackeray, it seems, was to lecture at Oxford and, according to custom, had first to get the vice chancellor's license to do so. This is the conversation that occurred, as the novelist reported it:

Vice Chancellor—Pray, sir, what can I do for you?

Thackeray—My name is Thackeray.

Vice Chancellor—So I see by this card.

Thackeray—I seek permission to lecture within your precincts.

Vice Chancellor—Ah! You are a lecturer. What subjects do you undertake, religious or political?

Thackeray—Neither. I am a literary man.

Vice Chancellor—Have you written anything?

Thackeray—Yes. I am the author of "Vanity Fair."

Vice Chancellor—I presume a dissenter. Has that anything to do with John Bunyan's book?

Thackeray—Not exactly. I have also written "Pendennis."

Vice Chancellor—Never heard of these works, but no doubt they are proper books.

Thackeray—I have also contributed to Punch.

Vice Chancellor—Punch? I have heard of that. Is it not a ribald publication?

Blind Workers First.

It was the recruit's first fire. A piano factory was burning. Said the battalion chief to the recruit:

"Find out where the tuning room is and make for that."

The recruit obeyed. Afterward he asked why.

"Because during working hours you are likely to find several blind men there," said the chief. "Many piano tuners are blind, and in case of fire they need first help in getting out. When fighting fire in a piano factory always bear that in mind."—New York Press.

Good Enough as It Is.

"Doctor, if a pale young man named Jinks calls on you for a prescription don't let him have it."

"Why not?"

"He wants something to improve his appetite, and he boards at my house."

An Obstructed Order.

Owens—How do you do, Mr. Shears? What can you show me in the way of a new suit today?

His Tailor—Your bill, sir. That is decidedly in the way of a new suit.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Wharf and Approach at Parry Sound, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4 p.m., Monday, August 26, 1912, for the construction of a Wharf and Approach at Parry Sound, District of Parry Sound, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; H. J. Lamb, Esq., District Engineer, Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Parry Sound, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, July 30, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.—23468.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption, six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TIMBER FOR SALE.

TENDERS will be received up to and including the first day of October 1912, for the right to cut white and red pine and spruce, on two timber berths on the upper waters of the Jocko River east of the townships of Garrow and Lockhart, in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, the berths being designated "Jocko No. I." and "Jocko No II." each containing twenty-five square miles more or less.

For maps and conditions of sale apply to the undersigned.

GERMANY AND ALSACE.

A Very Suspicious Doll and a Ruse That Saved a Life.

For many years after it was taken over by the Germans the province of Alsace had many difficulties. Every possible precaution was taken to guard against any demonstration of the French national spirit, and, though the children were allowed to learn the language of their ancestors, they were not allowed to be taught it by French instructors. The following instances indicate the extent to which the Government carried its practice of watching the people.

A little girl was seen playing with a doll which was dressed in red, white and blue. The suspicions of the official were aroused, for it certainly was dreadful to see the power of the German empire so boldly threatened. The child was tracked to its home, and there the officer learned that the doll was a present. He immediately proceeded to the woman who had given it to the child and obtained the address of the shop where the dangerous plaything had been bought. It was a modest little establishment, but the officer found it at last and then discovered that the doll had been made and dressed in Leipzig. This was a surprise, but the matter did not end here, for the manufacturer in Leipzig was officially requested not to send any more red, white and blue dolls to Alsace.

The other story is that two Germans were walking one cold day on the banks of a large pond when one of them fell in. He could not swim and screamed for aid. The other, who was an officer, did not feel inclined to take so cold a plunge and calmly watched the struggles of the sinking man. All at once the man in the water began to sing a verse of the "Marseillaise," and the officer jumped in forthwith, for his strict orders were to arrest any person whom he heard singing that famous song. The unfortunate citizen was imprisoned for eight months, but that was better than drowning.

An Enviable Job.

"Why do you say he has a good job? He's only a stationary fireman."

"I know. But he's a fireman in an ice plant. He can keep warm in the winter and cool off in the summer."

Epigrams In Japan.

The Japanese are great admirers of epigrams and apt phrases. Their love of such things is carried so far that when a guest says something unusually brilliant the host or hostess will beg him to write down his remark in large ornamental script. The sentence is then mounted and hung on the wall as a permanent addition to its ornaments, much as in England we should hang up a text or motto. Naturally the author of a bonmot treated in this way feels himself highly honored to be thus placed on record. But the sentences are selected more for their wisdom than their humor, so that the funny man is not much in evidence.

Things Unprintable.

Willie—Mother always carves when we have company to dinner. Bobby—Isn't your father able to? Willie—Guess he ain't able to without sayin' things.—Boston Transcript.

Don't express a positive opinion unless you perfectly understand what you are talking about.

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

Strength Returns, Health Renewed, Vitality of Youth Re-created.

Exhaustion and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned Into Vigor, and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Chebogue Pt., N. S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds: "A year ago my health began to fail. I lost appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down. I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and had black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me, and when spring time arrived I was in the 'blues.' I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Had Too Much Booze.

Harry Peters and Brock Wright faced Acting Magistrate Adams at the Police Court yesterday charged with disorderly conduct. A fine of $2.00 and costs, amounting to $5.75 in each case, was imposed.

A Snapping Turtle.

A large snapping turtle was captured yesterday on the river bank, just east of the Otonabee bridge. It afforded amusement for the boys, seizing sticks which were thrown at it, in a vicious manner. It was finally allowed to escape to the river.

Made Final Arrangements.

The members of the T.A.S. Camping party have completed arrangements for their weeks' camp at Jubilee Point. The anglers' cottage has been fitted up with all conveniences and implements necessary to camping and fishing. The boys will leave this evening for the spot and any visitors will be welcome.

The Times Reaches the Farmer.

The Times is rapidly gaining a large circulation in the country districts, especially where rural mail routes exist. The time is at hand, when the advertiser must recognize that only through intelligent newspaper publicity is he securing value for his money. The local merchant who does not use The Times, hardly knows what he is missing.

Local Horses for Cobourg.

A number of well known Peterborough horses will figure in the Cobourg Horse Show on Monday next. Following is the complete list:

Mr. W. Reid's black mare.

Mr. G. Graham's imported hackney.

Mr. G. White's team of ponies.

Mr. Stenson's black horse.

Mr. J. J. Turner's chestnut horse.

The New Rifle Range.

The Dominion Government having decided to purchase a rifle range for the use of the local regiment, there will likely be an instructor appointed. This will create interest in rifle practice.

The new range has not yet been definitely selected, but it will no doubt be in as close proximity to the city as possible, so that it may be easily and quickly accessible.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

Stoney Lake Regatta, twenty-five races, five silver cups, ninety prizes. Dance in the evening with Opera House Orchestra in attendance. Stoney Lake Navigation Steamers leave Regatta at 4 p.m. and 11 p.m. to connect with special train arriving at Peterborough at 12.30 a.m.

Left for Kingston.

Mr. James Stevenson, organizer for the Trades and Labor organization of Ontario, who has been spending a few days in the city in the interests of the Labor Congress to be held at Guelph next month, left for Kingston yesterday. Before leaving he called on The Times office and presented us with a neatly bound volume containing the labor laws of the country.

Masquerade Party.

A delightful masquerade party was held last night at Chemong Park, Mrs. Hughes-Charles, of Montreal, being the charming hostess, ably assisted by Miss Archer. The cottage was handsomely illuminated with Chinese lanterns. Unfortunately the rain kept many invited guests from attending, but those who were present spent a most enjoyable evening.

Moonlight on Tuesday Evening.

The moonlight excursion, per steamer "Stoney Lake," postponed last Friday night owing to rain, will be run on Tuesday evening next. The Opera House orchestra will be in attendance. This annually recurring event is always an enjoyable affair, and the trip on Tuesday will unquestionably prove no exception to the rule. Boat leaves Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock sharp, calling at the street railway landing.

The Accident to Our Press.

The large Potter press on which The Times is printed, met with an accident on Thursday, and this accounts for the way the paper is being folded. We ask the indulgence of our readers for a few days until the repairs which have been ordered reach us from New York. Fortunately our press room is equipped with a number of fast cylinder presses, none of which, however, are large enough to print our daily edition, except in sections. This makes proper folding impossible. We hope by the middle of next week to be in good running shape again.

Troubles in the Home.

There has been trouble brewing in the Protestant Home for some time, which culminated on Wednesday by the resignation of the Matron, Miss Webster, and her brother, who is her assistant. It is said that the Board requested Miss Webster and her assistant to take their meals at the same table with the inmates, and one or two circumstances of a similar nature brought on the trouble. It is understood the inmates feel keenly the circumstances which occasioned the resignation of the two officials, and they stand ready to attach their signatures calling for their reinstatement should the occasion present itself.

A Quiet Wedding.

The wedding was quietly solemnized at Knox Church Manse yesterday afternoon, in the presence of witnesses of Miss Queenie Mary Barrett of Peterborough, to Mr. Frederick William Gray, formerly of Sheffield, England, and now of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. J. Keith. Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside in Peterborough.

Purse and Man Gone.

Mr. Arthur Emberson, a farmer living near Bensfort, a few days ago engaged a new hired man. A day or two ago Mr. Emberson's purse containing a sum of money, and his umbrella had disappeared. Investigation subsequently revealed the fact that the new assistant had also departed.

SLEEP

Did you, sleepless one, ever try a dish of GRAPE-NUTS and CREAM just before bed?

Sure you never did or you wouldn't train with the "sleepless squad."

IT'S A BAD PRACTICE to load up the stomach with a promiscuous variety of rich, indigestible food at night because it "tastes" good.

STRENGTH WITHOUT BULK is a requirement of an ideal food for the last bite before going to bed. The food that is concentrated so that a sufficient amount for all purposes will not distend the stomach; that food that is practically pre-digested so the organs can, without undue effort, absorb it wholly; the food that contains the tissue-repairing and energy-making elements from clean field grains—that contains the Phosphate of Potash which combines, by vital process, with Albumen to repair the gray matter in brain and nerve centres—that's

Grape-Nuts

TRY A DISH—about four heaping tablespoonfuls with cream and a little sugar if desired, eaten slowly before retiring, if you're hungry, and note how well you sleep and how fresh you feel in the morning.

GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP.

No Medicine so Beneficial to Brain and Nerves.

Lying awake nights makes it hard to keep awake and do things in daytime. To take "tonics and stimulants" under such circumstances is like setting the house on fire to see if you can put it out.

The right kind of food promotes refreshing sleep at night and a wide-awake individual during the day.

A lady changed from her old way of eating to Grape-Nuts and says:

"For about three years I had been a great sufferer from indigestion. After trying several kinds of medicine, the doctor would ask me to drop off potatoes, then meat, and so on, but in a few days that craving, gnawing feeling would start up and I would vomit everything I ate and drank.

"When I started on Grape-Nuts vomiting stopped, and the bloating feeling which was so distressing disappeared entirely.

"My mother was very much bothered with diarrhoea before commencing the Grape-Nuts, because her stomach was so weak she could not digest her food. Since using Grape-Nuts she is well and says she don't think she could live without it.

"It is a great brain-restorer and nerve-builder, for I can sleep as sound and undisturbed after a supper of Grape-Nuts as in the old days when I could not realize what they meant by a "bad stomach." There is no medicine so beneficial to nerves and brain as a good night's sleep, such as you enjoy after eating Grape-Nuts."

Regimental Drill Next Month.

The fall drill of the 57th Regiment will begin in September. Already Col. Clegg and the subordinate officers are preparing to bring the regiment up to its full strength. It is expected that a number of innovations will be introduced into the programme, among which will be weekly lectures by men specially selected from the permanent force. Sergeant Instructor McKay will, as usual, have charge of the recruit class in addition to a class composed of non-commissioned officers. Sergeant McKay is specially qualified to look after this department as the manner in which he performed his duties last spring would indicate.

The new Dominion five dollar notes now in circulation, are pronounced a work of art. This great family journal is of opinion that one process of acquiring a quantity of them is also one of the fine arts.

It's a fine thing to be a farmer, you always have something to worry about. A while ago there was not enough rain; later there was too much, now when the crops are all fine and dandy there is not enough men to help with the harvest.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—There was another active inquiry for Manitoba spring wheat over the cable to-day, but the adjustment of prices with the stronger feeling in the Winnipeg market left buyers and sellers much as they were the previous day. Bids continue at just about the market and buyers showed no disposition to advance their offers. As a result little or no business was done from Montreal. Oats were also in good demand and with bids more in accord with local sellers' views a fair amount of business was transacted. Butter continues easy with receipts fairly large and the western trade slow. Cheese is firm and a good business in moderate sized lots is being done with foreign centres. Buyers, apparently in the hope that a lower level of prices will be reached are not taking more than necessary for immediate requirements, but locally the situation is considered firm, both on account of the shortage in exports for the year to date and the fact that stocks in store are only about half of what they usually are at this time of year.

Stamps in Rolls.

Large business concerns in Peterborough and elsewhere will be interested in learning that the Post Office Department has agreed to issue stamps in one and two-cent denominations in the form of rolls as well as in sheet form. There will be five hundred in a roll, and an extra charge of six cents per roll will be made to cover the cost of manufacture. This will prove a boon to industrial firms both as regards the saving of time and the prevention of pilfering. The action of the Department is due to repeated representations made by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The new rolls will be available about the first of September.

Post Office Meddlers.

The Globe complains because the postal authorities have compelled it to issue its Saturday supplement in the same-sized sheets as the rest of the paper, and it lays the blame upon the political party in power at Ottawa. The Guardian thinks that the complaint is legitimate, though it does not think there is any politics back of the action taken. For years the post-office department has subjected publishers to a multitude of changing, fussy regulations that did not seem to have any point or meaning to them. It always looked to it as if there were some people connected with that department who did not have enough legitimate work to do and spent part of their time "thinking up things."

But The Times would suggest that this meddling did not begin with the present administration.

Conditions are Changing.

With the inauguration of rural mail routes, radiating in every direction, the advertising conditions are rapidly changing. Business men no longer use posters to the extent of former years. They find the newspapers are much better as well as cheaper. The Times reaches all parts of the city and district the day of publication, and is the only paper that gets to those on the rural mail routes on time. It is the one paper that will keep the business man in close touch with the farmer, who usually has the money to pay for what he requires.

A number of Americans passed through Apsley Tuesday evening en route to M. Kennedy's cottage, Loon Lake.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BRITISH NAVY To Be Reconstructed and Reorganized | ASQUITH GOVT. Likely to Fall Before Many Days | WAR LORD'S VISIT To Canada Will Be Official One | ANOTHER PANAMA CANAL

CHURCHILL WILL SHOW HIMSELF AN EVANGELISL ON IMPERIAL SENTIMENT

Proposed Visit to Canada Will Not Be an Official One Merely—Cannot Announce Whether He Will Come or Not Until He Receives Invitation. Which Cannot Be Despatched Till After Borden's Return

London, Aug. 11.—Winston Churchill's visit to Canada as representative of the Imperial Cabinet and First Lord of the Admiralty, cannot be officially announced untill after the receipt of the invitation from the Canadian Cabinet. Such an invitation is not issued, however, until it is first ascertained if it is desired. It cannot well be dispatched until after Premier Borden's return to Canada. The British authorities are recognizing that such a visit will create an entirely new departure in Imperial relations and will establish precedents. They will carefully observe every etiquet in arranging the preliminary details. The visit will, however, certainly not be merely official. Mr. Churchill will constitute himself an evangelist of Imperial sentiment, and will make full and adequate appeal to the Canadian people.

TAFT WILL SIGN PANAMA BILL THOUGH OPPOSED TO IT

President Has Declared That Provisions of the Measure Does Not Meet with His Views — Interstate Commerce Commission Gets Increased Power

Washington, Aug. 12.—President Taft told several callers to-day that he expected to sign the Panama Canal bill, passed by the Senate yesterday, carrying provisions against the use of the canal by railroad owned ships and granting free tolls to American vessels. The President is said to have declared some of the provisions of the measure did not meet with his views entirely, but that he expected to approve it.

Railroad and legal experts in congress held the view to-day that the senate had authorized a highly important extension of the power of the interstate commerce commission in adopting the Bourne amendment to the Panama Canal bill.

The provision would authorize the commission to divorce competing railroad and steamship lines, whenever they were found to operate to the detriment of the public and would extend amendments of regulations over water route. Such control had long been desired by the interstate commission, but the water lines have never conceded the right of the commission to supervise their business or their relations with the railroads.

Little difficulty is anticipated in reconciling the differences between the senate and house on the bill.

A conference will be required, mainly to smooth out the literary structure of the bill, and for discussion of the senate amendment throwing open the canal to American ships engaged in foreign trade. The house bill favored free tolls for American ships engaged solely in coastwise trade, but withheld the privilege from those engaged in foreign commerce, on the ground that such discrimination would not be fair to the ships of the other nations.

Will Visit Canada For a Holiday

London, Aug. 12.—A large number of English people are going to Canada this summer for their holidays.

On the Mauretania, which leaves Liverpool for New York to-day will be the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, Lord Alistair Leveson-Gower, Lady Rosemary Leveson-Gower, Sir Phillip Sassoon, M.P., F. E. Smith, K.C., M.P., Ernest Craig, most of whom are going on to Canada.

COMPLETE RECONSTRUCTION OF BRITISH NAVY IS ASSURED

irst Lord of Admiralty Churchill Adopts Steps to Put Fleet on More Satisfactory Basis

London, Aug. 10.—Mr. Churchill decided upon an important step naval reform by the appointment a departmental committee with rd Fisher, formerly first sea lord, chairman, to investigate certain tal matters connected with the fleet. Some of the best armoured cruisers to be sent to Gibraltar. Facilities the more rapid promotion of officers are to be promised and better pay the men is foreshadowed.

This announcement will come as a surprise to many people who have not carefully watching the course of fairs.

The maintenance of a supreme navy of course, the real object. The first knows that a navy does not con of ships only. It must be a fleet ll distributed for strategic purposes above all, efficient officers and ed and contented men.

the first place there has never been any purpose of abandoning the Mediterranean. The fact should be fully realized. There has been a withdrawal to Gibraltar for specific reasons, and Mr. Churchill will say that the inland sea will have its proper floating defences for the maintenance of position and prestige. Some of our best armoured cruisers will make an appearance there. It is a mistake to suppose that their presence at Malta is an absolute necessity. Whether the question of docks will be a subject of investigation is not known.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

It is Said That R. C. Braund & Co. Are to Erect Large Structure.

The enterprising firm of Messrs. R. C. Braund & Co., are said to have purchased the south west corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, where they will erect a large business block. This well known and prosperous firm evidently have confidence in the progress and development of the city, and are willing to back up their faith in a substantial manner.

THE WEATHER.

To-day: Fair and Warmer.

If you're weary, tired and worried with the turmoil of the day,
Try a great big dish of Toasties—that will drive your cares away;
For Post Toasties serve to strengthen, and please the palate as well,
Food for both the mind and body—get the habit, time will tell.

Two Denominations Under One Roof

Prescott, Aug. 12.—The united congregations of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches worshipped yesterday morning in the Presbyterian Churches, and in the Methodist church in the evening.

Rev. Mr. Runnels of the Methodist church conducted both services.

Peterborough George Street Methodist, Murray Street Baptist and St. Paul's Presbyterian Churches propose to do this next season, in order to give their respective pastors a much needed holiday.

TO-DAY'S EVENTS

List of Events which are to Take Place To-day

Although there are many who will spend the day out of town a goodly number will enjoy themselves in the city at the numerous attractions.

From morning until evening there will be something doing all the time and nobody will have cause to complain of lack of amusement.

At Riverside Park there will be two Canadian League baseball games between London and Peterborough. The first will come off at 10 a.m. and the other at 2.30 p.m. The Exhibition grounds will be open at 1 p.m. The feature of the show will be two flights by Aviator Hemstrought in his Curtiss Aeroplane. His machine was put together on Saturday. It weighs 800 pounds and can travel through the air at the rate of 60 miles an hour, at which speed Mr. Hemstrought will run it. After each flight he will alight in front of the grand stand. The noted aviator arrived in the city on Saturday.

The entries for the horse races have been made and quite a number of fast horses have entered. The following horses have been billed for the following events.

2.35 Class—half-mile heats, for horses without a record. A horse unnamed, owned by George Curtis, Lindsay; Silver Pete, grey gelding, W. A. Fanning, Lindsay; Noble Alcove, bay stallion, H. Kendry, Peterborough; Hazel Brook, brown mare, Wm. Elmhurst, Keene.

Free-for-All Class—Luke Vernon, brown gelding, L. C. Bennett, Port Hope; Karo, chestnut mare, J. Waters, Port Hope; Susie Heal, black mare, W. G. Whittim, Peterborough; Zemma, chestnut mare, W. Towers, Dunnville.

2.18 Class—Harry Direct, bay gelding, Dr. T. Johnston, Peterborough; Lady Sphinx, chestnut mare, George Powell, Belleville; Patterson, bay gelding, W. W. Jones, Peterborough; unnamed horse, George Curtis, Lindsay; Axtell jr., brown gelding, Herb Kendry, Peterborough; Lulu Chimes, bay mare, J. McKiver, Peterborough; Clara Wilke, bay mare, J. Millenbank, Fisherville.

The races will be conducted under the National Trotting Association rules, three heats in five, the prizes to be divided, 50 per cent. to first, 25 to second, 15 to third and 10 to the fourth, so that the horse taking the latter place pays its entrance fee.

The members of the Turf Association who will have charge are J. M. Brooks, President; A. Rountree, secretary; R. Denne, treasurer, R. J. Munro and D. B. Dennis.

There will be two excursions out of the city on which many will go. St. Peter's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, and their families will spend the day down the river on the Rainbow. The Stoney Lake will take the Canadian Order of Foresters up the lakes.

TWO PROMINENT BULL MOOSERS.

ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE WILLIAM A. PRENDERGAST

Mr. Beveridge is the choice for temporary chairman of the Chicago Convention and Mr. Prendergast to nominate Colonel Roosevelt.

EDUCATION IN QUEBEC

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Active preparations are being made for a week's educational campaign to be undertaken throughout the English-speaking sections of Quebec, under the auspices of the Protestant Committee of the council of public education. This movement is non-sectarian and non-political, and it is being joined in by the various religious leaders, the political leaders and the education authorities of each district, where meetings will be held, and in this way it is hoped that the campaign will prove of real and lasting benefit in bringing home to the people of the various counties the need of a better educational system and especially the necessity of spending more money so as to secure a better qualified class of teachers. Quebec Province has always been away behind the other provinces in its educational methods, owing to the fact that the Church is supreme there. There is now on every hand, signs of discontent at present conditions, so that it is felt that great changes for the better are on the eve of development. The complete emancipation of the people from priestly domimition is regarded by many as only a question of time.

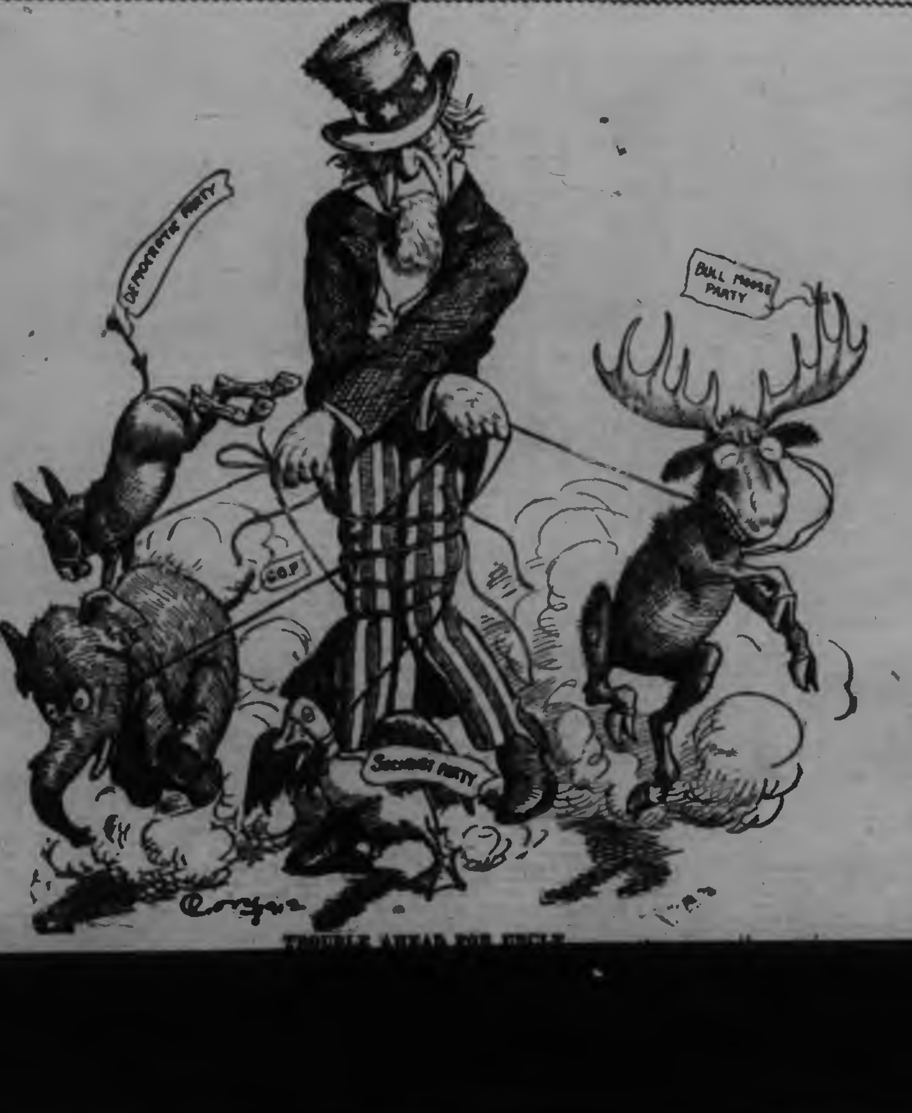
LET THE NATIONS BUILD ANOTHER PANAMA CANAL

If United States Persists in Policy to Discriminate in Favor of American Ships, is Suggestion of Sir Donald Mann

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Sir Donald Mann was asked what he thought of the action of the United States Senate in regard to the Panama Canal, and which in effect practically made the canal free to American ships and imposed tolls on foreign ones.

Sir Donald thought the action of the senate was ill-advised, but if congress persisted in that policy then he was prepared to suggest that all the other nations co-operate in building and maintaining for all time and free of toll a second or even a third canal at the Isthmus, and that at least two more easily possible, one some distance at Panama south of the present one now being constructed by the United States and one at Nicaragua. Both of these projects have been fully surveyed and all the calculations made and his idea was that one could be built for $100,000,000 and one for $150,000,000.

Sir Donald was asked if there was any treaty objections to other nations building these two canals. He said there was some kind of an agreement in the treaty covering the Panama Canal, but inasmuch as the Americans had seen fit to violate its obligations there would be equal liberty to nations for doing the same, and in that way the Canal could be built and maintained by governments other than that of the United States. He even went so far as to say that probably there would be enough commerce for both of these canals and that other nations could easily build them. Sir Donald was so jaunty over it that it looked as if he'd like to build one of the new ones himself.



TROUBLE AHEAD FOR UNCLE

CANADA'S NAVAL PROGRAM MODEL FOR SISTER STATES

London, Aug. 11.—It is understood that the British Admiralty have reached the agreement in principle with Hon. R. L. Borden, Canadian Premier, and his cabinet, as to the relations of Canada to the naval program of the Empire.

As the scheme of action is expected to serve as a model for the other self-governing dominions, it is a matter of the highest import.

Several alleged epitomes of the plan have been published, but all are considered premature and each has been declared semi-officially to be inaccurate.

Premier Borden and his lieutenants expect to sail from Bristol to Canada on Aug. 21. Probably the precise character of the arrangements will be kept secret until Mr. Borden shall have had an opportunity to test the feeling, not only of his parliamentary supporters at Ottawa, but also of the Opposition leaders. The first disclosures will be made by the Canadian negotiators.

It is the earnest desire of the London authorities that the basis of co-operation of Great Britain and Canada shall be satisfactory to Canadians en masse.

As the root difficulty has been to reconcile the doctrine of single control of the forces of the Empire with the autonomy of Canada, London consents to the Canadian demand to be consulted on the Imperial program on foreign affairs, as fully and frequently as is convenient with the nature of any emergency.

Mr. Churchill's projected visit to Canada next month will aim to convince the Canadians that the contribution they are willing, irrespective of party, to make to the security of the Empire—beginning, it is assumed, with Dreadnoughts built at intervals of two years—will carry with it a proportionately increasing authority in the use of the contribution. As a step of early effectiveness Canada will be given a strong status in the committee of Imperial defence.

A TRAGIC DEATH

Mr. David Moore of 577 Homewood Avenue, Died as Result of Injuries Received—Formerly a Resident in Cavan.

Early Saturday morning Mr. David Moore died from injuries received from a fall. On Friday evening he went up in the hay loft and fell sustaining several broken ribs and internal injuries. Dr. Eastwood was called but it was of no use and he died on Saturday morning at 2 o'clock.

The deceased gentleman came from Cavan seven years ago where he had been a farmer. He is survived by a sorrowing wife, four sons and one daughter, namely, Wilbert of Melita, Man.; Harry of Napinka, Man.; Horace of Vancouver; Arthur of Cavan; and Mrs. R. N. Wyatt, of Melita, Man.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

ATTITUDE OF LIBERAL PRESS IN CANADA PLEASES ENGLAND

Like British Liberalism, It Regards Borden's Proposals Entirely Apart from Partizan Considerations

London, Aug. 11.—The attitude taken by The Star and other leading Canadian Liberal journals concerning Canadian aid for the Imperial navy has been widely quoted and approved of here, and is accepted as definite evidence that Canadian Liberalism, like British Liberalism regards Borden's proposals entirely apart from partisan consideration.

It is interesting to note the strenuous fashion in which Australia is seeking to convince England that although her methods of assisting Imperial defence may differ from Canada's her aim is the same. The Commonwealth Government has erected a big advertising board on Kingsway to proclaim Australia's daily messages to England. On the board it advertises, in enormous letters, the sums spent by Australia on local defence and military preparations. The majority of well-informed Australians in London are agreed that whatever Canada does the Commonwealth Government will not dare to reverse its policy of keeping Australian ships entirely under the control of the Commonwealth Government. Any proposals to reverse its policy would, they say, spell an immediate Government defeat.

HOW CALIFORNIA'S ENTHUSIASM MAY COOL

New York World: California's enthusiasm for a free canal in its own special benefit may abate a little if it is to mean the non-participation of Great Britain and perhaps other nations in the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

A POST OFFICE COMPLETE AT EVERY FARMER'S GATE

Proposed Improvements in Rural Mail Delivery Services

Routes Along All Roads—Farmers Should Apply Without Delay

By a decision arrived at a short time ago in Ottawa, the rural mail delivery service of Canada is to be improved within the next few months to the extent of providing at every farmer's gate all the facilities necessary for transacting general post office business. When the courier drives up to the mail box in front of a farmers' home he will be prepared to sell stamps, issue postal notes or money orders and to accept letters for registration. If the proposed new system works out successfully, it will no longer be necessary for the farmer to visit the post office, excepting in cases of specially important business.

Routes Along all Roads.

The advantages of the rural delivery service are now open to all farmers who show by application or general petition that they are desirous of it. Formerly only those farmers whose homes lay along the regular country mail route could obtain the privileges of delivery at their gates. Since the establishment of a rural mail delivery branch of the post office Department early in the year, however, it has been decided to receive applications from farmers along any road, irrespective of its proximity to a post office or rural mail route.

The popular opinion among farmers Government will take the initiative is very erroneous. The Post Office Department has never yet sent a proposal by letter or representative to any community of farmers suggesting the establishment of a delivery service but rather every highway sharing in the privilege owes gratitude only to its own enterprise. When a petition is received at Ottawa the granting of it is considered and if a decision is arrived at favorable to the farmers the route is at once established. If the Postmaster-General does not appreciate the intended force of the claim, it is withheld, but not blankly refused for in six months or a year the petition may be granted.

Farmers Should Apply.

Parliament last season appropriated $200,000 to be expended upon the extension of rural mail delivery routes, which, according to the statement of Mr. A. Bolduc, Superintendent of the Rural Delivery Branch, is a sufficient sum to provide for the establishment of 400 additional routes. It is not probable, however, that that number will be established this year, but it is likely that fully that number of petitions will be granted and routes in operation within a year's time. As many farmers have not made application for

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address AM. Law, Ontario, Manager. 49 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 380 George St. directly opposite Crossman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $150 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit?
If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

No Fear of Thieves.

Some years ago a London merchant sent a cargo of goods to Constantinople. After the supercargo saw the bales and boxes safely landed he inquired where they could be stored.

"Leave them here—it won't rain to-night," was the reply.

"But I dare not leave them thus exposed. Some of the goods might be stolen," said the supercargo.

The Mohammedan merchant burst into a loud laugh as he replied:

"Don't be alarmed. There isn't a Christian within fifty miles of here."
—London Chronicle.

EUREKA CAUSTIC BALSAM

"Is one of the most wonderful discoveries in the Veterinary World."

Its action excels any known remedy in its curative effects, and can be used in all cases where stimulating applications are prescribed. Its powerful action is simply amazing, and can scarcely be accounted for. It possesses that penetrating quality seldom found in an embrocation. IT NEVER BLEMISHES. EUREKA CAUSTIC BALSAM removes curbs, splints, all bunches common to livestock. Very little is required to have the desired effect. PRICE $1 PER BOTTLE.

Sold by all druggists. Prepared by Dr. O'Neill, a well-known veterinary surgeon and horseman of 40 years' experience.

Early Table Manners.

Strict etiquette was observed at the table long before forks made an appearance. The fork came into common use in the seventeenth century, but gold and silver ones existed in the thirteenth century. Edward I., for instance, could boast of six silver forks and a gold one, and Piers Gaveston possessed three for use in eating pears. These, however, were exceptions. The ordinary individual dining out found only a trencher, a napkin, and spoons laid before him. His knife he brought with him in a case. A new course meant no clean spoon. There was bread to hand, and the guest was expected to use his ingenuity and clean his spoon as best he might. Those were the days of the expert carver in attendance.—London Chronicle.

Royal Gamblers.

The fascination which games of chance have exercised over gentle and simple is well illustrated in the description by Stow of the entertainment given by Henry Picard, mayor of London, in 1357, when the kings of France and Scotland, being prisoners in England, and the king of Cyprus on a visit to Edward III., the mayor kept his hall against all comers that were willing to play at dice and hazard. "The Lady Margaret, his wife, did keepe her chamber to the same intent." The mayor, having won 50 marks from the king of Cyprus, returned him the money, saying, "My lord and king, be not aggrieved, for I covet not your gold, but your play."

Big Spending.

New Westminster, B.C., has been doing some shopping. The other day the people of the coast city appropriated the cool sum of $1,190,000 for certain improvements, of which the city long has been in need. Half a million dollars was set aside to initiate some great works on the river front. There was a great deal of trepidation whether the harbor bylaw would go through. But it did; score: 681 votes for, 108 against. A new, big, modern city hospital costing $200,000, and a gas plant costing $225,000 are other additions provided for New Westminster's equipment.

The Judge and "Barmaids Blush."

Judicial ignorance is generally assumed, but there are occasions when a judge is honestly lacking in knowledge. The other day a witness in an Australian court casually mentioned that a certain thing occurred just after he had a "barmaid's blush." Judge and counsel were for the moment "stuck up" by this hitherto unheard of phrase, but the fact was gradually elicited that it meant a drink compounded of beer and raspberry vinegar.—London Chronicle.

Ladies' Orchestra.

"The English Ladies' Orchestral Society is a full band of women only, consisting of wood, wind, and brass instruments, as well as strings. It plays for charities, and has handed to them considerably over $10,000 since its foundation in 1893. It is an amateur society."

Prize Plumes.

Fancy prices have recently been paid for prize winning ostrich plumes in South Africa, the highest being $467 a pound, far above the ordinary market value.

A Single Blow.

"You say he died from a single blow administered by himself?"

"That is just what he said."

"But it isn't possible."

"Yes, it is."

"But how did he do it?"

"Blew out the gas."

"Oh!"—London Telegraph.

Crowded London.

There are 900,000 Londoners who are living two or more in a room, while there are 26,000 who are crowded six into a room.

Mostly Women.

According to the official return, no fewer than 42,676 of the 60,508 old-age pensioners in the County of London are women.

A Point of Law.

The boat began to roll and pitch.
The judge clung to the rail.
He didn't like the bounding waves;
His solemn face grew pale.
But happily a clever thought
Came to his legal brain.
He overruled the motion
And felt all right again. —Life.

Persuasive.

"Will the ladies move up front, please?" said the conductor on a car crowded with matinee girls.

There was little response, so he spoke again.

"Move forward, please, ladies; the motorman is a great deal better looking man than I am."

Smiling, the ladies moved up.—Boston Transcript.

Daisy's Diagnosis.

"Would you think me too bold if I threw you a kiss?"
Said smart Alec to pert little Daisy.
"Oh, no; not a bit of it!" countered the miss.
"Just simply and sinfully lazy."
—Canadian Courier.

Unworthy.

A woman lately wrote an editor of the personal columns and said:

"I have lost three husbands and now have an offer of a fourth. Shall I accept him?"

The reply came: "If you have lost three husbands I should say you are too careless to be trusted with a fourth." Harper's Magazine.

BRITISH MINISTER COMING.

Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, is going to pay Canada a visit. That's real good news. We take it for granted that he is not coming to tell us what kind of naval policy we should adopt, and that his visit has not any definite political purpose of any kind. In a friendly and companionable way he is just going to return the call that our own Ministers have made in England. In no jingoistic sense his coming should enlarge our imperial vision and give us a better sense of the Empire's mission to the world. The Christian Guardian thinks that, after all, the English statesmen sees further and thinks larger than the average Canadian does.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

The new Encyclical issued by the Vatican in connection with the Centenary of Constantine certainly makes interesting reading, especially in spots, says the Guardian. One of the striking things to which Pius X calls attention is the large measure of liberty and respect which the Roman Catholic Church enjoys in Protestant and Anglo-Saxon countries as compared with Catholic and Latin ones. This fact, which is borne evidence to by a reference to conditions in the United States especially, is one which fills the mind of the Supreme Pontiff with deep sorrow, that is, of course, looked at from the Latin side, but His Holiness very wisely refrains from any attempt at an explanation of the fact. We would like to be scrupulously fair to the Roman Catholic Church, and therefore we would very much desire that the Pope, or the editor of the Catholic Register, or some one high in authority in the counsels of the Church, would tell us why it is that the closer you come into touch with the real spirit of Catholicism the less likely you are to respect or fall in love with it. What is the fact that the history of Italy and France and Portugal, and Spain too, to some extent, seems to set forth, and we would really like to have an authoritative explanation of it. Unfortunately the new Encyclical, while it calls very special attention to the fact, and sheds copious tears over it, does not offer a sentence in explanation.

OUR GROWING WEST.

(Editor Morning Times).

Sir,—You can judge from this that the roadbed is not perfect. I am picking up bits of information as I go along, and some of it may be of use to your readers. In the first place, the railway is lined with large numbers of men double tracking, which ought to have been done years ago. A large part of it from Calgary to Sudbury will be ready for traffic by Oct. 1; the remainder by next year, by which I mean that they are putting in sidings now and will finish the line itself later. This will help to get "the wheat" out. It is confidently expected that Hon. Robt. Rogers' plan for keeping lake navigation open a month longer will work out all right with the Canadian Northern Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and, later, the Hudson Bay Railway. The West will have all the outlets this way necessary. But they are just as badly needed as outlets and it is this need of the West that makes the American's mouth water for reci[illegible]. Wouldn't it be a wise thing [illegible] this traffic over to the Yank[illegible] when we have the required [illegible] small have! outlet for the crops [illegible] ter prices for them, and [illegible] and sheep, calves and lam[illegible] Winnipeg, Fort William and Toronto as against Minneapolis, Chicago and Buffalo? I am told that a small boat will go faster over land via Roumiski River (with the exception of a carry of half a mil[illegible] height of land) clear thro[illegible] James Bay. The weather is beautiful and traffic heavy.

Stops a Cough IN ONE NIGHT

CATARRH AND WEAK THROAT NOW CURED WITHOUT SWALLOWING DANGEROUS DRUGS

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing Vapor of Catarrhozone All Throat and Catarrhal Trouble is Quickly Cured.

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or Catarrh can be cured with Catarrhozone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes and chest, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pale over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave me permanent relief till I used Catarrhozone. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of Catarrh from my system.

"TIMOTHEUS A. SALMON.
"No. 6 Lopez street, Kingston, Ja."

REMEMBER THIS—You breathe Catarrhozone and it will [illegible] throat, chest or bronchi[illegible]. Large size, guaranteed, cost[illegible] and lasts two months; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware [illegible] tations and insist on "CATARRHOZONE" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THIS GIRL CAN SEE IN THE DARK

Farmer's Pretty Daughter Deciphers Books in Dense Gloom

Strange Psychic Influences Enable Her to Describe Scenes [illegible] Away.

St. Louis, Aug. 10.—Physicians are taking keen interest in the unusual case of Bessie Stewart, the beautiful 23-year old daughter of a farmer of Wellsville, Mo. Strange psychic influences work on the girl, and she is said to be able to read from books and to describe pictures in the dark when in a trance state due to hysteria. Her physician, Dr. T. H[illegible]ans describes her conduct [illegible] fashion:

"As we drove up to the [illegible] about 5 o'clock p.m. her father said: 'There she is now.'

"I looked and saw a tall, graceful girl dressed, as she thought, for a party in a pink dress with low neck and short sleeves. A gold chain with locket attached hung around her neck. She was tossing an apple with one hand and catching it with the other.

"She was oblivious of everybody and everything, and no one could say or do anything that would make her pay the least heed. A dog suddenly barking or any noise or crash of falling tin pans apparently was not heard. Her eyes were open, but one could not make her see anything, nor answer any questions, nor talk about anything whatever except what happened to be on her mind.

"The expression on her face w[illegible] of one in a trance. She went from this tossing of the apple to eating grapes and a peach, exercising care [illegible] to let nothing get on her dress. Then she climbed a high gate and sat on top of a higher post with her feet on top of the gate, assuming different graceful postures.

"Soon she arose and walked away with long strides.

"Due said, 'She thinks she is a man now. She always takes those long strides when she thinks she is a man.'

"She impersonated a man. She got a pipe and pouch of tobacco, filled the pipe, struck a match, lighted the tobacco and smoked. Then she rapped the tobacco out of the pipe and started toward the house. As she passed me she said, 'Life is made of one damn thing after another.' Her mother said she never uses rough language except when she thinks she is a man.

Appeared in a Trance.

"It was dark by this time and a lighted lamp was brought in. She said, 'Oh, I'm tired,' and sat down in a chair near the table. Soon I noticed that she had picked up a bunch of pictures and was looking at them [illegible]alking about them.

[illegible] picked up another bunch, turned the light so low that I could not see the cards. I put the cards into her hands and she kept on talking about the pictures. As fast as she would describe a picture I would take a card, till I had five, when the notion left her and she was off on something else.

Reads Letter in Dark.

"I turned up the lamp and looked at the cards in order, and she had described the pictures accurately. She could see as well in the dark as in the light. She found a letter on the piano and began to read it to herself. She read the letter through in the dark and put it away.

[illegible] I flashed the light on and off it made no difference. The light was nothing to her, she could see as well without it. I was told many things that she had done and said in these spells. She told what different people were doing who lived miles away. One of these things was verified.

"She told that a woman living ten miles away was out taking care of her chickens. She described the dress she wore—little round circles in it. The next day this neighbor called and was asked what she was doing yesterday at such an hour, what dress she had on. Everything tallied.

"The girl was on the bed upstairs. She said: 'An old woman had come into the house. It is (naming her). She has not had any supper. They are taking her into the dining-room. She is eating. They are talking about me.'

"One went down to see if it were true and found it all true and told them to stop talking about Bessie, that she knew everything they said.

"The girl wept aloud. She said: 'Mr. —— is dead.' It was true, as they learned next day."

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

FUR SKIN EXPERTS

A Subtle Sense of Color Guides Them In Judging Pelts.

HOW THE SKINS ARE DRESSED

An Alkali Bath Begins the Various Processes That Finally Produce the Soft and Pliable Finished Fur—Sealskins the Hardest to Handle.

The chief requirement for success in grading fur skins is an accurate eye for color or, more valuable yet, an intuitive sense of color. The difference in value of the rarer varieties of fur skins, especially sables, natural black, silver and blue fox, sea otters, chinchillas, mink and some others, is so subtle that more than a practiced eye is necessary to judge accurately of the merits of individual skins. It is necessary that the color sense be highly developed.

The expert furrier must have, in addition to this, a thorough knowledge of the condition in which a skin should be to gain admittance into the highest class. A furrier must know by the appearance of the pelt whether it will turn out soft and strong after it has been dressed and whether the fur is in the best condition as regards strength and beauty.

A fur skin must, of course, be treated more carefully and by a different process from that followed by the tanner of hides. Tannic acid would ruin the pliability of a fur skin, weaken and discolor the hair. The furrier's process is designed to retain the natural oil of the pelt, which in turn preserves the color of the fur and keeps it soft and pliable. The first step in this process is accomplished by placing the skin in an alkali bath. After it has been softened in the bath the moisture is worked out of the skin with a blunt wooden instrument. Then the flesh side is drawn carefully back and forth over a straight edged knife, which removes any flesh that may be clinging to the pelt and also evens it up.

Specially prepared grease is rubbed into the skin for softening purposes, and the process is carried still further by placing the skin in a machine which is arranged to beat it softly until the grease has been entirely absorbed. A slowly revolving drum fitted with wooden paddles and containing fine hard sawdust, the kind of sawdust differing with the variety of fur, next takes charge of the pelt. A moderate degree of heat is supplied during this stage of the dressing. The skin is thoroughly cleaned of grease by this machine, and the dressing is completed by tapping the skin with smooth canes of a flexibility adapted to the strength of the fur on a leather cushion stuffed with horsehair. Often a skin will be changed in shape and made smaller by the dressing process.

Seal and beaver skins require much more careful handling than other furs. In the case of these skins the water hairs, which are the hard top hairs of the pelt, have to be removed by hand. This process is more difficult with seal than with beaver. A number of men, each a specialist in his part of the work, are kept employed in the work. After this part of the dressing process has been completed the fine under wool, which is wavy and pale drab in color, is dyed dark brown. Several coats of this dark brown dye are applied, and the final result is a fur which is lustrous black on top. The skin is then submitted to the cleaning process again, made of an even thickness by emery wheels and finally finished off in pale buff color.

The English dye for sealskin, which is considered the best, is a trade secret. Its principal ingredients are gall-nuts, copper dust, camphor and antimony. It is supposed that the water used for the dye in London has a great deal to do with the fine results obtained by the use of this dye. The natives of different countries, using their own processes, obtain better results with some skins than with others, but the American furriers are rapidly coming to the front in handling the various kinds of pelts.—New York Sun.

PRICE OF A PICTURE.

Terms Corot Is Said to Have Exacted From His Friend Perier.

A French paper gives the following anecdote of Corot: M. Perier, brother of the former French president, M. Casimir Perier, was a close friend of the great Barbizon painter. One day—it was a Sunday—when he was visiting the artist's studio he grew enthusiastic over a figure painting that Corot was at work on, for on Sundays Corot devoted himself to figure subjects.

"That is my distraction," he used to say.

M. Perier determined to acquire this picture and Corot was equally determined not to let him, as his modesty would only allow him to rank as a landscape painter.

"All right," said Corot at last, "you may have the canvas, but on one condition—you must pay in exchange for it the butcher's and baker's bills of my friend Millet." M. Perier agreed to this unusual price and with the painter went to find the two shopkeepers. The baker's bill came to $4,400 and the other to $4,800, for the bills had been running for twelve years. So M. Perier's Corot cost him $9,200.

"What a stroke of business," commented the artist. "My picture was hardly worth $300!"

Good stories should not be dissected, but analysis of this one seems to show that the Millet household spent at least $1 a day at the baker's and over $1 a day at the butcher's, which seems excessive at the French prices of those days.—New York Sun.

ROMANCE OF A PICTURE.

Story of an Old Smoke Dimmed Painting of St. Jerome.

In "The Bargain Book," by C. E. W. Jerningham and Lewis Bettany, many instances are given where priceless heirlooms, especially paintings, have been found, neglected, stowed away in some dusty cupboard or adorning the walls of some miserable hut. Usually the owner was the victim of his own ignorance and was happy to sell the treasure for a few cents to some unscrupulous dealer. But here is a story with a happier termination.

A poor retailer of fruit could hardly earn enough even in good times to buy herself and her three small children bread. Her earnings were quite too small to pay the rent of the damp hole that her landlord called a room.

The landlord at last distrained for his rent. He took her bed and her wretched furniture and ordered them sold at auction. The widow and her children were present at the sale. Even the best things went for a trifle. It seemed as if not enough would be realized even to pay the rent.

Among her belongings was a very small, smoke-dimmed picture of St. Jerome, an inheritance from her grandmother, which hung over her bed and to which she and her children offered up their pious prayers. As they were accustomed to do, the children mechanically raised their little hands when the picture of St. Jerome was put up, and the tears of the mother flowed abundantly.

A painter who was present examined the picture for a considerable time and at last bid 2 guilders. Another connoisseur immediately doubled the bid. The painter, to alarm his rival, at once rose to 10, but the connoisseur said, without hesitation, "Twenty-five guilders."

"Fifty," answered the painter.

"A hundred," replied the connoisseur.

The astonishment and joy of the poor woman may be conceived, for she not only saw all her debts paid by the little Jerome, but a considerable surplus left over. She could hardly believe her ears when she heard the two collectors still bidding against each other. The painter was silent at an offer of 800 guilders.

"You are fortunate," said he after the painting had been knocked down to his rival. "You are fortunate, sir, in being richer than I am; otherwise you would not have had it under a thousand." It was an original by Raphael.

THE WHITE RABBIT.

Lord Pelham Had to Wait For His Chance to Sell.

Lord Pelham lived in a castle not very far from London, near the banks of the Thames. He had the habit of walking quite often, all alone, to the city. One day, in the year 1811, when on his way to London, he saw a man coming towards him.

"My lord," said the man, "can't you buy a white rabbit from me?"

Lord Pelham shook his head and went his way without another word.

The unknown followed him and said, "My lord, you must buy my white rabbit."

"What shall I do with it?" replied the lord in surprise.

"I am certain, my lord, that you will buy my white rabbit," said the man, placing a revolver on my lord's breast.

"Well, I see I am in your power, and must buy the rabbit. How much do you want for it?"

"One hundred pounds sterling, my lord."

"One hundred pounds for a rabbit?"

"Not a shilling less! And I am sure you will give it to me."

"You shall have the money, but I don't carry so much cash with me."

"I believe it, but your signature is sufficient; I know your banker."

"But I must have—"

"Paper, pen and ink. Here it is, my lord. I thought of everything."

Lord Pelham, who saw only too well that there was no escape from this man, sat down and wrote the check. Then he wanted to continue his walk to the city, but the unknown stepped in his way with the revolver and said: "You are mistaken, my lord, this is the road that leads to your castle. You must now bring your purchase home. Good-bye, my lord. There is your way and this is mine."

Pelham did not consider it advisable to continue this discourse. He took the rabbit, returned to the castle, and never said anything about the price he had paid for it.

Ten years later, in 1821, shortly before his death, Lord Pelham took a walk through one of the liveliest streets to a suburb of London. His attention was drawn to a large brilliantly lighted meat market. The owner stood behind the counter. Pelham thought he had seen that face before. He stepped into the shop, heard the man talk, and, after a few unimportant questions, retraced his steps and went home.

Next morning Lord Pelham, very plainly dressed, and with a basket on his arm, entered the meat market again and demanded to see the proprietor. He was shown into an adjoining room, where the man sat at his desk. As soon as they were alone, Lord Pelham said: "My dear sir! Don't you want to buy a white rabbit of me?"

The man was terrified and stared at Lord Pelham.

"I am certain you will buy my little white rabbit this moment," said the lord.

"Oh, with the greatest pleasure," said the butcher who had recognized his former victim.

"What is the price of it "

"What I had to pay you for it once—a hundred pounds.

"In cash or in a check?"

"I prefer cash."

The butcher counted out the money on the counter, Lord Pelham put it in his pocket, placed the basket with the rabbit on the counter and—their bills were evenly settled.

LIFELESS RIDERS.

Thrilling Episodes Culled From the Horrors of War.

A veteran of the British army in India once saw a strange sight on a battlefield. As he tells the story a squadron of cavalry had been held in reserve under cover of a field battery and an infantry regiment. The artillery duel had ended. The assault of the enemy in overwhelming numbers had been repulsed by the steadiness of the infantry. While a cloud of smoke hung over the field the cavalry received an order to charge with drawn sabers.

The troopers started in close order for the enemy's line. Midway they met a destructive fire from earthworks in front of them and from the woods on their flank. A young cavalryman, with his saber drawn, was shot in the heart while leading in the first file. The horse halted, swerved to the right and turned back, but the rider kept his seat without flinching. The other troopers went on, carried the earthwork by storm, rode at full gallop after the retreating force and converted defeat into rout.

The dead trooper meanwhile was returning with white face and with the blood streaming from his wound. Under his nerveless hand the horse received neither check nor leading and made its own way toward the infantry, which was now advancing rapidly. As the smoke lifted the soldiers saw the solitary rider coming, with one hand in a death grip upon the saddle, while the other still held the sword rigidly clasped.

It was a sight never to be forgotten—the galloping horse, with the dead cavalryman still mounted and looking grim and fierce. It was not until the rider had gone fifty yards from the spot where he had been killed that he rolled off the horse.

A similar story is told of Captain Nolan, who delivered the fatal blundering order for the charge of the famous Light Brigade. He was seen on the field of Balaklava, riding from the hills where the staff officers were drawn up to the quarter where the brigade was stationed. The charge began, and what was left of the brigade returned in broken groups.

At last Captain Nolan was seen galloping rapidly toward the centre of the field. He was firmly seated, straight as an arrow and riding well. Suddenly the horse swerved and the rider toppled over.

The officers who were nearest rushed forward, but when they lifted him from the ground they found him lifeless. Like the Indian saberman, he had been shot and instantly killed, but his horse had carried him safely across the field, out of the reach of the pursuing Cossacks.

BRUMMEL'S FAMOUS CRAVAT.

It Was a Work of Art, Tied Only by a Sudden Inspiration.

George Brummel, better known as "Beau Brummel," was for twenty years the despot of fashionable London society. At a time when Napoleon was winning his victories there were people who would have preferred the fame of this prince of dandies. But it should not be supposed that he was extravagant in his dress. William B. Burton in "The Days of the Georges" quotes his famous aphorism, as true to-day as it was then, "A well-dressed gentleman ought to wear nothing which would attract particular attention in the street." He took the elements of dress as he found them and brought each to perfection in a harmonious combination.

His one innovation was the white cravat, and upon this he lavished his genius. He had a theory, which he imparted to his intimates, that a cravat could be properly tied only by a sudden inspiration and that if that inspiration failed it was necessary to begin over again. Such serious views on this mighty question doubtless explained the appearance of Mr. Watson (Brummel's valet) on the staircase with an armful of white cravats and his remark to a favored guest, "Some of our failures."

To another inquiring into the mysteries of the cult Brummel whispered the magic word, "Starch." The famous neckwear, it appears, consisted of many feet of fine linen stiffened to the exact degree which would allow of three parts of its length to be held up without collapsing. Having attained this fine temper, it was ready for Mr. Brummel's throat, and the central rite of the toilet began.

As each fold encircled his neck there was a solemn bending down of the beau's chin in order that it should take a natural crease, this being repeated until the whole presented an aspect acceptable to his fastidious taste, when it was secured by a gold brooch, and the ritual was at an end. A few—a very few— of his most intimate friends were admitted to these sacred mysteries. The Prince of Wales, of course, came when he chose, which was often. He would honor the beau by watching him attentively by the hour at his dressing table.

To Build New Ocean Port.

It is reported from Ireland that a company with a guaranteed capital of $6,500,000 has been formed to construct a railroad from Collooney Junction, in Sligo, to Belmullet, on the coast of Mayo, where the company proposes to build harbor works adapted for the docking of ocean steamships. The line will be 90 miles long and ballasted for the heaviest traffic. At Collooney Junction the railroad will connect with the Great Southeastern and Western and with the Midland Great Western, so that passengers can be debarked easily and quickly to all parts of Ireland, as well as Scotland and England. It is estimated that a saving of 24 hours will be made in the transmission of transatlantic mails and passengers to and from London.

The Drunkard's Cloak.

In the time of the Commonwealth in England the magistrates of Newcastle-upon-Tyne punished drunkards by making them carry a tub called the drunkard's cloak. This tub was worn bottom upward, there being a hole at the bottom for the head and two smaller holes in the sides for the hands to pass through, and thus ridiculously attired the delinquent was made to walk through the streets of the town for as long a time as the magistrates thought proper to order, according to the grossness of the offence.

The Word "Nugget."

"Nugget" was formerly used to signify a bit or lump of anything, as a "nugget of tobacco." Nowadays, however, it is used principally of gold as it comes from the mine. This use is Australian. Governor Sir William Denison of Australia wrote in 1852, "In many instances the gold is brought to market in lumps or nuggets, as they are called."

George Bernard Shaw's Creed.

Some years ago Mr. George Bernard Shaw married a lady of fortune, and since then he has been troubled by begging letter writers. This has caused the celebrated vegetarian to issue the following characteristic statement:

"May I take this opportunity of informing the large number of undeservedly unfortunate persons who daily write to me for pecuniary assistance that I am a Socialist? This means that I spend the money, but do not give it."

English Place Names.

England can boast that no other country possesses so many Scriptural place names as it does. The name Jericho occurs six times on the ordnance maps, Paradise five times and Nineveh, Mount Zion, Mount Ararat and Mount Ephraim three times each. In Bedfordshire there is a Calvary wood and in Dorsetshire a Jordan hill.

Sir James' Humor.

A well-known newspaper man who writes the political leaders for a Bay street daily in Toronto tells the following story on himself:

The editorial writer has a familiar surname of the same class as Brown, but he has enough given names to fill a small clothes line. During the last provincial elections he had occasion to call up Sir James Whitney over the 'phone. Sir James is celebrated for his blunt, brusque manner of speech, and in the conversation which follows he was true to his reputation.

"This is Brown speaking," the editorial writer began—"Brown, Sir James, Mr. H. D. Y. P. Brown. Brown of The ——."

"What's that, what's that?" inquired the Premier, in rapid, sharp, brusque tones.

"This is Brown, editorial writer of The ——. Mr. H. D. Y. P. Brown, editorial writer—you know—H. D. Y. P. Brown, of The ——, you know," the newspaper man explained repeatedly and slowly.

"Brown, a-a-a-hem—Brown, you say—let me see, Brown, editorial—Oh, yes, Brown, of The ——, yes, yes, yes," said Sir James. "I suppose you use all your other names to DISINFECT the Brown, eh?"—Toronto Star Weekly.

Cheapest Place in Town for High Grade Goods

has the largest, brightest and best stock ever shown in their store, consisting of Fancy Goods of every description, suitable for presents.

These will be sold at prices that defy competition. We are in a position to sell cheaper than others for the simple reason that our expenses are much lighter than other stores in the city, and we are not depending on the store sales to meet expenses, as our large and growing newspaper, printing and bookbinding business takes care of all this. So, the public are invited to call and examine our stock and prices; and they will be convinced. In addition to selling cheap, we offer a beautiful pair of Patent, Self-Sharpening Shears free with every purchase of $2.00 and upwards.

We ALSO GIVE a Splendid Kitchen Set as Shewn in Cut

Consisting of Nine Pieces, with every purchase of $10 or over

Call and see this splendid set, even though you do not buy.

WHIMS OF AN ARTIST.

Turner's Red Wafer Setting Sun and Finger Print Landscape.

Turner not only took strange liberties with the topography and architecture of the landscapes he painted, but showed his eccentric genius in the materials he employed. Some masterly effects he obtained in ways which, although amusing, were questionable, and must, some hold, in time impair the value of his work.

On one occasion he clapped in a setting sun by means of a common red wafer, and finding it looked as he desired, left it there and painted up to it. Again, wishing to secure the contrast of some animated figure upon a terrace in silhouette against a golden sky just put in, he cut out a barking dog in black paper and applied it by way of experiment. It proved successful, and the paper dog was not afterward removed or replaced.

Still more extraordinary is the story told of Turner's invitation to three children to collaborate with him. The artist was staying at the house of a friend at Knockholt and had brought with him a fine drawing, of which the distance was already carefully outlined, but the foreground of which remained blank.

One morning, instead of resuming work himself upon this drawing, he called in his host's children and, rubbing in three separate saucers three cakes of paint, red, blue and yellow, gave one to each child, telling them to dabble their fingers in the bright colors and then amuse themselves by making prints and marks upon his unfinished picture. Of course they accepted the unexpected invitation with glee, and presently he was gravely looking on while thirty smeary fingertips did their very best to convert his sketch into a crazy rainbow.

Suddenly, in the midst of the frolic, he cried out, "Stop!" They stopped, and he took back the drawing, added imaginary landscape forms suggested by the accidental coloring, and rapidly completed a striking and beautiful whole.

Shortly afterward at dessert one day, Turner amused himself by arranging some varicolored sugar plums upon his plate. When suddenly disturbed and the pattern scattered he cried out in vexation:

"There! You have made me lose 50 guineas!"

He had been evolving a color scheme in candy for his next landscape.

Heir to $15,000,000.

There is in the British Chancery Court an estate which has now reached the figure of $15,000,000. It lies there, unclaimed, in the name of Walters, an Exeter family whose heir has been duly advertised for without avail.

It is now known, almost to a certainty, that this same heir has just died at Point Chevalier, Auckland, New Zealand, that he knew he was the heir, and that he refused to claim the money.

His death took place suddenly, and it was at the necessary inquest that the facts came to the knowledge of the public.

Richard Walters was an old-age pensioner, and was employed by a Mr. Mayson as gardener. He had shown his employer documents which, the latter considered, afforded quite conclusive proof that he was the heir to the family estate of Walters.

The reason he gave for refusing to take any steps to secure the millions was that it was too much trouble, as he was becoming an old man.

The Ducking Stool in England.

The latest recorded use of the ducking stool in England (the designations cucking and ducking were, of course, synonymous in the days of Queen Elisabeth) was in 1809. It was at Leominster, when a woman named Jenny Pipes, alias Jane Corran, was paraded through the town on the ducking stool and ducked in the water near Kenwater bridge by order of the magistrates. In 1817 another woman, called Sarah Leake, was wheeled round the place in the same chair, but not ducked, as, fortunately for her, the water was too low. The instrument of punishment in question has not been used since then.—London Notes and Queries.

McArthur's Victory.

H. K. McArthur, who won the twenty-five mile Marathon race, the classic of the Olympic games at Stockholm, is a tall Transvaal policeman. His time was two hours and 36 minutes.

McArthur ran smoothly all the way and showed no signs of fatigue. When he took command he soon opened up a big gap on his opponents. When the stadium was reached he was far in front. As he reached the stadium the entire assemblage arose and cheered him to the end of the journey, which was one lap on the stadium track. When he had finished a crowd of his supporters rushed up to him, crowned him with a floral wreath and carried him off the field.

Incongruous.

A clerical correspondent of one of the London church papers relates that a certain prelate had great difficulty in suppressing his laughter at the consecration of a church the other day owing to the device on one of the school banners which were carried in the procession before the service. This banner was adorned with a very fierce looking lion, with terrible claws and teeth, while underneath him was the legend, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

The First Knitting Machine.

Historic mention of hand knitting is first found in the books of the time of Queen Elizabeth, though it is known that it was one of the arts of the Pompeians. The first machine for knitting was the invention of William Lee, who made application for a patent in England in 1589. On being refused a patent by the English authorities he departed for France and soon afterward set up a large factory at Rouen.

UNCLE SAM'S "MIDDIES."

Training and Discipline That Prepare Them For the Navy.

The pay of a midshipman is $600 per year, and this begins on the day of his admission to the academy. He at once spends $230.64 for clothing, bedding and other equipments, some of which are as follows: A rug for 70 cents, a hair pillow for 75 cents, six pillowcases for 72 cents and six sheets for $4.20. So it can be seen that his apartments will not be luxurious. He must deposit $60 when he enters, and this will be credited on the books of the pay officer to be expended by the direction of the superintendent in the purchase of textbooks, etc.

When he has been fully entered as a midshipman it is the aim of the officers in charge to educate the young man to become a competent naval officer—to become a master of the art of maritime warfare, to be a gentleman as well as an officer and to hold honor and duty to country paramount to everything else. The neatness in dress of the officer of the United States navy is proverbial, and only those who come in close contact with him can appreciate the change four years at the Naval academy can make in the habits, dress and manners of a young man, to say nothing of the excellent education he receives.

The midshipman has few luxuries at the academy. His room is furnished in the simplest style. An iron bed, a bookcase, a cupboard, a washstand, a study table and a chair go to make up the furnishings. The walls are bare, and if he has a picture of "the girl he left behind" it can be tacked inside the door of his cupboard. Each midshipman occupies a room alone. These rooms are in suits for two men, with a shower bath to be used by both.—Mrs. C. R. Miller in Leslie's.

IRVING'S STAGE EFFECTS.

Silence, Light and Just One Other Essential Produced Them.

Wendell Phillips Dodge relates in the London Strand Magazine an incident growing out of the first meeting of Robert Mantell with Sir Henry Irving back in 1882, when both were playing Romeo in London. There were reviewers who found Irving too old for the youthful Romeo, and one advised that he should make way for "the young fellow over at the Olympic."

Irving prepared a special afternoon performance in the Lyceum, to which all the players in London were invited. After it was over Mantell went back of the stage, and Irving asked him how he liked the performance. "It has been like an afternoon at school with congenial lessons," replied Mantell. "How do you do it? How do you manage effects? How do you get such atmosphere, such a realization of the glory of the tragedy, with such little effort? Is there no recipe?"

"There is—indeed, there is," answered Irving; "simple, too—only three things to remember. The first is silence and plenty of it behind the scenes, so that the actor may be at ease, with nothing to distract when striving for his shadings. The second is light, regulated as far as possible so that nature is counterfeited, and that, young man, is the recipe."

"But," protested Mantell, "you said there were three things to remember. You have mentioned but two. Is there a third?"

"Did I say a third?" asked Irving. "Um—perhaps I did, perhaps I did, but what could I have had in mind? Let me see. Ah, yes, silence, light and—um, shall I say—actors? Remember that, my boy, actors. Silence, light and—actors, that is the third."

Vociferously Reluctant.

"Mildred, what was that loud noise on the front porch last night? It woke me up."

"Why, mamma, that must have been Jack tearing himself away."—Chicago Tribune.

TENDER FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WIRE FENCE.

TENDERS addressed to W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., marked "Tender for Wire Fence," will be received up till 12 o'clock noon of the 20th August, 1912, for the construction of a wire fence around Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, situate on sections 16 and 17, township 9, range 3, west of the 2nd meridian.

The length of the fence is estimated at six miles, more or less, but the Department reserves the right to extend or lessen the mileage should it be found necessary; final payment to be made on the exact measurement of the fence constructed.

Each tender must be accompanied by a sample of the wire and lock.

Each tender must also be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank in favour of the Deputy Minister of the Interior for ten per cent of the amount of the tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract, or fails to complete the work contracted for; but will be returned in case the tender is not accepted.

Further particulars, including sketch and specifications, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont., or from the Chief Supt. of Dominion Parks, Edmonton, Alta., or from the Supt. of Moose Mountain Buffalo Reserve, Arcola, Sask.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Naturally Surprised.

An old German furniture dealer had a woman customer who was a great talker. Nobody could get away from her when she started in. One day he sent a clerk to the lady's house to try to collect a bill. When the clerk returned empty handed the old German said:

"Vell, vat did se lady say?"

"She did not say anything, sir. She was mute," replied the clerk.

"Vat!" exclaimed the surprised German. "Vas she dead?"

Superstition.

"For downright idiotic, superstitious, weak-minded, gullible credulity," growled Judkins, "recommend me to a woman! Gave away a pair of my trousers to a peddler to charm warts off the children's hands! Madam, are you aware that this is the twentieth century and not the middle ages?"

"It does seem a little silly," said Mrs. Judkins mildly, "but I've heard of such things being done. You know those trousers, John, were the pair you tore on the lawn mower the other day and threw aside."

"It's not the trousers, madam; it's the childish, imbecile, fatuous puerility of the thing. Besides, I left a hare's foot in one of those pockets, madam, that I've carried for rheumatism the past three years."—London Tit-Bits.

Not Lost.

"Sam Johnson, you've been fightin' ag'in. Youse lost two of yo' front teeth."

"No, I ain't, mammy, honest. I's got 'em in me pocket."—Life.

Women's Ailments Caused by Neglect

Proper Treatment Will Quickly Bring Back Robust Health and Good Spirits.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood become weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer, and a run-down condition take root.

Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the result is as you would expect—pain in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood purifier, the finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c per box, five for $1.00 post paid. The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Too Much Booze.

Lavergne Kallenbeck, a well-known local character, was fined $4.00 at the police court on Saturday. Jos. Reynolds and William Patton were also soaked in a similar way.

Bad For Summer Cottagers.

The cold, wet weather which we have been having for the past few weeks has made it very disagreeable for cottagers up the lakes, as well as campers. The steamboat men will also suffer, as people do not care for the water when the thermometer is so far below the normal.

Municipalities Convention.

The twelfth annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities will be held at Windsor on August 27th, 28th and 29th, when representatives from Peterborough will no doubt be in attendance. The object of the association is for the general improvement and facilitation of every branch of municipal administration.

The New Dominion Notes.

Quite a number of the new Dominion $5 notes are now in circulation in Peterborough. The local banks will probably receive a supply of these notes if some of them have not already got them. Until a month ago, the Dominion of Canada issued only $1, $2 and $4 bills. The five dollar bill was an innovation But is was an innovation that was, and is appreciated by the banks.

Missionary Meetings.

Mr. S. M. Duyzers will hold two meetings this week in conjunction with his approaching departure for Utah, where he will preach among the Mormons there. The first meeting will be held to-night in St. James Methodist church at 8 p.m., the subject being "Still in the Hands of God." The second meeting will be held in the Mark street Methodist church, the subject being "The King's Trumpeter."

S.A. Band at the Falls.

The Salvation Army band left the city on Saturday at noon for Fenelon Falls, where they gave a musical Festival on Saturday evening and yesterday. Dickson's Hall was not nearly large enough to accommodate the large audience which gathered to hear the music, which is needless to say, was of a high order. On Sunday religious services were conducted by members of the Peterborough contingent. The band returned to the city this evening.

GRAND TRUNK NOTES

August 10, 1912.

One hundred and sixty trout in an afternoon between six rods. How is that for a happy hunting ground, you disciples of Isaak Walton? A report has just been received by the Grand Trunk Railway stating that this record was recently made on a stream along the line of the National Transcontinental in the vicinity of Cochrane, also that trout fishing of the finest kind may be enjoyed in a stream two miles down the Matagami River from Matagami townsite. Matagami is only a mile and a half from the Goldfields hotel at Timmins, which is in turn but a hundred yards from Temiskaming and Northen Ontario Railway station. In addition there is also said to be excellent trout fishing at Wawewatin Falls, upstream from Matagmi townsite. There is in all thirty-five miles of navigation on the Matagmi River, and the trout take to bait better than any other lure. An especial attraction of this district, from the sportsman's point of view, is that it is easily accessible by rail, and is available from a good hotel. Incidentally an opportunity is afforded of visiting the famous gold mines of the district.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

Stoney Lake Regatta, twenty-five races, five silver cups, ninety prizes. Dance in the evening with Opera House Orchestra in attendance. Stoney Lake Navigation Steamers leave Regatta at 4 p.m. and 11 p.m to connect with special train arriving at Peterborough at 12.30 a.m.

Newspapers the Best.

Many business men who have made the study of advertising have come to the conclusion that billboards are not even to be classed as an auxiliary to newspapers. Mr. Belasco, of Toronto, who has spent thousands of dollars annually on posters says: "I shall grobably take the money I have hitherto expended on billboard advertising and add it to the newspaper accounts. I am convinced that the daily papers carries stronger influence and secures better results." The Times is the strong advertising medium of this section of country, and no business man can afford to ignore this fact.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Emma Sargent.

The death occurred suddenly on Friday morning of Emma Howson, wife of Mr. William Sargent, of lot 28, con. 10, Otonabee.

The deceased lady, who was 43 years of age, had been suffering from anaemia. She leaves no family.

The funeral took place at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. Mr. McCamus officiated.

Miss Catharine Hayes.

After a short illness, Miss Catharina Hayes died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday morning. The deceased was 39 years of age and left four sorrowing brothers, Messrs, James Michael and John who reside at the old homestead, lot 16, con. 16, Otonabee, and Richard of Rochester.

The funeral will leave the family residence at 9.30 this morning to the Church of the Sacred Heart, and from there to the St. Peter's cemetery.

A POST OFFICE COMPLETE

delivery service as the department had anticipated, and the only reason given is that they are not aware of the fact that they are expected to take the initiative in the matter. Until the appropriation is expended, all petitions mailed to Ottawa stand a fair chance of favorable consideration, since the Department has all the facilities for the extension of the service and more mail boxes are manufactured than can be distributed.

The New System.

To say it is the aim of the Postoffice Department to place complete postoffice facilities at the gate of every farmer in the Dominion is a sweeping statement, but nevertheless true, according to the words of a prominent official. This may never be accomplished to the letter, he said, but it is the slogan of the Department, and time alone is required to make it a realization. Those farmers who do not participate in delivery privileges will of a certainty seldom, if ever, require a visit to the postoffice. The courier will carry a receipt book and give farmers wishing to transfer money by mail a postal note or money order receipt. The farmer will be obliged to trust the courier with an open letter, and upon arrival at the post office he will transact the business for the farmer and mail the letter to its destination. The system will work out similarly with respect to registered mail matter, the courier giving the farmer a receipt at his gate and being afterwards wholly responsible as a carrier of His Majesty's mail.

Ontario Has Most Routes.

There are at present about 367 rural delivery routes in Canada representing approximately 20,000 King Edward boxes. This number is divided among the Provinces as follows: Ontario, 205; Quebec, 20, Nova Scotia, 13; New Brunswick, 27; Prince Edward Island, 32; Manitoba, 17; Saskatchewan, 12; Alberta, 20; British Columbia, 11. The Province of Ontario has been most largely indulged, purely for the reason that it tendered the most applications. The awakening to the advantages of the service as manifested in the petitions received has been about 30 per cent greater during the past year. In the eastern Provinces it is not evidently as issue and few applications are received from communities there. In the west, even where settlement permits, the number of applications made has been very small, but in British Columbia the feeling is growing, and a larger number are looked for this year. The average cost of a route to the Government is about $500 the only cost to the farmer $3 for a mail box. A limit of 25 miles is put on the length of delivery routes.

Developments in the States.

What is proposed in the way of extention and improvement of the rural mail delivery service in Canada offers nothing new to the United States. If the Government at Ottawa takes the steps proposed it will be merely following the example of the country to the south. The development of rural mail delivery in that country has been very marked during the past fifteen years. In 1907 eighty-two routes were established throughout the Union, incurring an expenditure of $14,840. Last year there were in operation some 41,656 routes and the appropriation of Congress was $3[illegible]. In view of this fact, our own appropriation of $200,000, or about one twentieth of the United States', is made to appear anything but extravagant. Canada boasts one improvement in her system of delivery service, however, and that is in the appointment of couriers. In the States they are appointed under the ban of political influence, while in this country a courier receives his position by tender.

DISTRIBUTION OF MAIL BOXES.

There are in Canada at present 367 rural mail delivery routes, furnishing mail to more than 20,000 farm homes. According to the statement of an official of the Rural Delivery Branch of the Postoffice Department, many more farmers can have boxes for the asking. Ontario has the largest number of mail boxes, for the reason he says that Ontario sent in the most petitions. Following is the number of routes in each Province, showing where the boxes have been distributed:—

	Routes
Ontario	205
Prince Edward Island	32
New Brunswick	27
Quebec	20
Alberta	20
Manitoba	17
Nova Scotia	13
Saskatchewan	12
British Columbia	11

The average route represents about sixty boxes.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Government figures to-day on the total yield of wheat in the United States this season turned out to have been correctly estimated beforehand by speculators here. The market, which was largely of a waiting character, finished steady ¼c to ⅜c under last night. Corn closed a shade to ⅛c lower, varying from ⅛c to lower, oats varying from ⅛c and ⅜c lower to ⅛c rise, and provisions at 2½c to 12½c advance.

The Liverpool market closed to-day unchanged to ⅛d higher on wheat and ⅛d to ¼d higher on corn.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—The demand for Manitoba spring wheat over the cable today was lighter and the adjustment of prices resulting on the decline in the Winnipeg market left buyers and sellers as far apart as on the previous day. Bids most of the week have been about one cent out of line and practically no business has been done. On the other hand the demand for oats continues good and a big business was done with the United Kingdom at full prices. The local trade continues fairly active with prices firm.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

OUR WORLD AS A MOON.

Fine Display a Full Earth Would Give to the Selenites.

Were we transported to the planet Venus a peculiar set of views could be obtained of our earth, enabling us to see ourselves, to some extent at least, as others see us. Venus is about the same size as the earth, is somewhat closer to the sun and has more atmosphere than the earth. When the earth and Venus are nearest together they are, of course, on the same side of the sun, and in consequence of this the earth does not see more than a very small part of Venus illuminated, but Venus, on the other hand, sees all of one side of the earth illuminated and is therefore able to claim she has something that takes the place of a moon, for the earth to Venus at this time looks very large and bright, almost as much so as our moon does to us.

If we could see all the illuminated surface of Venus on these occasions we should have quite a distinct second moon. When we do see all of her illuminated surface she is on the opposite side of the sun from us and consequently at an enormous distance, yet she is so brilliant as to prevent us from seeing her surface distinctly.

But to our own moon we appear in the best light as a moon. A full earth as seen from the moon, according to Todd and other astronomers, is a very inspiring sight. It can at once be seen why this is necessarily true. The earth is several times larger than the moon and would appear in the heavens as a disk about fourteen times the size of the moon. It would probably shine with a variable light, due to the shifting clouds of the earth, though the light is, of course, reflected from the sun, and the reflection is due in part to the upper surfaces of the clouds.

The outlines of the continents of the earth appear very clearly to the moon as if they were formed in papier mache on a globe. Cities of comparatively large size could be made out with ease in case observers were there to make them out. The intensity of the reflected earth light would be as much as fourteen moons and would enable the Selenites, if such there were, to read or work in comparative daylight.—Harper's Weekly.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 190 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 14, 1912. PRICE, TWO CENTS.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY GETTING CLOSER TO MEN HIGHER UP IN GRAFT SCANDAL

Said That They are a Lawyer, a Hotel Proprietor, and a Police Official—Millions Paid out by Underworld

New York, Aug. 13. Blackmail extorted from gambling and disorderly houses in New York is said to find its way into the pockets of three men "higher up" who are the real heads of the graft syndicate that provides police protection for a price to the underworld

Information has been placed in the hands of District Attorney Whitman by private detectives working with him on the Rosenthal case that these men "higher up" are a lawyer, a hotel proprietor who claims strong political affiliations, and a police official. Two police inspectors are also said to be profiting richly from graft.

District Attorney Whitman is now convinced that "Bald Jack" Rose told the truth when he said that at least $2,100,000 was collected from gambling houses in one section of New York city alone. The State's attorney is not willing to hazard a guess on the total amount of blackmail extorted, but he is convinced that it runs into millions. The private investigation is still being continued into the police blackmailing system of which Mr. Whitman is learning more about each day It appears that for over a year a perfected system has been in operation by which all gambling and disorderly houses have been put under the screws.

Blackmail Has Been Shown.

The investigation has already shown that there has always been police blackmail through intimidation by which police officials fattened their bank accounts, but when it was recently "organized" better results were shown. Private detectives reported to the State's attorney that under the present system of doing things the grafters were protected from the complaints of the victims, it being one of the boasts that one of the men "higher up" was influential enough to prevent trouble

Holding a Witness Back.

An important witness in the Rosenthal case has been found by District Attorney Whitman and he will not be called upon to appear before the Grand Jury, but will be kept in reserve until the trial. This man is said to be an eye witness of the killing

"Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon are to be taken before the Grand Jury to-day, and if the work of that body can be completed; a blanket indictment charging seven men with the murder of Herman Rosenthal will be found.

EDWARD J. HAYES MEETS HORRIBLE DEATH IN MILL

Drawn in Between Revolving Pulley and Big Belt in Lath Mill

Mr. Edward J Hayes was instantly killed in the lath mills of the Peterborough Lumber Company, at Burnham's Point at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Hayes, who was foreman of the lath department, was engaged in putting on an 18-inch belt on a two-foot pulley by the aid of a rope, when he became entangled in in the rope, which was too long. He was dragged between the face of the pulley and the belt and was horribly crushed, death having no doubt resulted instantaneously from shock, the upper part of the body containing the vital organs being practically uninjured A coroner's jury has been empanelled and details will be gone into thoroughly. Mr. Robert Shearer, the general foreman of the mills, was there, and while trying to assist Mr. Hayes, was also caught in the rope and narrowly escaped by holding on to a post. As it was he suffered a fracture of the smaller bone of the ankle and other injuries and several bruises.

The fatally injured man was of course dead when the undid the laces and the remains were removed to Lane & Fano's undertaking rooms

The mills closed down for the day, as a mark of respect to the deceased, who has been connected with the Peterborough Lumber Company and the Dickson for forty years.

The deceased was 63 years of age, and was born in New York, but came to Quebec with his family at the age of four years When he was 14 or 15 he came to Lindsay for a short time and from thence to Peterborough, where he has ever since been in the lumber mills He was of fine physique and in excellent health. In religion he was a Roman Catholic, faithful and pious, and a regular member of St. Peter's Cathedral. He was also a member of St. Peter's Total Abstinance Society and as a fellow man and citizen, was beloved and respected. He leaves a wife and nine children—six sons and three daughters—most of whom are grown up. All are residing in Peterborough except Edward, Jr., and Alexander, who live in Toronto, and Bert in Edmonton, Alta. Those in Peterborough are George, married, and living at 657 Reid street, and Francis and Nelson, and the three daughters, Lillian, Ethel and Pearl, at home

We also beg to thank the following quartette for conducting the song service: Messrs. Fleming, Skitch, Lee and Huycke.

"We cannot, and we will not say
That he is dead; and he is just away
With a cherry smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming, how very fair
It needs must be since he lingered there.
And you, Oh you; who the wildest yearn,
For the old time step and the glad return.
Think of him as fairing on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here."

THE WEATHER.

To-day Occasional showers, but for the most part fair and warm.

THE BIGGEST LIFT LOCK

Peterborough Hydraulic Lock Will Soon Take Second Place—Much Larger One Being Erected at Lockport, N.Y.

For many years Peterborough has had the unique distinction of possessing the largest lift lock in the world, having a lift of 65 feet, and each chamber of the lock containing 1300 tons of water. The new structure which is now being erected at Lockport on the Erie Canal will be of sufficient size to handle the large lake steamers. The lock will be on the same principle as ours, only it will be very many times larger At Lockport there is now a chain of seven locks of the old style, so that the new lift lock will overcome our elevation of approximately 100 feet.

While Peterborough will no longer be able to claim the distinction of possessing the "largest" lift lock, it can always take the credit of having the first in America, while the Kirkfield structure will always come second.

BIRD MAN'S FLIGHT

Monster Crowd Attend Aviation Demonstration at Driving Park On Civic Holiday—Horse Races a Great Success.

The President and Directors of the Turf Club are entitled to full credit for the splendid program of sports provided for the people on Civic Holiday. There was over 6,000 people present to see the bird-man and the other sports. It was indeed a huge success, not only in a financial way, but also in point of interest, and excellence. The limited space at our disposal, will not permit us to do justice to Mr. W. B. Hemstrought, the clever aviator, whose daring achievement was watched by breathless thousands, as they gazed upwards and watched him circling the city from 2,000 to 4,500 feet in the air. His flight lasted over half an hour, the ascent and descent being made from the centre of the park.

THE RACES.

The races were all keenly contested, no horse winning three straight heats, in the free for all after five heats, no horse had won three heats, so the race was given to the winner of two. The trotting resulted as follows:

2.25 Class—Trot or Pace.

Silver Pete—W. A. Fanning, Lindsay	4 4 1 1 1
Noble Alcone—H. Kendry Peterborough	3 3 4 3 3
Hazel Brook—Wm. Elmherst, Keene	2 2 3 2 4
Harry—W. Curtis, Lindsay	1 1 2 4 2

1, Silver Pete; 2 Harry; 3 Hazel Brook.

The best time made was in the 5th heat, Silver Pete going the half mile in 1.07½. In the second heat the only accident of the day occurred, Noble Alcone stumbling and Silver Pete falling over him Both horses continued in the race.

Free For All—Trot or Pace.

Luke Arnon—L. G. Bennett, Port Hope	2 2 1 3 4
Karo—J. Water, Pt. Hope	1 4 3 1 3
Susie Hal—W. G. Whitton Peterborough	4 1 2 4 5
Zemma—Mr. Tower, Dunnville	3 3 4 2 1
Gerry Dillard	5 5 5 5 2

1, Karo; 2, Luke Arnon, 3 Zemma

Best time for mile, 1st heat, 2.19, by Karo.

2.18 Class—Trot or Pace.

Harry Direct—Dr. T. Johnston, Peterborough	2 3 3 2
Lady Sphinx—Geo. Powell Belleville	1 2 2 3
Clara Wilks—J. Millenbank Fisherville	3 1 1 1

1, Clara Wilks; 2 Lady Sphinx; 3 Harry Direct.

Best time for mile, Clara Wilks, 2nd heat, in 2.23. This heat was probably the closest in the day's program, as the bay mare barely beat out Lady Sphinx

The last race finished at 7 p.m., when the last rail bird who had stayed till the finish, went home, leaving the Monarch shows in possession of the grounds.

SECOND DEPUTY POLICE COMMISSIONER OF NEW YORK.

GEORGE S. DOUGHERTY

WAS ONLY SLIGHTLY DAMAGED IN COLLISION WITH ICEBERG

Corsican Proceeds on Her Way Unaided—No Passengers Injured—Was Steaming Slowly When the Accident Occurred

Montreal, Aug. 13.—The Allan Line office here this morning received a further message from Captain E. Cook, of the Corsican, which collided with an iceberg in the Straits of Belle Isle yesterday in which he gives more details of the accident.

Capt Cook says the lookout man saw the berg and the engines were at once reversed. However, a collision occurred, though the impact was slight as the Corsican was travelling very slowly when she struck.

The Corsican, her master said, was slightly damaged above the water line, but would be able to proceed to Liverpool, her destination, without assistance Information to this effect had been sent to boats making for the Corsican Nobody was injured in the collision.

AN INQUEST ORDERED

The tragic death of the late Edward Hayes, the particulars of which appear elsewhere, has made it necessary to hold an investigation Dr. Greer, coroner, was summoned from Rice Lake, where he had been spending a vacation and on Monday after his arrival, the following jurors were empanelled Messrs F. H. Dobbin, foreman, John Shannahan, James May, Dennis Sullivan, T H Williamson, Thos. Ward, Russell Martin, Robert G. Clifford, Hyman Abrahamson, Fred Sanderson, Herb. Clayton and Patrick Sullivan After viewing the body at Lane and Fano's undertaking establishment, the inquest was adjourned until Friday night when evidence will be taken.

THE FALL FAIR TO BEAT RECORD

Some High Priced Attractions Have Been Secured

PRIZE LISTS READY

A Tent Filled With Living Curiosities Will be One of the Midway Attractions—A Ferris Wheel Will be Another.

A greater effort than ever will be made this year to place the Peterborough Fall Fair on a plane with those of other and larger centres. It will commence on September 12th and continue for three days, in which many novel and interesting sights will be seen.

Many Attractions.

There will be a tent 160x60 feet in which Claude Hamilton will show his celebrated freaks and curiosities. Some of those shown in the ten pits will be a Hercules, a witch, a midget, Atetka, the Voltex woman, and the ossified man. Possibly the most wonderful of this collection is the ossified man. He is a living man whose every part has turned to solid bone. Then there is the midget, the smallest person in existence, and the witch is something we remember in fairy tales and in history as being burned at the stake. The strong man can perform stunts which have never been done before. This show will be at the Toronto Exhibition, as well as all the leading fairs of the Dominion.

Kenny and Cardell, of New York will have a Ferris wheel and merry-go-round on the Midway.

Grill's United Midway Show will be here again this year, better than ever with a new list of attractions.

In addition to these there will be the regular performance every afternoon and evening in front of the grandstand.

The Cora Youngblood Sextette, a half-dozen of comely young ladies, will appear in their high-class musical act.

On Thursday and Friday evening Prof. Hand of Hamilton will give an exhibition of fire-works.

The prize list will be out in a few days and a copy will be sent to each member at once. If any others wish to have one they will be accommodated if they send a postal card to Secretary Hall.

Many Good Races.

The directors have applied to the Provincial Government for judges of light and heavy horses, beef, dairy cattle and poultry. It will be seen that fair decisions will be given, as these men, as well as being experts in their line, will be strangers in the city.

The directors in charge of the horse racing will be Messrs. Munro, Winch and Garbutt. On Friday, September 13th, at 2 o'clock the following races will take place.

1. Trot or pace—2.30 class; purse $150; one-mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.
2. Trot or pace—2.18 class; purse $200; one-mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.

Saturday, September 14th.

1. Trot or pace—2.22 class; purse $150; one-mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.
2. Trot or pace—2.22 class; purse $200; one-mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.

Horses eligible on 1st September, 1912. No horse entitled to more than one division or purse. Usual weather conditions. Right to change order of races reserved. National Trotting Association rules to govern. Trotters allowed 4 sets. Five to enter, four to start. Hobbles allowed.

Entries to be made with R. J. Munro on evening before the race, and up to 10 o'clock p.m. This rule will be strictly enforced.

All prizes will be divided 50 per cent., 25 per cent., 15 per cent. and 10 per cent.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 60 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 60 Ucell street, Toronto. D-6 in J6

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 366 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED ON JULY 15th, AND WILL POSITIVELY CLOSE NOT LATER THAN JULY 31st. THE COMPANY RESERVING THE RIGHT TO WITHDRAW THE SALE WITHOUT NOTICE. SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ALLOTTED IN THE ORDER RECEIVED.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Although it is only three days since our subscription books opened, the demand for stock in THE CANADA MOVING PICTURES LIMITED, has exceeded our expectations, and to date over 25 per cent of the total issue has been taken up.

Every mail brings in orders, and we anticipate the entire offering will be subscribed for within the next few days. We would, therefore, suggest to those WHO DESIRE ONE OF THE MOST LUCRATIVE INVESTMENTS EVER OFFERED to the public, one that promises to pay monthly dividends of at least 10 per cent., to write or phone us without delay.

The Canada Moving Pictures Limited, already own the Comique, situated on Yonge Street, in the busy shopping section, which during the past year shows a net profit of close to $300 per month. The Company also holds options on eight other playhouses, every one of which is excellently located. The Directors wish it distinctly understood that none of these options will be exercised unless each theatre can show a substantial profit for the past three months. WE WILL HAVE NOTHING BUT WINNERS ON OUR CIRCUIT OF PLAYHOUSES.

Earnings

With only six playhouses in operation, and basing the net profits at a conservative estimate of $450 each, totalling $2700 per month, would mean a distribution on the issued stock on the 10th of each month of 6¼ per cent, or 75 per cent per annum. These figures are based on the average yearly earnings, as the spring, fall and winter months are the most profitable, but it must not be lost sight of the present summer is proving this new sphere of the amusement world is growing in popularity with marvelous strides. No individual enterprise in this city can show the big profit now being reaped by the moving picture theatres.

Are You Receiving Any Financial Benefit?
If Not, Here Is Your Opportunity

We invite the closest inspection of this proposition, and will gladly mail prospectus containing full particulars. Again we sound the warning, unless you send us your orders for stock in the Canada Moving Pictures, Limited, without further delay, it will mean GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY permitted to slip by.

Opportunity knocks at each man's door at least once in a lifetime. Here it is, and our candid advice is, take advantage at once to the limit of your finances. The stock is selling fast and only a limited amount remains.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Latin of It.

There is in a certain city a lady librarian with a fondness for Latin phrases that sometimes require more than a knowledge of Latin to fathom. Recently a visitor to the library inquired pleasantly how she had spent her vacation, to which the lady librarian replied idly, "Oh, I just took a little jaunt up to New York via train and came home vice versa."

"You returned—how?" gasped the visitor.

"Vice versa," repeated the lady librarian blandly. "By steamer, don't you know?"—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

An Ancient Conduit.

Pointing out how often ancient monuments are lost, Mr. W. Martin, honorary secretary of the Congress of Archaeological Societies, told the joint Parliamentary committee on the preservation of ancient monuments that the White Conduit, which has recently been destroyed, had existed in Queen's square, Bloomsbury, from the time of Henry III. The conduit was part of the water system which supplied the Grey Friars of Newgate street. Owing to the extension of a big hotel in Bloomsbury the pipe had gone entirely within the last few months. He had received a letter from the secretary of the Derbyshire Archaeological and Natural History Society quoting the case of a disused church in Derbyshire which in all probability would go to ruin and disappear unless its preservation was shortly taken in hand. The curator of the Maidstone Museum had also informed him that the ancient hall of the Corpus Christi foundation in Maidstone, which dated from about the year 1,400, was now desecrated by being used as part of a brewery, although it was at present in good hands so far as its preservation was concerned. He also mentioned the case of an old tithe barn in the district, which was now in the open market.

The Sacred Bo Tree.

On the night of October 7, 1887, the tree worshipers of Ceylon met with an irreparable calamity. During one of the worst storms that ever raged on the island their sacred bo tree was thrown to the ground. The oldest written description of this wonderful tree known to exist is that of Fa Hiam, a Chinese historian and traveler, who visited the tree in the year 414 A. D. According to the learned Chinaman, it was then 702 years old, having been planted by King Devinipiatissa in the year 288 before our era began. If the above data be correct, and there is no reason for doubting it, the bo tree was more than 2,175 years old when the storm ended its career on the date mentioned above.

Relieved the Situation.

Once when Justin McCarthy had called on Dean Stanley and they were conversing Matthew Arnold was announced, and the dean, addressing the new arrival, said, "Come here, Matt, and let me bring you face to face with the man who says you are only a miniature Goethe." McCarthy was naturally embarrassed at the repetition of a remark that seemed to be ill-natured. "Oh, come, now, I didn't say only a miniature Goethe," he stammered, but Arnold promptly relieved the situation by remarking with a winning smile, "If he could only convince me that I am a miniature Goethe how proud of myself he would make me."

Champion Jew's Harp Player.

A tailor charged in Birmingham with stealing a Chinese ornament proclaimed himself as "the champion Jew's harp player in England."

British Field Marshals.

A field marshal in the British army is equivalent to an admiral of the fleet in the royal navy.

AN ARMED SITTING.

It Was a Critical Moment In the Career of Wellington.

Had Wellington not commanded the British at Waterloo would there have been any prisoner at St. Helena? Whether or not some one exists competent to answer this momentous question, a story told in Rachel Challice's "Secret History of the Court of Spain" indicates that Napoleon once came nearer than he knew to being relieved of his enemy and future conqueror.

When the Anglo-Spanish army drove Joseph Bonaparte from Madrid attentions were showered upon the English commander, Lord Wellington, who, however, took little pains to be cordial. His coldness and his fancy to have his portrait painted by Goya nearly caused the future hero of Waterloo to lose his life.

For, be it known, the illustrious Spanish painter was irascible to a degree, the more so that he was completely deaf. When the great general made his appearance in the studio the painter's son interpreted the Englishman's wishes in deaf and dumb language to his father.

The artist worked assiduously and when he thought the portrait far enough advanced placed it before the general. Unfortunately the picture did not please the commander, who shrugged his shoulders contemptuously and said that he would not accept such a caricature as a gift.

The artist's son declined to translate this deprecatory remark, but the artist had noted the scornful gestures of the Englishman, and the son in alarm saw his father turn his eyes to the loaded pistols which always lay ready to hand on the table.

The young man's fear increased when Wellington rose from his seat and put on his hat preparatory to departure. Then Goya, enraged at the officer's contemptuous manner, seized the pistols, and the general clapped his hand to his sword.

The scene might have ended in a tragedy had not General Alava assured the irate Englishman that the artist was suffering from sudden mental abberation, and young Goya restrained his father by force from using the deadly weapons.

MODERNIZING INDIA.

The decision to make a modern city of the new and greater Delhi, which is henceforth to be India's capital, sounds the death knell of an ancient art. Three centuries ago the Mogul metropolis was fashioned in a style which made some of its buildings the wonder of the world. Its architects "designed like Titans and finished like jewellers." Now come the British experts with a plan of construction in which the colossal and the incongruous, the extravagant and the weird, are to have no place. They undertake to put the modern spirit into their work. The new buildings are to be European. An up-to-date city is to confront the old capital, and as the ancient structures crumble a thoroughly western architecture will arise over the ruins.

There is something more in this plan for modernizing Delhi than the disuse of the Hindu caryatides or the passing of the seven-headed stone cobra of the Brahmans. It is one of the signs of a world-wide advance. Modern styles of architecture, modern methods of city building, are all-pervasive. Travellers note their spread with something like astonishment. From Tokio to Cairo and from Moscow to Merv the new fashions of construction show themselves. They have come in with the rattling electric street at Pekin and are already knocking at the door of the "Forbidden city" in Thibet.

Who should oppose such a movement? These "rose-red cities half as old as time," with their quaint domes and towers, are fair to look upon; they stand out in pictures with fascinating effect. Priceless historic memories cling to them. But they are far oftener homes of human misery than haunts of ancient peace. It is well to cherish them as art values. Yet the preservation of ancient monuments at the cost of human welfare is too high a price to pay. The re-housing of a neglected community on hygienic lines is worth all the archaeological sentiment of which man is capable. We could spare structures as splendid as the Taj Mahal at Agra, and cities more extensive than Delhi, if their sites were needed for the combat with squalor and the fight against disease.

Editorial Notes

A cruel blow has been struck at women suffrage in an eastern city that requires that the ages of all voters shall be published in the voters' lists.

The new American bank notes will be made one-third smaller. This is as it should be, for it is in keeping with the shrinkage of their purchasing power.

A dispatch from Washington says there are two bull moose heads in the State dining-room at the White House. It is a safe bet that they will be removed to the lumber room next March.

We know that much is being done by the Forestry Association, the Conservation Commission and public minded citizens in general to check the awful waste of our forests through preventable fires, but with the coming of the later summer the old story of destruction is to be told just about as it has been for years. Here again we believe there is an imperative need for a great stirring up of the public conscience in a matter of very vital importance. At least a very large percentage of the millions that are lost through forest fires every year could be prevented by reasonable care and the exercise of conscience by all those directly concerned.

Natural Cure for Catarrh Obviates Taking Drugs

It Has Superseded the Old-Fashioned Stomach-dosing Remedies, and Invariably Cures Quickly.

It was their inability to reach the real source of catarrh and bronchitis that caused the medical profession to drop liquid cough medicines and adopt "Catarrhozone" instead. Catarrhozone provides a method of breathing right into the lungs certain rare medicinal vapors which are so healing and comforting as to entirely banish coughs, catarrh and throat trouble in a very short time.

The most wonderful thing about Catarrhozone is that no matter where the germs of bronchitis or catarrh are hidden, Catarrhozone will reach and destroy them.
